Scotty Keith, an employee in a local factory, is reported to be shedding his clothes a little early this year. As the story goes, Scotty was oiling a line shaft, using a ladder when the whirling shaft, or a belt caught his clothing. The man clung tightly to the ladder, while the powerful machinery whisked all of his clothing except his cap, shoes and stockings from his body, at least that is the way his fellow workers described it while discussing the incident on the bus. Frank Grisdale, another worker, shut off the power, and the man climbed to the floor without assistance.

TAKEN TO WHITBY

Remanded to the Ontario Mental Hospital at Whitby by Police Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., for observation the Toronto man who had appeared in court Thursday morning on a charge of assault was taken to Whitby in the afternoon by Officers John Naples, Leo Murphy and C. J. McGillen.

NAMED PILOT OFFICER

Murray Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Thomas of Birdsall has been given his commission as pilot officer in R.C.A.F. Murray when he received his sergeant's stripes at Ottawa a few weeks ago was one of the youngest to graduate in the air training scheme.

INJURED SKATING

Gordon Beatty suffered undetermined injuries while skating on Thursday evening. The sudden chance in the weather caused the ice to crack open, and he was thrown heavily to the ice, when his skate struck one of the fissures in the surface.

A UNITED EFFORT

All three theatres in this city, Capitol, Centre and Regent have decided to invest the entire box-office proceeds of this week in Victory Bonds in the city. Thus people attending the theatres this week will be performing a double act, getting fine entertainment and contributing to the war effort as well.

TRUCKS DAMAGED

Trucks driven by A. E. Jobe, 593 George street and Joseph N. O'Toole, 826 Water street were damaged in a traffic accident on Water street. Jobe's truck was towing a car out from the curb in front of 712 Water street when O'Toole, driving south on Water street arrived and there was a collision. No one was hurt.

THREE ACCEPTED

Three men were accepted for duty with the active service Thursday. Frank T. O'Leary, 475 Mark street and F. Bailey of Omemee, both joined the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps and were sent to headquarters at Ottawa. Harold V. Dalliday of 246 Prince street joined the armoured corps and was sent to Kingston.

ONE BELOW ZERO

A. O. Phillips reported at noon today that the mercury had dipped down after six o'clock this morning. When he took the reading at six this morning it was five above zero, and the lowest overnight was four above. However the noon reading revealed that the temperature had dropped to one below after six this morning, and the raw cold wind from the north west made it most uncomfortable.

OVERHEATED PIPES

Three units of the Fire Department equipment answered a call from the Burnham's Point section shortly before noon today, but it was merely overheated pipes at the home of Kenneth Ruttan, 8 Wallace street, and no damage was done. At 12.03 another call sent the chimney fire unit to the home of Mrs. Land at 149 Maria street where pipes had become overheated, and this call was handled before any damage resulted.

MAN IS REMANDED

Armed with a search warrant, Provincial Constable Price Morris and Game Overseer I. J. Lyons descended upon a house near Nassau this morning and as a result of their visit William Davis was arrested on a charge of illegally carrying firearms in the Peterborough county game preserve. During their search of the premises the officers found a quantity of venison stored in a barrel. Davis was brought into town and remanded until Saturday when he appeared in court to face the charge.

LETTERS APPRECIATED

Wilfred Lebarr, who is confined to St. Catharines General Hospital suffering from a spinal injury wishes to thank his many friends in this city who wrote letters to him. A few days after a main street item told of his accident and gave his address he received a stack of mail from this city. He is making slow but sure progress, but will be laid up for a few months yet, and would enjoy hearing from friends in this district. Address letters to C.Q.M.S. Wilfred Lebarr, General Hospital, St. Catharines.

GUESTS OF HOSPITAL BOARD

The mayor and members of the city council were the guests on Thursday evening of the board of Nicholls Hospital Trust at a dinner held in the recently completed new wing of the hospital. Twenty-eight sat down to dinner after which an inspection tour of the building was made and members of the council were given an opportunity to acquaint themselves with matter in connnection with the construction and cost of the new wing. Very complimentary remarks were made by the alderman on the design, layout and construction of the building.

BRANCH OF FEDERATION.

Perth county farmers are only now planning a branch of the Federation of Agriculture. Fifty of them attended a meeting at Stratford Wednesday. A provisional committee was appointed. W. L. White of Seaforth, related the progress of the Huron county branch who got $1,000 from their county council, spending only $357 of it, and now have 1,200 paid up members, each of whom contributes one dollar to the treasury. Every farmer in Hullet township joined up, three hundred of them from one area alone. Huron followed the township plan, organizing by school sections. Four of its townships have not yet been brought into the county group but are being canvassed and surveyed.

MINUTE MEN.

Five young men of the city have volunteered their services to give short talks to theatre audiences during the Victory Loan campaign in this city. The quintet includes three young lawyers, Walter Howell, Ralph Standish and John Bradshaw, Alderman Adam Sands and Fred Cripps, former Lions Club president and well known photographer.

THIS IS NEEDED.

A naval officer and a member of the Kingston Women's Auxiliary of the Navy will be in the city for the meeting on Monday, being called to organize a branch of the Women's Auxiliary, R.C.N.V.R. This group would provide comforts directly for Peterborough boys serving in the Navy, a service that is being neglected up to now, except for assistance given directly to the boys from their families, and what little help the Navy League has given. There are more than 125 boys with the Royal Canadian Navy at the present time.

Wage Earners Rally Behind Victory Loan

Tears welled up in the eyes of a widow in this city when she had to tell one of the canvassers in the Victory Loan drive that her finances would not allow her to purchase a bond and this story came from one of the city salesmen when he reported last evening.

"There is certainly no indifference or complacency in that case, the woman's income is just enough to keep her, and I got a big surprise when I noticed the tears running down her cheeks. This was no act either, the woman felt so bad about her inability to assist in winning this war that her emotions got the better of her for a few minutes" the salesman reported.

Every night as the salesmen report back to the Victory Loan headquarters, they bring in stories that are intimate glimpses into the lives of Peterborough people, in all cases of course names are not discussed, but the men relate their experiences to show how people feel toward the Loan.

Helps All He Can

An elderly Italian man who first saw the light of day in the sunny land now dominated by Mussolini, has shown by his sacrifices that all he holds dear is vested in this Canada of ours and not in the Fascist ideal. It was reliably reported that in the first Victory Loan he subscribed for $500 worth of bonds, in this loan he is taking another $500 worth of bonds, and to top this off, he is almost taking the complete quota of War Savings Stamps, $480 a year.

Another housewife, whose husband draws a small wage and who has worked in the same factory for many years, could not buy a bond, as they had no bank account and the insurance they were paying for was not excessive. This woman felt so bad about it that she shows a few tears before the salesman left. "If there was any chance in the world of us being able to pay back a bank loan I would borrow the money and buy a bond, but it is out of the question. I know I would sleep a lot better if I knew I had been able to make even that small contribution to the war," she said.

An echo came from that generation of lost women, when one of the canvassers approached a stenographer in a downtown insurance office, seeking to have her buy a bond. "I will take $250.00 worth, which is every cent I have saved, and my only regret is that it is not ten times that amount." She went on to explain that three of her friends all girls are now between 45 and 50 years of age, and all are single. "The husbands they might have had died in World War 1. and if I can do anything to hasten Victory and keep the boys at home I shall do it. I want a home, and children, and a husband who will stand beside me down through the years. I don't want to be a lonely old maid." This rather unusual reason for supporting the Victory Loan has a world of logic in it, for it is all too true true that many young husbands and young men who were engaged went away to battle and never returned.

Many Bright Spots

There are many bright spots in the campaign but unfortunately there are many shadows too, and the one that is giving Victory Loan headquarters the most concern at the present time is the fact that sales of Victory Bonds at the banks for the first four days of the campaign are down thirty per cent. Up to noon on Thursday, February 19, $147,700 worth of the loan had been sold by the banks, but in the same period last June, the banks had sold in excess of $200,000 in bonds.

The answer to this apparently is plain indifference to the danger that exists, because bank deposits at the present time far exceed the amounts that were on deposit when the loan was going through last June.

Churchill Club Donations Now Total $926

The Peterborough Churchill Club, formed in April of last year as a tribute to the Rt. Hon, Winston Churchill, with R. L. Dobbin as chairman, has since then enrolled 1,438 members, at a membership fee of $1. The net proceeds from the membership fees have all gone to relieve the distress of air raid victims through the city and district fund operating for that purpose, and today a donation is recorded from the club for the nice sum of $75, which brings the amount contributed the fund up to $926.10.

This latest donation is due to the work of committee members, A. Kittson, J. Fred Reed, H. A. Cranfield, Mrs. Lockington, Miss Williams of Havelock, and J. E. Parker of Norwood, and it wohld seem that not a great deal of effort on the part of all committee members could raise this help to the people of Britain well above the thousand dollar mark. All members receive the badge of membership, which is a lovely Union Jack button or pin, together with a card of membership, and can pay their tribute to the Prime Minister of the mother of parliaments, who has worked so hard and unremittingly on behalf of the Empire, by wearing the badge at all times.

Another of odr steady contributors to the fund through the penny boxes is listed today in the collection amounting to $1.50 from the box at Loblaw's, where steady assistance has even been given to the fund by the manager, P. E. Moore, since the fund was inaugurated.

Magic and Dance

A real evening's entertainment is to be staged in the Collegiate Auditorium on the nights of Tuesday and Wednesday, March 11 and 12, when Joseph Dean, magician, will perform many mysterious and breathtaking acts including the lady who vanishes in mid-air; and Marion Perry Laird will present Young Canadians on Parade.

Mr. Dean is a past member of the Society of American Magicians, having for quite a time performed with the world-famous shows, and has given of his time and talents to entertain the boys down at the Training Centre, where is was very well received only one week ago.

Marion Perry Laird was also represented with dancing acts of her pupils on the same program, which rounded out a splendid evening's fun for the soldier lads. All the net proseeds from this effort will come to the fund, and tickets at 35c each will go on sale for this event on Saturday.

$100,000 Is Put Victory Loan By City Trust

Announcement was made this morning that the members of the Peterborough City Trust has voted to purchase $100,000 worth of bonds in the second Victory Loan, and this fine effort has lifted the drive out of the slump that has been apparent since the first returns started to trickle in on Monday evening.

This splendid news gave the workers new enthusiasm and is a further indication of the desirability of the loan as an investment, for members of this city body are noted for their shrewdness and business ability in the purchase of bonds to take care of the city's debentures.

Vincent Eastwood, Sr., chairman of the City Trust, who is also county chairman of the Victory Loan drive, pointed out that it has been a policy with the City Trust to plan their investments to co-operate as fully as possible with the Minister of Finance during wartime, and thus durin each Victory Loan Drive they have been able to make substantial purchases of Victory Bonds.

"We have always taken every opportunity to aid in the national effort, and I might point out that earning power is not the prime factor, but that we always consider the security of a bond issue before we purchase. Earning power must be considered of course, as the earnings must be high enough to meet the sinking fund plan."

We ask the taxpayers for a given sum, which if invested at a given rate will return sufficient to meet the bonds as they mature. The Victory Bonds are the safest investment that anyone can make today, and the earnings are most attractive."

This substantial purchase is recorded in today's total from the Special Names Committee, which is headed by Gordon . Matthews, and it is the first major development along the Victory Loan front.

Victory Loan officials are releasing every subscription just as soon as they are reported so that citizens of the county will know exactly how the drive is going, and thus will be able to trim their sails to meet the breeze, and make extra purchases of bonds if it is necessary to put the Loan over

On Thursday the total announced at headquarters was set at $184,950, but returns pouring in last evenng along with $153,000 reported from the Special Names Committee boosted the total to $416,750, or almost half a million dollars. The rural picture seemed a little brighter last night, and it was noted that Otonabee township had already subscribed $9,600, against $3,550 from North Monaghan.

The following are the totals from the entire county:

Military Heads Visit Genelco

Harry Carmichael, director general of military production, Major-General A. E. McRae, military technical advisor to the Department of Munitions and Supply and Col. G. E. Butler, assistant to the military technical advisor, paid a visit of inspection to the Genelco division of the Canadian General Electric Company Thursday. Every part of the big new plant was visited by the party.

Afterwards the Genelco employees who were working on the day shift were addressed by Mr. Carmichael and General McRae, both of whom stressed the desirability of greater production in all lines of munitions and the great part in the successful prosecution of modern warfare that was played by machines. Workers were urged to give all they had to the task of increasing production.

Farmers Urge More Economy

Unnecessary duplication of an essential service is mentioned by some of the Peterborough farmers who have replied to the questions referred to them by the county's Agricultural War Council.

This is one of the examples. Eight farmers in a section of one of the townships adjoining the city deliver milk to local dairies, "and each shipper delivers his own milk daily. This means eight cars or trucks going to Peterborough every day. If one large truck picked up all this milk it would save a lot of time, and it would mean two hours a day for one man with less burning of gasoline and less wear of tires.".

Farmers have long been asserting economic loss by such duplication, and the present information coming to the War Council confirms these concession line opinions. Trucks of various bread companies are also covering the same rural routes. It is now being emphasized that the supply of rubber tires diminishes, this phase of competition in the delivery of commodities, both to and from the city, will have to be radically revised.

A final appeal is being made to Peterborough farmers who have not yet replied to the questions mailed to them to fill in the answers at once and send the forms to the Council through the office of F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative. Many local farmers have complied with this request, and have done a good job of it, but the percentage is not yet high enough.

Kent county is said to show 90 per cent and Waterloo is approaching the 100 per cent mark. Farmers who co-operate in this canvass for facts will be doing something in their own interest for it is this information which will provide a detailed picture of the agricultural situation as the season of 1942 approaches.

Beacon Service Tonight; Convoy Saturday

Hundreds from the district are expected in the city at noon on Saturday to see the big military convoy which will arrive by way of highway 28 sharp at noon and will be on display at Confederation Square until 2.30 in the afternoon.

Following the trip through the city streets, the convoy will be drawn up on Murray and McDonnel streets near Confederation Square and then one of the big ram tanks will go into action against the old bandstand in Victoria Park, and it is unlikely that much of the old stand will be left intact when the war monster gets finished with its battering ram exercises. An old model car will also be given a going over from the tanks in front of the Armouries and this should give citizens a good idea of what happens when these monsters meet in battle.

The second Victory Loan item for the week-end is the big "Beacon For Freedom" ceremony at George Street Church this evening, and the church should have a near capacity audience for this memorable occasion. City workmen have completed the building of the big beacon on top of Armour Hill, and this will be set on fire at the close of the service in George street church.

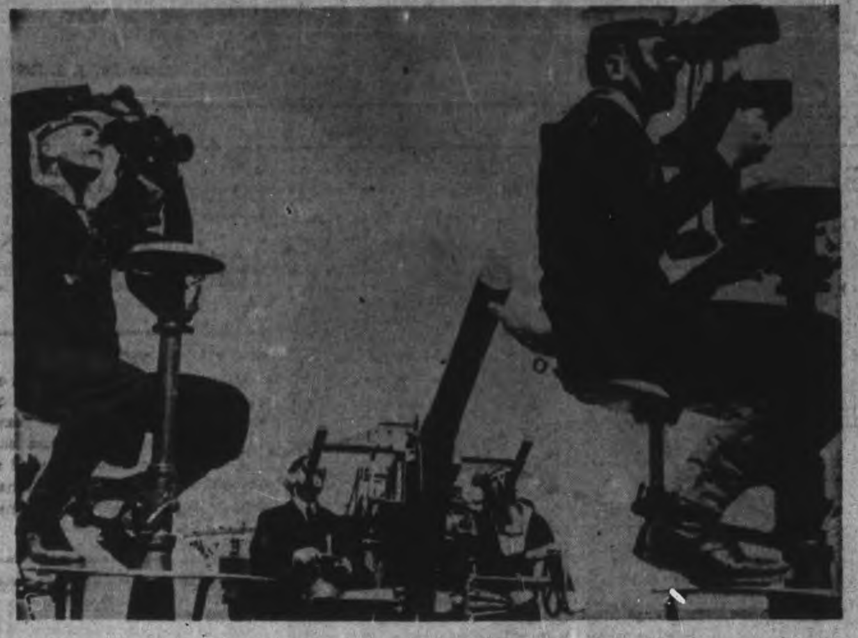
Learning Gunnery On Dryland "Battleship"



In line with British tradition naval training schools in Australia are given the name of a ship. These gunners-to-be are learning their business aboard the H.M.A.S. Cereberus, which is the ship name of the Flinders naval base, Victoria. When Australian warship production catches up the boys will be ready for their posts afloat.

Scottish Soldiers Found In Vanguard Of Battles On All Empire Fronts

Of 90,000 British lives lost in the first twenty months of war no fewer than 85,000 were from the Mother Country. Many Scots were among them. Inevitably—for Scottish regiments have had their full share in the "big shows."

Yet how little we hear about the Jocks compared, for example, with the Aussies and New Zealanders, who are the last to want publicity. And the first to acknowledge that the Jocks deserve more of it. Take a look at what the Jocks have been doing—and are doing to-day. The Royal Scots were among six battalions of British defenders of Hong Kong. They had a hopeless job—and they knew it. Yet they held out for eighteen days, for three of which they had no water.

In Malaya were the Argylls and Gordons in a war of confused fighting, shortening lines, heavy casualties. The Japs are throwing in a colossal weight of planes, tanks, armored cars, trying every known and some unknown trick of jungle fighting.

In Gibraltar the Black Watch are on watch against siege and assault. A letter home from one of the folk there says: "When you wait on, month in month out, as we have done, for a blitz that doesn't come, nothing is so good for frayed nerves as the skirl of the pipes."

Everything Against Them.

From the earliest days of the war the Jocks have been in the thick of it. Grimest show of all was that in which the 51st Division found themselves when the B.E.F. retreated from France. The 51st—embracing Black Watch, Gordons, Seaforths, Argylls, and Camerons — suffered from lack of weapons, confused orders, broken French support, vastly inferior weight of metal manpower, fire-power. As one survivor put it: "There couldna hae been onything else wrang—or there wad hae been." Camerons ran straight into an enemy also attacking—and inflicted and suffered appalling casualties. Seaforths braved terrific machine-gun and mortar fire to take a wood. Their leading companies were killed or wounded almost to a man. Against great odds the Gordons cleared and captured the Grand Bois at Camberon.

Argylls held an eight-mile front with rifles against tommy guns — and suffered terribly. The lacerated division battled towards the sea —but Jerry could ride faster than our battling men could march. There was the gallant attempt to get out through St. Valery. Five thousand men fell into Nazi hands. But not one gun. Nor one vehicle.

Hand-to-Hand Battle.

Then on to Norway. Even there the Jocks held the pass. It was a tragic story of air weakness and Navy backing limited by narrow waters and threat of Stukas. For ten days, covering 14 miles a day, the Scots Guards fought a fallant rearguard action as our troops got out. It was continuouus hand-to-hand combat, with Nazis in overwhelming numbers. Later, Africa. Camerons and Highland Light Infantry in the epic of Keren, and the magnificent pluck against hopeless odds shown by the Black Watch in Somaliland. Here a single company of the "Red Heckles," finding itself without ammunition, bayonet-charged a well-armed mass of the enemy and drove them back.

The 2nd Camerons and 1st Argylls were with Wavell's crowd when they stormed through Libya. And long before the big advance the Camerons had been busy. Think of their action against a post at Maktila. This post was important. Patrols reported it had three hundred vehicles, was heavily manned and gunned. The Camerons went up under darkness to within eight hundred yards hid there, and all next day lay flat and still in the parched desert under a blazing sun.

Suddenly artillery and R.A.F. bombers went into action. Defences were caught napping—the Camerons "mopped up."

Cracked a Tough Nut.

At Sidi Barrani the 1st Argylls took the centre in the attacking infantry force of three battalions. And Sidi Barrani was no "push over." Blackshirts and gunners fought grimly — until the moment the C.O. of the Argylls, in a raspy, dry-throated croak, ordered his men to rush the position at the point of the bayonet.

It was the Argylls again in the assault on Gondar. It fell only after six months' siege—one of the toughest African nuts to crack.

Even in Syria the Scots Greys were on the job, and in Crete two of the nine home regiments were Scots —the Argylls and Black Watch.

Last great sortie from Tobruk saw the Black Watch at its best. For months there had been watching, waiting, patrolling, and small-time scrapping, and all-round suffering. Then the garrison burst out. The Black Watch battalion had to take a strong position on rising ground covered by strong light and heavy gunfire, and with garrisons of Italians stiffened by a generous lacing of picked Germans. In the wake of Tobruk's tanks, over miles of minefields and other obstacles, the Black Watch stormed. Terrifically hard fighting followed. Before the day was out the Jocks had lost half their strength. But they had taken the strong point, with more than 2,000 prisoners—and the sand dunes were strewn with Axis dead as well.

One day we shall know the whole story of these great exploits.

Meantime, let us be fair to the Jocks and recognize how much these sons of a small country are contributing to the coming victory.

TOM CARR'S SUGGESTION

CHAPTER IX

Benny Singer was happy. Whenever he went to town on errands for Tom Carr, he went without shrinking from encounters with his old tormentors.

"Hey, Benny! Look, kids, here's old crazy Benny!"

He didn't mind being called "crazy Benny." Not now. He laughed and shouted and waved greetings. Anything that anybody said seemed kind and jovial. He had a job. He worked for Madame, and Tom Carr was his friend. There was not a cloud in Benny's sky.

"He has a way with growing things, ma'am," Tom reported. "He understands them, and I declare I believe his plants know him."

Old Tom almost winked at Madame von Eln. "He talks to them, you know."

Sometimes Parris followed Tom and Benny as they went about the varied work of the nursery. Tom's talk was interesting most times, and there was something about Benny that touched him a little. It was exactly the way he had been touched by Lucy Carr.

Parris remembered how he used to feel that Lucy's mind darted here and there with no seeming attachment to anything. Benny's mind didn't do that. No; Benny's mind sort of—well, sort of staggered . . . the way a chicken staggers and tries to run, after its head is cut off.

Once or twice Tom Carr talked to Parris about Benny. "He's a little like Lucy, sometimes. You know, Sonny, people that are a little off that way are just like a string of beads that's come undone. The beads roll around any which-a-way. If there was some way of getting them on the string again, they'd be all right. Doctors do some right wonderful things when it comes to cutting people open and sewing them up again, but they're not so far along with people's brains."

Parris had heard Tom say all of this so many times.

"You know what I'd do if I was you?" The old man's sharp eyes shadowed with the gravity of his feelings. "I'd study that if I was you."

"Be a doctor for—for—" He didn't like to say "crazy people" to Tom.

'Yes, sir, Sonny, for crazy people. May be that nobody's found out much about it yet, but it seems to me it would be a grand thing to study. People like Benny, and—like Lucy. Not real crazy, you know, Sonny, just off a little. If there was just some way of holding them together again . . . "

Parris was pretty sure now that he would like to be a doctor. But he thought he'd rather drive two fiery bay horses like Dr. Gordon and go around saving people's lives. Suddenly he recalled that day Dr. Gordon operated on Willy Macintosh's father. He remembered the terrible yells that came from that upper window, and Willy's wild face as he tugged at the front door and cried, "I'll kill him, I'll kill him!" Perspiration wet his upper lip as he thought of it.

It seemed that everybody talked to him about what he would do when he grew up. Goodness, he thought, I like to look at things; I like to look at everything, but I can't think of anything else in the whole world I really like to do.

He realized that he loved this place—this, right here, the ground, the crisscross pattern the wiry grass made, the shiny red stems of vines, the dusky blue coat on winterberries. It was familiar and comfortable. He sighed happily — his own place in the world!

But even in that instant a small unease returned. He knew what the feeling was, and what it came from. Other boys had parents who were not so old as his grandmother. What would happen when—when—? He couldn't say the word even to himself. Then—all of this would be gone somehow. Where would he go?

Madame von Eln sat on the terrace that same afternoon talking with Dr. Gordon and Colonel Skeffington.

Upstairs, Anna and another maid stood looking down at the three. Anna shook her head. "When a body sends for a doctor and a lawyer at the same time—" She left off.

Anna began to cry silently. "She looks worse every day. Nobody else notices because she's so quick and bright about everything, but I notice."

The younger maid turned and peered through the curtain.

"You see, Colonel," Madame was saying. "I must be sure that I arrange everything. The boy has no one—no one in the world but me."

Colonel Skeffington folded and unfolded his gold-rimmed glasses.

"Yes, yes. Of course. You know, Madame, if anything should happen to you—unexpectedly—"

"It wouldn't be unexpected, now, Isaac."

"Well, well now. What I was going to say is this: if—if your grandson finds himself alone, he can come to me any time, for as long as he wants to. Fine boy he is. Rather make a lawyer of him, though, than a doctor." He slapped Dr. Gordon on the knee, but he did not smile.

"Thank you, Isaac. I know your generous heart. I—I think Parris leans to medicine as much as anything—except, maybe music."

"Music!" The Coloned dismissed that. This time Dr. Gordon laughed a little with his habitual quick intake of breath.

Madame nodded. "I don't take that inclination seriously, Isaac. I have him study because I think it will keep him from being lonely sometime, maybe."

Colonel Skeffington looked hard at her. "I have to be blunt, Marie. How much time do you think you have?"

Madame looked at Dr. Gordon. His overbright eyes searched Madame's face.

"Madame has a year, maybe two —two at best."

The Colonel looked steadily at Madame for a moment.

"I don't believe it," he said. "I don't believe a word of it, but we'll act as if Gordon knows what he's talking about, which I very much doubt."

But Colonel Skeffington was not telling the truth. He was sure Dr. Gordon was right. Madame's face had a chalky look, and she was frightfully thin.

"Parris, you say, has made good progress with his tutors?" Dr. Gordon asked the question in a sudden matter-of-fact tone.

"Excellent, Doctor. His tutors say he is far ahead of the high school classes."

"Then we must put him in Aberdeen, at once. But it will save time if he reads medicine with someone for a couple of years. Then he can take examinations and save much time."

Skeffington nodded. "Who can the boy read with, Gordon—you?"

"I haven't time."

"But there's nobody else." Madame's tone was anxious.

Dr. Gordon hesitated. "I'm going to make a suggestion you may not approve. But there is one man who could do more for him in such a way than anyone I know." He hesitated again.

"In Kings Row?" Skeffington was impatient.

"Yes. Dr. Tower."

Both Madame von Eln and Colonel Skeffington started. Dr. Gordon compressed his lips and nodded firmly. "Yes, ma'am. He's a brilliant man—most able. He's a hard student. Far ahead of any of us."

"But, would he take Parris?" Madame was immediately practical.

"Certainly, ma'am. Happy to do it. I can tell you that Dr. Tower is a whole medical college by himself.

Skeffington reached for his hat. "Are there any other details, ma'am, you think of?"

"There is one more thing—and I'd like this to be clearly put in my will. As soon as practicable, I want Parris to go to Vienna for his medical training."

"Vienna? Why?"

"Doctor Gordon will tell you, Isaac, that Vienna is the best place in the world to study medicine."

"But a foreign country, Madame —"

"Parris is halfway a foreigner—at least, most people think so."

"Me, I'm an Ochlophile"

"Yes, ochlophile...that's a word I picked up in a crossword puzzle. Means somebody who likes to have crowds around. After all, what retailer doesn't like crowds?"

1. "You'll find a steady stream of customers in this store every day...customers who are watching the family budget more carefully than ever, now that we're at war, and watching newspaper ads more carefully, too, in order to save money and time."

2. "Every chance I get, I tell manufacturers' representatives how I feel about newspaper advertising...how everybody in town reads the daily paper, and the ads in the paper, too, whether other kinds of advertising reach them or not."

3. "I tell them that newspaper ads have always been a swell investment for me...and for all other retailers in town who amount to anything. So why shouldn't manufacturers take full advantage of this medium, too? After all, their business depends on sales through my store and others like it."

4. "Why wouldn't it be smart, I ask them, to move their goods off my shelves with the kind of advertising that brings in crowds of customers? I guess other retailers have been making the same point...that must be one reason why manufacturers are doing so much newspaper advertising these days."

That's what one successful retailer has to say about newspaper advertising and how it works. Are you getting all of this local support you deserve? Take a tip from this happy ochlophile and remind your manufacturers that they can produce more sales for their retailers...and themselves...by advertising in local newspapers.

Lad 14, Escapes Millbrook Cell

MILLBROOK, Feb. 20—(ENS).— A fourteen-year-old boy, Bob Wilson, was arrested here on Wednesday morning on word being received from the Boys' Training School at Bowmanville, from which institution he recently ran away, and has since been working at Benjamin Olan's, south of Millbrook. On Saturday night Wilson left Olan's farm and came to Millbrook, where he apparently had been hanging round ever since. He got into a fracas with two or three other boys when attending a moving picture show at the Town Hall the same evening, because of some remark relative to himself which had been made.

An hour of so after he had been placed in the local detention cell on Wednesday morning he escaped by prying a board off the ceiling, crawling along the rafters, and getting out by way of the coal chute. The caretaker, Harry Whyte, saw the boy running away, and notified Acting Constable Wilfrid Whyte, who with E. C. Richards, started a search for the missing lad. An official from the Training School was here later in the afternoon, but so far the missing boy has not been apprehended. He was seen during the afternoon making his way across the fields of John Willis' farm toward Highway 28.

Jerry Brown, Detroit, tallied two goals as Red Wings halt Chicago win streak with 6-1 victory.

his life he was near to being critical and resentful of his grandmother's arrangements. He felt that he should have been consulted. He didn't really want to go to Aberdeen. The session had already begun, and the students were strange young men much older than he.

But learning new things proved to be unexpectedly entertaining.

Parris did not know that he was regarded by the other students as something of a prodigy. They also thought him conceited and standoffish, so he made no friends. Outside of the classrooms, Aberdeen made but little impression on him. His reading with Dr. Tower was a different matter. He spent three afternoon each week with Dr. Tower. They were hours of excitement and revelation.

He never forgot that first afternoon when Cassandra answered his ring at the door. She pointed to the end of the hall.

"Down there—the last door."

Parris stood looking at her. She was much prettier than he had remembered her to be.

"How have you been, Cassie? I haven't seen you in an awfully long time."

"I'm all right." She looked at him steadily, her eyes very large and bright. She pointed again toward the study.

Parris walked the length of the dim passage and rapped softly on the door.

"Come in, come in."

The voice was something of a surprise. It was deep and musical.

Parris entered. The room was bright and cheerful. A whole row of windows looked out on the side lawn. The rest of the room was lined with books.

"How do you do, sir."

Doctor Tower nodded. His eyes exactly like Cassie's, Parris thought, seemed somewhat unseeing.

"Hereafter, you may come around to the study door. It won't be necessary to come through the house."

Parris felt his face flame. The simple statement seemed to carry not only a rebuke but some sort of obscure threat.

Announcement to this effect was made at conclusion of the caucus in the centre block of the Parliament Buildings.

It was understood this meant that Mr. Meighen, who resigned from the Senate where he was Conservative leader to stand for election to the Commons, would continue as party leader while Hon. R. B. Hanson will continue as Conservative House of Commons leader.

Tweed Woodcutter Dies Of Burns; Second Man In Cabin Escapes

TWEED, Feb. 20—(ENS). — The charred body of Joseph Green, 55-year-old Read woodcutter was found in his cabin, early Wednesday. A second occupant in the cabin, Mark Hill, was also engaged in woodcutting, escaped by breaking a window with his hands and crawled to safety.

Mystery surrounds the death of Green, as only a small hole was burned in the floor of a one-roomed cabin in which Green and Hill lived.

Provincial police are probing the death and an inquest has been ordered by Coroner Dr. J. J. Robertson.

Police found a three-foot hole burned in the floor directly between the stove and Green's bed, which prompts them to believe the deceased man might have attempted to refuel the fire, and either tripped or fell, as a portion of a gallon jug of coal oil was found lying on the floor. It is presumed that Green's clothing became sprayed with the oil and resulted in his clothing igniting. The body was charred almost beyond recognition.

SILK fabrics will eventually be something you tell your children about, bedtime stories about the good old days. Meanwhile, however, it would take an expert to distinguish the precious rayon crepe weaves from the familiar silk crepes and expert styling, rather than test-tubing, is what makes pretty fashions attractive.

Now is the time, moreover, to remind the girls that white rayon fabric keeps its whiteness as long as it lasts, unless the presser scorches it. Remember a warm, not hot, iron, for rayon pressing.

The beautifully fitted nightgown, the matching slip and panties, are made of rayon crepe trimmed with delicate looking but sturdy, self-tubing and faggot stitches.

Dr. E. W. Young Speaks Of New World Order To Local Council of Women

"The New World Order" was the subject of an address by Dr. E. W. Young, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, at the February meeting of the Local Council of Women on Thursday afternoon at the Y.W.C.A.

Dr. Young spoke of our responsibilities in that period of reconstruction which will follow the war; the period for which we must begin to prepare now. He began by explaining what he understood by the phrase, "The New Order." It is, he implied, not so much a material change, as a spiritual change, an awakening to spiritual and Christian realities; a new and more understanding attitude to our fellow men.

"War is not an isolated evil," said Dr. Young and went on to explain that it was the culmination of the greed, selfishness and stupidity of human nature, with its causes deeply rotted in the past and its effects reaching far into the future. It is true that we must concentrate with all our minds on the winning of this war; but we must also win the peace that follows; a peace in which the great nations of the world will lie exhausted. The same evils of hate and greed and selfish short-sightedness will face the statesmen who meet to make this peace as faced the staesmen at Versailles after the last war.

The speaker said that there must be less nationalism in the New Order. He quoted the great Edith Cavell, who said, "Patriotism is not enough." The League of Nations failed because of the short-sighted-ed national ideas of its delegates and because of the apathy and indifference of the great bulk of the people.

If there is to be a new league of nations after this war it will have to be one with the power to enforce its decisions, by force of arms, if necessary; and its delegates must be more far-sighted and less nationalistic than those of the past.

There must be economic changes, too. Russia will be a part of the making of the peace, and though we may not agree with all the principles of Communism, we must admit that it gives one thing which Capitalism does not: security for the common man. The great stream of transients which flowed back and forth across Canada and the United States, homeless, workless and unwanted during the depression, was a condition which could never have existed under a Communistic government.

Mrs. W. H. Morton, vice-president, took the chair for the business period. It was announced that literature would soon be available through the Council from the War Time Prices and Trade Board concerning the Price Ceiling and rationing of sugar. It was decided to leave the matter of nominations for the National Council in the hands of the executive, and a meeting was called for Tuesday afternoon to discuss the matter. Mrs. Simpson was appointed representative of the council to the Civic War Service Council and Mrs. W. McLaren was elected convener of cinema and printed matter.

Several reports left over from the annual meeting were read, including a very fine one from the Lily Lake, congratulating them on the great amount of work accomplished and also on their fine report.

The special service at George Street Church was announced for Friday night, and it was arranged that members of the council attending should go in a body. A tea, to be held by the Major Bennett Chapter in the Green Room on Saturday was announced, with the suggestion that the member support this young but hard working Chapter by patronizing the tea.

A question was asked, "Should we have milk delivered on Sunday " and it was decided that representatives should take it back to their own organizations for discussion.

After the meeting a number of the members went to Toronto in a bus to attend the Women's Rally in Massey Hall.

Queen's Fund Records Progress

A record of the progress of the Queen's Canadian Fund, in the form of newspaper clippings, press releases and pictures, has been sent to Her Majesty, the patron of the fund. The foundation of the fund, all major enterprises supporting it, and the clippings give idea of the vast majority of humbler efforts, teas, concerts, dances, shows, sales that have been organized on its behalf. So far the fund has raised $876,377. This sum was collected purely by voluntary donations, as the fund conducts no canvasses and sponsors no direct solicitation. The fund has profited from the publication of two best sellers frequently seen on the newstands, "The Battle of Britain" and "Bomber Command."

For Saturday, February 21.

VIGILANCE and precaution along all lines may turn the trends of this day into lucrative and eventful channels. While ther is a sign of sudden and drastic action, possibly in connection with public or community affairs, yet there is an undercurrent of deception, trickery, fraud and intrigue.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate an active and eventful year, especially where public, group or community interests are involved. But all activities are beset with ominous circumstances calling for keen vigilance, insight, preparedness and prudence where deception, treachery, malicious and underhand, hidden and secret schemes menace.

A child born on this day while active and enterprising in some directions yet may be peculiar, unreliable, and given to expediency and deception.

SMART JACKET FROCK

By ALICE ALDEN

IT'S A GOOD old favorite, the jacket dress, beloved alike by the college girl, the deb and the movie star, which, we think, is pretty representative of the feminine world. That movie stars like these simple, but effective jacket frocks, as you can see for yourself, for here's pretty Kaaren Verne wearing one in black crepe. Its most interesting detail is the four patch pockets set off by piping of patent leather and by patent leather bows. The simple self belt has a buckle covered with the material of the dress. The low plunging neckline is still preferred for both sports and dress clothes as well as for simple little frocks like this

WOMAN'S UNHAPPINESS RUNS FROM CHILDHOOD TO FIFTIES

Perhaps the Greatest Disillusion Comes When the Honeymoon Sets

A GROUP of women were talking the other day about what was the most unhappy time of a woman's life. "I think it is girlhood," said one woman. "I know that isn't the conventional theory about it. Girlhood is assumed to be the picnic season of a girl's life, a time when she is carefree and bubbling over with youth and high spirits, when she is beautiful and glamorous and a wow with the boys, and has nothing to do but dance and play about and amuse herself. Of course, it does happen that way to some lucky little Janes, but for most girls it is a time of stress and strain, worry and anxiety, when they have to wrestle with problems that they lack the knowledge and experience to solve and meet the disappointments that they haven't the philosophy to bear. Every girl exists in a constant state of the jitters for fear she won't be invited to the party she wants to go to and, if she does go, if her dress will be as pretty as the other girls', and if the boys will cut in on her dances. If no lad dates her for the school prom or the football game, she thinks that she might just as well die and be out of a world that is nothing but sorrow. And if a girl happens to be one of those unfortunate ones who have no attraction for men, who never have a boy friend, whose Papas always have to take them to parties and who sit at home and read improving books while other girls are out having good times, she goes through a martyrdom of humiliation that scars her for life."

When Honeymoon Sets

"I think a woman's darkest hour comes when the honeymoon sets," said another woman. "It is then that she is bewildered and frightened and discouraged at discovering that marriage isn't the perpetual petting party she thought it was going to be, and that her husband has changed from a romantic hero into a tired business man with temper and nerves and fussy little ways, and that she has tackled a job that she doesn't know how to pull off.

"The bride weeping over her burnt biscuit and flat cake and threatening to go back to mother because of what her husband says about the coffee may be funny in a comic strip, but it is one of the memories that a woman salts down with her tears."

"It is the forties that are the real tragedy of a woman's life," said a third woman. "In the forties she sees her beauty fade, her complexion go, her hair get grizzled, her figure turn into a living skeleton or a feather bed, and she has to face the awful fact that she has gotten middle-aged. And it is in the forties that she begins to worry about losing her husband and to endure torments of jealousy every time he looks at a debutante, and to wish she hadn't worked so hard and pinched the pennies to help him get on Easy Street so that he would be a shining mark for the gold-diggers and have the leisure to look around at other women.

"And it is in the forties that a woman is worried to death over her children. Anxiety about their conduct if they are wild. Trying to keep them from wrecking their lives by making silly marriages. Trying to help them get on their feet and settled in life. Sometimes being forsaken by the husband she has loved and slaved for for half a lifetime. Often and often having her heart broken by willful children who bring shame upon her. Oh, the forties are a rainy day in a woman's life that she looks forward to with dread and remembers with horror."

What About the Fifties?

"I think the fifties are the dreariest years of a woman's life," said the fourth woman, "because they are the emptiest ones. No matter what her anxieties are, the young girl has hope to buoy her up. No matter what their difficulties, the middle-aged women have the solace of being too busy to think about their private grievances, and that is the best antidote for trouble. They are in the thick of things. Helping their husbands get a start in the world. Rearing their families. Taking care of their babies. Getting their children off to school. Living in a house that is full of youth and laughter, and young people coming and going, and eternal calls for M-o-t-h-e-r.

"Then come the fifties, and the house that has been so crowded is suddenly too big for two old people. There is silence and order where there was noise and confusion. Mother who was overworked finds her hands empty, for the children are all married and gone about the business of life for themselves, and she could almost die of sheer lonesomeness. No wonder the doctors' offices are filled with women in their fifties who have nothing the matter with them except that their children have grown up and left them."

There are many glad days in a woman's life, and there are also many sad ones. Which are yours?

Young Men's Love Plight

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: We are three young men from the 24 to 25 years old who have been living together for five years. During this time we have finished college and have gotten jobs paying above the average. We date at least three times a week and confine our dating to nice girls, but in spite of the girls seeming to like us and our being popular in our crowd we cannot fall in love. What is our trouble? Do you think that we will ever really fall in love?—

ANXIOUS TRIO.

ANSWER: Don't despair. Give yourselves time. Sooner or later the right girl will come along. Probably the reason you don't fall in love with every little flibbertigibbetty girl you meet is because you were miraculously preserved by your Guardian Angel from having an attack of puppy love in your adolescence, and now when you are man-grown you are more choosy about women.

If there is no girl in your circle and you are so eager to fall in love, I should advise you to widen your acquaintance among girls. You will find Miss Right waiting for you somewhere down the road.

FAVORED FOR DINNER

By ALICE ALDEN

THE SHIRTWAIST dinner dress continues its popularity, appearing at the smartest places, the favorite fashion of most wardrobe-wise women. Lovely Ida Lupino models her newest dinner dress for the readers of this page. It is fashioned on modified shirt-waist lines except for the high rounded neckline of the blouse which is of taffeta in shell pink with a flower motif just a trifle darker than the blouse fabric. It features a yoke and leg-of-mutton sleeves. The black lacquered satin belt is tied in a casual bow.

Salvation Army Had Big Week-end

From Friday until Monday night Peterborough was visited by Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Robert Hoggard, principal of the Salvation Army Training College of Canada in Toronto.

Col. and Mrs. Hoggard were greeted warmly by Salvationists and friends of the Army at the first public meeting held in the Temple at 8 o'clock.

Accompanying Col. and Mrs. Hoggard was Adjutant Muriel McDowell, a missionary from India, now assisting at the College. Also present was a party of 11 cadets from the Training College in Toronto.

Col. Hoggard's first message to his Friday night audience had as its topic "Hindrances to Holiness."

During the meeting the Cadets were introduced by Adj. McDowell. One of the Cadets, Cadet Grace Chow, is a Chinese girl born of Chinese parents in Canada. A great deal of her life was spent in China, and after the war is over she hopes to return to her native land as a missionary.

On Saturday morning the Cadets visited house-to-house, inviting people to the meetings. Throughout the down-town section of the city on Saturday afternoon the Cadets, under the leadership of Col. and Mrs. Hoggard and Adj. Buckley, officer commanding the local corps, held open-air meetings and marches.

Saturday night's meeting in the Temple was a very interesting one. The Cadets presented "Shadowgraphs" depicting the life of a Cadet during a day at the College, which was very much enjoyed.

Adj. Muriel McDowell, formerly of India, was speaker of the evening. In her forceful message she entreated that the Christians in the churches of God would awaken to see the need of the world. The Temple Band under Bandmaster G. Routly contributed several stirring marches and accompanied the congregational singing.

On Sunday morning prior to the morning service the Temple Band, accompanied by Adj. Norman Buckley and the four men cadets from the College, held a service in the jail.

The Sunday morning service, conducted by Col. and Mrs. Hoggard and the Cadets, was the means of much spiritual uplift to the many comrades and friends who gathered. Col. Hoggard gave a stirring message. The Temple Songsters were heard during the service in a soul-stirring number "Even Me." The Band accompanied the singing.

On Sunday afternoon a praise meeting was led by Col. Hoggard. Mrs. Lieut.-Col. Hoggard brought a brief but helpful message from the Word of God.

The Temple was filled Sunday night for the Salvation meeting led by the visitors. The singing of the National Anthem and prayers for boys on active service commenced the meeting. "Calvary" was the theme of Col. Hoggard's convincing message. In a very clear and helpful way the Col. revealed through the Word of God the Way of Salvation.

A special Women's meeting was held on Monday afternoon with Col. and Mrs. Hoggard presiding. "Women of Other Lands" was the theme of the meeting. Adjutant McDowell showed the customs of the people in India with the Cadets dressed in Indian costume assisting her. The ways of living of the Chinese people were presented by Cadet Chow, the Chinese Cadet, with the other Cadets in costume assisting. Col. and Mrs. Hoggard were able to present with the Cadets assisting in Korean clothes, how the Koreans lived.

The final meeting on the week-end was held on Monday in the Temple, which was packed to the doors, every available seat being occupied. Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James' United church offered prayer for the United Free People of the World and our leaders and for the peoples of the occupied countries. Adj. McDowell read the Scriptures.

Sound films, presented by Col. Sloan of the A.R.P., were a feature of the program. The first film was entitled "Coastal Defence." Next shown was "The City of London on Fire." The last film "The Serving Army," was issued by the Ministry of Information. It showed the marvellous work being done by the Salvation Army in the air raid shelters and among the A.R.P. workers.

Full of wit and humor yet showing how brave and courageous the British civilians and active service men are carrying on was Col. Hoggard's address entitled "Britain Under Bombs."

As a finale to the program a tribute to our Allies and the Peoples of the Occupied Countries was paid. Each cadet carried a flag of one of the occupied countries or a flag of one of our allies. Cadet Chow in Chinese costume carried the Chinese national flag.

During the program the Songster Brigade gave a splendid rendition of the vocal selection "Land of Hope and Glory."

THE VANITY TABLE IS EASY TO MAKE

Underneath It's A Packing Box

This is what your bedroom needs—a Southern-belle vanity! Between frothy ruffles of red-dotted white swiss, you get tantalizing glimpses of red ribbon, run through beading and tied in bows.

You can make the table from a packing box! Stand the box on end, with open side front, and nail on a kidney-bean shaped board for the top. On this you stretch first, a piece of white sateen lining, then a piece of dotted swiss; fold over edges and tack underneath.

Make the skirt lining as long as from top to floor and the same width as around front and sides. Measure twice this width for ruffles and vary ruffles in depth.

Sew a length of beading (you buy it by the yard) to the top of each ruffle and fasten the ruffles to the lining with double-snap tape (except for the top one, basted on). So you can wash the lining, too, just double-snap it to the table.

Darling, with pretty curtains and bedspread to match! Our 32-page booklet tells details of making the vanity. Also tells how to make inexpensively, a book-rack side table, pillow tops, pot holders, many other attractive items for yourself or as gifts.

For your copy of "Hand-Made Gift Novelties" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

USE THE LONE HONOR

AFTER ONE opponent has shown great length in one or more suits, it is sound to count on his partner for outstanding length in any other suit or suits. He is the one to guard yourself against when you are running the trumps and want to make sure of not losing any tricks in that suit. Ordinarily, if you hold the three top honors, with two of them in one hand opposite the single one, you will take the first trick where you have the brace, especially if you are able to finesse in either direction. But, with one opponent indicated as more likely to have the missing trump length, it is best to take the first trick in the hand which plays before him, so you leave a couple of honors over his possible holding.

West: ♠ 10 7; ♥ J 9 4 2; ♦ 9 5 2; ♣ Q 6 3 2
East: ♠ A Q 9 5 3 2; ♥ None; ♦ K Q J 6 4; ♣ 8 4
South: ♠ K 6; ♥ Q 10 8 6 5; ♦ A 8 3; ♣ K J 7

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	Dbl
2 ♦	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥
4 ♠	5 ♥

Upon winning the opening trick with the spade A, East led his diamond K and South took stock. Seeing that he must lose a diamond trick, he realized he could not afford a loser in either trumps or clubs. But first he must dispose of the trumps. So he took the diamond K with his A and led the heart 5 to the A. When East discarded on that he was beaten, as there was no earthly way to keep West from a trump trick.

There should have been no question about the guess South had to make. East, having shown at least 10 and possibly 11 cards in spades and diamonds, could not possibly have had more than three hearts, whereas West might have the four he did. If South had reckoned thus, and had laid down his heart Q first, he would have had West shut out in the suit. This would have left him only clubs to guess, and most good players would have counted on West for a well-guarded queen there. If South had played that way, he not only would have been sound. He would have been successful.

South: ♠ A 5; ♥ K Q J 7; ♦ A K 9; ♣ 6 5 4 2

What is the right plan for South to follow on this deal if West leads the spade 3 against his 3-No Trumps?

HASTINGS

Separate School Trustees Named

HASTINGS, Feb. 20 — (ENS). — The annual meeting of the Hastings Separate School Board was held in the Parish Hall on Wednesday night. As the Election Extension Act does not apply to School Boards comprising three Separate School sections it was necessary to hold an election of trustees.

Father J. V. Garvey, M. A. O'Shea, and T. A. Coughlan were elected to the Board, with David H. Walsh, J. L. Doherty, and Bart Crowley, whose terms of office have another year to run. Mr. Crowley was appointed chairman of the Board.

Joseph Mulholland was appointed secretary-treasurer.

Due to the advent of daylight saving time, a problem has arisen at the local Separate School. The school lacks electric lights and hence the opening time was delayed one-half hour, with the result school was not dismissed until 4:30.

T. A. Coughlan moved that the Board revert to the 9 o'clock opening time and go in at 1:10.

Dave Walsh of Asphodel explained that the daylight saving time was already enough inconvenience to the farmers and if any change was to be made, the time should be set back a half-hour. As Mr. Coughlan's motion received no seconder, the matter was dropped.

On motions of David Walsh and T. A. Coughlan, Joseph Mulholland was appointed truant officer for the coming year. J. L. Doherty was delegated to look after school supplies during 1942-43.

On motion of M. A. O'Shea and T. A. Coughlan, the Board was authorized to borrow upwards of $1,100 to cover salaries and maintenance costs for 1942-43.

Try Flame Guns On MacArthur

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP).—The United States' War Department reported to-day the Japanese were increasing pressure on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's defence lines on the Bataan peninsula in the Philippines, and troop movements indicated a resumption of the enemy offensive.

Several flame-throwers, a communique said, were captured along with three pieces of artillery in a relatively minor local action, along with other Japanese equipment.

Meanwhile Japanese batteries on the south shore of Manila Bay poured shells on the Corregidor string of fortifications, "without accomplishing a great amount of damage." Fire was concentrated on outlying Fort Frank, southernmost of the fortifications.

The captured flame-throwers, officials said, were the first reported on the Bataan fighting front.

ALLIED FLEETS LASH OUT IN GREAT SCRAP OFF BALI

BATAVIA, N.E.I., Feb. 21—(AP)—In a Java Sea fight announced as the first Allied naval offensive in the battle for the Indies, United States and Netherlands warships strongly supported by dive bombers and fighting planes blew up one Japanese cruiser and seriously damaged and another cruiser and two destroyers, the Netherlands and United Nations commands declared today.

The announcement indicated that a third Japanese cruiser might have been hit, and reported direct heavy bomb hits on an unspecified number of other vessels—probably mostly transports.

One Allied destroyer was lost after having been hit by a torpedo.

(The War Department in Washington announced that American bombers winging into the fight off Bali, just east of Java, shot down four Japanese planes and scored bomb hits on three Japanese cruisers and four transports. Four United States planes were lost).

Thus there was developing in the waters east of closely guarded Java and invasion-struck Bali a naval battle potentially greater than the fight for Macassar Strait.

A Netherlands communique said the Allied striking force consisted of Netherlands cruisers and Netherlands and United States destroyers recently grouped under the command of the Vice-Admiral Conrad Heufrich, a Netherlands submarine expert and an exponent of this very type of offensive stab.

Japanese attempts to continue landings on Bali, the flower-scented island separated from Java, heart of the Netherlands East Indies, by a mile-wide strait, were made more difficult by reefs, sharks and high waves pounding on the glistening sands.

Allied submarines also were helping prevent the Japanese landings.

The Japanese bombed Banjoewangi, on the east coast of Java, about 1½ miles from Bali Strait.

Java's Zero Hour at Hand

The heavily-fortified island of Java faced its critical hour of trial today, with the Japanese obviously building up to an attack in force on this last uninvaded stronghold of the Netherlands East Indies.

The Japanese are beating against Indies defences to the right and left of Java—against Bali on the east and Sumatra on the west.

Should they gain complete possession of those islands, Java—nerve centre of the United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific—would be isolated except for increasingly-precarious sea routes.

The Netherlands are stubbornly defending Bali and Sumatra but it is admitted that the situation is growing more critical.

It is believed here that the Japanese in Sumatra, separated from Java by Sunda Strait, 14 to 50 miles wide, are rushing up troops and materials and attempting to organize air bases and transport before opening the all-out drive on Java.

The Japanese invaded Bali yesterday. That little Island is separated from Java by just one mile of water—Bali Strait.

The attacking power is not under-

Third Of Loan Raised In Five Days

Friday's $48,410,000 Biggest Of Push 62,940 Buy Bonds

OTTAWA, Feb. 21.—(CP.)—Canada's $600,000,000 Victory Loan reached a cumulative total of $213,-772,150 at the close of business last night, headquarters announced today. Friday's total of subscriptions was $48,410,000.

It included 8,694 employees of factories and workshops who under the payroll-savings plan developed by the National War Finance committee, subscribed $953,300.

The total number of subscriptions reported Friday was 62,940, biggest day of the loan in individual purchases.

"With one-third of the nominal objective obtained, the loan has averaged just over $42,000,000 a day for the five days reported up to Friday night," said the committee. "Even greater efforts will have to be put forward during the remaining two weeks of the campaign."

While the loan now is past one-third of its official objective, loan officials said that as in every effort of this kind, many people get prepared for it and have their subscriptions ready for the first few days of the opening of the drive.

"This type of money is in and behind us," said a spokesman for the drive. "Now with very little less than $400,000,000 to go to reach even the announced objective there is a lot of hard work to be done during the course of the next two weeks."

900 Cases Wait In Labor Tangle

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP).—The higher cost of living and organized labor's hope to obtain "union security" have produce an unprecedented flow of labor disputes into conciliation agencies of the United States' government since labor and management entered into their no-strike, no lock-out compact two months ago.

Strikes may have been ruled out for the duration, but not disagreements between employers and their workers.

Cases are pouring into the United States conciliation service at a rate which sees almost every week set a record. To-day the service had a blacklog of some 900 cases, or about 10 for every conciliator.

Strikes in defense industries virtually have disappeared. To-day's official count showed less than a dozen, involving less than 2,000 persons. Some of these, it was said, have a doubtful relationship to war

JOHN J. TURNER

John J. Turner Prominent Citizen Passes

John J. Turner, president of J. J. Turner & Sons, died shortly before noon today.

Declining health during the last year had become more accentuated several months ago, and since then he had been confined to his home. He attained his seventy-first birthday on Wednesday, February 18, and at that time his brother, Achilles Turner, expressed doubt that Mr. Turner would ever resume active direction of the company.

John James Turner was born in London, England, 1871, and as a boy of three years came with his parents to Port Hope where his father, J. J. Turner, Sr., carried on for twelve years a business in the making of sails and awnings. Port Hope was the centre of a lake shipping to American and Canadian ports in the years when sailing vessels had not yet been supplanted by steam propelled boats.

Came to Peterborough in 1886

Mr. Turner was educated in Port Hope and came to Peterborough with his parents in 1886. He worked for three years with the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, and then joined his father's factory at George and King streets, eventually becoming its president.

Actively interested in the progress of Peterborough through a deep and sustained sense of citizenship, Mr. Turner was a member of the Board of Education for two years, a member of the city council for nearly ten years, serving two years as mayor, prior to his retirement from that department of the municipal administration. He was a past president of the Y.M.C.A., and another of his activities was as president of the Chamber of Commerce and for the past fifteen years its treasurer.

Other interests which engaged Mr. Turner's support were the Kiwanis Club, Sons of England and Corinthian Lodge, A.F. & A.M., of which he was a Past Master. He

Fleet Tieup Flaw In Far East

Presence Or Threat Would Have Held Japs To Land Push

(Written for The Canadian Press By MAJ.-GEN. SIR CHARLES GWYNN.)

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(CP Cable.)—The centre of interest in the Far East has been transferred from Malaya to Burma and the Netherlands East Indies.

In Burma the Japanese overcame the most formidable natural obstacles when they crossed the mountains dividing Burma from Thailand. The resources of our garrison at Moulemein and Tavoy could hardly have been calculated to withstand such large forces as the Japanese succeeded in bringing over.

As soon as they secured the crossing of the Salween at its mouth the Japanese had a strip of open country in front of them along the railway line to Pegu thence down to Rangoon. So far we have succeeded in holding them at the Bilin river, although neither this nor the Sittang river, 25 miles farther west, are strong defensive lines.

The obvious way of reinforcing Burma is by sea to Rangoon. If the Japanese have hopes of overrunning the country speedily they have failed to take into account its size and comparative lack of communications.

In opposite directions from Singapore the Japanese already are attacking Eastern Sumatra and it is clear their object is to occupy Sumatra and Java, which would give them unrestricted entry to the Indian ocean.

Once the Japanese obtained a footing on Singapore Island the fall of that base was inevitable. Perhaps the main object of prolonging resistance instead of attempting an evacuation was to prevent the liberation of Japanese forces for further enterprises and deny them use of the port and air base for as long as possible.

Neither the condition of the troops after long fighting under the most trying conditions nor the nature of the terrain could be considered favorable, however, for a prolonged stand.

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 21—(CP). — The natural gas shortage that threw over 8,000 men out of work yesterday, seriously affecting Windsor's war industries, remained unchanged today, except that pressure in the city's gas mains was mounting. The men sent home yesterday were still idle.

Net 73,000 Troops On Singapore Tokyo Reports

TOKYO (from Japanese broadcasts), Feb. 21—(AP). — Japanese headquarters claimed today that a total of 73,000 British Empire troops, including 8,000 wounded, were captured by Japanese forces in the seven-day assault on Singapore which resulted in the surrender of that stronghold February 15.

(British reports have put the stength of the Singapore forces at from 55,000 to 60,000 men.)

Japanese losses in the action were put at 3,000 killed and wounded. Listed among the spoils seized by the Japanese on Singapore Island were 300 pieces of artillery, 2,000 machine-guns, 50,000 rifles, 200 tanks and armored cars, 10,000 automobiles, 200 motorcycles. one 10,000-ton vessel, three 5,000-ton tankers, many other smaller ships and large quantities of food and ammunition.

Russian Fliers Slay 30,000 In Crimea; Freeing Leningrad

MOSCOW, Feb. 21.—(AP).—Hitler's plans for a spring drive were challenged by the army newspaper Red Star to-day with the declaration: "We shall yet advance far westward before spring and when it comes we shall develop our offensive on a still larger scale."

Declaring that a "stubborn, sanguinary struggle is ahead," Red Star reiterated the Russians are fighting to "put an end to Nazi Germany in 1942."

The Moscow radio reported fierce fighting, with tremendous German losses, on a south-western sector "where units under command of Kozlow and Minotnov are operating."

"Our troops occupied the inhabited locality of 'M' and killed 400 enemy officers and men," the radio said.

(The reference to Kozlov suggests the southwestern sector to which the announcer referred was the Crimea. Lt.-Gen. D. T. Kozlov, Caucasian fornt commander, was congratulated by Premier Joseph Stalin New Year's Day on landing for a counter-invasion of the Black Sea peninsula.)

The Leningrad radio said Soviet forces had penetrated the first and second German lines before that second city of Russia and that German counter attacks were unsuccessful.

Captured medical reports were quoted by the Soviet information bureau as saying soldiers of the 339th German infantry regiment were extremely exhausted and the implication was that cold and illness had handicapped other invasion units.

49 Blockhouses Taken

Reporting continued operations against the Germans overnight, the bureau said Soviet forces on the Leningrad front has destroyed 49 German blockhouses, 50 bridges and dugouts and many German gun positions and killed 1,200 men during the past few days.

The bureau said Red Army troops

Portuguese Call Special Session As Japs Invade Their Isle Timor

LISBON, Feb. 21—(AP).—With the country's newspapers protesting against a "new violation" of Portuguese territory, the National Assembly was called to meet this afternoon in extraordinary session to hear a statement by Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar on the invasion of Portuguese Timor by Japanese soldiers.

The session was ordered last night after the Premier met with his Cabinet for two hours.

Previously the Japanese Ambassador called twice on Dr. Salazar to inform him the Japanese would leave the half-Portuguese, half-Netherlands island "after obtaining their objective" if Portugal would "maintain her neutral attitude."

The German Minister to Lisbon also called on Dr. Salazar, and then took a special plane to Perlin. "Result of his visit was not announced.

The Japanese announced yesterday they had landed troops on both the Netherlands and Portuguese portions of Timor, which is 800 miles east of the Allied naval base of Surabaya, Java and 450 miles northwest of Port Darwin, Australia, also the location of an Allied naval base.

Portuguese Timor was occupied on December 18 by Australians and Indies troops to prevent seizure by the Japanese.

Gandhi, Kai Shek May Tip Jap Applecart

(By J. F. SANDERSON.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(CP).—The Japanese are playing an astute and crafty political game in the Philippine Islands and all over the south-west Pacific area, a game in which their shrill cry of "Asia for the Asiatics" is the theme.

That it is a serious threat to political unity in that vast area with its dense population may be seen by the intensity with which Washington and London are watching developments and by the conferences held in Calcutta between M. K. Gandhi and Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, leader of Nationalist China.

They are poles apart in their political philosophies, these two men but, between them, they exert powerful influence over more than 800,-000,000 people. Together, they may be able to marshal the native populations of China, India and Burma into one powerful unit of resistance and determination as Chiang has welded the Chinese people.

Official Washington is watching closely these developments because it is realized that the attitude of millions of Asiatics, not only in the Philippines but in China, Burma, the Netherlands East Indies and particularly in India, will be of vital importance in Japan's struggle to establish by force an "East Asia co-prosperity sphere."

So far, the exact picture in the Philippines is far from clear but none of the well known, articulate advocates of some sort of union between the islands and Japan has been included in the cabinet formed by Jorge B. Vargas, former private secretary to President Quezon and now "chief of state" at Manila.

Even Vargas' position is far from clear and it is not known here how far he is co-operating with the Japanese—whether he is a patriotic, a Petain or an out and out Quisling. The general opinion here, however, is that Vargas is not a Quisling, this being based on the fact he was left in charge by President Quezon and appointed mayor of Manila. Quezon, himself, expressed faith that his former secretary "will not do anything that would be contrary to his oath of allegiance to the United States." Quezon is "somewhere in the Philippines" and still is recognized as the head of the legal government.

Vargas' cabinet as announced from Tokyo contains many one-time aides and political henchmen of President Quezon and there is every indication that the Japanese are falling over backwards to placate and ingratiate themselves in the minds of the Filipinos. They have adopted far different tactics from the Germans in Poland, Norway and the low countries.

Judging by all the evidence available here, the Japanese have sought to change the political life of the Philippines as little as possible although solidifying their control of military and economic life.

This indicates a fundamental determination on the part of the Japanese to appeal to the political aspirations of such countries as Burma, Malaya, the Netherlands East Inies and India where the white man's rule has been dominant for

Berlin Boasts 532,900 Tons Now Sent Down

BERLIN, (from German broadcasts), Feb. 21 (AP)—The German high command claimed today that German submarines have sunk 17 addition ships totalling 102,000 tons to boost shipping destroyed off the American coast to 80 ships registering 532,900 tons.

"In continuation of these operations in the Caribbean Sea," a special communique asserted, "one of our submarines forced its way into Paria Gulf west of Trinidad and sank two ships, of which was a tanker, in the roadstead of the British harbor of Port of Spain."

(U.S. Army headquarters at Port of Spain announced Thursday that two ships at anchorage in the Gulf of Paria had been damaged Wednesday night by explosions apparently caused by U-boat torpedoes, "but both remained afloat and there were no casualties.")

Guerilla Lass Hero Of USSR

Girl 18, Captured, Tortured, Hanged By The Boche

MOSCOW, Feb. 21 — (CP). — Tass News Agency announced today that the title of Hero of the Soviet Union had been conferred posthumously on an 18-year-old girl, Zoya Kosmodemyanskaya, for guerilla exploits which led to her defiant death at the village of Petrishchevo, in the Mozhaisk zone west of Moscow.

Dressed in man's clothing and with her dark hair cropped close, she cut a Nazi field telephone wire, set fire to houses where Germans were quartered and destroyed a 20-horse stable early in December, the news agency said. Then she was captured by a German sentry.

Tass declared the girl was whipped, forced to walk barefooted and thinly clad in the snow, and tortured with matches in a vain attempt to force her to betray her comrades. She was hanged, the agency reported, after exhorting the villagers from the gallows to "fight fearlessly."

SUCCESS OF PLEBISCITE IS RESPONSIBILITY OF THE GOVERNMENT

Plebiscite To Cost $1,500,000; Not Revising List

(By FRANK FLAHERTY.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 21 — (CP). — Responsibility for obtaining an affirmative vote on the proposed conscription plebiscite was placed on the Government by Conservative House Leader Hanson yesterday as the administration took the first step towards passing a law to provide for the voting.

"This is not my baby," Mr. Hanson said when a Liberal member interrupted his speech to say it was "everybody's" responsibility to obtain a vote which would release the Government from its pledges against enactment of compulsory overseas service.

The Conservative House Leader spoke after State Secretary McLarty moved adoption of a resolution preliminary to introduction of a Bill to authorize the plebiscite. That resolution followed adoption of a motion to hold a secret sitting on Tuesday for off-the-record discussion of the war situation.

Mr. McLarty disclosed some of the mechanics proposed for taking the plebiscite and said other details will be revealed when the Bill is introduced accompanied by a proposed set of regulations which it is proposed to refer to a special committee of the House.

Some Vote Details.

Facts about the plebiscite as disclosed by Mr. McLarty include the following:

1. A new voters' list will be prepared by enumerators;
2. The list will not be subject to revision, but voters left off may vote by being vouched for and taking an oath at their polling station;
3. The cost will be $1,500,000 if everyone who works on the plebis-

Army Convoy Visits Cobourg

COBOURG, Feb 21 (ENS).—Army convoy of 45 vehicles, including tanks and universal carriers, arrived at Cobourg Friday at noon and remained until 1.30 before moving off to the west with Port Hope as the next destination. About 85 men comprised the personnel accompanying the convoy and were guests of the town for luncheon, the party being split up and designated to the various hotels of the town. Frigid weather accounted for a comparatively small turnout of citizens to see the convoy and the fact that it arrived in the noon hour prevented many housewives from going down to see it. However, every youngster in town was on hand, it seemed, and the fact that the convoy successfully withstood the thorough going-over the kids gave it augured well for its future durability.

Admits Killing Deer In Game Preserve

Arrested yesterday by Provincial Constable Price Morris and Fish and Game Overseer I. J. Lyons, William Davis, 47, Nassau pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. to a charge of illegal possession of firearms in the Peterborough county game preserve.

"We found tracks where two deer had been dragged out", Overseer Lyons told the court. "Yesterday when we made a search we found some freshly killed venison."

Davis admitted that he had venison at the place where he was living and that he had killed a deer in the game preserve.

Magistrate Langley imposed a fine of $80 and $2.50 costs or a month in jail and Davis remarked that he would not be able to pay the fine.

Evacuation Is Not New To British Army

Just how closely British forces in the Great War averted a "Dunkirk" was told graphically at the noonday luncheon of Kiwanis by Col. John A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., officer commanding the Price of Wales Rangers, yesterday.

Col. Dewart was introduced to Kiwanis by Carl S. Browne. He said, Col. Dewart was a member of an unpopular group after the war, namely the military group. "People thought they should have been dispensed with, their spending was criticized and they were generally unpopular. We now owe a debt of gratitude to those military men who carried on between wars." He drew attention to the military decorations Col. Dewart received in the last war, and pointed out that he is a former member of Kiwanis.

"The matter of evacuation is not new in the history of Britain," said Col. Dewart. "British forces were evacuated in the face of a French army in the Peninsular War with Spain many years ago. There was the embarkation of the British army during the last war in the face of Turkish forces. "Being a democracy, we are not prepared for war. We usually have a very thin time for a while until we gather sufficient strength to take the offensive."

Glorious Episode

The evacuation of an enormous body of men in the face of a victorious army of great numbers and highly armed was one of the glorious episode of British history at Dunkirk that prevented a colossal disaster, he said. In Britain's military relations with France in the last war, the matter of evacuation was a definite possibility at any time, and they were thus prepared.

In the last war, British forces landed at Le Havre. They first contacted the enemy at Mons, but were later forced back to the region of Paris.

The speaker told of the great offensive in the Battle of the Marne in which British and enemy forces raced to reach the Channel ports, but the British forces won. Possession of these ports was most essential to the B.E.F fighting in France. Without these ports, the B.E.F. would have been in a hopeless position. On March 21, 1918, the Germans struck at the junction of the British and French armies and pushed their forces to within 25 miles from the French coast. A further breach of Allied defences would have meant a "Dunkirk."

As the line wavered, French and British armies were both put under Marshal Foch, and here was the turning point in the German offensive. With both armies under one head, their relationship was closer and the same orders to both armies would come from one head. Eventually, the Germans were driven back.

At the beginning of this war, Britain put her armies into the field at first on the Belgian frontier and when Belgium later consented, British armies were located in Belgium. Then came the retreat. Lord Gort, British Commander, realized he would have to put into effect a plan of evacuation. In company with the Commander of the First French army on his right, the plan was drawn up for a perimeter at Dunkirk, a line that followed the coast of France for about 20 miles and was about seven miles wide at its deepest point. The line along the coast was a natural fortification. As the German armies, which had broken through at Sudan and cut the main French army from the British, came on, a corridor of evacuation was kept open by the British and First French armies. This corridor extended for about thirty miles inland from Dunkirk.

As evacuation was carried out, the corridor was gradually drawn closer to the coast and, all the while, German armies were pounding from three sides of the corridor.

This evacuation was carried out as orderly as peacetime work. News of the fall of the Belgian army reached British officials and a gap was left in a section of the corridor of evacuation for about 20 miles which British soldiers had to fill. German and British armies raced for Newport, northern end of the perimeter, and the British arrived just in time. Some German forces had succeeded in getting inside the perimeter, but were later driven out. The day following, which was May 28 1940, the perimeter was completely manned and two days later all rear areas had been completely evacuated.

Another situation arose when large numbers of French arrived with transports to cause complications. The British had been ordered to destroy all their equipment except what was inside the perimeter to facilitate evacuation. This was hampered by presence of the French transports.

Faced with many French at the point of evacuation, British officials advised London of this. The order came back to evacuate the French in the same numbers as British soldiers—a typical British order, commented Col. Dewart.

Gort Ordered to Return.

In the meantime Lord Gort's army had mostly been removed to England, and he was ordered by the Secretary of War to return with them. The Secretary knew that Lord Gort would be the last man to leave France, unless ordered to do so. On June 2, 1940, evacuation was complete. From May 27 to June 2, the following had been taken to England: 211,000 British troops, 13,000 casualties, and 112,546 Allies, most of whom were French. One can imagine the magnitude of the task of evacuating the numbers, said the speaker.

"How was such a thing possible?" said Col. Dewart. "In the first place iron discipline was the main factor, and secondly, the high morale of the troops figured to a large extent."

"The rank and file in thet British Army knew nothing of the impending peril until hours before they were evacuated," he said. "In one instance, Germans made maps to show the exact position the British were in. Orders such as 'You are surrounded—throw down your arms,' were contained on the leaflets." Col. Dewart said many British refused to believe this because they had just begun to fight.

"Calm routine, high morale of which the British Army is famous, and iron discipline turned the greatest defeat into a glorious victory," he concluded.

Ernie Gregson moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker and this was conveyed by President Gordon Miller who said that Kiwanians were a much better informed group as a result of the talk. The speech was given added interest by a map and a drawing of the corridor and scene of evacuation.

Beacon Service Fails To Draw Big Attendance

A disappointing crowd of less than 400 people attended the "Beacon for Freedom" service held at George Street United Church on Friday evening, when stirring addresses were delivered by Capt. the Rev. Dr Easton and Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., officer commanding the Prince of Wales Rangers

During the evening music was provided by the Prince of Wales Rangers Band, and a delightful touch was added the impressive program when Mrs J. Goldie sang "Rule Britannia," and Lt.-Col. Maurice H. Park sang "Land of Hope and Glory." There was community singing in which the following were sung: "Onward Christian Soldiers," "There'll Always Be An England," "The Maple Leaf Forever," "Men of Harlech," and "Carry On."

Col. Dewart kas introdnced by His Worship Mayor James Hamilton, who was chairman of the program.

"We, as Canadians, have a priceless heritage but most of us take it as a matter of course. This system of ours based on the fundamental principles of liberty, freedom and justice didn't comes ready made, it was a struggle by our forbears down through the centuries.

"Few of us ever thought that our way of life would be threatened by another government, yet tonight we are faced with the fact that mighty enemies are opposing us, and representing a way of life that is the worst known in a thousand years.

"Their object is to take away our liberties, forcing us into chains and slavery. The only thing that stands between us and slavery tonight are the men in our armed forces. There are a lot of unsung heroes in this war, particularly the men of the merchant marine, who brave the cold, the fog, the storms, and the enemy to keep the line of food and munitions pouring into Britain.

"Most of us however, are unable to strike a direct blow like the armed forces, but we can all help by buying Victory Bonds. If we hesitate let us ask this question: "What would the people of France give to have their freedom back," the answer is anything, everything we own.

"These totalitarian nations are powerful because state is supreme and they have developed a religion of hatred, intolerance and fanatical patriotism, that makes the soldiers particularly the Japs absolutely fearless. A Jap considers it a great honor to die for the Emperor, and he is told that this patriotism will be rewarded with world conquest.

"Our way of life is the best ever worked out, yet we remain indifferent. It is the Canadian people who should have this fanatical patriotism, and we must develop it if we are to match our foes.

"We have more to defend than any other people since the world began, let us see to it that we take our part in defending it."

Col. Dewart then repeated the oath of allegiance and the audience repeated it after him.

Canvasser Walks Rural Beat Seeking Sales

COBOURG, Feb. 21.— (ENS).—Some conception of what the canvassers are up against in making their rounds through almost impassable roads in some sections of Northumberland county, is gained from a publicity release from the loan headquarters at Cobourg. It is the rule that all salesmen phone in each day's results at 7.00 p.m. Any results received after that time automatically goes on in the next day's total. At seven o'clock yesterday all had phoned in except one, Mr. W. Jibb, who works for the campaign out in South Monaghan. He is over sixty but produced outstanding resuts in the Victory Loan campaign of last June. At 7.03 Mr. Jibb phoned in his report and its shorthand transcription read as follows:

"I am not home yet but I thought I had better call in the first time I got near a telephone. I have had a hard day, the roads in the townships are impossible to drive on. In lots of places there are over two feet of water and slush on the roads and the rural postman told me that he had to unhitch on one of the back roads and I can't use my cutter either, so I started out on foot and have been walking through snow and slush all day. I have made 21 calls, have seven applications for a total of $1,900 and when I get home, which is a good way to walk yet, I will fill out my forms and send them into you the first chance I get," reported Mr. Jibb

Reports from other parts of the county indicate similar conditions.

$534,950 Raised For War Loan Past Five Days

Peterborough County's Victory Loan effort topped the half a million dollar mark last night as canvassers from all parts of the farflung section made returns, and with two exceptions the townships showed fine increases, despite the fact that canvassers are hampered by bad road conditions and bitter cold weather.

The exact total as released by the Victory Loan headquarters this morning is $534,950 or almost one-fifth of the total objective with five days of the loan campaign over. The city totals show $274,550 out of an objective of $1,350,000 which means there is a long way to go.

In the county, the village of Lakefield is tops having obtained almost fifty per cent of their objective of $60,000.

Nazi Prisoners Escape

Peterborough police were notified at 10.45 o'clock Friday night that two of the German officers confined in the war prisoners' camp at Bowmanville had made their escape from the institution. One of them was a prisoner who had broken out twice previously and both men were described as wearing German Air Force uniforms.

Highways in this section were patrolled, but no signs of the fugitives were found.

All traffic on Highway 2 was halted and checked by provincial officers. The Peterborough Hockey Club, travelling home from Whitby by bus, were stopped a mile west of Welcome early this morning by officers for a checkup as to whether any passengers had been picked up en route.

This was borne out by Premier Tojo's speech to the Japanese Diet Feb. 16 when he carefully stipulated that Japan stood for a "Burma for the Burmese" policy, the Chinese, except for the Chungking regime were "our brothers" and India now had the opportunity to throw off Anglo-American domination."

The appeal on an "Asia for the Asiatics" theme, promising relief from White domination and imperialism and perhaps using the Philippines as a model of what may be expected elsewhere, may be difficult to overcome, it is conceded here.

The Japanese may believe they can persuade millions of inarticulate and illiterate Asiatics that they stand a better chance of political emancipation under Tokyo than they do under London, Washington or the Hague.

In a speech delivered a few days ago in Philadelphia, J. M. Elizalde, Philippine Commissioner to the United States, touched on this point when he urged that every country in the Pacific zone should have the goal of democracy and freedom held out before it as a spiritual objective.

"The only practical antidote to Japanese propaganda is the promise of democratic unity," Elizalde said.

"To help win this war, liberal democracy must be our bond.

Southwestern Pacific peoples must have something better to hope for than a mere shift from one form of Imperialism to another . . .

Church Filled To Mark Day Of Prayer

PORT HOPE, Feb. 21 (ENS) — The World's Day of Prayer services were held in the United church on Friday afternoon. The first service was the general one under the leadership of Mrs. J. B. Reynolds, assisted by the presidents of the W.M.S. of each of the churches. St. John's church was represented by Mrs. Briden, St. Mark's by Mrs. Crosthwaite, St. Paul's by Mrs. Rowland. Miss M. Ferguson, Mrs. Belyea and Mrs. George Ward also led in prayer.

Mrs. Gordon Garnett sang a solo, "Softly and Tenderly Jesus is Calling." Mrs. Gordon then took the platform and asked the ladies to try to draw a picture of the thousands of women gathered together today, round the world, for this same purpose "Prayer." Mrs. Gordon's address was very interesting, after which Mrs. Reynolds continued the order of service.

The auditorium of the church was well filled.

The Service of Worship for youth which followed, under the leadership of Mrs. Cecil Moore, leader of the C.G.I.T. of the United church, assisted by Mrs. T. Bennett, was a most impressive one with the girls taking part in the service. The choir loft was filled with C.G.I.T. girls and the different churches were represented by a chosen girl who sat on the platform taking part in the program. These were: from St. Mark's Brenda Bennett; St. John's, Madeline Jex; Baptist, Barbara Tickell; United church, Margaret Bennett; Presbyterian, Betty Palmer.

There were six girls chosen to represent the different nationalities, each in the native costume of its peoples. Each of these girls had a story to tell. Great Britain was represented by Joan Giddy; India by Betty Palmer; Holland by Martha Thompson; Japan by Pauline Bennett; Paraguay by Marjory Sutton; China by Claire Thompson.

Brenda led in prayer and Margaret Bennett gave a reading "Every youth has a quest to make."

also served for a term as President of the Kiwanis Club. Mr. Turner had been a member of St. Luke's Anglican Church since his boyhood, was Church Warden for a number of years and was also a licensed Lay Reader, and teacher and superintendent of the Sunday School.

John Turner had been associated with almost every phase of the public life of this city for more than 30 years. His mayoral terms were in 1924 and 1925 although he first was elected to the council in 1910 and later in 1919-20.

In his aldermanic service he had helped promote the engaging of an industrial commissioner for Peterborough in the hope of securing new industries. He had been chairman of the Board of Health, and had been long associated with the Peterborough Health Association of which he was president in 1930. During the last few years he urged the establishment here of a branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses, and saw that objective fulfilled a little more than a year ago. He was Honorary President of the Ontario Motor League in 1924; District Trustee of Kiwanis in 1927; treasurer of the Y.M.C.A. of which he had been for many years a loyal supporter and also a member of the board.

His interests reached out in so many directions that some of them will probably be overlooked, but it is recalled that he had been a member of the provincial executive of the Boy Scouts and one of the officers of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir.

As an employer of labor, John Turner followed the policy of retaining those workers who had spent years in building up the business, and only recently The Examiner heard a fine compliment in regard to the number of older employees who have long been associates of the members of the Turner family.

His own sense of responsibility and duty was indicated by his habit of setting an example in promptness and regularity by reaching his office about the same time every morning for many years. About ten minutes to seven o'clock every morning it was his practise to call at the post office for the firm's mail, and to the night postal staff he was regarded as an old friend.

Another of those who was frequently an early morning companion of Mr. Turner was W. R. Parker of the National Revenue department of the Customs Office.

Mr. Turner was held in high regard by a great many citizens who feel a deep sense of personal loss in his death. It was learned shortly shortly after 12 o'clock today that his illness became more serious since the middle of this week, although it was not until yesterday that his family became alarmed at his condition.

He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Kendall Doll, Toronto; and his brothers, Reginald, Achilles and Webber Turner. Funeral arrangements had not been decided at press time.

Street Jammed With Crowd To See Convoy

PORT HOPE, Feb. 20—(ENS). — Huge crowds of adults as well as the school children, who were dismissed at 2.30, despite a bitterly cold day, were the spectators on Queen Street of the armed convoy on Friday afternoon between two and four o'clock.

Forty-five vehicles were on display. At the front of the lineup was a large 30-ton tank, followed by the latest field model carriers with 25-pound guns, a F.A.T. tractor, Bren gun carriers, a searchlight battery truck. One section was devoted to signal trucks and eight underweights for wireless operations. Two of the latest types of ambulances were open for inspection. Two station wagons were also in the lineup, equipped with a loud speaker to add to the excitement.

King Is Hopeful Secret Meet Won't Last Day

OTTAWA, Feb. 21 (CP) — The House of Commons will meet next Tuesday in the first secret session since the First Great War with Speaker Glen as the sole reporter present.

An amendment to the Defence of Canada Regulations, introduced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King and adopted in the House Friday, prohibits publication of, or reference in a public address to, any report of the secret meeting other than that issued by the speaker.

Reporters of the official Hansard will be excluded and no written record will be kept of the questions and answers on Canada's war effort to which the session is expected to be devoted.

During discussion on the secret session there was no indication how long it might last. Prime Minister Mackenzie King commented: "I hope it will not occupy an entire day, but I cannot say how long it will last. We will stay all the time that is necessary when the sitting actually takes place."

Provision for the secret session and regulations prohibiting publication of unauthorized reports follows generally that adopted in Great Britain.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

For Sunday, February 22

SUNDAY'S horoscope although favoring the conventional affairs of the day, heightening the mystical spiritual and deep consciousness, yet may be visited by sudden and devastating upheavals which may upset all plans and calculations. Progress may be impeded by the necessity to hearken to duty, to care for essential obligations and to retrench on funds and other resources.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year in which all progress and success depend upon the discreet, sagacious and well controlled conduct in times of upheaval, stress and unexpected situations of a devastating nature. Wild and tumultuous acts might prove disastrous, whereas shrewd, temperate, intuitive and cannily clever handling of untoward events should attract secret help from powerful if hidden sources.

A child born on this day should be well endowed with imagination, intuition, or other vague or mysterious forces.

For Monday, February 23

Monday's astrological forecast is a rather conflicting one, with much assurance of success, progress, adventure and gratification in both business and private affairs. In this, however, there may be opposition, antagonism or lack of support from superiors or employers. But travel, writings, finances, ambitious plans and projects are under excellent rule.

Those whose birthday it is, although possibly menaced by the want of cooperation or approval of some in high places, yet should have a very lively, eventful, prosperous and happy year.

A child born on this day should be particularly clever, versatile, cultured, with noble ideals and aspirations. It should have high social and public ambitions.

Fleet Tieup

Effects of the Naval Handicap.

The Japanese are reported to have employed six divisions in the campaign. At first sight it might seem that four divisions of defence should have sufficed to hold the invaders at a distance. But four divisions were not available at the start.

The primary cause of the disaster, however, was the unavoidable absence of the Fleet. The presence or even possible arrival of a powerful fleet would have made a full Japanese campaign impracticable.

If the Pearl Harbor coup had failed it is probable the Japanese would have been forced to concentrate their naval strength and diverted their preparations in Indo-China to purely land operations against the Burma Road. With the release of Japanese forces by the fall of Singapore the defences of Java and Burma have become the immediate and most pressing problems, but Australia is fully justified in her determination to prepare herself for all eventualities.

MacArthur's magnificent defence is playing a great part meanwhile in dissipating Japanese effort.

Rommel's Pause.

In Libya the 8th Army has been reorganized and, temporarily at least, appears to be standing on the defensive while harassing the enemy with mobile detachments and persistent air attacks on communications and concentrations. All this is a natural development of Auchinleck's policy since Rommel's counter-offensive.

There can be far greater speculation on Rommel's reasons for halting his advance and failing so far to seek a decisive action. Does he consider the 8th Army's position too strong to be attacked until he receives further reinforcements? That appears a doubtful reason, for delay in view of his losses consequent on air attacks and the probability that Auchinleck also is receiving reinforcements.

The remarkable success the R.A.F. achieved against the protective air screen of Rommel's tentative movements last week may be the cause of his hesitation.

It is possible the reinforcements Rommel received or had in sight before he counter-attacked were only sufficient to allow him to make a strong diversionary effort and that he never intended a serious attempt to invade Egypt. As a good General, he must have realized that his opponent had difficult communications and that he had the opportunity of striking before the capture of Halfaya had time to improve them. That he should have exploited his initial success to the utmost is only what might be expected of him.

Russia: Struggle for Key Points

In Russia the struggle is becoming a battle of attrition in which the Russians are sacrificing what they can best spare while forcing the Germans to expend what they can least afford.

The Germans are desperately anxious to retain the key points on their front and are using reserves freely in counter-attacks as is their accepted defensive policy. The Russians, by making maximum use of their cavalry and guerillas, are, on the other hand, employing these elements of their strength which are not only the most suitable to winter conditions but which will have the least value in the summer campaign. The continuance of attacks on German key points, however, tends to provide the more mobile forces with other useful objectives such as convoys and isolated detachments.

The capture of key points, especially those of Schusselberg and Rzhev, would, of course, be of immense importance, but the German defensive power should be appreciated.

That was this week's picture. Glancing back a quarter century to the week ended Feb. 21, 1917:

An assault by British troops along the River Ancre on Feb. 17 marked the beginning of an offensive that finally drove the Germans back to prepared positions on what became known as the Hindenburg line. From positions on both side of the Ancre British patrols and detachments worked forward and during February Serre, Miraumont, Warlen court, Pys, Gommecourt and other places fell to British and Australian troops.

ATTEND THE SERVICES IN YOUR CHURCH TO-MORROW

War-torn World Seeks Aid And Comfort from the Bible

By REV. E. R. JAMES

I looked and, behold, a door was opened in Heaven. Rev. 4;1.

In these terrible days many turn to the Book of Revelation of St. John the Divine for light upon these horrors. In simple child like faith they point to certain passages. Upon these they fix their hopes for victory over Hitler and all his evils. It was so in the days of Napoelon and other fearful periods. Such Christians do not realize that this Book received much criticism in the days of the early church and only found an accepted place in the New Testament Canon about the fourth century and then only through the influence of Athanasius, the eloquent Greek Father.

It is a book full of symbolism. It was written at a time when the Church was suffering fearful persecution by the Roman Emperor. It is an Apocalyptic writing; it claims to unfold the hidden things, which is the meaning of this strange word. As a whole the book is very difficult to interpret. But this passage is not hard. The writer had a vision of heaven. Do you ever have visions? "Where there is no vision the people perish" remarks the wise man in the Old Testament. If you have never had a vision you are poor indeed.

"I looked and, behold, a door was opened in heaven". The author is a Jew. He had been trained to believe in the One living God, Who was high above all things. He is the only God. It is important to remember that the Hebrew word for holy meant separation. The holy God, to the devout Jew, is the separated God. He is in heaven high above the earth. The Rabbis over emphasized this side of the truth so that the people found it impossible to believe that Jehovah would touch His people or that His people could touch Him. "In the fulness of time the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us. He came unto His own and His own received Him not" because of this over emphasis. We must learn to rightly divide the word of truth.

"Behold a throne was set in heaven and One sat on the throne". As a devout Jew he does not mention the Name of God. God is too holy for His Name to be taken upon the lips of a Jew. Modern scholars are not sure whether Jehovah or Jahveh is the correct pronunciation of the sacred Name because of this silence. The reverence for the Name of God is a needed lesson for today. Many people take His Name lightly upon their lips and they call themselves Christians. The reason is very clear. They have created a mental idol of God in their own image. He is good natured, easy going, like themselves. In the pronunciation of His Name they reveal their secret. The command to "Keep yourselves from idols" is a warning for every generation of Christians.

"Behold, a throne was set in Heaven." How natural it was for that Jew to see "a throne in heaven". From his boyhood he had been thrilled by the story of Isaiah's vision of the "Holy, Holy, Holy God, Whose throne was high and lifted up". In these awful days it is right and proper for Christians to remind themselves that "the Lord of Hosts sitteth above the water floods be the people never so unquiet." Only the Christian can lift up his head in the day of storm and stand firm and unshaken because he stands in the Presence of God Almighty. We are passing through dark days. Mr. Churchill, the Prime Minister of Britain, has just spoken and announced the fall of Singapore. It is a great disaster, he says. But this ancient Scripture will come to your mind: "He will not be afraid of any evil tidings because his heart standeth fast and believeth in the Lord." Let us be strong and very courageous in this hour of peril and pray still more earnestly.

"Behold, a door was opened in heaven." The writer is both a Jew and a Christian. When the door is shut it separates those within from those without. The opened door stands for entrance, going out and coming in. The opened door in heaven reveals the tremendous truth—the Good News—that God has come down out of heaven. "Jesus Christ, the only begotten Son of God, for us men and for our salvation came down from heaven, and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary, and was made Man". This is the fundamental truth of the Christian religion. Through Jesus Christ God has touched men and men through Jesus Christ can touch God.

I am the door, by Me if any man enter in He will be saved.

The Golden Text

Jesus appoints the twelve.

"Even so let your light shine before men; that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven." —Matt. 5:16.

Spiritual Irresponsibility

There are a great many people who count themselves Christians, but who never go inside a church. They declare that they can be as good Christians outside the church as others can be who are inside. For purposes of comparison they usually choose some church member who is obviously remiss in his Christian duty in ordinary life. They think of themselves as Christians who just do not happen to be interested in organized religion. But do they consider what would happen were all to follow their example? How much easier and simpler and cheaper it would be had no one to bother about the preservation of a Church. But let there be no longer any institution charged with the duty of keeping alive a knowledge of Christian truth, let there be no definite organization committed to Christian principles and actively interested in putting theme into force in the community, and it would not be long until all knowledge of what it means to be Christian would fade out of the minds of men. It can be seen to-day how quickly other creeds and ways of life press in and blot out all higher impulses. It is because through the ages some men have accepted responsibility for the keeping alive of a church that Christianity has persisted in the world.

Those who think they can be Christians without accepting such responsibility are really spiritual hitch-hikers. They want all the benefits of life in a Christian community for themselves and for their children without any of the trouble of maintaining the church out of which flow the influences which make a community Christian.

Jesus Names His Disciples Commences To Teach Them

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 22 is Mark 3:13-19; Matt. 5-7; Luke 6:12-49, the Golden Text being Matt. 5:16, "Even so let your light shine before men; that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven.")

After healing multitudes, Jesus went to a mountain alone and communed with His Father all night. When morning came His disciples came to Him and He chose 12 of them to be constantly with Him and to do His work after Him. He chose Simon, whom He surnamed Peter, and James, son of Zebedee and John, his brother; Andrew and Philip, Bartholomew, and Matthew, Thomas and James, son of Alphaeus, Thaddeus and Simon the Cananite; and Judas Iscariot, who was His betrayer.

The multitudes followed Him there also, and seeing them Jesus went up into a mountain and taught, saying:

"Blessed are the poor in spirit; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

"Blessed are they that mourn; for they shall be comforted.

"Blessed are the meek; for they shall inherit the earth.

"Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness; for they shall be filled.

"Blessed are the merciful; for they shall obtain mercy.

"Blessed are the pure in heart; for they shall see God.

"Blessed are the peace makers; for they shall be called the children of God.

"Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness sake; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven."

Blest Are Happy

To be blessed is to be happy, to be prosperous, not in the worldly sense, but in the true sense. Nothing is more satisfying than to feel blest. The "poor in spirit," not weak spirited, lacking in proper spirit, but those who are needy, shall gain the kingdom of heaven. Those who mourn shall be comforted; the meek and lowly shall be the ones to inherit the earth; they who are hungry for the right, shall be filled. The merciful shall obtain mercy for themselves; the pure in heart shall have the joy of seeing God; and the peace makers shall be called the children of God. Those who suffer for the sake of right, will inherit the kingdom of heaven.

All through our lesson today we are told what our conduct and thoughts should be, whatever the circumstances of our lives. To be truly "blest," we should not merely obey the laws laid down by Moses for the guidance of his people, as the Pharisees did, but obey the good impulses of our hearts no matter what happens to us. This is what Jesus taught His apostles and the multitudes who came to listen to Him.

Not to destroy the law, Jesus said He came into the world, but to give finer, inner laws which, if obeyed, would save the world forever. It is no easy task He sets us who try to follow Him. Even the best Christians find it hard to do, but they keep on trying.

The law stated that we should not kill, but Jesus said that whosoever is even angry with his brother without cause, shall be in danger of judgment. Don't go to church expecting to be helped if you have a grudge against a brother or friend. First go and be reconciled to your brother, and then whatever gift you bring to the altar will be acceptable.

Love, Not Hate

A new law He gave: "Ye have heard it said Thou shalt love thy neighbor and hate thine enemy. But I say unto you. Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that despitefully use you, and persecute you."

From practical experience we know that hating people usually comes from misunderstanding them. If we do our part to understand and do what we can for them, lovingly, we are almost sure to overcome their anger and find we can be friends.

In this remarkable sermon, Jesus taught His disciples how to pray, according to Matthew. He gave them what we call the Lord's prayer, and warned them not to pray like the hypocrites, standing in public places so that everyone could hear them and think how religious they were, but pray to God the Father in secret.

"Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and thieves break through and steal. But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven . . . for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

"Judge not, that we be not judged," is another admonition of the Savior which is difficult for us to remember and to practice.

Gambling?

Here are some of the questions young people ask about gambling: What is gambling? Why is it wrong? What harm is there is taking money from others if they are willing to lose it? Is there not a great deal of chance in business?

How would you reply to a man who says that when he spends $1.00 on a lottery ticket, it is spent on purchasing "thrill, expectation, hope, and excitement," which are very desirable thing in a drab life?

Are raffles and guessing competitions in church bazaars consistent with the true Christian ideal

However much we object to betting, do not hospital sweepstakes come under a different category? Does betting benefit sport? What is the totalisator?

These and other questions will be dealt with in the address at St. Andrew's church on next Sunday night.

APSLEY, Feb. 21—(ENS).—The annual meeting of the St. George's Guild was held in the rectory with seven members present. A short business meeting was held before the election of officers. Mrs. Cathcart, treasurer, presented the yearly financial report which showed a balance of about $8. It was decided that the Guild would pay the $5 for repairs on the east window in St. George's Church. It was also decided to send two boxes to boys overseas. Rev. Cathcart took the chair for the election of officers as follows:

President, Mrs. J. Downing; vice-president, Mrs. J. McColl; secretary, Mrs. T. H. Lean; assistant, Miss Irene McOmyle; treasurer, Mrs. Cathcart.

Voices Are Calling From The Far-Flung Battle Zones

There are many sound reasons why every person who has grown beyond childhood should subscribe for a Victory Bond—or several of them. The first is, of course, that the Government urgently needs $600,000,000, needs it to help in the grim conflict against the Huns, the Italians and the Japs. The second—and this should strike one even if the patriotic impulse is low, as it is sometimes known to be, unfortunately—the second is that it is a good investment.

That is the fact which should get on the inside of one's head and stay there. Everybody naturally wants to make money. Everybody who is at all wise, likes to have a little tucked away for a "nest egg." All kinds of propositions are put up to every one of us, sometime or another, to take a share in this, buy a chance on that, put "your dough on a sure thing" and all that kind of hoped-for big return. Experience generally leaves us poorer but wiser. Still the human trait is to go on looking for another rainbow in the sky.

A Victory Bond—$50, $100, $5,000 or whatever it may be—is a "sure thing" without any of the doubts that keep you awake at night after your money is handed over on many other schemes. It is sure because all the wealth and credit of the vast Dominion of Canada is the security attached to that bond. If there is anything worth banking on at all it certainly is the official stamp on that bond when it comes over to you. Other things may fail, however good their outlook may be, but unless the enemy gets over here and takes possession of this country, in which case we won't be asked for our cash, it will simply be taken—unless that misfortunate ruins our future, Canada's promise to pay is as inviolate as anything possibly can be.

But more than that, the investment brings interest from the time it is made. True, one can't get the principle back tomorrow or the next day after, but there is provision by which borrowing may be made against the bond if after a while one needs some cash badly. If such a loan isn't ever necessary, the feeling that after the war is over you have a healthy bond to your credit, is a feeling that gives strength and confidence.

It hasn't passed from the memory of any of us, no doubt, how black the skies were after the crash of 1929-30, how hopeless things appeared to thousands of men who had to be laid off from industries, shops, stores, offices and so on. Unemployment began to spread like a virulent disease. The bread line, relief—but we should never have to recall those gloomy days again. Supposing, however, that during the period of readjustment after the conflict ceases there should be bad economic weather, every dollar put away now will keep the wolf from the door then.

In Peterborough and district conditions are pretty prosperous. Money is in circulation. Thousands are working and earning considerable every week. The average business is making money for its operator. Deposits are going into banks and trust companies, and quite rightly so. All that is proof of what can be accomplished by the city and the the country surrounding it if people make up their minds to put the quota here right up to the top. It can be done. The weather has been bad humored the past few days. That has interfered with getting about easily, particularly in the rural sections, but war is war. Battles don't wait for fine, pleasant days.

Every hour of every day and week and month there are men dying and being injured to save us who are living comfortably here at home. Surely the very least we can do is provide those who fight with required guns and tanks and airplanes and munitions. That's what the boys in the welter and carnage are calling for. Let us as citizens roll up our share of the Victory Loan and send them what they implore us to send. Your son or your neighbor's son may be one of the gallant defenders of this country. Don't fail him!

An Industrial Revolution

The fact that there are now over a million women volunteers working in war industries throughout Great Britain and that as many more could be used, is indicative of a social revolution there. Inevitably, this development of feminine labor on such an extensive scale will carry over into social, economic and political affairs after the war is over.

The participation of so many girls and women in the sterner jobs, such as the production of war equipment, munitions and supplies, would have been thought, a few years back, an utter impossibility. Anyone who would have suggested such a sudden change from an age-old order of things would have been regarded as a fictionist, yet the condition is here—definitely here! A vast army has moved out of the domestic sphere to which they were born and to which other millions of their sex were born during the centuries before them—they have literally moved out and into the places that youths and men ordinarily would have filled.

Not only have they gone to work in the ranks of machinists, electricians, molders, die makers, welders and countless other skilled artisans, but they have gone with training received at Government schools. They have a knowledge of skilled trades never before accessible to them. They are in the war-time ranks. The question is whether they will want to go back to their former way of living when the urgent necessity for organized physical power is over and peace returns. It is a question which no person can answer at present, but it is something for all who are interested in sociological trends to ponder.

Legislative Mathematics

Members of the Ontario Legislature, after being in Toronto for a week to attend a session, have reecived each a cheque for $1,000. This is one-half of their sessional indemnity. The other half will be paid after the House is called together again about the middle of March—if the budget can then get busy and budget.

It will not be easy for many ordinary citizens who "don't know all the answers" and have to content themselves with the ordinary ways of earning money—it won't be easy for them to reason this all out with anything like the ready flow of explanation which a member can use. After all he has qualifications as an orator. It looks like a lot of real specie of the realm, that robust thousand and the slow of wit will insist on asking questions why more than a hundred dollars a day should march right out of the Provincial Treasury and into the wallet of men who not much more than got their belongings unpacked in hotel or boarding house.

But, then, things are not always what they seem, so it is necessary to weigh the evidence as the legislators view it. The Premier says the old practice of paying at intervals at the rate of $20 a day and then cleaning up the balance when a session ends—that is a bit out of date. A change has to be made and he believes one is to be made at Ottawa, too, so that the M.P.'s there will draw most of their Parliamentary salaries (that is not the right word. Really it is "indemnity" but the other slipped off the pen in a hurry, so let it stand)—by which, we repeat, they will draw most of their legislative salary before the session ends.

Well, that is one matter on which there seems to be no controversy between the two governments. No heated charges, accusations and denials whatever are exchanged by Capital Hill and Queens' Park, and yet it's an argument over finances that has caused these ninety representatives of Ontario's constituencies to be rendered idle so far as "Mister Speaker" and "Bill Number—" and page boys are concerned.

However, the future may even the indemnity score at Toronto by making the members attend for as long as three or four weeks the next time they are summoned to sittings and to be present at party caucuses.

In that case by a simple exercise in mathematics, it can be figured out how much of the hard-worked second thousand will be able to screw up its nose and make faces at the first easy-going ten hundred.

Geography For The Young

What a rare opportunity young people have these days to become familiar with the geography of the world. Almost every country on the face of the globe is involved in the war, directly or indirectly, and as a consequence names of places in North and South America, Europe, South and North Africa, Asia, Australasia and the Orient are appearing from time to time in the press and are spoken over the radio. Distance seems to have been eliminated.

Indeed there is so much going on in the great conflict and so many are the shifting scenes of armies, navies and air forces that perhaps the mind may be surfeited with the news unless one pins a map up on the wall and refers to it constantly. But what a rare chance teachers have today to acquaint students with one of the most stupendous dramas of all history!

Supposing every instructor in the advanced grades of public schools and in the secondary schools were each week to make a drawing on the blackboard of this country or that, of one ocean, sea, battle zone, naval base or important island—supposing this were done and then a short explanatory talk were given, what an invaluable and enduring education that would be. The fact is, no doubt, that there is no vacant period in the academic time-table to permit of this innovation, but the old saying still holds true that where there's a will there's a way.

A young generation—scores of thousands of boys and girls—is growing up in the midst of a titanic struggle. It is much more vital to them that they should learn of what it all means than it is for them to be fed on the ancient stuff belonging to past, dead centuries. Here, sounding in their very ears, crowding regularly before their eyes, are Chungking, Malaya, Java, Sumatra, Bataan Peninsula, Oslo, Smolensk, Savastapol, Tobruk, Iran, Celebes, Azores, Australia—an endless number of names all of which have some significance for Canada.

Yes, there is a rare field open for intelligent exploration. School Boards might well spend a little money and see that a map is put up in every classroom as an incentive to teachers and students alike to make geography alive by relating it to what is topical, what is happening today and what concerns the civilization of this decade. It would be possible in this way for young people between now and the summer holidays to acquire a marvellous knowledge of the planet in which they dwell.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Newspaper heading says: Retailers Said To Be Playing Ball On Prices Law. Guess there won't be any need for the old corner lot then, this summer.

Wool Tops Push Up, says heading on commercial page. Why should they be in such a hurry about spring and get ahead of the crocus and tulips in that way?

It is said that men are starting a "run" on suits because of a scare that clothing may be hard to obtain. Well it was the silk stockings that had the "run" for years, so the masculine sex are now getting a chance.

Malta is still enduring enemy air raids yet the civil population continues to go about its every-day activities. Apparently the people have unconsciously been impregnated with some of the rock that makes the island itself so impervious to attack and so defiant of the breakers of the Mediterranean.

Finding a team of horses outside the city tied in a church shed for more than a day without food or water, the Humane Society took proper action to relieve the animals from their plight and to investigate the case. It is fortunate an organization of this kind exists, for there are too many people who are so stony-hearted that they care nothing whatever about the sufferings of beasts.

Those Women's Institute members up Burlington way are likely to have a deputation of maple trees wait on them in protest. They have dug up an old recipe, apparently, which tells how to make maple syrup (of the substitute kind) from potato peelings. When these peelings are boiled with a little brown sugar and water they will produce, it is said a very palatable syrup with a delectable maple flavor. (And if enough sand happens to get in, too, it will give a wild, exotic value!)

THE SOLDIER OF THE SKY

Ancient wariors would have envied you
Your battlefield of clean, untrampled blue,
Your power to swoop down like a giant bird
Anywhere the foe is seen or heard;
To soar again and rest in cloud-wrapped heights,
Charting your course for more death-dealing flights—
Never confined, constantly changing place,
The restful winds forever in your face.
Give thanks, soldier, since there must be wars,
For a matchless fighting field among the stars.

Eye Witness Tells Of Agony Greece Suffers

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

DURING the past year or so a great number of books have been written by war correspondents who are now in the U.S., having returned from Europe. Naturally these books are subject to a large measure of public suspicion. Why are they written? Is it because the reporter has lost his job in Europe, and has decided to turn an honest penny by writing of what he saw there before he was forced to get out? If so, has he anything to say which he has not already said in his newspaper dispatches? Is his book anything more than a catchpenny, sensation-mongering account of horrors, and a rehash of press-bureau gossip? Certainly some of the books which have appeared recently were all of these things. The boys who returned to the land of the free and the home of the brave a year ago have already done much to spoil the market for those whose books are appearing now. The public is becoming more chary of spending anything up to five dollars in order to read what it already knows.

War correspondents are chosen for durability first, and for literary achievement and knowledge of the history of Europe second. If a reporter is to stand the rigorous life of a correspondent in modern war he must be young, resourceful and adventurous. Youth and the spirit of adventure produce magnificent dispatches from the scene of action, but they are not the material of great books. If a man is going to write anything of value about the death-agony of a nation he should first of all know how to write, and in addition he should know his nation intimately, both as it is now, and as it has been in the past. Few correspondents have this sort of equipment. They sometimes confess blithely in their pages that they know little or nothing of the language of the country which they have been 'covering,' and their lack of information about its history is usually apparent. A great reporter may be a very poor author, and the story which is wired from the scene of action may turn into sheer nonsense when it is worked over and published as a chapter in a book.

The best book which has been written by a war correspondent in some months is "From the Land of the Silent People," by Robert St. John, who was Associated Press representative in Belgrade until Yugoslavia was overpowered by the Nazis. St. John is older than most foreign correspondents, and his experiences in Europe were not his introduction to the seamy side of life. He served in the U.S. army during the first Great War, and since that time he has worked as a peace-time reporter and as an editor. He has suffered at the hands of Al Capone's gang because of his exposure of Capone's operations, and he has spent some of his time in the peaceful, though strenuous, pursuit of chicken-farming. It is clear from his book that he is a man of considerable personal integrity, experience of life, and philosophy; his book, therefore deserves careful attention.

In a sense, it is an unpretentious book. Mr. St. John does not attempt to tell us why Yugoslavia fell, or why Greece fell, or to fix blame on any nation or group of persons. He is content merely to tell us what he saw, during the last bitter days of Yugoslavia, Greece, and Crete. Much of the book is highly personal, but that is excusable, for he was in the thick of the action, and saw as much as one man could see. He communicates his emotions to us with startling vividness, and in this the chief value of his book lies. He makes us feel what he felt, and see what he saw. The experience is salutary. We on this continent know, in a pale and intellectual way, that we are at war with an utterly ruthless enemy, but we have no clear idea of what that ruthlessness involves. That is what Robert St. John tells us, in great detail. It is good that we should know, and, though the book is unpleasant reading at times, it is better for us to learn them through bitter experience.

The story begins in Belgrade, at the time when the Yugoslav government, under the gypsy premier Cvetkovitch, sold out to the Nazis, as Rumania had done. Then comes the story of the Diaper Revolution, when the children of Belgrade locked themselves in their schools and there scribbled anti-German pamphlets and threw them into the streets. These children dared to say what their parents said in private, and their resistance provoked the overthrow of the weak-spined government, and the acceptance by the people of the military coup d'etat. And so Yugoslavia made hasty preparations to meet the Nazi panzer divisions with what St. John calls an "ox-cart army," an army of men who were used to fighting with rifles, moving only as fast as men could march or ride on donkeys. The story of Yugoslavia's heroic resistance is familiar to us. Did we not watch it from our place of safety, glorying vicariously in their desperate onslaughts, hoping against all reason that they might succeed where others had failed? But Robert St. John tells us of the agony of that county, and then of the flight of the refugees (himself and his fellow-correspondents among them) to Greece. Greece, where rumor and 'unofficial statements' had told of the vast British reinforcements which would come to the air of Yugoslavia! From Greece, he escaped to Crete to Cairo and there his story stops.

Robert St. John writes in a rushing pell-mell manner which is well suited to the tale of blood and agony which he has to tell. He is no man of letters, even when he tries to be. He misquotes the last words of Christ, and wrongly places them in the prayer at Bethsemane, and his style will never win him the Nobel Prize. But he realizes his limitations, and devotes himself in the greater part of his book, to telling us of what he has seen, leaving us to draw our own inferences. The inferences are not likely to be anything but clear and unpleasant.

THE NEW TASKMASTER

• After Quick Java Kill

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 —(AP)— There is fresh evidence from many quarters that Japan is concentrating land, air and sea forces against the Java outpost for a quick kill before Anglo-American help for its Netherlands defenders can become effective.

About that central redoubt of United Nation defense, already half encircled from west to east, an expanding cordon is being woven. From tiny Bali Island, just a mile off the eastern tip of Java, to Sumatra, a score of miles off its western extremity, the pattern is practically complete.

Between them to the north the Japanese have gained menacing footholds on Borneo and Celebes within bomber range of Java. They have also seized bases on islands of the Lower Celebes and Banda Sea archipelagos. Tokyo claims landings even on Netherlands-Portuguese Timor opposite bombed Darwin. In Japanese hands that would gravely imperil even the short route from the Pacific via Torres Strait to the south coast of Java.

EFFECT OF DARWIN RAID

It still is difficult to see in these fast-paced developments a prologue for an attempted invasion of Australia. The possibility of that cannot be dismissed; but Java is clearly indicated as the objective of a strangling encirclement, then headlong multiple assaults by sea and air.

Nor does prolonged Australian silence as to damage actually wrought by Japanese bombs at Darwin lighten the picture. The toll of casualties in ships, planes and personnel as well as harbor installations in what still seems an effective enemy surprise attack could strongly affect the coming battle of Java.

London now contributes its conclusion that intensified Nazi submarine operations in the Atlantic are closely linked with events in the far Pacific. The pick of Nazi U-boat skippers are said to be in command of the long-range undersea boats haunting American waters and preying primarily on Anglo-American oil supply lines.

That the German submarine campaign is designed in part to prevent American reinforcements of naval and air power in the Pacific is hardly to be doubted. Until this Nazi campaign is brought under control, it also must limit the extent to which Britain can shift warships or planes either to the Pacific or the Mediterranean.

BIG MOVES IN APRIL

London expresses the belief that the Atlantic submarine campaign was forced upon Hitler by Japanese demand two months ahead of the date scheduled by Berlin. If that is true it might indicate that Tokyo could already foresee before Singapore fell its inability to muster sufficient striking power against the Indies without effective and quick Nazi help.

April has been a red-letter war month time out of mind. It is the opening of the war season so far as weather is concerned on most battlefronts of this war. London reports that Hitler had scheduled his bigger-and-better U-boat campaign in the Atlantic to open in April. That also seems the most likely month for a Nazi attempt to resume the offensive in Southern Russia and the Crimea in earch of oil.

April, late April, has been much talked of around Washington unofficially as the probable earliest date by which American aid or other reinforcements for the United Nation front in the far Pacific could reach important proportions. It seems a logical conclusion in view of all circumstances and must necessarily have occurred to the Japanese High Command.

It is therefore just as logical to assume that Japanese strategy, whether aimed at Java or at Australia as the next conquest goal, is based on anticipating a probable April delivery date for American reinforcements in strength at either place.

POST-WAR ECONOMIC

NO country ever did, and no country ever can, enter a war with a guaranteed, gold-edged, warranted blueprint in hand of just what life is going to be like after the peace.

War on the modern scale is a tremendous, all-out effort which so deeply scars and marks national life, that no country can undergo it and emerge unchanged. Change we cannot prevent—all we can do is to influence to some extent the direction of the changes. Unless the war is won, it is not too much to say that democratic countries have no future at all. So winning the war comes first.

That does not mean that we should meet the peace without a thought of what is to be done then. Unpreparedness at that point might be disastrous. Many minds are at work on this phase of "preparedness." Five detailed studies have just been made of the prospect by five Americans, and to a remarkable extent they all agree on the general lines of what we shall face when peace returns.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

Montreal After City's First Memorial Cup

MONTREAL, Feb. 21 — (CP). — The "nibble" that dapper Lorne White had last year when his Montreal Royals came close to lifting the Memorial Cup whetted his appetite. And this season he'd like to take "a good bite" and bring Montreal the first Canadian junior hockey title in its history.

"Royals of last season were good enough to force Winnipeg Rangers to the seven-game limit before they bowed out in the Memorial Cup final," says White. "And this season we have a bigger club and a better balanced one. On the whole I'd say that it shades our last year's team just a bit."

The club has showed its power by winning 11 and tying one in 12 league agmes. And Left Winger Jimmy Planche, a holdover from last season's team, set a new Quebec Junior Hockey Association scoring record.

Planche, big, fast and possessed of a hard shot fired home 17 goals in the 12 games and marked up 10 assists.

White figures that his team was not stocked heavily enough last season to bear up under a number of injuries that struck the club just prior to and during the Memorial Cup final. And he isn't taking any chances this year.

"We've been carrying 17 players all season and they are all good men," he says. "I've got five defencemen this year, so I won't be forced to put a forward back on defence like I had to one time during last year's final."

Three of this year's club—Planche, left winger Eddie Emberg, and right winger Bert Shepherd—have been placed on the negotiation list of Montreal's National Hockey League Canadiens.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP).—Natie Brown, heavyweight boxer who once stayed the limit in a 10-round bout with Champion Joe Louis, broke down and cried yesterday before he was sentenced to serve from 16 months to four years for robbery.

"The strongest punch in the world can never hurt me like that," Brown told Justice T. Alan Goldsborough, after relating that he lost his friends, his wife and family because of the crime.

Brown had pleaded guilty to being a leader in a $3,233 payroll robbery of the Valley Forge Distributing Company, where he had worked, last August 2. Sam Greenstein and Harry Roth, confederates, were sentenced to serve one to three years each.

The fighter, the court was told, was not present when a payroll messenger was robbed, but he had told Greenstein and Roth how the money was handled. Greenstin and Roth said Brown got most of the money, but denied receiving any of it.

Cobourg, Lindsay, Port Hope, PCI Win Basketball Tourney Games

The big Interscholastic Girls' Basketball tournament to determine junior and senior Lakeshore League winners and representatives into C.O.S.S.A. playdowns, got off to a gala start at P.C.V.S. Friday night. Probably the largest crowd in P.C.I's basketball history jammed the gallery to watch representative teams from Cobourg, Bowmanville, Port Hope, Lindsay and P.C.I. battle it out in the junior and senior Lakeshore championship tournaments. Four games were played last night, two junior and two senior and in each group one team drew a bye, Bowmanville in the junior series and Port Hope in the senior section. The balance of the games will be played over at P.C.I. today, with the teams who were idle last night also swinging into action.

P.C.I.'s two teams both played and they split even, the juniors bowing to Cobourg 6-2 and the Garnet and Grey seniors upsetting the highly-rated Bowmanville team 16-8. Lindsay juniors turned in the most convincing decision of the night by drubing Port Hope 31-11 while Lindsay won the remaining senior contest over Cobourg 15-12 in the closest decision of the opening round.

P.C.I.'s junior hopes were weakened when the younger edition of the Garnet and Gray fell to Cobourg 6-2. They led 2-0 at the half on J. Patterson's field goal but were held scoreless in the second half while Lindsay scored six points to win out. P.C.I. battled hard all the way but missed too many of the scoring chances awarded them. L. Hillier was the star for Lindsay in this game with four points and A. Smith also played well. J. Patterson and B. Pringle were the pick of P.C.I. with the whole team trying hard.

P.C.I.'s senior team took an early lead over Bowmanville, who it is understood, were undefeated in a number of exhibition games, and won handily 16-5. The homesters led 6-3 at the half-way mark and were never in danger as they found their shooting eye in the last period and moved out further in front. B. Dobbin with 11 points was top scorer for P.C.I. and H. Miller, B. Castle and S. Mortimer also played well. H. Wight was best for the opposition scoring six of her team's eight points. The teams:

Lindsay Seniors 15—N. Webb (2), W. Carley (7), C. Carew, G. Tyner (4), R. Williamson (2), M. Stinson, G. Pogue, D. McFarquhar, A. Burke, W. Barkwell.

Falls Weavers Shake Saints 4-2

TORONTO, Feb. 21 (CP)—Niagara Falls Weavers are one game away from the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" finals today as a result of their 4-2 victory over St. Catharines Saints at the Falls last night. In the other half of the playoff picture Marlboros defeated Hamilton Majors 7-2 at Toronto to tie up their series at two games apiece. All four teams are competing in a best-of-seven games playoff.

The series continues Monday night with games scheduled for Hamilton and St. Catharines.

In the match at Niagara Falls Hal Cooper scored three of his teams goals while Ed Young got the other. Paul Mundrick and Red Goble tallied for the Saints.

Whitey Farrant was the No. 1 man in the scoring picture at Toronto scoring four of his team's seven markers. Jim McKelvie, Gaye Stewart and Eddie Shamlock were other scorers for Marlboros. Dillon Brady scored both Hamilton goals.

Both games drew excellent crowds with some 3,000 spectators witnessing the battle at Niagara Falls. The Niagara team came from behind after Mundrick had put the Saints ahead early in the first period. Young evened the score at 7.40 in the first frame. Cooper made it 2-1 less than two minutes later. St. Catharines tied it up during the same period, but the Weavers got another goal in each of the remaining sessions to take a stranglehold on the total series.

At Toronto Eddie Powers' Marlboros put on their power plays before an estimated crowd of 3,000 fans. The ace Marlboro line of Farrant, Stewart and Grigor put on a sensational show to collect 12 points between them.

Sydney Folds Up Asks Pair Be Suspended

SYDNEY, N.S., Feb. 21—(CP). — Unusually placid for weeks, the Cape Breton Hockey League reverted to form Friday as Sydney Millionaires closed up shop with the schedule still unfinished and promptly asked the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to suspend two of their players on grounds of misconduct.

Withdrawal of last year's Allan Cup finalists came a day after they had been eliminated from the playoff race. It left in the league only the leading Glace Bay Miners and North Sydney Victorias, and it was expected the remaining few schedule games would be cancelled after last night's Glace Bay-North Sydney clash.

Millionaires, in a telegram to C.A.H.A. officials requested the indefinite suspension of Wilfred (Dinny) McManus, goalie, from Perth, Ont., and Jimmie Wilson, centre, from Saskatoon. No reasons for the request were made public.

Nor was any reason for the team's disbanding announced. However, Millionaires had only an academic interest in the league. None of the remaining games on the schedule could affect the standing of any of the teams.

As the Millionaires folded, four of their players went to other berths. Defenceman George Boothman and Left Winger Lude Check joined Victorias for the playoffs under military transfer regulations.

Defenceman Ray Powell and Right Winger Cliff Roach hurried to New Glasgow, N.S., to line up with Volcanoes of that town in their Antigonish-Pictou-Colchester League final playoff series with Truro Bearcats.

Benedicts Trounce Bachelors 6-2

The Peterborough Canoe Company's two fast teams invaded Lakefield Thursday night to stage a game that would thrill the sport scribes. The married men's team came out on top with a 6 to 2 verdict over the bachelors.

The game was a fast, rugged encounter all the way and Referee Frank Gillespie had his hands full, parting the contestants, handling the job like a veteran.

The first stanaza was fast, the single men took the play to the married men's blue line but couldn't pass the disc past "Slippery" Joe Bullied, who was guarding the nets.

Many potential stars were discovered, the good playing of "Bun" Thompson and the "Flying Irishman" Clancey were helpful to both teams. Ken Greer, of the single men, played a stellar game, also J. Killingbeck, the net guardian for the single men, who stated that there was no shortage of rubber around his net. Johnson and Richardson on defence for the married daddies were like a stone wall to the single lads, while Miller, Mongraw and Wildman were dangerous at all times. Walker played a great game and was on the score sheet once.

Dangerous rushes by Brinklow, Simmons and Baldock and Gordon for the single men kept the opposing defence busy.

Fred Bullied starred in many places mostly on the boards. The third canto started the married lads to blitz the single men's net and shove the score up. The single men expect to stage a surprise in the next game, which will be again staged in the northern village.

Married Men: Goal, Joe Bullied; defence, J. Johnson, J. Richardson, "Tiger" Mongraw, D. Paul; forwards, W. Miller, G. Shine, W. Walker, B. Wildman, B. Ellis, G. Woods, T. Bullied; centre, Thompson.

Single Men: Goal, Jerry Killingbeck; defence, C. Brinklow, H. Coombs, Ed. Simmons, H. Gordon; forwards, J. Baldock, R. Greer, Bristow, L. Towns; centre, F. Clancey.

Gal Sport Disher Gives Ball Camps A Jolt

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21—(AP)—Jeane Hofmann, tall, blond and comely, bustled into the office of the National Baseball League's Phils, asked for a club roster, and to the astonished manager John (Hans) Lobert, said gaily:

"See you in camp."

"Well," mused Old-timer Lobert, rubbing his chin. "A gal sportswriter coming to my training camp."

Jeane's trip to the Phils' office started her new assignment as baseball writer-cartoonist for the Evening Bulletin, and on February 28 she hops a rattler for Florida, the first gal to tour the majors' spring camps as a straight-away sports writer.

There'll be no "woman's angle" to her pieces about the Yankees and Cardinals from St. Petersburg, Cincinnati Reds from Tampa and the Phils from Miami Beach, says Jeane.

As the only variation from the traditional account of who won she plans a series of stories on the brighter side of a ballplayer's life away from the diamond and the dressing-room.

"Something like a piece on who is the best pinball player on the club," she said.

Athletes are old stuff to the 22-year-old Jeane. Fresh from Los Angeles High School, she cartooned and wrote Pacific Coast League baseball, hockey, football and wrestling for the Hollywood Citizen-News. She designed the poster for the 1940 Rose Bowl football game, then came East to take a crack at big league baseball.

Jeane had one request of the Phils' boss:

"Let me pitch a little down there; I used to have a pretty good side-arm delivery."

"Okay," said Lobert dubiously. "It's a deal—if the boys keep their minds on their work."

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

Here is the final standing of the men's schedule groups after the results of last night's games had been recorded:

Group A—J. Harkness 9 wins, 1 loss.

Group B—E. Thomas 8 wins, 2 losses, W. Pratten 8 wins, 2 losses—Tied.

Group C—R. Williamson 7 wins, 3 losses.

Group D—J. Richmond, 8 wins, 2 losses.

It has been many a long day since so much depended on the results of one night's play.

In Group A Jim Harkness and Harry White were fighting it out for top honors, with the secretary coming out on top after playing, we believe, the finest game in his long career. It mattered not how the situation was, he was there always. All the boys played well and it was not until the game was well on that the issue was settled.

On the next ice Ross Williamson who has skipped the Wall rink nearly all winter, came through with a nice win over L. Magnus, and by so doing cinches the Group C. honors.

On Ice No. 5 W. A. Pratten and D. Grant were fighting it out. Mr. Pratten needed the win very badly to stay in the running and up until the 10th end the result was very much in doubt. That wild pitch of the hardware merchant on that end settled all doubts.

And as curling goes the group honors will be all new rinks Not one of last year's winners repeated this year.

You still have time to make your entry for the Neill Trophy competition. The first draw is set for 6.45 Monday evening. Please be on time

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

It's a new series for the senior B group championship. Whitby Palm Billiards evened up the round last night on their home ice when they just managed to nose out the Petes 5 goals to 4 in a thrilling, rough battle that saw the Soldiers come from far behind to take almost complete command for the last 30 minutes. How they failed to go on and win on the percentage of openings they had in the final stages of the engagement, few who saw the game could understand. Of course, fine goal-kepeing by Peg Hurst was one reason but even his work, good as it was, should not have prevented the group leaders from cashing in on enough openings to have pulled the game out of the fire. Anyway the series is even-Stephen and now the third game billed for Brock St. Rink on Monday night assumes tremendous importance. It may be the payoff game of the series which has now shrunk to a best two-out-of-three affair. Monday night's winner will only have to break even on the next two fixtures to take it all.

* * * * * *

It will be the most exciting game of the season. Whitby, with their full retinue of Oshawa stars in line will make a real effort to get the jump on the Petes by a win here while of course the Soldiers are just as determined to pull off a victory and take the lead in the series again. There will be plenty of action for after a rough and fighting game at Whitby last night both outfits are hot under the collar. Bad feeling crept into the series for the first time last night and there was a lot of hooking, high-sticking and slashing. Several times it looked as if a general donnybrook would break out and the off-color refereeing of Bert McCaffery added fuel to the flames. All in all Monday's battle looks like the classic of the campaign and Brock St. Rink is sure to be jammed to the roof for a hectic tussle between two fast teams.

* * * * * *

Peterborough's comeback after being down four goals showed a fighting spirit that should carry them through to final victory in the series. They did not get a break around the nets all night and after climbing up almost on even terms after a bad start had the tough luck to be finally beaten on a long shot wide of the net that was deflected into the cage after it had hit Don Crowe. Bun Kingdon, in on all four Peterborough goals sparked the Peterborough attack all the way and Honey Tompkins came on in the latter stages and was a standout after a slow start. Jerry Cooper looked like the pick of the Oshawa crowd, although he faded like all the rest of them in the last period. Doc Dafoe shared honors with him in the goal-getting department, each of them accounting for two. Covert who failed to get a goal here was not any more successful in last night's game, although he did manage to pick up one assist on the night's doings.

* * * * * *

They Didn't Like Him

This column hasn't been doing much talking about referees but we must place ourselves on record as agreeing with Ken Colling that Bert McCaffery's work lacks a certain something. The Petes did not like his officiating last night. They questioned his ruling on a number of breakaways that from the side lines looked perfectly legitimate, and some of his penalties did not meet with approval either. Just what they thought of him is illustrated by the fact that both Johnny Godfrey and Art Heal protested so vigorously in the last period that both of them drew ten-minute misconduct penalties, a new experience for the Peterborough squad. McCaffery missed a few things, too, and in that respect Whitby got none the worst of it. The Peterborough club is asking the O.H.A. not to assign the Toronto man to any more games in which the Petes are involved.

* * * * * *

More than usual attention will be turned on the Brooklyn Amerks-Toronto Maple Leaf game in Toronto tonight for the reason that by defeating Red Dutton's much-improved squad the Daymen can climb up on even terms with the New York Rangers in first place and still have a game in hand, so far as the Patrick clan are concerned. They had better be right tonight those Leafs however if they expect to cash in at the expense of the Amerks for the latter are full of fight these days and have started to make it tough for all and sundry. Red Dutton's team is well down the ladder by reason of the fact that early in the season they dropped a flock of games by one goal. They are not blowing many close ones now, as a matter of fact they are travelling at a clip that doesn't allow any club to let down. Thursday night for example they ran in six goals on Frankie Brimsek and they don't do that kind of thing very often at the expense of the Boston goalie.

This Will Be Good

Outboard Marines who have been providing local basketball fans with a high class program of cage games, bringing in some of the best teams in this section of Ontario have been unable to secure a game for tonight with the No. 6 Initial Training School in Toronto as they hoped but there will be a real basketball game this evening nevertheless. The fast young team of the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School will meet the league-leading Quakers in the Y.M.C.A. gym at 8 o'clock in a highly important City League fixture that should provide plenty of action for the fans. Quakers need a win in this contest to keep up at the top while the school team will have to beat Quakers to have a chance for a playoff spot as only the two leading teams will figure in the finals for the league championship. The students have been improving every time out and Quakers will have to be at their best to knock off the school team.

The triple-header in the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. gym last night lived up to advance notices with three good games on the cards. There were no upsets but the battle between Quakers and Y Gym team, a high-scoring affair in which the Porridge team finally won by the narrow margin of one basket, the final score being 27 to 25 was one of the highlights of the season. It was anybody's ball game until the final whistle. Last time out the Y won one of those close ones when they beat Normalities by a single point. In the other games on the card last night both C.G.E. teams scored victories. The Generals defeated Westclox 24 to 15 and the Electrics came through with 22 to 10 triumph over the Normal team. It looks as if the Generals are the team to beat for the senior championship.

The Girls' Athletic Association of the Collegiate Institute is to be congratulated upon the success of the basketball tourney which opened Friday night and is being continued today with girls' teams from five Collegiates competing for district honors. The biggest crowd that ever saw a basketball program at the Collegiate was in attendance last night and as a result a substantial sum was raised for the Collegiate's mobile kitchen fund. The games were worthy of the big crowd with a lot of good basketball dished up by the visiting and local teams and the tournament should help to interest local folk in the cage game.

Two CGE Teams, Quakers Win In Basketball

With the schedule drawing rapidly to a close, the teams in the Ladies' City Basketball League are battling to procure play-off spots, and three teams took long strides in that direction by squeezing out victories in last night's triple header at the Y.W.C.A. C.G.E. Generals assured themselves of a place in the finals by downing Westclox 24-15; Quakers also all but clinched a place for themselves by nosing out Y Gym 27-25 in a thriller and C.G.E. Electrics kept in the hunt by trouncing the winless Normal School 22-10.

C.G.E. Generals maintained their winning streak by outlasting and out-playing Westclox to win fairly easily 24-15. The losers battled hard all the way but had only five players at the finish. The winners held a steady margin throughout, building up a 10-6 lead in the hard fought first half and continuing to pull slowly ahead in the last period. The Generals big edge lay in their better marksmanship, as Westclox missed a lot of chances with poor shooting. M. Wood was the big scorer for the winners with 15 points and M. Snowden also played well. I. Bullock and A. Flynn led the losers. The teams—

C.G.E. Generals 25—A. Craig 2, L. Norton, M. Hodson, C. Stalter 3, M. Snowden 4, M. Wood 15, A. De Carlo, E. Harte-Maxwell.

Westclox 15—A. Flynn 4, F. Bestard 2, M. Hawthorne 1, M. McFadden, I. Bullock 8.

Referees—J. Cooper and H. Smith.

Quakers and Y Gym battled it out in one of the most hard fought battles of the year before the Cereal maidens finally copped a thrilling 27-25 win. The eventual winners built up a 14-10 lead at the half but had to battle hard to put down the losers up-hill rally in the closing minutes. Gym, down four points at the half came back in the last twenty minutes, outscored the winners 15-13 and all but snatched out a victory in the closing seconds. Quakers made only one in eight free throws and Y Gym cashed in on three of their six tries. P. Ayres was Quakers top scorer with 10 points and P. Lawless also starred. R. Hewitt turned in a good game in a vain effort for the losers with 14 points to her credit. The teams—

Quakers 27—G. Allen, H. White 2, M. Youdell, P. Ayres 10, M. Duncan 4, D. Weese 4, P. Lawless 7.

Y Gym 25—B. Flynn 5, I. Young 6, R. Sullivan, I. Stewart, R. Hewitt 14, D. Ackford, D. Bestard.

Referees—W. Thirnbeck and J. Cooper.

C.G.E. Electrics kept alive the faint spark of hope they have for a play-off spot by inflicting a 22-10 loss on the luckless Normal School. The winners built up a comfortable 14-5 lead in the first half, in which they had a wide edge in play but the second half was just about even. Normalites were again off in their shooting and passed up a lot of good scoring chances to offset the fact that they had a good part of the play. The shooting of the Electrics in the first half was good, but they passed up a lot of good opportunities with faulty marksmanship in the final 20 minutes. M. Hodson with 11 points and F. Merritt with 8 were best for the winners and R. Roblin and E. Van Allen were prominent for the losers. The teams—

C.G.E. Electrics 22—B. Stalter, M. Hodson 11, M. McCarthy 1, D. Shultz 2, F. Merritt.

Normal School 10—R. Roblin 4, E. Pitney 2, C. McKelvin, E. Van Allen 4, R. Ainsworth, I. McGregor.

Referees—H. Smith and J. Cooper.

WHITBY EVENS UP SERIES WITH 5 TO 4 WIN IN SECOND GAME

Four-Goal Lead Is Set Up By Whitby Team

After spotting Whitby Palm Billiards four goals inside the first 27 minutes of last night's senior B game at Whitby, the Peterborough Soldiers staged a fighting comeback for the balance of the argument and were finally beaten by 5 to 4, on a long shot wide of the net that was deflected into the cage when it glanced off a Peterborough. It was a rough, tough and exciting battle with ill feeling creeping in.

The Petes will never come close to winning a game and still lose. Whitby set up a two-goal lead in the first period because they cashed in on a couple of breakaways while the Petes failed to capitalize on a number of real openings. However the two goal deficit did not worry the Soldiers much and they went out for the second period full of fight. And then within three minutes Coach Hamel's team had scored two more and were in front 4 to 0.

Then the Petes started to come and from then until the final whistle they had Whitby on the run and did everything but tie up the old ball game. In the final ten minutes with the Petes only a goal down, Whitby were fighting inside their own blue line most of the time and Peg Hurst had to come through with one of his finest performances in the nets to stave off defeat. He kicked them out from all angles and two stops of shots from Tompkins, fired low and with plenty of stuff at the lower corner of the net were life-savers. Both times he just did get his skate on the drive in time to save the day.

Whitby had their full complement on last night but in the main the reinforcements did not dominate the play. True Cooper got two goals and was probably Palm Billiards' most effective forward but Barnes was easily pulled out of position and Durling and Gamble did not contribute a great deal, outside of getting together on one scoring play. Kingdon all the way, figuring in all four Peterborough goals and Honey Tompkins in the later stages of the battle were the Petes' brightest stars, although the whole gang earned brackets for a gallant fight and a battling finish on a night that might just as well have been Friday the 13th so far as any break from Lady Luck was concerned.

Fail To Cash In

The Petes had an edge on the territorial play in the first ten minutes but failed to cash in on a number of good scoring opportunities. Heal was in twice when passing plays put him into the clear but both times he failed to beat Hurst and Joe Blewett was similarly foiled when he broke inside on a pass from Nichols. It looked as if it was only a question of time before the Soldiers would break into the scoring column but eventually it was Whitby who registered first and the goal came, too when the Petes had a man to the good. Dafoe drew a penalty for slashing Johnny Godfrey over the head and while he was off the Petes put on the pressure to start the scoring. However good fore-checking by Covert and Cooper prevented them from getting an effective attack working and from a ganging play Barnes broke away and fed a rink-wide pass to Cooper near the Petes' blue line and the left winger was in the clear for a quick dash to the goal mouth. He picked a corner when he got in and Whitby were a goal in front.

A little later Les Burton got a tripping penalty and while he was off the Palm Billiard outfit increased their lead on a similar play. Covert shot a rink-wide pass to Dafoe who closed in fast and made no mistake with his shot.

Two goals down, the Petes rallied and had an edge for the rest of the period but could not break through for a goal.

Two Quick Goals

Inside the first three minutes of the second period Whitby ran in two fast counters to increase their margin to 4 to 0. Doc Dafoe got the first when a Petes' passing play behind their own blue line went sour and gave Covert and Cooper a chance to break through. Covert's shot was blocked but the rubber drifted out to Dafoe straight in front of the net and the right-winger's quick shot hit high on the mesh. The score came 47 seconds after the period opened. A little more than two minutes later Durling passed to Gamble to beat the defence and Palm Billiards had a four-goal margin.

Then the Petes began to come and for the balance of the game they outplayed the winners by a wide margin. A penalty to Bennett left them short-handed for two minutes but with a man off they continued to attack. Half a dozen times they missed by inches or were foiled by Hurst but finally at the 11:36 mark they succeeded in firing a puck past the Whitby goalie. Jopling started the play, passed to Kingdon, took Bun's return at the defence and drilled a beauty into the corner of the net. Several more opportunities were thrown away before a penalty to L. Vipond gave them a break upon which they cashed in. They ganged up, kept the rubber back of the Whitby blue line and with Kingdon and Heal figuring in the play Honey Tompkins stick-handled in front of the nets and slipped the rubber past Hurst to make the score 4 to 2. Just before Vipond's time was up Maundrell was chased for tripping. From the face-off Kingdon secured the rubbed and passed to Tompkins who worked close in and fooled Hurst smartly to leave the Petes only a goal behind as the period ended.

Penalties Hurt

Penalties early in the final session put the Soldiers momentarily back on the defensive. First Godfrey was banished and 30 seconds later Burton was waved off for an accidental trip and the Petes were two men short for a minute and a half but checked so effectively that Whitby had scarcely a shot on the net. The side were even again when Palm Billiards got what proved to be the winning marker and it was a lucky one. Cooper fired from just inside the Petes' blue line. The blind stab was wide of the cage but the rubber hit Crowe on the back of the leg and was deflected into the net, giving Harding no chance.

Godfrey was penalized again, this time for slashing or so Referee McCaffrey called it and the Petes' captain protested so vigorously that McCaffrey slapped a ten-minute misconduct penalty on him. Soon after Crowe was chased for what looked like a clean body check in centre ice and while he was off the Petes cut down the lead to one goal. Tompkins, after some nice stickhandling at centre ice flipped the rubber between the defence pair at the blue line and Kingdon dashed in to pick up the puck and sail in on top of Hurst. He feinted the Whitby goalie out of position and then flipped the disc into the open side to make the score 5 to 4.

A Battling Finish

There was still nine minutes to play and from then until the end of the game the Petes had Whitby hanging on to the ropes. They kept roaring in and penning the Palm Billiards behind their own blue line and Hurst was the busiest man on the ice. He stopped a flock of shots and saved the day for the winners. Heal, Blewett, Tompkins, Kingdon, Nichols all had chances to drive in the marker that would have tied up the game. Twice in succession Tompkins fired low shots into the corner of the net from point blank range and both times Hurst did the splits and got a toe on the rubber to make impossible saves.

With three minutes to go Coach Jimmy Ellis sent in five forwards and they did everything but score. Referee McCaffrey was not helping them any calling back play after play and finally Art Heal, exasperated at a whistle on a rush that looked perfectly legitimate, banged his stick on the ice and voiced a verbal protest that resulted in McCaffery handing a 10-minute misconduct penalty on him. With 30 seconds to go Harding was taken out of the nets and the Petes used six attackers in a last desperate attempt to obtain the equalizer. Dafoe drew a penalty just before the final whistle but the Soldiers had no time to cash in on the break.

I Got You Covered

Robinson Whips Berger In 2 For 28 Straight

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(CP). — Ray (Sugar) Robinson, a pocket edition of Joe Louis and every bit as dangerous a puncher for his size and weight, made it 28 straight victories at the expense of Maxie Berger last night and as a result the No. 1 welterweight challenger will probably be matched with Champion Freddie Cochrane for the title in April.

The skinny Negro socker who patterns his life along the lines of his idols, Bill Robinson and Joe Louis, erased all doubts that he is one of the best welters in the business by punching Berger, an earnest journeyman fighter from Montreal, into helplessness in less than two rounds at the Garden.

Referee Frankie Fullham stopped the scheduled 12-round bout after one minute, 43 seconds of the second round when Berger had been knocked down twice and obviously had been badly hurt. Berger weighed 145½, Robinson 144.

It was the first time Maxie had been knocked out in 97 fights in Canada and the United States over a span of seven years of campaigning.

Broda Right On For Repeat On Vezina Cup

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP). — Turk Broda one of sports' most noted fat men, has an excellent chance to win the Vezina Trophy for the second consevutive year.

The square-plan goalie from Brandon, Man., has had 94 goals scored aaginst him in the 37 games Toronto Maple Leafs have played in the National Hockey League this year. That is not good. But it is second best in the N.H.L., with only Boston's Frankie Brimsek to beat.

Brimsek has allowed 90 goals in 39 games, but Bruins must struggle through the rest of the season with a makeshift defence (minus Dit Clapper) and a dangerously-decimated string of forwards (minus Bil Cowley, injured; the Kitchener line, R.C.A.F.). Brimsek will rank with miracle-men of the past if he finishes the season with less than 115 goals. But if the Leafs decide to give Broda some defensive protection, the Brandon fat man could do better than that.

Toronto will play twice during the week-end with Boston idle. The Leafs will be at home to Brooklin Americans to-night in Toronto, while Chicago travel to Montreal. Chicago will meet New York Rangers in New York to-morrow night, with Leafs at Detroit.

Cut At Feather For Callura, Kayoes Bolvin

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Feb. 21 (CP) —Jackie Callura appeared assured today of a chance to knock the world's featherweight crown from the head of Pittsburg's Jackie Wilson, but from the Hamilton boy's brother, Angelo, went up the age-old cry of the ring, "We wuz robbed."

Jackie Callura won a shot at Wilson by stopping the pride of Providence, Larry Bolvin, in four rounds here last night, the title match was at least dependent on a Callura triumph over Bolvin and with that on the record, articles for the fight between the Canadian and the National Boxing Association's 126-pound king are expected to be signed here today. The match is to be set for March 23 with Wilson being guaranteed a purse of $7,500.

Victor over Bolvin in a previous meeting but unable to keep him on the floor, Jackie made it decisive in last night's second meeting. Putting him down twice in the third round, once for a no-count and the second time for a count of one, Jackie nailed Bolvin with a blazing left hook in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-rounder and put him away for keeps at 1.16 of the round.

Angelo didn't fare as well. In the eight-round semi-final, he met an old rival, Johnny Compo of New Haven, Conn., and soundly whipped him for six heats. But the official verdict was a draw and the crowd or more than 3,000 roundly booed the decision. At 127¼, Angelo was 1¾ pounds lighter than Compo.

Parkhill Meets Hamilton Squad In Final

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP). — The two major awards in the 15th annual Ontario Curling Association bonspiel—the Royal York Trophy and the Grand Aggregate—will be decided in a game this afternoon at the Toronto High Park Club between Ross Tarlton's Hamilton Thistles and J. Parkhill's Oshawa curlers.

The Parkhill rink entered the final last night in a surprise 14-6 victory over the 'spiel favorite for the last few days—Percy Skitch's Lindsay quartette. Skitch's chances at both the Trophy and the Grand defeat.

Tarlton's Thistles, winner of last year's Grand Aggregate, went into the finals earlier yesterday when they defeated Hartin Lindsay's Torontos 15-7. Tarlton has no chance at the Grand Aggregate this year, with seven victories and two defeats.

Parkhill's victory in the Royal York final would mean automatic victory in the Grand Aggregate with 10 victories and two losses. In the event of Parkhill's defeat in the final, the Grand Aggregate will go to Dr. C. H. Brereton's Toronto Granites rink with its nine victories and two losses.

Winners in the five final evenus played last night were:

Bill Cook's Son With Kingston

KINGSTON, Feb. 21.—Two of the most prominent families in the world of hockey were represented on the Kingston team last night, when the local lads started their O.H.A. Junior "B" playoff series with Oshawa, with Jimmy Cook and Jim Metcalfe playing for the Kingston team.

Jim Cook is the son of Bill Cook, rated one of the greatest wingers in hockey history, who is now leading Cleveland Barons in the American League. Jim Metcalfe is a nephew of Captain James Sutherland, life member of the C.A.H.A. and O.H.A., and one of the pioneers in the promotion of the game from a haphazard outdoor pastime to a major sport.

Jim Cook has the scrappy style that made his dad respected on rinks of Canada and the United States. Young Jim is far from the star class at present, but he shows promise, in fact, his dad and uncle, Bun, who formed the great partnership with Frank Boucher on the New York Rangers, did not develop into outstanding players until after the junior age. Bun Cook did not play much hockey as a junior and Bill did not develop into a world star until after returning from overseas in the First Great War.

The Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—First sore arm of the spring training season belongs to "Mike," the Reds pitching Robot. The machinery got twisted on the way to Tampa.

Shear Nonsense

Sam Otis of the Cleveland Plain Dealer claims that the Pirates' Johnny Gee owns the longest sore arm in baseball, both in years and inches. John stretches out six feet 9½ inches and hasn't been able to pitch in a year...Art Edson of the Oklahoma City Times describes Basketballer Gerald Tucker as being "smooth as a pane of glass and polished as a dance floor."

The New York all-star football game may be abandoned because too many of this year's graduating players will be signed up by Uncle Sam by next fall. Right now there's no sign of any service team that will be good enough to take on the Pro Giants.

Cleaning the Cuff

"Ola" and "Sigurd," the Norwegian airmen who have been cleaning up the ski jumping meets, don't want to be called refugees. They say they fought in Norway and are here just to get themselves equipped for more fighting...Sam Byrd, former Yankee outfielder who has become a top-rank golf pro, recently received an offer to return to baseball.

Hamiltons Cop Cross Country In English Snow

(By DOUGLAS AMARON.)

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Feb. 21 — (CP). —A team from the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry won the cross-country championship of the Canadian Overseas Forces with Sgt. George Elliott of Hamilton, a member of this regiment, leading 88 runners to the tape in 36 minutes 22 seconds over a 5½-mile snowbound course.

Giving its division its first major championship, the Hamilton runners galloped through four inches of snow and a blizzard to fight off a game effort by the Royal Canadian Regiment team from several Eastern Canada cities, which came second.

The Canadian Scottish from Victoria were third, the Calgary Tank Regiment fourth, the Westminster Regiment from New Westminster, B.C., fifth, and the Canadian reinforcement units last.

Sgt. Cyril Sterling of Victoria, a member of the Canadian Scottish, was second runner to finish Pte. Baptiste Martin of Grand Falls, N. B. member of the Carleton and York Regiment, third, and Pte. R. A. Abel of Saskatoon, from the Saskatoon Light Infantry, fourth. The last two were unattached.

2 Sleigh-Riders Hurt Under Car

TWEED, Feb. 21—(ENS). — Two youngsters of the Fuller district narrowly escaped death when the sleigh on which they were riding was struck by a car driven by Clare Carter, Thomasburg.

It appears that it has been the custom of children of the neighborhood to sleigh-ride on the driveway of Mrs. McCauley's premises leading to that of Walter Thompson's across the road. Mr. Carter's view was obscured by shrubbery and as he proceeded up the hill, did not see the children. The boy, Clayton Shields, was dragged beneath the car some distance and suffered a bruised thigh, lacerations about the face, and slight injuries to the head. Fortunately no bones were fractured. The girl, twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mitts, suffered from a bad shaking up.

Chief of Police J. Clair Hayes was called, and after investigating the accident, exonerated Mr. Carter of blame.

Loses Appeal.

Albert Sparks, Madoc, who was convicted by a Supreme Court jury in Belleville on a charge of manslaughter last October, has lost his appeal which was heard at Osgoode Hall, Toronto. Sparks' car struck and killed John Hotts on Highway No. 37, north of Tweed, last summer, and the manslaughter charges followed. He was given five years in Portsmouth Penitentiary by Hon. Mr. Justice Chevrier. He has been held in the county jail since last autumn.

LET'S KEEP OUR CANADA

a happy land for them

PINKY-WHITE DIMPLES; a button of a nose; wee, slender fingers clutching at your coverlet—what kind of a world is this to which you will awake?

Your life, we hope, will be rich in love and laughter. God forbid that your Canada should ever come under the heel of a ruthless barbarism, where babies are born to be the future shock troops, or the mothers of a brutal, military race.

We promise that you shall inherit a Canada blessed with the liberty our fathers bequeathed to us. You shall be free as we are free.

So we gladly lend our money to our country in this crisis. We will buy Victory Bonds to the very limit. We must and we will make sure that the threat of a brutal way of life is banished forever.

HOW TO BUY—Give your order to the Victory Loan salesman who calls on you. Or place it in the hands of any branch of any bank, or give it to any trust company. Or send it to your local Victory Loan Headquarters. Or you can authorize your employer to start a regular payroll savings plan for you. Bonds may be bought in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, and larger. Salesman, bank, trust company or your local Victory Loan Headquarters will be glad to give you every assistance in making out your order form.

This Week In Radio

WILLIAM STRANGE

Well-known author of radio series for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, who has joined the Royal Canadian Navy with the rank of Lieut. Commander and among other duties will carry on radio work for that service. Programs written by Lieut. Commander Strange include "They Shall Not Pass" and "Carry, On, Canada."

Barry Wood, chosen from hundreds of popular singers as the number one "Singing Salesman for Uncle Sam" is coming to Canada to do his bit for Jack Canuck, too. Since early last summer he has been heard on scores of government programs and at bond rallies in the famous song, which was practically written for him—"Any Bonds Today?"

In Canada next week for a series of personnel appearances he will join Mart Kenny and His Western Gentlemen" on Monday night at 10.30 CBL in the third musical show of the Victory Loan series. The musical show goes on the air half an hour later than usual because President Roosevelt's speech is being carried over most CBC stations, 10.00 o'clock.

The Hart House String Quartette which for years has taken a prominent place among the leading ensembles of the world will be heard in a series of Monday night recitals at 8.05 CBL immediately following Canada's outstanding news commentator Willson Woodside.

Flame-haired and sultry-voiced Jeanette Davis may be heard as vocalist on the "Breakfast Club" and "Club Matinee" daily. "Le Diable dans le Beffroi" a choreographical tone-poem by Jean Valerand will be presented in the next broadcast by the Montreal Symphony on Tuesday, 10 p.m. CBL.

Radio versions of four special films are part of the Victory Loan campaign originating in the studios of CBC and Rupert Lucas head of the dramatic department is directing these especially adapted features. "Dangerously We Live" will be presented Wednesday 10 p.m. A work that has been praised by critics as being in the best traditions of Gilbert and Sullivan will be the next presentation is CBC's season of British Ballad Opera. Sir Ernest MacMillan will direct the performance of Sir Edward German's "Merrie England" on Sunday 10 p.m. CBL. The cast will include Kenneth Neate, Jean Haig, Nellie Smith and Howard Scott.

Other highlights of the week will be Verdi's "Masked Ball" in the Metropolitan Opera broadcast Saturday 2.00 p.m. CBL and NBC Symphony on Tuesday 9.30 WJZ with Alfred Wallenstein conducting.

New Beauty - - - -

To the person who must wear glasses, there is the constant question—how will I look? But new styles in glasses have taken care of that question neatly. Designed to flatter the face, they make the wearing of glasses a pleasure rather than a disfigurement.

TO ATTEND CHURCH.

Members of the City Council will attend the morning service in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning in a body. An invitation to the City Fathers to attend church at St. Paul's was extended some time ago, and the invitation was accepted.

OVER THE TOP.

The Flag of Victory," indicating that factory employees had oversubscribed their objective in the present Victory Loan was hoisted at the plant of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company this morning. Officials of the company report that by Tuesday the objective will be oversubscribed with a total 160 per cent of the original amount.

Bandsman Cpl. Alfred Pooley, who enlisted almost two years ago and is now overseas, has been awarded the Efficiency Medal for long service in the Canadian Militia. He has had twelve years' service with the Prince of Wales Rangers, and two years' active service. The medal was sent to his mother, Mrs. Alfred Pooley.

HE NEEDS A FRIEND.

Donnie L. Laplante, 516 Romaine Street, who assists the Examiner carrier boy on Route 105, had a little bad luck on Friday evening. He was carrying papers on Lynch Street, when he dropped four War Savings Stamps and so far they have not been located. The finder is requested to get in touch with this boy at his home address or to call the Examiner Office, No. 4641.

THE GUEST SPEAKER

FACES SERIOUS CHARGE

Reginald Harran faced a serious charge in police court this morning involving a 15-year-old girl. He pleaded not guilty after electing to be tried by the magistrate and was remanded until Thursday, bail being fixed at $1,000. As the result of an incident that happened just outside the door of the court-room as the accused was being brought in for trial Harran was also charged with assaulting the father of the girl in the case and on that charge he pleaded guilty. Sentence was reserved until Thursday.

Cost Of Living Bonus $12,250

Cost of living bonus is a new item appearing in the estimates which the City Council is preparing for 1942. Already this added expenditure amounts to $12,250, and that sum does not include the bonus paid to most of the City Hall staff.

Actual payments last year were $4,322, and again this total does not include the body of civic employees represented by the Board of Works and the central offices at the City Hall. The two largest amounts in the records considered by the Finance Committee this week were the Police and Fire Departments.

The complete estimate of cost of living bonus for city employees is likely to cut quite deeply into the money equivalent of one mill in the tax rate representing a considerable change from last year's budgeting, which did not provide anything for the Federal Government's plan of bonus payments proportional to the increase in the cost of living.

The following were some of the bonus payments last year and corresponding estimates for this year:

	1941 Paid	1942 Est.

Powerful Enemy Spewing Hate Is At Our Door

A war veteran, who braved the "blood, toil, sweat and tears" of that great struggle between 1914 and 1918, Captain the Rev. Dr. George S. Eaton, hurled a warning and a challenge to a gathering of 400 people at George Street United Church on Friday evening that a powerful enemy, spewing hate and murder is threatening the safety of Canadians at this very moment. He rapped the Canadians for their bewildering display of indifference and apathy to the threat that exists to the freedom of this country and the things exery Canadian holds dear, and in a ringing conclusion threw out the challenge that dollars must be had if the war is to be won.

Captain Easton, minister at Trinity United Church, was the chief speaker in a "Beacon for Freedom" service arranged under civic auspices in connection with the second Victory Loan campaign, at the request of the Minister of Finance. Mayor James Hamilton was chairman, and prayer for peace through victory was offered by the Rev. H. L. Roberts, minister of George Street United Church. As the meeting drew to a close flames flickered high over Armour Hill from a huge bonfire built by city workmen, a symbol and a warning that the country is in danger. In the church itself a small beacon glowed, while Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., took the pledge of allegiance from the audience. The people stood with their right hands on their hearts and repeated the pledge: "With the message of the beacon fire of freedom burning in my heart, I hereby solemnly re-affirm my belief in Almighty God, and again declare my allegiance to His Majesty the King. I pledge myself to do all in my power to support all undertakings to ensure victory for our arms and a just and lasting peace."

Unity Necessary.

Captain Easton was introduced by His Worship Mayor Hamilton, and he said in part:

"Today we hear a great deal about unity, particularly national unity. We are constantly talking about a united war effort, and the British Empire with her Allies is now known as the United Nations.

"The fundamental thing in any effort is success is to be attained is unity, and I might point out that there are two types each determined by the method used to reach it. Mr. Churchill in his speech on Sunday warning that the one thing which would weaken us is disunity, and he referred to the close cooperation that exists among the Russian peoples. There is no bickering, no fault-finding. They are standing together, working together and fighting together and the results prove it.

"He might have gone further and referred to the unity that exists in Germany and Japan, a condition that never before existed in these two countries, a unity fostered and obtained by fear, by blood purges, by concentration camps, for the one who dares to dispute it or refuse to co-operate. This unity is maintained by slavery of the nations temporarily conquered and downtrodden. It is true these methods get unity, and we see it even more forcibly demonstrated in the military machines of the dictator countries. It is a unity imposed from without."

Not Type of Unity Wanted

"That is not the type of unity we want, nor the type of unity that will come to us. As members of a democracy we would rather die than have it. The kind we desire and must have is much more difficult to obtain, but on the other hand is much more lasting.

"It grows from within, it is a spiritual force, a unity of freedom, of sanity, tolerance and brotherhood, and we have enjoyed it in Canada to a certain extent."

At this point Captain Easton told the great experiment Canada was trying in attempting to weld men of all nations into a great nation here in the Dominion, and he pointed to an unfortified international boundary, where bridges and highways to foster friendship existed instead of forts, and guns to repel and antagonize our neighbor to the south.

"I say in all sincerity that this continent is prepared to lead the world, not as a big boss but as a big brother.

"This unity is threatened and is in deadly combat with the unity of force, and the fact that so many of our men have gone forth to defend our form of unity is proof that we are ready to fight for it.

"We at home have been asked by the government to make an attractive investment as our contribution to this great struggle. It is an investment that will make our freedom more secure, the money is required to provide the munitions that will shorten the period of suffering, and sacrifice and insure safety for our unity of freedom.

"Everyone must do his or her part and do it now. Stop talking about what we are going to do to the enemy in 1942 and 1943 and start talking about what we are going to do in February 1942. Stop all this prattle about post war action, and do a bit of acting right now."

Japan Has Acted

"During the last two months while we have been talking, a small nation has gobbled up an appalling number of strategic places, and taken them with comparative cheapness, when we figure what it will cost to get them back again. She has seized tin, oil and rubber, and swung the balance of economic values heavily in her favor.

"We cannot continue to fight the war in the future, we must fight it now. This war is your greatest concern right now, and the best way to help fight it is to live modestly and soberly, save every cent you can, and invest it in War Savings Stamps and Victory Bonds, and do your bit in giving that doughty warrior-statesman, Churchill, the tools."

Open House Is Held In New Annex To Nicholls Hospital

Friday was open house at the new 26-bed annex to Nicholls Hospital when several hundreds of persons were taken through the new wing on inspection tours. Ladies of several women's organizations in Peterborough served tea to the guests. (LEFT) Cornelia Wilson, R.N., is shown pointing out the features of the electric stove in the diet kitchen of the wing to one of the many groups of women. (RIGHT) The most modern equipment for the wards has been used in both the decorative scheme and furniture. Wards are bright and cheerful. Mary Ross, R.N. (LEFT) and Mae Renwick (RIGHT) are shown preparing one of the beds. In the semi-private wards, a system of drapes extending from the ceiling and operating along a track may be used to completely encircle either bed.

I.O.O.F. Marks Wildey Night

More than 125 persons attended Thomas Wildey Night gathering last evening in the basement of Trinity United Church, where Oddfellows of Peterborough and Otonabee, their wives and members of Peterborough Rebecca Lodge honored their founder at the annual gathering. George A. Gillespie was chairman of the dinner and program. Following, they retired to the Oddfellows' Hall on George street, where dancing and cards were enjoyed.

Rev. G. S. Easton, pastor of Trinity Church, extended a warm welcome to the group, pointing out that present days are ones in which members of such a faternity can render a needed service. The Oddfellows' creed calls for unity among other things, he said. Dr. Easton also pointed out that spiritual unity which comes from the church, will eventually win the battle.

George A. Gillespie called upon District Deputy Grand Master W. L. Elson of Millbrook to propose the toast to the Grand Lodge. Mr. Elson referred to the outstanding virtues of Thomas Wildey. These were a deep sense of personal responsibility an dan exaltation of duty over one's self. To him, we can look for inspiration. The present time offers ample opportunity to render the service taught in the Oddfellows, he said. Bringing a short message from the Grand Lodge, Mr. Elson asked that members re-dedicate themselves by service to the fudnamental and vital issues of the day. William Constable replied to the toast.

Following this, Frank Baker, travelling passenger agent for the Canadian National Railways, assisted by Ed Ryan, local ticket agent, showed three movies of skiing and summer resorts.

Hospital Annex Provides 26 Beds

Nicholls Hospital annex, completed this week, and opened to the public for inspection on Friday is as modern as human workmanship and ingenuity can make it, and the well equipped wing radiates that soothing, restful quality that is characteristic of a well-ordered home.

The addition is 102 feet, one storey high and insulated throughout, and it accommodates 26 beds, relieving a little of the congestion that has existed at the big hospital for the last few years. It is steam heated, has a seven foot centre hall running the length of the building and the ceilings throughout are 9 feet from the floor. Sull-sash windows on both sides give ample light and the wing is located at the north end of the hospital itself.

Primarily intended for surgical patients, the wing is laid out to consist of one four bed ward, two four bed wards for children, six two bed wards, and two single rooms, and besides these there is a diet kitchen, a clean utility room, a soiled utility room, a nurses station, two toilets, and a large supply room.

A children's ward, still without beds, tells a story of war priorities, as the beds were ordered months ago and have not been delivered as yet. It was learned too, that the last chrome, the last brass and some of the steel used in the beds was the last of these metals released for domestic use, indicating that the hospital was built just in the nick of time.

Sheehy Construction Co'y. had the general contract for the building, and sub contracts were let as follows; wiring, Miller-Powell Company; plumbing, Archibald and Richmond; heating, Adamson and Dobbin; painting, Smith brothers.

Signal System

The signal system in the hospital is such that when a patients rings, the signal flashes in five places, over the door, at the nurses station, in both utility rooms, and in the diet kitchen, thus eliminating the danger of the signal not being heard, and along this same line, another modern touch has been introduced by the use of silent switches in all rooms on the night lights, to avoid waking a light sleeper. The night lights are set about two feet from the floor in the walls, near the sink and cast the light rays downward.

The most radical change in the whole layout is noticeable in the furniture in the wing. It was designed especially for this hospital and will not be used elsewhere, and the furniture embodies features never used in hospital fixtures before. The beds are of steel construction, but have wood panels at top and bottom in grey lined oak finish, and are most simple in design.

There are rubber bumpers on the top and bottom of the beds, all corners are rounded, and the "Gatch" steel frame beds are equipped with spring air mattresses, one on top of the other, and are arranged so that the top mattress, a light one, may be readily removed. The bedside table is protected by a rubber bumper annd the drawer and slide opens both towards the patient and towards the nurse. There is a basin ring, towel bar, all hidden, and the bed pan compartment is not visible at all.

The over-bed tables used in feeding patients are most ingenious. Besides being used to hold the food tray, the centre section may be raised to use as a book stand, or a flip reversing the stand, converts it into a mirror for shaving or dolling oneself up. The surface of the overbed table and the side table as well is "formica," a material which resists stains of every description and is even impervious to cigarette burns.

W. D. Tucker, furniture designer from the T. Eaton Company, who worked in close cooperating with Mr. John Hornall, superintendent of the hospital in designing the furniture said the idea was to make the rooms more like a home, and less like a hospital. Most rooms are equipped with an easy chair and a footstool, and some have chests of drawers, which have absolutely no projections which might catch the nurses' uniforms.

More Like Home

The colors used in the scheme throughout the building are elusive, and the hall has two shades of pale grey green mixed to blend with the green linoleum and the furnishings. A few of the rooms are decorated in an ashes of roses shade and the remainder in a warm, creamy mushroom tone.

A feature of the lighting is a special wall tri-lite finished in chrome which was designed by the architest, Walter Blackwell and this lamp eliminates the need for floor lamps and table lamps, and still gives any intensity of light desired. The bed-lights are goose-neck types and are controlled by the patient.

Curtains to screen the beds are on roller tracks, and are permanent fixtures with every bed, and the beds are also equipped to take irrigation rods or any other special hospital equipment.

Chrome is the surface metal in the diet kitchen, and in the utility rooms, and a new device to this city was introduced with the addition of an automatic bed pan flusher in the soiled utility room.

The heavy doors along the corridor are finished in natural birch veneer, and this grey tone blends in nicely with the general scheme. There is a tile floor in the diet kitchen, utility room and in the central supply room, finished in a brick red color.

The Woman's Auxiliary gave invaluable assistance in choosing the window drapes, and besides contributed more than $3,000 to equipping the diet kitchen, both utility rooms, and the nurses station. They also took care of one two-bed ward. The Nurses Alumni donated more than $1,100 to equip and furnish the two children's wards. Miss Catherine Angus of Warkworth who was a patient in the hospital during Mrs. Leeson's tenure of office, showed her appreciation for the fine treatment by completely furnishing a four-bed ward. The buying committee of the Women's Auxiliary aided in purchasing the furniture, drapes and bed spreads.

Hundreds of people inspected the new wing on Friday afternoon and evening, and refreshments were served by several women's organizations.

Y's Men's Club Aids War Fund

Recently the Y's Men's Club, of which W. C. Wedlock is president and R. C. Simmons the treasurer, held a Ladies' Night, and from fines levied on the members at this and the regular meeting on Thursday night, the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund is richer by $8.35, disclosing yet another way in which money has been raised to help things along for the people of Britain.

Being a little discreet, the fund's manager did not find out who the delinquents were, and was satisfied with the explanation that the fines were all levied for minor breaches of the club's rules, and let it go at that, and thank the Y's Men for their help to the fund.

A few days ago it was stated that the penny box collections at all of the city's three motion picture shows were amongst the best of this type of help for the fund, and further proof of this is evidenced by the $8.10 collected in a very short time at the box in the Capitol Theatre, which is also acknowledged today, with the addition of $1.10 collected from the box at the United Cigar Store.

Mrs. O. F. Church of Sherbrooke street west has donated a handmade cross stitch table cloth in black and red to the fund, and the sale of tickets for a draw on it at 10c each is being sponsored by the Star of Bethlehem lodge of L.O.B.A. with Mrs. C. Johnson as convener. The tablecloth is being displayed in the windows of the Cleanrite Cleaners on Simcoe street.

Woollen Staff Goes Over Top In Victory Loan

The night shift of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds put their hearts into the Victory Loan drive by subscribing 170 per cent. of their quota.

The general response throughout the plant was almost as keen and substantial as the showing the night shift made when it came to lending their money to the government for the winning of the war.

The quota allotted to Dominion Woollens was $10,000, and the total subscriptions by the 307 employees was 154 per cent. of the plant's objective. However, rolling up 170 p.c. by that night crowd seemed to call for just a little extra word of approval plus common sense, because their investment by loaning money to the government is their means of helping to save this country from Huns and Japs, and with the country and the Empire and the democracies goes the standard of living to which our peoples have been accustomed.

A glance over the roster of Victory Loan workers shows that David G. H. Melton is chairman of the employees committee. It must be a great deal of satisfaction to him that the employees of Dominion Woollens showed an excess of quota in their war action.

Mythology of Gemstones Subject of Art Talk

"The Mythology of Gem-stones" was the fascinating subject of Mr. Ellis Thompson's address to the Women's Art Association on Friday afternoon. Mr. Thompson is a Professor of Mineralogy at the University of Toronto.

Mr. Thompson said he did not know whether the wearing of gemtones as ornaments came before or after they were first credited with supernatural powers, but he was inclined to believe that the ornamental use came first. However, the use of precious and semi-precious stones in religious ceremonies and their endowment with peculiar powers can be traced as far back in history as 5000 B.C.

The origin of this belief in the peculiar qualities of certain ornamental stones seems to have been an association of ideas since the powers seem to be determined by their color, or other physical characteristics. Thus, red stones, such as the ruby, had to do with passion, and with the inflicting and curing of wounds; green stones, such as emeralds, were associated with youth and blue stones were believed to possess curative powers.

Mr. Thompson's talk was illustrated with lantern slides of the different stones and he explained the powers they were supposed to possess as he showed the pictures. Many of the powers attributed to the gems seem logical enough, considering the limited knowledge of those who credited them. The agate was said to confer boldness on the wearer and was much favored by soldiers. The amethyst was believed to be a cure for drunkenness, because of a legend associating this stone with Bacchus, the god of wine and revelry. The cornelian, a red, semi-precious stone, was said to aid those who were weak or timid of speech.

The cat's eye, which is a peculiar structure found in various kinds of gems, was said to afford protection aaginst evil spirits, as were sapphires and rubies; and was frequently worn by children. Strangely enouhg the diamond, which we know chiefly as an ornamental stone, was used in ancient and mediaeval times as an abrasive, and its use as an ornament is comparatively recent. Since the diamond is one of the hardest known substances, it is natural that the qualities it confers should be fearlessness and invincibility.

The exquisite emerald is said, in legend, to be the stone from which was carved the cup from which Our Lord drank at the Last Supper, the Holy Grail. It was said to prolong the youth of the wearer and to protect children against danger. The form of Zircon known as hyacinth, was said to protect travellers.

Serpentine, a stone substance now used in building especially in fancy shop-fronts, was once believed to give protection against snakebite. The incomparable lapis lazuli was a sure-fire cure for the blues in mediaeval times. The use of turquoise is very ancient and it derives its name from the fact that the first turquoise was found in Turkey. One of its chief uses in ancient times has an amusing parallel to-day, for it is the stone once used to decorate the harness of horses and camels, and now, in Turkey, it adorns the radiator caps of swanky automobiles. The moonstone, naturally, was considered a stimulant to love.

Not all stones were lucky, however. The opal has been considered unlucky, although it did not always enjoy such ill favor. The idea probably grew from the fact that it is a brittle stone and cracks easily in extremes of temperature. Diamonds were at one time considered to be poisonous; though in other places they were looked upon as a cure for poison.

Ground up precious and semi-precious stones were once used in medicines, and as late as 1790 a list appeared giving the curative powers of various stones. In the Orient gems were sometimes given as burnt offering in religious ceremonies.

150 Couples Have Gay Time At Pretty Dance at Friday Night Club 'At Home'

The gym was unrecognizable transformed with blue crepe paper streamers and the window-like effect achieved with gold and black crepe paper panels, lighted from the bottom. The entire effect was most attractive. There were 150 couples attending.

The graceful dance frock of the girls added immeasurably to gay atmosphere of the party, for which Lloyd Budge and his orchestra supplied the music. There was a graceful gown of powder blue chiffon with brilliant straps; a lovely one of delicate peach satin with a very full skirt gathered at the waist; a turquoise blue taffeta with a broad band of wine-colored velvet at the hem and a wine velvet bodice.

Women of City Observe Day of Prayer

"I am the Way" was the theme of the worship service for the World Day of Prayer which was observed by Peterborough women in Knox United Church on Friday.

Bannister, Trinity United Church; Mrs. H. Alton, Mark Street United Church; Mrs. H. L. Roberts, George Street United Church; Mrs. W. K. Sloane, St. James' United Church; Mrs. M. Halcrow, Park Street Baptist Church; Mrs. D. A. Loomis, Murray Street Baptist Church.

Mrs. F. K. Harris of St. Andrew's United Church gave an inspiring address on the subject of prayer.

Miss Loretta McDougall sang a lovely gospel song, "On Wings of Prayer," and Mrs. A. M. Wedlock presided at the organ.

Arrangements for the meeting were made by the executive committee, with Mrs. N. Buckley, president, and Mrs. H. H. Graham, secretary-treasurer.

The earliest observance of the Day of Prayer was held in the Fiji Islands. Now the Christian women of fifty-two nations around the entire globe unite, using an identical program, translating into hundreds of the earth's languages the central theme, "I am the Way"—the way to the Father, the way of love, the way of service and sacrifice, the way of hope.

Red Cross Quilts Delight Air Raid Victims

The art of the patchwork quilt, born of the dire necessity of our pioneer ancestors, is now relieving the necessity of the Mother Country and helping to keep up the spirits of the victims of war in the country from which most of those ancestors came.

In a letter from Lady Reading, chairman of the Women's Voluntary Services in England, to Mrs. Campbell of the Canadian Red Cross, we read of the delight taken in these quilts which come from the Canadian Red Cross.

And this is only natural, for it is impossible for two patchwork quilts to be exactly alike, just as it is impossible for two human being to be exactly alike. The individuality of these quilts, as well as the pride and skill that goes into the making of them, saves them from that institutional sameness that often hangs about issued clothing. It helps the receiver to retain consciousness of his own individuality, even in the midst of mass calamity.

It is good to know that the careful, painstaking craftsmanship that goes into the making of a patchwork quilt should be so well appreciated and do so much to help keep up the spirits of those who fight for democracy.

DOROTHY DIX

ALL CHILDREN SHOULD BEAR BURDEN OF PARENTS' EXPENSE

One Child Alone Should Not Be Made to Pay the Penalty of Self Sacrifice

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am engaged to very fine young man and we are very much in love with each other and would like to get married, but we cannot do so because of my mother. He lives in a different city from the one I live in and if I married him I would have to quit work and leave Mother. I support her and am glad to do so, as I feel she has done her part in rearing a family as large as ours. My fiance understands the situation concerning my mother and says that does not keep him from still loving me, but he often tells me that we can never get married as long as she lives. When he tells me this I feel that he does not love me as much as he should. He wants to give me an engagement ring, but I will not accept it because of the fact that we can't get married perhaps for a long time, and I have seen too many long engagements broken. What do you think I should do?—ELSIE.

ANSWER: What you should do is what you evidently lack the backbone to do, and that is to force your brothers and sisters to do their part in supporting your mother instead of wishing the whole job off on you. She is just as much their mother as she is your mother. They have just as much responsibility towards her as you have and you should make them assume their share of it. If you will threaten to bring the case up in the Domestic Relations Court, you will find that they will suddenly discover that, after all, they are able to help poor, dear Mother. But as long as you let them make you the family goat they will do it.

Burden Should Be Divided

I think that human meanness reaches its lowest ebb when the other children in a family dump the whole burden of the support of their mother or father on one sister or brother, while the balance go scotfree. Yet we see it done continually. If they would all help, no one would be martyred. But when one alone has to do it, it may call for the sacrifice of a whole life.

That is your position. You can't marry the man you love because you have to stay at home and take care of Mother, but none of the other children felt that they had to give up marriage in order to take care of her. You can't marry because you have to keep on with your job to support her, but if each one of them would contribute a small sum it would provide your mother with enough income to live on.

Evidently the young man to whom you are engaged doesn't feel that he is called on to assume the entire support of your mother when her own children refuse to do their part, and you can't blame him for that. Perhaps he does not feel financially able to undertake to provide for two women instead of one when he marries.

Perhaps he doesn't want a mother-in-law under foot all the time, for while you may not mind Mother's peculiarities and little ways, having to put up with them, day in and day out, might get very much on your husband's nerves. But the solution of this part of the problem is the same as the financial one. Make the balance of the family take their turn in having Mother live with them, as well as give their part towards her support.

If you haven't the courage to stand up for your own rights and take your happiness, you are quite right in refusing the engagement ring because the chances are a hundred to one that the man will get tired of waiting for you and demand its return.

When To Correct A Man

DEAR MISS DIX: Recently I have being going with a boy of 23. I am 21. It was love at first sight with both of us. But my problem is this: I have always loved the correct use of the English language, but while this boy is fine in every other way he used such words as "knowed," "aint," "eats," "seen" and so on, and otherwise murders the English language, as well as neglecting the little mannerisms that a gentleman should observe. I so long to correct him and help him, yet I am afraid to do so. How shall I go about telling him of his mistakes? I love him so much, but I can't marry a man who will resent my helping him. Do you think he will be willing to let me help him if he really loves me? I could send him some books on etiquette if only he would read them and practice thm. Would that be a good idea?—PUZZLED.

ANSWER: Of course, it all depends upon the boy, but if he is the average type of youth and thinks he is a spellbinder whether he is or "aint," you could take no surer way of getting rid of him than by correcting his grammar and pronunciation.

The one thing that the average man will not stand for is for a woman to show superiority over him in any way whatever and let him see that she knows more than he does, and that is why most women have sense enough not to let a man find out that they intend to improve him until after they are married to him.

Take it from me, dearie, any woman corrects any man at her peril, and the minute Friend Wife begins editing her husband's grammar and purifying his English and dressing up his table manners, that minute she starts him down the road to a woman who will tell him how perfectly grand he is "as is" and make him feel at ease and proud of himslef once more.—DOROTHY DIX.

I.O.D.E. Chapter Raised $1,470 In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21 (ENS) —One of the leading organizations whose efforts are devoted entirely to war work is the I.O.D.E. Bemersyde Chapter whose annual report released this week reveals the 61 members have once again made an outstanding contribution to the war efforts of this community. During the year just ended they raised a total of $1,470.00 by their various enterprises and sent out over 1,300 articles to soldiers, seamen, airmen, and various relief agencies, thus well maintaining their enviable record set in 1940.

The local Chapter held 21 regular meetings during the year and to facilitate efforts a group system was adopted whereby members were divided into six groups of 10 each headed by a convener and counsellor and pledged to raise a minimum of $20.00 by the group's initiative during the twelve months. As one of their major accomplishments during 1941 Trent Valley Chapter was formed, which is currently headed by Miss Clara Lucy, and embraces in its list of members many girls of high school age.

Their efforts in the educational field, which prior to the war formed one of their principal activities, included the usual scholarships to Public and Separate School 'entrance' pupils. These were based on both general efficiency and examination results and were awarded to two boys and two girls in each school at a total of $12.00 cost.

First in their money making activities during the year was the Salvage Collection which yielded upwards of $200.00, and the dance in the High School during the Christmas season that brought $140.00. Other undertakings included several cooking sales and teas; a Fashion show $51.07; Bingo, $42.40; draws on quilts, afghans, silverware, etc. $125.90; group money, $99.75; sale of quilts, $35.00; tinfoil, $3.56; mile of pennies, $65.00 Assisting substantially towards making their total income for the year were a number of generous cash donations, headed by a $76.90 contribution from pupils of the Campbellford Public School. Others were Seymour East Women's Institute, $25.00; Catholic Women's League, $25.00; St. John's W.A. $25.00 Town of Campbellford, $38.00 (to cover cost of mailing 200 Christmas parcels); Rotary Club, $36.00; St. John's W.A. $20.00; Miscellaneous $20.00.

On the expenditure side the purchase of wool accounted for $748.00, and this went into the making of 601 pairs of sox, to the army, navy and air force; 135 sweaters; 72 pairs of gloves; 63 helmets; 12 turtle neck sweaters; 65 scarves; 15 pairs of mitts; 12 tuck ins. Flannelette for quilts took another $31.00 and this went into the making of pyjamas, quilts, gowns, etc. To I.O.D.E. headquarters in Toronto as refugee supplies they sent 294 articles, such as pyjamas, baby's gowns, children's clothing, etc., also 32 quilts, three of which went directly to the hospital for Canadians at Basingstoke, England. Articles sent to soldiers and airmen included 5,768 cigarettes; 336 packages of tobacco; 123 packages of papers; 81 flashlights; 104 batteries; 80 pounds of Christmas cake; 104 packages of gum; 158 packages candy; 93 packages of razor blades; 114 chocolate bars. For the navy they completed ten ditty bags each of which contained 1 sweater, 2 pairs of sox, 1 scarf, 1 helmet, 1 pair gloves, New Testament, book of fiction, note paper and envelopes, 2 pencils, 2 bars of chocolate, gum, life savers (candy), razor blades, took brush and tooth paste.

Musical Program for Mission Circle

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21 (ENS) —An interesting musical program plus a sketch on the lives of two missionaries sponsored by the Presbyterian Church formed two of the principal parts of the program at the regular meeting of St. Andrew's Young Ladies' Mission Circle Thursday evening. Mrs. Harold Spencer was in charge of the program and it began with a Scripture reading by Mrs. C. Vessey, prayer by Mrs. F. Adamson, and a reading by Miss Dorothy Reynolds entitled "Responsibility." Mrs. Harry Fowlds gave two violin selections, "Melody in E Flat" and "Boat Song," both of which were greeted enthusiastically by the gathering in the home of Mrs. F. G. DeCarrol, and next was a piano duet, "Hungarian Dance," by Mrs. DeCarrol and Mrs. J. Clark. For her remarks dealing with missionary workers, Mrs. A. G. Thompson chose two ladies who were familiar to the gathering. One of these was Miss J. McConnell, who has been in the Jobat Hospital on the Bhil mission field of India, and Miss Helena Gibbs, who left this country in September last for China. Miss Gibbs is presently located at Kunming, which is a town on the Burma Road, and here she is doing evangelistic work principally among Chinese University students who have fled the occupied sections of the country.

The president, Miss Hazel Atkinson, took charge of the remainder of the meeting which included routine reports from the secretary, Miss Annie Parks, and the treasurer, Mrs. H. T. Scott, and at the close refreshments were served by the lunch conveners, Mrs. J. R. Belshaw, Mrs. McCulloch, and Miss Esther Innes.

Polish Relief.

Three more quilts with two of them being made from tops donated by members, were the achievement of the Tabernacle Church W.A. whose regular meeting was held in the English Line Church Thursday afternoon. All three quilts will form a part of the Polish relief quota being readied by the local I.O.D.E. Bemersyde Chapter. The president, Mrs. E. J. Mitchell, presided during the afternoon and thirty-five ladies attended. This is the second group of quilts completed by the group within a month for the Bemersyde Chapter.

Madame von Eln, Parris' French grandmother whom he adores, plans for Parris' medical schooling in Vienna, knowing she cannot live long. Tom Carr, husband of insane Lucy Carr, suggests to Parris he study treatment of mental ills. Parris is reading medicine with Dr. Tower.

NEW WORLD OPENS,
CHAPTER X

Here in his study, with the sunlight touching his heavy mahogany-colored hair, Dr. Tower looked younger than Parris had expected. Also he had an air that was not easy for Parris to define, but which he knew was unlike that of other men. Distinction yes; but also something quietly and intensely alive, maybe a shade menacing.

"You want to be a doctor?"

"Yes, sir."

"A good one, or just one of these country quacks?"

"I want to be a very good one, like—"

"Like whom?"

Parris blushed again. "Like those you read about."

"Where?"

This time Parris smiled. "I got into it that time, sir, didn't I? I guess I mean the—the legendary sort of doctor."

Doctor Tower smiled too at the unexpected word.

"I hear your grandmother proposes sending you to Vienna."

"Yes, sir."

"She must be extraordinary."

"She's quite wonderful," Parris said quietly, and Dr. Tower nodded gravely. Then he began to talk. Parris could not follow all of it, but he listened as he had never listened before. Part of the time he forgot to think of what the Doctor was actually saying in the brilliant and bewildering play of words. Some of it sounded a good deal like poetry.

Parris felt enormously important as he listened. Dr. Tower had the air of taking him into a quite special confidence. Parris was giving his most concentrated attention now, but he was giving something else, too, and that was a sudden and violent loyalty.

Dr. Tower turned abruptly in his chair. "You aren't having psychology at Aberdeen, are you?"

"No, sir."

"Good. Don't take it."

"Very well, sir."

"You're at music, too, I hear."

"Yes, sir."

"Good. One of the best disciplines in the world."

"Yes, sir."

"You can read German, Gordon says."

"Yes, sir."

"And French?"

"Not as much as German."

"All right. You seem to have something to go on. You wouldn't be here if you didn't. Gordon says a good word for you. I'll see you on Friday."

"Thank you, sir. I enjoyed the afternoon very much."

"Yes? Well—" Dr. Tower seemed slightly embarrassed for an instant at Parris' old-fashioned manner.

"You may go out this way. If you follow the drive, you'll come out on Cherry Street."

Parris could not sleep that night. He was more deeply excited than he had even been in his life. For the first time there were intimations of authentic communication between his world—which had been until this very day the world of children—and the adult world which had always moved a little mysteriously either to the side or above him.

A door was opening, and he was unbearably impatient to pass through.

In the months that followed he saw very little of Drake. His work absorbed him.

In midwinter Drake's Uncle Rhodes died, and his aunt had a stroke shortly afterward. Plans were being made to close the house and to remove Mrs. Livingstone to a sanitarium.

"What are you going to do?" Parris asked when Drake told him about it.

Drake looked a little forlorn under a thin bravado.

"I guess they'll send me to live at Mrs. Searcy's boardinghouse."

"Haven't you got any kinfolks?"

"Yes, I guess so. I bet none of them would want me around though."

Parris couldn't think of anything to say. Today, faced with the imminence of a new kind of life, Drake looked much older than Parris. The thick lashes shadowing his dark gray eyes, his overfull lips, and his look of extreme vitality still gave him an air of strength and sensuality almost animal. But it was an attractive air. He seemed much more open and straightforward than Parris whose play of expression was subtler, and more fleeting.

"Say, Parris, you and I are mighty near in the same fix! Did you ever think of that?

"How do you mean?"

"When your grandma dies you'll be all by yourself in the world, too."

Parris' head went down and he slid his hands deeper into his pockets.

Drake continued more cheerfully. "I'll have forty thousand dollars when I'm twenty-one."

"Will you, sure enough?"

"I guess you'll have more'n that, won't you, when your grandma dies?"

"I don't know. I never thought about it."

"Sure you will. I heard Uncle Rhodes say your place out there was worth a lot of money."

"How did you know about it?"

"Oh, I don't know. Everybody knows everything about everybody's business in this town."

"Well, I don't."

"You're a peculiar kind of a kid, anyhow, Parris."

"How, Drake? I wish you'd tell me."

"I don't know, just peculiar. I like you all right, though. You know that." This was unusual from Drake.

"Soon's I get my money I think I'll buy an interest in something or other and work hard, and in a couple of years get married."

Parris was stunned for a moment. Getting married was something he never had thought about. He looked respectfully at Drake.

"Sure enough, Drake?"

"Yep. Got the girl picked out, too."

"Who? Cassie Tower?"

"Lord, no. Her old man won't let you get in a mile of her. I'll tell you, but keep this to yourself—"

"Of course."

"Louise Gordon!"

"Oh."

"What's the matter? Don't you like her?"

"Why, of course, I guess I do. I don't know her any more. Ever since I dropped out of school I don't know many people."

"That's so, I guess. You do kind of live to yourself, don't you?"

"It isn't because I want to."

"You're a fool sometimes, kid. Don't miss all the good times. You go around with me, and I'll show you something. I want to try everything before I get married and settle down. Say, how about Cassie Tower? How did you happen to mention her a while ago?"

"I just happened to think of her."

"You go there all the time, don't you, to see her old man?"

"I never see her any more, though —just once in a while."

"That's the prettiest girl around here. Gee, wouldn't I like to take her out some night."

"I thought you said you were in love with Louise."

"Oh—I guess I'll marry Louise. That's different." Drake's tone changed, and somehow forbade further inquiry in that direction.

"Why don't you go for old Cass yourself? I think she used to like you a whole lot."

"I don't know."

"You're a funny kid, Parris. Didn't you ever have a girl friend?"

Parris flushed. Renee . . .

Drake's dancing eyes turned serious. "What's the matter with you? You're all white around the mouth. Sick?"

Parris shook his head. "No. I'm all right, I guess. I've got to go on home, though."

Parris tried to grin, tried to be offhand and easy. "So long, Drake."

"S'long, kid." He turned and went quickly back along the street, whistling very loud.

A thick scurry of gray-blue clouds was coming up, and a strong wind poured over the rim of the western rise toward the prairies.

A recollection shot through him like a physical pain. Renee, shabby and little, and something else that squeezed his chest at the thought of her.

He turned around and walked backward—a fine drive of sleet had begun and it stung his face like fire . . . she was somewhere — right now. She was talking, or helping her mother, or laughing—would she be laughing, maybe? Could she be somewhere laughing while he was thinking so hard about her, and remembering, and feeling so terrible? He tried hard to separate the many mental pictures of her—to see her as she stood in the moonlight that night of his birthday supper, and said: "I'd like to be your girl. I guess you're my sweetheart, too." She was such a baby. That was when he was 14. She was—he stopped, startled by a new thought. Why! He was 17 now, and—Renee was 16! That meant she was a big girl—growing up, tall, maybe, like Cassandra. He knew she thought about him just as he thought about her. . . . "Let's be sweethearts forever, Renee, you and me . . . all right . . . cross your heart? . . ."

No—no—no: she wouldn't forget, she couldn't!

Renee! What was he to do about it? He'd have to find her someday. And then—Drake's startling phrase crossed his mind. And then—why then, he might get married. Would he ever find her? He was sure Drake could help him when the time came. Drake was adventurous and practical.

As he edged up the long slippery terrace steps he thought of Drake's disquieting remark: "You and I are mighty near in the same fix."

This solid house and these secure acres of ground—they could pass away and belong to someone else. Drake had so casually said: "When the place is sold." It would be his when his grandmother died. Maybe he'd just keep it and try to run it as she did. But then he wouldn't be able to be a doctor, and he had to be a doctor. She wanted him to be, and of course he would do as she wished.

"Gee!" he muttered. "I wonder what's going to become of me."

$1,000,000 Gold Smuggling Racket Nipped

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 21—(AP).—Federal authorities claimed to-day they had uncovered a $1,000,000 gold-smuggling racket in an investigation resulting in five arrests.

Bernard Kushner, president of Kushner and Pine, Incorporated, a gold refining concern, and David Roth, a paper salesman, are being held by Federal authorities in New York city under an indictment charging a conspiracy to smuggle nearly $1,000,000 in gold bullion from Canada into the United States.

New York city police held Jack N. Rubin under $50,000 bail on an indictment charging him with receiving stolen property in connection with the case, the Assistant United States Attorney, Samuel H. Reis, New York, reported.

Robert M. Hitchcock, Assistant U.S. Attorney, Buffalo, said the arrests resulted from secret indictments handed down here several days ago by a Federal Grand Jury.

The jury's investigation, the disclosed, followed the arrest here last Oct. 5 of two men on charges of attempting to smuggle $10,000 in gold bullion from Canada into the United States via the International peace bridge.

They identified themselves as Charles Abrahams, 51, Buffalo, and Harry Julius, 42, the Bronx.

Held For Hearing.

Kushner and Roth were arraigned before Isaac Platt, U.S. Commissioner in New York, and held in bail for a hearing next Thursday.

Hitchcock said they probably would be brought to trial in Buffalo during the March term of Federal Court.

Hitchcock explained the indictment followed a lengthy investigation covering New York City, Buffalo and Canada, in which the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Attorney-General of Ontario participated. Fifteen indictments were returned at Toronto, he stated.

The investigation, Hitchcock added, uncovered a careful scheme by which a fortune in gold had been stolen from mines in Northern Ontario.

The gold, he said, was transported by car, smelted into small discs and the discs were placed in pockets of a vest-like garment worn under the clothes of smugglers.

I.O.D.E. Chapter Raised $1,470 In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21 (ENS)—One of the leading organizations whose efforts are devoted entirely to war work is the I.O.D.E. Bemersyde Chapter whose annual report released this week reveals the 61 members have once again made an outstanding contribution to the war efforts of this community. During the year just ended they raised a total of $1,470.00 by their various enterprises and sent out over 1,300 articles to soldiers, seamen, airmen, and various relief agencies, thus well maintaining their enviable record set in 1940.

The local Chapter held 21 regular meetings during the year and to facilitate efforts a group system was adopted whereby members were divided into six groups of 10 each headed by a convener and counsellor and pledged to raise a minimum of $20.00 by the group's initiative during the twelve months. As one of their major accomplishments during 1941 Trent Valley Chapter was formed, which is currently headed by Miss Clara Lucy, and embraces in its list of members many girls of high school age.

Their efforts in the educational field, which prior to the war formed one of their principal activities, included the usual scholarships to Public and Separate School 'entrance' pupils. These were based on both general efficiency and examination results and were awarded to two boys and two girls in each school at a total of $12.00 cost.

First in their money making activities during the year was the Salvage Collection which yielded upwards of $200.00, and the dance in the High School during the Christmas season that brought $140.00. Other undertakings included several cooking sales and teas; a Fashion show $51.07; Bingo, $42.40; draws on quilts, afghans, silverware, etc. $125.90; group money, $99.75; sale of quilts, $25.00; tinfoil, $3.56; mile of pennies, $65.00 Assisting substantially towards making their total income for the year were a number of generous cash donations, headed by a $76.90 contribution from pupils of the Campbellford Public School. Others were Seymour East Women's Institute, $25.00; Catholic Women's League, $25.00; St. John's W.A. $25.00 Town of Campbellford, $33.00 (to cover cost of mailing 200 Christmas parcels); Rotary Club, $36.00; St. John's W.A. $20.00; Miscellaneous $20.00.

On the expenditure side the purchase of wool accounted for $748.00, and this went into the making of 601 pairs of sox, to the army, navy and air force; 135 sweaters; 72 pairs of gloves; 63 helmets; 12 turtle neck sweaters; 65 scarves; 15 pairs of mitts; 12 tuck ins. Flannelette for quilts took another $21.00 and this went into the making of pyjamas, quilts, gowns, etc. To I.O.D.E. headquarters in Toronto as refugee supplies they sent 294 articles, such as pyjamas, baby's gowns, children's clothing, etc., also 32 quilts, three of which went directly to the hospital for Canadians at Basingstoke, England. Articles sent to soldiers and airmen included 5,768 cigarettes; 336 packages of tobacco; 123 packages of papers; 81 flashlights; 104 batteries; 80 pounds of Christmas cake; 104 packages of gum; 158 packages candy; 93 packages of razor blades; 114 chocolate bars. For the navy they completed ten ditty bags each of which contained 1 sweater, 2 pairs of sox, 1 scarf, 1 helmet, 1 pair gloves, New Testament, book of fiction, note paper and envelopes, 2 pencils, 2 bars of chocolate, gum, life savers (candy), razor blades, took brush and tooth paste.

Musical Program for Mission Circle

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21 (ENS)—An interesting musical program plus a sketch on the lives of two missionaries sponsored by the Presbyterian Church formed two of the principal parts of the program at the regular meeting of St. Andrew's Young Ladies' Mission Circle Thursday evening. Mrs. Harold Spencer was in charge of the program and it began with a Scripture reading by Mrs. C. Vessey, prayer by Mrs. F. Adamson, and a reading by Miss Dorothy Reynolds entitled "Responsibility." Mrs. Harry Fowlds gave two violin selections, "Melody in E Flat" and "Boat Song," both of which were greeted enthusiastically by the gathering in the home of Mrs. F. G. DeCarrol, and next was a piano duet, "Hungarian Dance," by Mrs. DeCarrol and Mrs. J. Clark. For her remarks dealing with missionary workers, Mrs. A. G. Thompson chose two ladies who were familiar to the gathering. One of these was Miss J. McConnell, who has been in the Jobat Hospital on the Bhil mission field of India, and Miss Helena Gibbs, who left this country in September last for China. Miss Gibbs is presently located at Kunming, which is a town on the Burma Road, and here she is doing evangelistic work principally among Chinese University students who have fled the occupied sections of the country.

The president, Miss Hazel Atkinson, took charge of the remainder of the meeting which included routine reports from the secretary, Miss Annie Parks, and the treasurer, Mrs. H. T. Scott, and at the close refreshments were served by the lunch conveners, Mrs. J. R. Belshaw, Mrs. McCulloch, and Miss Esther Innes.

Polish Relief.

Three more quilts with two of them being made from tops donated by members, were the achievement of the Tabernacle Church W.A. whose regular meeting was held in the English Line Church Thursday afternoon. All three quilts will form a part of the Polish relief quota being readied by the local I.O.D.E. Bemersyde Chapter. The president, Mrs. E. J. Mitchell, presided during the afternoon and thirty-five ladies attended. This is the second group of quilts completed by the group within a month for the Bemersyde Chapter.

By HENRY BELLAMANN

THE STORY: Schoolmates in smalltown Kings Row are orphaned Parris Mitchell, desperately ill after overseer father of childhood sweetheart Renee beats her, whisks her away; "all boy" Drake McHugh; tomboy Randy Monaghan; beautiful Cassandra Tower whose doctor father, town mystery, takes her out of school after social snub from Gordons; Louise Gordon, leading physician's daughter; half-wit Benny Singer, brunt of schoolboy jokes, whom lawyer Skeffington saves from jail when Benny challenges attack from bully Fulmer Green and gang. Madame von Eln, Parris' French grandmother whom he adores, plans for Parris' medical schooling in Vienna, knowing she cannot live long. Tom Carr, husband of insane Lucy Carr, suggests to Parris he study treatment of mental ills. Parris is reading medicine with Dr. Tower.

NEW WORLD OPENS

CHAPTER X

Here in his study, with the sunlight touching his heavy mahogany-colored hair, Dr. Tower looked younger than Parris had expected. Also he had an air that was not easy for Parris to define, but which he knew was unlike that of other men. Distinction yes; but also something quietly and intensely alive, maybe a shade menacing.

"You want to be a doctor?"

"Yes, sir."

"A good one, or just one of these country quacks?"

"I want to be a very good one, like—"

"Like whom?"

Parris blushed again. "Like those you read about."

"Where?"

This time Parris smiled. "I got into it that time, sir, didn't I? I guess I mean the—the legendary sort of doctor."

Doctor Tower smiled too at the unexpected word.

"I hear your grandmother proposes sending you to Vienna."

"Yes, sir."

"She must be extraordinary."

"She's quite wonderful," Parris said quietly, and Dr. Tower nodded gravely. Then he began to talk. Parris could not follow all of it, but he listened as he had never listened before. Part of the time he forgot to think of what the Doctor was actually saying in the brilliant and bewildering play of words. Some of it sounded a good deal like poetry.

Dr. Tower turned abruptly in his chair. "You aren't having psychology at Aberdeen, are you?"

"No, sir."

"Good. Don't take it."

"Very well, sir."

"You're at music, too, I hear."

"Yes, sir."

"Good. One of the best disciplines in the world."

"Yes, sir."

"You can read German, Gordon says."

"Yes, sir."

"And French?"

"Not as much as German."

"All right. You seem to have something to go on. You wouldn't be here if you didn't. Gordon says a good word for you. I'll see you on Friday."

"Thank you, sir. I enjoyed the afternoon very much."

"Yes? Well—" Dr. Tower seemed slightly embarrassed for an instant at Parris' old-fashioned manner.

"You may go out this way. If you follow the drive, you'll come out on Cherry Street."

Parris could not sleep that night. He was more deeply excited than he had even been in his life. "You go there all the time, don't you, to see her old man?"

"I never see her any more, though—just once in a while."

"That's the prettiest girl around here. Gee, wouldn't I like to take her out some night."

"I thought you said you were in love with Louise."

"Oh—I guess I'll marry Louise. That's different." Drake's tone changed, and somehow forbade further inquiry in that direction.

"Why don't you go for old Cass yourself? I think she used to like you a whole lot."

"I don't know."

"You're a funny kid, Parris. Didn't you ever have a girl friend?"

Parris flushed. Renee . . .

Drake's dancing eyes turned serious. "What's the matter with you? You're all white around the mouth. Sick?"

Parris shook his head. "No. I'm all right, I guess. I've got to go on home, though."

Parris tried to grin, tried to be off-hand and easy. "So long, Drake."

"S'long, kid." He turned and went quickly back along the street, whistling very loud.

A thick scurry of gray-blue clouds was coming up, and a strong wind poured over the rim of the western rise toward the prairies.

A recollection shot through him like a physical pain. Renee, shabby and little, and something else that squeezed his chest at the thought of her.

He turned around and walked backward—a fine drive of sleet had begun and it stung his face, like fire . . . she was somewhere—right now. She was talking, or helping her mother, or laughing—would she be laughing, maybe? Could she be somewhere laughing while he was thinking so hard about her, and remembering, and feeling so terrible? He tried hard to separate the many mental pictures of her—to see her as she stood in the moonlight that night of his birthday supper, and said: "I'd like to be your girl. I guess you're my sweetheart, too." She was such a baby. That was when he was 14. She was—he stopped, startled by a new thought. Why! He was 17 now, and—Renee was 16! That meant she was a big girl—growing up, tall, maybe, like Cassandra. He knew she thought about him just as he thought about her. . . . "Let's be sweethearts forever, Renee, you and me . . . all right . . . cross your heart? . . ."

No—no—no: she wouldn't forget, she couldn't!

Renee! What was he to do about it? He'd have to find her someday. And then—Drake's startling phrase crossed his mind. And then—why then, he might get married. Would he ever find her? He was sure Drake could help him when the time came. Drake was adventurous and practical.

As he edged up the long slippery terrace steps he thought of Drake's disquieting remark: "You and I are mighty near in the same fix."

This solid house and these secure acres of ground—they could pass away and belong to someone else. Drake had so casually said: "When the place is sold." It would be his when his grandmother died. Maybe he'd just keep it and try to run it as she did. But then he wouldn't be able to be a doctor, and he had to be a doctor. She wanted him to be, and of course he would do as she wished.

"Gee!" he muttered. "I wonder what's going to become of me."

Taking No Chances

CAIRO, Feb. 21—(AP)—Axis units, including some tanks, withdrew after exchanging artillery fire with the British Army some 10 miles south and southeast of Tmimi, the British command announced today.

A communique told of patrol activity and the movement of British mobile columns south of the Tmimi-El Mechili line, but said major Axis forces appeared to be north of that line with El Mechili, strategic desert crossroads, strongly held by the Axis.

$1,000,000 Gold Smuggling Racket Nipped

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 21—(AP).—Federal authorities claimed to-day they had uncovered a $1,000,000 gold-smuggling racket in an investigation resulting in five arrests.

Bernard Kushner, president of Kushner and Pine, Incorporated, a gold refining concern, and David Roth, a paper salesman, are being held by Federal authorities in New York city under an indictment charging a conspiracy to smuggle nearly $1,000,000 in gold bullion from Canada into the United States.

New York city police held Jack N. Rubin under $50,000 bail on an indictment charging him with receiving stolen property in connection with the case, the Assistant United States Attorney, Samuel H. Reis, New York, reported.

Robert M. Hitchcock, Assistant U.S. Attorney, Buffalo, said the arrests resulted from secret indictments handed down here several days ago by a Federal Grand Jury.

The jury's investigation, the disclosed, followed the arrest here last Oct. 5 of two men on charges of attempting to smuggle $10,000 in gold bullion from Canada into the United States via the International peace bridge.

They identified themselves as Charles Abrahams, 51, Buffalo, and Harry Julius, 42, the Bronx.

Held For Hearing.

Kushner and Roth were arraigned before Isaac Platt, U.S. Commissioner in New York, and held in bail for a hearing next Thursday.

Hitchcock said they probably would be brought to trial in Buffalo during the March term of Federal Court.

Hitchcock explained the indictment followed a lengthy investigation covering New York City, Buffalo and Canada, in which the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Attorney-General of Ontario participated. Fifteen indictments were returned at Toronto, he stated.

The investigation, Hitchcock added, uncovered a careful scheme by which a fortune in gold had been stolen from mines in Northern Ontario.

The gold, he said, was transported by car, smelted into small discs and the discs were placed in pockets of a vest-like garment worn under the clothes of smugglers.

IN MEMORIAM

MAHOOD.—In loving memory of our dear father, Alexander Mahood, who passed away eight years ago tomorrow, February 22, 1934.

Dear father, your voice still lingers,
In memories we see your face.
It has left us now forever,
While no one can take your place.
Two loving hands are resting,
A heart we loved is still,
A father we loved is waiting
For us just over the hill.
In heaven, dear father, we'll find you
When God's great will is done,
We'll stand once more beside you
When He calls for us to come.

—Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter Mabel, and sons Wilmot and Bert.

DELORME.—In memory of Stanley Delorme, who died two years ago today, February 21, 1940.

JOHNSON.—In loving memory of our dear father, Owen Johnson, who departed this life one year ago tomorrow, February 22, 1941.

His faint last wish we would liked to have heard,
And breathed in his ear one last parting word,
Only those who have lost are able to tell
The pain of the heart in not saying farewell.

—Lovingly remembered by his Daughters.

MILLIKEN.—In loving memory of Mr. F. R. Milliken, who passed away six years ago today, February 21, 1936.

Dreams Rise From Your Secret Self

Another "You" Wakes In Sleep

Do you know you have two selves?

One is the self everyone knows. The other not even YOU want to know! It thinks thoughts you're ashamed to recognize. It does things you'd never do.

And you can't get rid of it! wakes you when you sleep. makes you dream of the weirdest, most puzzling things. Riding to work, your train whizzes past your station and the next one and the next one! You're filled with panic!

This is because your secret self, your "subconscious," is seething with problems, emotions you ignore. In dreams it tries to tell you about them, using its own strange, symbolic language.

In the dream of the train it says: "Don't let your impulses run away with you!" If you've been attracted to someone else's beau, that is an obvious warning!

So is a dream of wandering in an empty, dreary world—or a dream of a burning house.

Our 32-page booklet explains many such common dreams and dream symbols — according to psychoanalysis; including flying, falling off cliffs, being seen naked. Discusses nightmares, "prophetic" dreams.

For the copy of "The Meaning of Dreams" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

PLACE THE LEAD

IN NO TRUMP play especially, but also sometimes in suit play, it is important to make sure you do not allow the lead to be gained by the player who is in position to threaten some guarded honor. If his partner leads, he will have to lead up to it, making it a sure trick-taker, instead of through it, which may result in its being knocked off. The reason this is so important in No Trump contracts is that, if you miss the play, the opponents may be able to run off an entire suit against you.

West	North / South	East
	♠ Q 10 4 ♥ A 6 ♦ 8 4 3 ♣ A J 9 7 3
♠ 9 8 6 3 ♥ 10 8 5 3 ♦ Q 7 5 2 ♣ 8	N. / W. E. / S.	♠ K J 7 2 ♥ 9 4 2 ♦ J 10 6 ♣ K Q 10
	♠ A 5 ♥ K Q J 7 ♦ A K 9 ♣ 6 5 4 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

After West led the spade 3, South decided he was more likely to hold the K than was his partner, so he called the Q from dummy and the K went on. South, just from force of habit more than anything else, decided to hold up and take the second spade, which he did when East led back the 2. There was thereafter no chance at all to make the contract.

With eight tricks in sight, he made a far-fetched try for a ninth by leading the club 2 and trying to finesse the J, hoping West had the K and Q. East, of course, won with the Q, cashed the spade J to drop the 10, and led the spade 7 to the 9. West returned a diamond to South, who then led a club, intending to try to drop the missing honors with the A, but when this failed he was through.

South's best play on the spade lead was the 10 from dummy. If that forced the K, then his contract would have been safe, with the highest two honors left, and his ninth trick built right there. As the cards lay, no matter which he played, East would cover and South must win, then see that West did not get the lead again. To the second trick, South should have played to lose a club to East. If the latter returned a spade, there would be the ninth trick set up. If he did not, South should have led another club, letting East win. Then, no matter what East did, South could make not only his 3 No Trumps, but an extra trick as well.

Mr. McLarty said the plan proposed by the government was not unchangeable and he would welcome any possible suggestions for improvement from the House or the special committee to be set up. Mr. Hanson, after re-affirming his opposition to the plebiscite in principle, promised to examine the proposals in a non-partisan fashion and try to improve on them, if possible.

Evidence of Faith.

"The important point for the House to remember," said Mr. McLarty, "is that this bill, when finally passed, will be evidence, and conclusive evidence that the Parliament of Canada, notwithstanding that the clouds may be threatening and the skies black, has kept faith with the people of this country.

"At a time when we are fighting to maintain the democratic way of life throughout the world, let us endeavour in every way possible to maintain it in our own country."

Mr. Hanson said the government should tell the House and the country what it would do if the result of the plebiscite were indecisive. It was then that a member interrupted to say Mr. Hanson should go out and make it decisive.

Mr. Hanson asked if the member meant it was his responsibility and when the answer was that it was "everybody's" he replied, it was "not my baby."

"I prefer the direct approach rather than the indirect approach of gentlemen opposite on a matter of principle,' he said.

"I am prepared to stake my political life, such as it may be, on a matter of principle while honorable gentlemen opposite are seeking to hide their skins behind a subterfuge, to do by the back-door method something they do not dare to do at the front door."

Yesterday's sitting was the first since disposal of the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne and it was taken up with government business.

Estimates Tabled

The main non-war estimates for the fiscal year 1942-43 were tabled by Finance Minister Ilsley. They total $454,884,365 against $509,566,-813 voted for the present fiscal year in the main and supplementary estimates.

Notable reductions in the new estimates compared with last year's are $29,775,000 in the Department of Agriculture on the wheat acreage reduction program for which $35,-000,000 was voted last session; $45,-000,000 in the Finance Department on subsidies to the provinces to compensate them for loss of income tax and other revenue, provision for which is expected to be made later; and $3,050,000 in the Pensions and Health Department on European War pensions, war veterans' allowances and unemployment assistance to veterans.

The number of persons receiving pensions for First Great War disabilities has been decreasing in recent years due to deaths, and improved employment conditions are believed to have reduced the demands for war veterans' allowances and unemployment assistance.

Notable increases in the new estimates over last year are $4,000,-000 in the Labor Department to take care of the Government's contribution to the Unemployment Insurance Fund; $487,500 in the National Defence Department to finance an expansion of cadet training and $4,921,000 in the Post Office Department for mail services.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Hard To Beat

Very Easy to Make. No Cooking. Saves Big Money.

No matter what you've been using for coughs due to colds, you'll be the first to admit that this surprising relief, mixed in your own kitchen, is hard to beat, for real results.

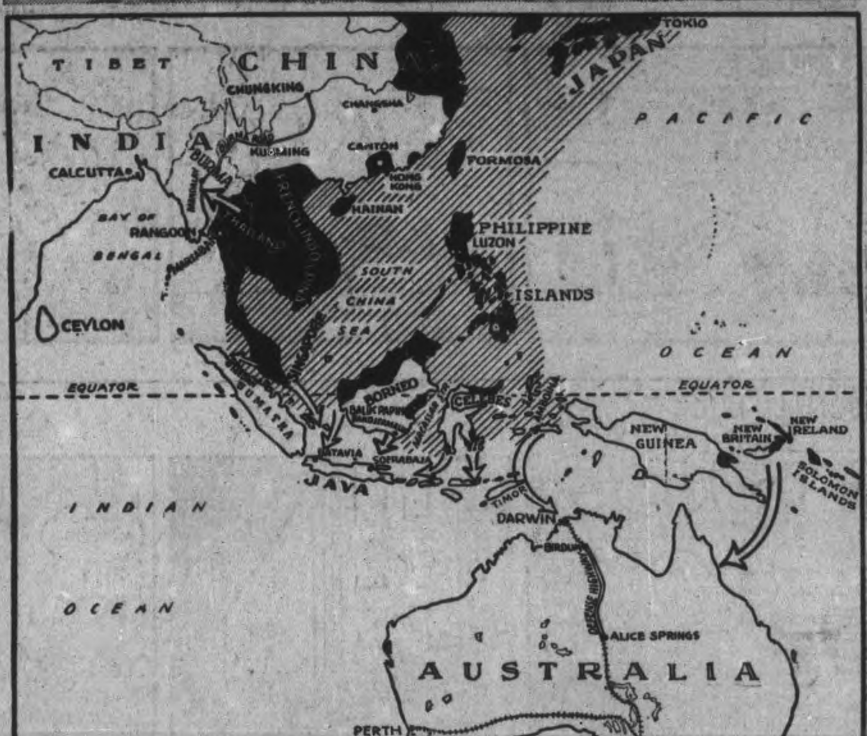
Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—anyone can do it. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really excellent cough relief—about 4 times as much for your money. Tastes fine—children love it—and it never spoils.

You can feel this home mixture taking right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness and difficult breathing, and lets you sleep. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not satisfied, your money will be refunded.

Australia Has Own "Burma Road" To Defend

Australia's "Burma road"—new defense highway



The continent of Australia looms in the Pacific war news more and more as the Japanese commence their attack on the "land down under." Australia, with a "Burma road" of its own to protect, has mobilized every man fit to shoulder a rifle. With the fall of Singapore, the Japanese were expected to begin an all-out attack on the Dutch East Indies, where they established many beachheads and which gives them bases for possible later air assaults on Australia. Map shows the Australian continent and its relation with the theatre of war. Arrows indicate possible Jap thrusts. The picture at TOP shows the new defence highway which runs across the barren desert from Alice Springs to Birdum. From there a railroad line runs to Darwin, site of a naval base, which has received its first Jap aerial attack. This Australian "Burma road" thus permits movement of men and materials from the industrial south to the north coast.

Peterboro County Schools

Early Histories of Daisy D, McGill's and Elgin Schools All In Asphodel Are All Closely Related.

Several Asphodel schools are grouped together because their respective "logs" are not as factually detailed as some of the others received from the fyle which has been collected by School Inspector L. W. Copp.

School Section No. 6 is generally known as Daisy D School. It is situated west of Norwood in the Daisy D Cheese Factory area. The first school was built of logs, about two hundred yards south of the present school. The exact date of its completion is not known. It was replaced in 1868 by a red brick school which was used until 1906 when it was pronounced unsafe. The old building was torn down and a new school was built on the present site. This school was also of bricks.

It was used until January, 1914, when it was destroyed by fire. School was held for the remainder of the term in a log house which stood just north of the present highway. In September 1914, the new school was ready for occupation. It cost approximately $2,800.

Teachers from 1914 have been Mary Anderson, 1914-16; Cecilia Coughlin, 1916-19; Mary English, 1919-20; Virginia Coughlin, 1920-21; Mary Barry, 1921-26; Kathleen McCarthy, 1926-30; Anna McNulty, 1930-34; Florence Burgess, 1934-36; Bertille Hurley, 1936-40; Patricia Coughlin, 1940.

At the end of the year 1940, F. Webster of Norwood was chairman and Leo English, secretary-treasurer.

S. S. No. 7, Asphodel.

Located in the Wildman Settlement, and known as McGill's School, the School Section No. 7 extends from No. 7 Highway south to the Trent River. The school is about three miles to the east of the Norwood-Hastings Road.

The early settlers were chiefly of Irish origin from the County of Donegal. In fact, that part of Asphodel was locally referred to as Donegal.

Some of the first settlers were: John Wildman, George Buck, John Brown Hugh Scott, Alexander McGee, James Buck, James McMillan, W. M. Mackey, Abraham Scott, Robert Leeper, Alexander Stewart, W. M. Stevenson, George Scott, Paul Scott, Tom Brown Jesse Robinson, John Fitzpatrick, Richard Healey, Robert Graham, Robert Gardner, W. M. McKee.

Among the earlier teachers were Miss Friend, Professor Pollock, Miss Breckenridge, Miss Watters, Miss Moore Mr. Patterson, Mrs. Paul Scott.

Modern desks were installed in 1926; piano bought about the same date; pictures, new chair and clock also bought then. The school was always heated by a stove, but in 1926 it was equipped with a "jacket" for better circulation of heat. A flower bed was arranged in 1935 by George Scott; 200 tulips were planted.

S. S. No. 9, Asphodel.

Located west of Hastings on the road from Keene and sometimes called Elgin School.

The first school was a log building. The property was a gift from J. W. Fife. He requested that the name Elgin be given to the school, named after a place called Elgin in Scotland from which he had come to Canada. The old school was used for 15 to 20 years. In 1880 the present brick building was constructed by D. S. Nelson, who obtained the contract by tender. The log school and its contents were sold to Mr. Burton.

J. W. Fife was secretary of the school at that time, and Peter McNaughton was the first teacher in the new building.

The latest improvement was the wiring of the school in 1937 for the electric light. The Sunday School has always been held in the school, whose furnishings include a piano.

Secretaries of the section since 1880 were: J. W. Fife, George Elliott William Thistlewaite, his son Andrew Thistlethwaite, John Scott, H. A. Thistlethwaite, Joseph O'Grady, R. J. Leeper.

The teachers from 1880: Peter McNaughton, Miss Jackson, Miss Page, Mr. Tudhope, Miss Stinson, M. Elliott, Thomas Small F. Truscot, Miss Baptie, Lena McMillen, Percy Clark, Mr. Hunter, Scott Wildman, Miss Howson, Miss G. Carter, Miss Dempsey, Miss M. A. Carter Miss Weir, L. O'Keefe, R. M. McNaughton, R. S. Quire, Mrs. Hinton, B Breckenridge, I. Richardson, M. Comrie, Eleanor Johnson.

estimated here but Aneta, Netherlands news agency, said there are four factors which might count in favor of the Java defenders. They are listed as:—

1. The Netherlands Indies army, which so far has fought mainly delaying actions in outlying sectors, remains virtually unimpaired and ready for action.

2. The Allied Fleet in these waters could not be fully utilized in defending Palembang, oil centre in Sumatra, and other points lest Java be left exposed, are able to concentrate on defence of this island.

3. The United Nations Air Force will be able to operate in full strength from Java. It has not been able to do so heretofore for the reasons which curtailed naval operations.

4. Java has strong coastal defences believed capable of checking the first blows, providing time for troops to come up from the interior and concentrate on the points in greatest danger.

The military command in Java has learned the danger of leaving scows and other small boats where the Japanese can put their hands on them. Thus it is believed that the command will not let such craft fall into the hands of the Japanese, even if it becomes necessary to destroy all the small boats on Java.

Diplomat Trade Means Trip Round World

OTTAWA, Feb. 21.—An exchange of diplomatic and other officials between Canada and the United States, on the one hand, and Japan, on the other, will necessitate a round-the-world voyage by the officials of all three countries, according to present plans.

While negotiations for the exchange are not yet complete, it is learned that the place of exchange selected is the port of Lorenzo Marquez, in Portuguese East Africa, on the East Coast, a short distance north of Natal.

Canada's officials and personnel who will be included in the proposed exchange are D'Arcy Greer, Charges d'Affaires in Tokyo, an assistant trade commissioner, two secretaries and a number of stenographers, also a trade commissioner stationed at Shanghai and an immigration official who was at Hong Kong.

Heading the list of American officials to figure in the exchange will be Hon. Joseph Grew, American Ambassador to Tokyo, and Mrs. Grew, the father and mother of Mrs. Jay Pierrepont Moffatt, wife of the American Minister in this city.

Another feature of the proposed exchange is that a number of American newspaper correspondents who were caught in the net of hostilities in Japan and Japanese-occupied China will come home via the East African port. Their release came with their recognition as persons of diplomatic rank, the first occasion on which newspaper writers have been accorded that rank for purposes of exchange.

On Japan's side of the deal, there will be the return home through the proposed exchange of Hon. Saijiro Yoshizawa, Japanese Minister to Canada, and his extensive staff, while from the United States will go the Japanese Ambassador to the United States and his staff.

lication of reports reads: "If the Senate or House of Commons, in pursuance of a resolution, holds a secret session, no person shall in any newspaper, periodical, circular or other publication, or in any public speech, publish any report of description of the proceedings at that session, except such report or description thereof as may be officially communicated through the Speaker of the House."

Opposed to Session

Mr. King said the Government had considered secret sessions inadvisable if they could be avoided but had agreed to requests made at the start of the present session to avoid misunderstanding which might lead to belief the Government was withholding information.

Canada's place in combined plans with the British Empire, the United States and other of the Allied nations made the responsibity of providing information a difficult one.

"It is going to be exceedingly difficult," Mr. King said, "for the government to disclose much information with respect to questions which will rise in the minds of many members, without giving information which if it were ever publicly disclosed, would react, not against the Government of Canada, but against the war effort of the combined nations.

"And I want to make it perfectly clear that when the secret session is held, the Government will have to keep constantly in mind that great and very grave responsibility."

Communications had been received from Britain "time and again" expressing regret the Canadian Government had found it necessary to make statements on some phases of Canada's war effort. There was a danger that some members might unconsciously divulge important information in the course of casual conversation.

The session was being held not so the Government might disclose critical information, but to meet the wish of some members to get information which would not otherwise be available, he said.

In British secret sessions such matters as equipment and strategy were not discussed, but members made suggestions and criticisms which they would hesitate to make on the floor of an open house.

Dubious Of Value

The Conservative House Leader, Hon. R. B. Hanson expressed some doubt on the value of a secret session because information could not be used by the members.

T. L. Church (Cons-Toronto Broadview), opposed a secret session. He suggested as an alternative formation of an "army council" to discuss matters of strategy with the three ministers representing the armed forces.

Mr. Church objected to the press, "which has been doing a magnificent work and giving leadership in this war all over Canada," being "left out in the cold" by a secret session.

"No one wants any military secrets or state secrets revealed," he said. "They should not be revealed even at a secret meeting."

M. J. Coldwell, acting C.C.F. House-leader, expressed support for a secret session which, he said, would enable members to obtain a background for future discussions on Canada's war effort.

E. G. Hansell (New Democracy-MacLeod) also supported the resolution but urged that care be taken to avoid leakage of any confidential information which might be divulged.

Reds Want Food

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)

RUSSIA is asking the United States for considerable quantities of canned meats, animal fats, vegetable oils, butter and other concentrated foods in addition to the wheat, flour and sugar it already is receiving.

The United States and Britain are jointly committed to supply Russia with about 2,500,000 tons of wheat and flour and 880,000 tons of sugar this year. Canada will supply part of the wheat.

The American officials said the necessity of giving vital war materials first priority to shipping facilities of the United Nations may make it advisable to use lend-lease funds to purchase food for Russia in friendly countries closer to unobstructed Russian ports.

Mr. McLarty said the plan proposed by the government was not unchangeable and he would welcome any possible suggestions for improvement from the House or the special committee to be set up. Mr. Hanson, after re-affirming his opposition to the plebiscite in principle, promised to examine the proposals in a non-partisan fashion and try to improve on them, if possible.

Evidence of Faith.

"The important point for the House to remember," said Mr. McLarty, "is that this bill, when finally passed, will be evidence, and conclusive evidence that the Parliament of Canada, notwithstanding that the clouds may be threatening and the skies black, has kept faith with the people of this country.

"At a time when we are fighting to maintain the democratic way of life throughout the world, let us endeavour in every way possible to maintain it in our own country."

Mr. Hanson said the government should tell the House and the country what it would do if the result of the plebiscite were indecisive. It was then that a member interrupted to say Mr. Hanson should go out and make it decisive.

Mr. Hanson asked if the member meant it was his responsibility and when the answer was that it was "everybody's" he replied, it was "not my baby."

"I prefer the direct approach rather than the indirect approach of gentlemen opposite on a matter of principle," he said.

"I am prepared to stake my political life, such as it may be, on a matter of principle while honorable gentlemen opposite are seeking to hide their skins behind a subterfuge, to do by the back-door method something they do not dare to do at the front door."

Yesterday's sitting was the first since disposal of the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne and it was taken up with government business.

Estimates Tabled

The main non-war estimates for the fiscal year 1942-43 were tabled by Finance Minister Ilsley. They total $454,884,365 against $509,566,813 voted for the present fiscal year in the main and supplementary estimates.

Notable reductions in the new estimates compared with last year's are $29,795,000 in the Department of Agriculture on the wheat acreage reduction program for which $35,000,000 was voted last session; $45,000,000 in the Finance Department on subsidies to the provinces to compensate them for loss of income tax and other revenue, provision for which is expected to be made later; and $3,050,000 in the Pensions and Health Department on European War pensions, war veterans' allowances and unemployment assistance to veterans.

The number of persons receiving pensions for First Great War disabilities has been decreasing in recent years due to deaths, and improved employment conditions are believed to have reduced the demands for war veterans' allowances and unemployment assistance.

Notable increases in the new estimates over last year are $4,000,000 in the Labor Department to take care of the Government's contribution to the Unemployment Insurance Fund; $487,500 in the National Defence Department to finance an expansion of cadet training and $4,921,000 in the Post Office Department for mail services.

Australia Has Own "Burma Road" To Defend

Australia's "Burma road"—new defense highway

The continent of Australia looms in the Pacific war news more and more as the Japanese commence their attack on the "land down under." Australia, with a "Burma road" of its own to protect, has mobilized every man fit to shoulder a rifle. With the fall of Singapore, the Japanese were expected to begin an all-out attack on the Dutch East Indies, where they established many beachheads and which gives them bases for possible later air assaults on Australia. Map shows the Australian continent and its relation with the theatre of war. Arrows indicate possible Jap thrusts. The picture at TOP shows the new defence highway which runs across the barren desert from Alice Springs to Birdum. From there a railroad line runs to Darwin, site of a naval base, which has received its first Jap aerial attack. This Australian "Burma road" thus permits movement of men and materials from the industrial south to the north coast.

Peterboro County Schools

Early Histories of Daisy D, McGill's and Elgin Schools All In Asphodel Are All Closely Related.

Several Asphodel schools are grouped together because their respective "logs" are not as factually detailed as some of the others received from the fyle which has been collected by School Inspector L. W. Copp.

School Section No. 6 is generally known as Daisy D School. It is situated west of Norwood in the Daisy D Cheese Factory area. The first school was built of logs, about two hundred yards south of the present school. The exact date of its completion is not known. It was replaced in 1868 by a red brick school which was used until 1906 when it was pronounced unsafe. The old building was torn down and a new school was built on the present site. This school was also of bricks.

It was used until January, 1914, when it was destroyed by fire. School was held for the remainder of the term in a log house which stood just north of the present highway. In September 1914, the new school was ready for occupation. It cost approximately $2,800.

Teachers from 1914 have been Mary Anderson, 1914-16; Cecilia Coughlin, 1916-19; Mary English, 1919-20; Virginia Coughlin, 1920-21; Mary Barry, 1921-26; Kathleen McCarthy, 1926-30; Anna McNulty, 1930-34; Florence Burgess, 1934-36; Bertilie Hurley, 1936-40; Patricia Coughlin, 1940.

At the end of the year 1940, F. Webster of Norwood was chairman and Leo English, secretary-treasurer.

S. S. No. 7, Asphodel.

Located in the Wildman Settlement, and known as McGill's School, the School Section No. 7 extends from No. 7 Highway south to the Trent River. The school is about three miles to the east of the Norwood-Hastings Road.

The early settlers were chiefly of Irish origin from the County of Donegal. In fact, that part of Asphodel was locally referred to as Donegal.

Some of the first settlers were: John Wildman, George Buck, John Brown Hugh Scott, Alexander McGee, James Buck, James McMillan, W. M. Mackey, Abraham Scott, Robert Leeper, Alexander Stewart, W. M. Stevenson, George Scott, Paul Scott, Tom Brown, Jesse Robinson, John Fitzpatrick, Richard Healey, Robert Graham, Robert Gardner, W. M. McKee.

Among the earlier teachers were Miss Friend, Professor Pollock, Miss Breckenridge, Miss Watters, Miss Moore Mr. Patterson, Mrs. Paul Scott.

Modern desks were installed in 1926; piano bought about the same date; pictures, new chair and clock also bought then. The school was always heated by a stove, but in 1926 it was equipped with a "jacket" for better circulation of heat. A flower bed was arranged in 1935 by George Scott; 200 tulips were planted.

S. S. No. 9, Asphodel.

Located west of Hastings on the road from Keene and sometimes called Elgin School.

The first school was a log building. The property was a gift from J. W. Fife. He requested that the name Elgin be given to the school, named after a place called Elgin in Scotland from which he had come to Canada. The old school was used for 15 to 20 years. In 1880 the present brick building was constructed by D. S. Nelson, who obtained the contract by tender. The log school and its contents were sold to Mr. Burton.

J. W. Fife was secretary of the school at that time, and Peter McNaughton was the first teacher in the new building.

The latest improvement was the wiring of the school in 1937 for the electric light. The Sunday School has always been held in the school, whose furnishings include a piano.

Secretaries of the section since 1880 were: J. W. Fife, George Elliott William Thistlewaite, his son Andrew Thistlethwaite, John Scott, H. A. Thistlethwaite, Joseph O'Grady, R. J. Leeper.

The teachers from 1880: Peter McNaughton, Miss Jackson, Miss Page, Mr. Tudhope, Miss Stinson, M. Elliott, Thomas Small, F. Truscot, Miss Baptie, Lena McMillen, Percy Clark, Mr. Hunter, Scott Wildman, Miss Howson, Miss G. Carter, Miss Dempsey, Miss M. A. Carter Miss Weir, L. O'Keefe, R. M. McNaughton, R. S. Quire, Mrs. Hinton, B. Breckenridge, I. Richardson, M. Comrie, Eleanor Johnson.

estimated here but Aneta, Netherlands news agency, said there are four factors which might count in favor of the Java defenders. They are listed as:—

1. The Netherlands Indies army, which so far has fought mainly delaying actions in outlying sectors, remains virtually unimpaired and ready for action.

2. The Allied Fleet in these waters could not be fully utilized in defending Palembang, oil centre in Sumatra, and other points lest Java be left exposed, are able to concentrate on defence of this island.

4. Java has strong coastal defences believed capable of checking the first blows, providing time for troops to come up from the interior and concentrate on the points in greatest danger.

The military command in Java has learned the danger of leaving scows and other small boats where the Japanese can put their hands on them. Thus it is believed that the command will not let such craft fall into the hands of the Japanese, even if it becomes necessary to destroy all the small boats on Java.

lication of reports reads: "If the Senate or House of Commons, in pursuance of a resolution, holds a secret session, no person shall in any newspaper, periodical, circular or other publication, or in any public speech, publish any report of description of the proceedings at that session, except such report or description thereof as may be officially communicated through the Speaker of the House."

Opposed to Session

Mr. King said the Government had considered secret sessions inadvisable if they could be avoided but had agreed to requests made at the start of the present session to avoid misunderstanding which might lead to belief the Government was withholding information.

Canada's place in combined plans with the British Empire, the United States and other of the Allied nations made the responsibity of providing information a difficult one.

"It is going to be exceedingly difficult," Mr. King said, "for the government to disclose much information with respect to questions which will rise in the minds of many members, without giving information which if it were ever publicly disclosed, would react, not against the Government of Canada, but against the war effort of the combined nations.

"And I want to make it perfectly clear that when the secret session is held, the Government will have to keep constantly in mind that great and very grave responsibility."

Communications had been received from Britain "time and again" expressing regret the Canadian Government had found it necessary to make statements on some phases of Canada's war effort. There was a danger that some members might unconsciously divulge important information in the course of casual conversation.

The session was being held not so the Government might disclose critical information, but to meet the wish of some members to get information which would not otherwise be available, he said.

In British secret sessions such matters as equipment and strategy were not discussed, but members made suggestions and criticisms which they would hesitate to make on the floor of an open house.

Dubious Of Value

The Conservative House Leader, Hon. R. B. Hanson expressed some doubt on the value of a secret session because information could not be used by the members.

T. L. Church (Cons-Toronto Broadview), opposed a secret session. He suggested as an alternative formation of an "army council" to discuss matters of strategy with the three ministers representing the armed forces.

Mr. Church objected to the press, "which has been doing a magnificent work and giving leadership in this war all over Canada," being "left out in the cold" by a secret session.

"No one wants any military secrets or state secrets revealed," he said. "They should not be revealed even at a secret meeting."

M. J. Coldwell, acting C.C.F. House-leader, expressed support for a secret session which, he said, would enable members to obtain a background for future discussions on Canada's war effort.

E. G. Hansell (New Democracy-MacLeod) also supported the resolution but urged that care be taken to avoid leakage of any confidential information which might be divulged.

Reds Want Food

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)

RUSSIA is asking the United States for considerable quantities of canned meats, animal fats, vegetable oils, butter and other concentrated foods in addition to the wheat, flour and sugar it already is receiving.

The United States and Britain are jointly committed to supply Russia with about 2,500,000 tons of wheat and flour and 850,000 tons of sugar this year. Canada will supply part of the wheat.

The American officials said the necessity of giving vital war materials first priority to shipping facilities of the United Nations may make it advisable to use lend-lease funds to purchase food for Russia in friendly countries closer to unobstructed Russian ports.

JAPS STRANDED ON BALI 1 SHIP OF FLEET ESCAPES

BANDOENG, N.E.I., Feb. 23 (AP)—Netherlands and American air and naval forces destroyed and scattered the entire Japanese invasion fleet which attacked Bali last week, but some of the invaders have succeeded in getting ashore, overrunning part of the island and seizing the airport at Denpasar.

A communique of the Netherlands Indies armed forces declared, however, that the Japanese who had landed through a hail of bombs from American and Netherlands air forces were isolated now from supplies and reinforcements.

"Not a single warship or transport remained near Bali to give the Japanese troops support or supplies" after big formations of four-motored bombers, dive bombers and fighters, and Netherlands and American cruisers and destroyers attacked the Japanese armada, the communique said.

A statement issued by the Netherlands Indies Government said "a single ship which succeeded in escaping destruction has fled."

The size of the destroyed and scattered Japanese force was not announced. The United States War Department in Washington said last Saturday, however, that its air force twice attacked one Japanese naval formation consisting of two cruisers, four or five destroyers and four transports.

Still, it appeared probable that other formations of warships and transports also were attacked.

Big Merchantman Fired

A United Nations communique said Allied dive bombers set a Japanese merchantman of more than 10,000 tons afire with direct hits in the Strait of Bangka, off Sumatra, 250 miles northwest of Batavia, and machine-gunned other large ships in that vicinity.

Among other widespread aerial operations, the communique said two reconnaissance planes escaped from 17 Japanese naval planes and "successfully completed their tasks."

Four Japanese planes were shot down and a fifth badly damaged during Japanese attacks yesterday on Java air fields.

Allied bombers also heavily attacked the airdrome at Denpasar on southeastern Bali which the Japanese had occupied, the communique said.

"The magnificent successes of the Allied sea and air forces justify the belief that conquest of Bali means to the Japanese as large a pyrrhic victory as the conquest of, burning homes at Tarakan, Balik Papan and Palembang," the government statement said, referring to the great property destruction at those productive oil centres of Borneo and Sumatraebefore their capture by the Japanese.

Stalin Pledges Russia Victory

81 Warships Sunk On Hun In 7 Months

Hard Fight Still Ahead Premier Admits On Red Army Day

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—(AP)— The Red Army has sunk 81 warships and 276 auxiliary vessels carrying hundreds of tanks and guns and tens of thousands of shells in seven monthes of war against Germany, the Moscow radio declared to-day.

Manifesting deep confidence to millions of Russians joyfully celebrating the Red Army's 24th anniversary, Premier Joseph Stalin called to-day for "complete victory" in a "war of liberation" against Germany, set larger goals for workers supplying the advancing army, and warned the Soviet Union that it still faced a tremendous and hard fight.

The enemy, Premier Stalin declared in a memorable order of the day to the Red Army, "is not yet beaten and a stern struggle is ahead of us." His address was broadcast to all the Russians and to the world.

But he made this pledge:

"We shall throw the enemy from the gates of Leningrad and liberate White Russia, the Ukraine and the Crimea.

"The Red banner will fly everywhere it has flown before...I wish you complete victory over the German-Fascist invaders...Forward!"

More Details Expected.

The Russians—and the world, too—had anticipated eagerly the 24th anniversary of creation of the army which threw back the Nazi forces in the deep snows of the western front. They had expected that widespread liberation of Soviet soil from the Germans would be announced, but the morning hours passed in Moscow without anything more specific than the midnight communique, which merely repeated generalities that the Red Army "advanced and took several occupied places."

The mid-day communique, similarly, adhered to the customary report that "our troops continued to wage active battle operations" and to citations for individual units, such as one which "occupied an important populated place."

Battles Rage Unabated With British Taking Costly Toll

RANGOON, Burma, Feb. 23 (CP)—The battle for Burma raged in full fury today, with Japanese invading forces striking toward the Sittang river, the mouth of which is about 70 miles from Rangoon and only 20 miles from the railway connecting this port with the Burma supply road to China.

The fighting apparently is sweeping over a wide area between the Sittang and Bilin river, some 30 miles to the east, which the Japanese succeeded in crossing at several points last week despite fierce resistance.

A communique issued yesterday from British headquarters indicated that the troops were falling back slowly upon the Sittang, last natural line of defence protecting the Burma Road, but said the British were taking heavy toll of the Japs with Allied planes offering strong support.

British and American pilots were said to be blasting at Japanese columns and bases, and were credited officially with wrecking many vehicles, and yesterday shot down 4 Japs.

Japanese planes, meanwhile, bombed Mamyo, 90 miles north of Rangoon, and struck at several other towns in northern Burma during the week-end.

Charge Kirkland Strikers Barred

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Feb. 23 (CP)—Joseph Rankin, vice-president of the Kirkland Lake local of the International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union, said today he had sent a telegram to Labor Minister Mitchell last night protesting what he termed "discrimination and operator hypocrisy" in connection with the recent return of workers to eight district mines after a lengthy strike.

There was no immediate comment from the mine operators.

Mr. Rankin said he had wired the federal labor minister as follows:

With the exception of two mines, discrimination is rife in Kirkland Lake. In evidence of this statement is the fact that to date not one member of the executive board of Local 240 had been rehired in spite of the fact they have from eight to 15 years service records with the mines. Only one of the mine strike captains, who average 18 years each in mining experience, has been taken back. Virtually all active union members have been debarred from employment at the mines.

Great West Life Adds 10 Million As Loan Climbs

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Word reached national Victory Loan headquarters today reporting a $10,000,000 subscription to the Second Victory loan from the Great West Life Assurance Company at Winnipeg, sending the second week of the campaign for $600,000,000 off to a flying start.

Following tabulation of week-end subscriptions from provinces, the committee had earlier announced a Saturday total of $41,977,100, and a cumulative total of $255,249,150 for the first week of the three-weeks' campaign.

Latest reports from municipalities included: Winnipeg, 89 per cent of its quota reached; Moose Jaw 78 per cent; Regina 74 per cent; Summerside, P.E.I. 73 per cent; Glace Bay, N.S., 66 per cent; Charlottetown 63 per cent; Saskatoon 62 per cent; Sydney, N.S., 62 per cent; Saint John, 61 per cent; Moncton 58 per cent; Halifax 51 per cent; Victoria 48 per cent; Calgary, 43 per cent; and Brandon, Man., 39 per cent.

Many Over the Top

Typical instances of all-out responses from employees of various firms and institutions include the case of workers of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corp., and subsidiaries, who have already subscribed $1,250,000, the loan committee said. The Toronto offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, which were set a quota of $22,000, have already subscribed $100,000.

Colliers in the town of New Waterford, are strongly in support of the loan. The town was the first in Nova Scotia to win an honor pennant and also the first to win a second pennant. The only other pennant town in the province is North Sydney.

Canadian Industries Limited reported from Montreal a subscription of $2,500,000 which is included in the week-end total announced last night. Other subscriptions reported included Huron and Erie Mortgage Co. $750,000; Zellers Limited $500,000; Montreal Tramways Co. $500,000.

Up to Saturday night bonds sales averaged a little more than $42,500,500 a day for the campaign's first week.

4 Miles Of Darwin Ry. Bombed, Now Fixed; Civilians Move Out

CANBERRA, Feb. 23— (AP).—The northern part of Northern territory of Australia, including bomb-scarred Darwin, was placed under military control today, Army Minister Francis Forde announced.

Towns and the territory as far south as Birdum, southern terminus of of a rail from Darwin, were included.

From Birdum to Alice Spring, a 600-mile all-weather highway links with another railway which extends to Melbourne, Sydney, Adelaide and other centres in the more heavily-populated areas of the south.

Darwin had two heavy air raids last week, and the alarms were sounded a third time. Four miles of the southbound railway were damaged by Japanese bombs, but quickly repaired.

MELBOURNE, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Darwin, after its baptism of bombing by the Japanese Thursday, is a "ghost town" from the civilian viewpoint, but it is growing stronger daily in a miltiary way, the Melbourne Herald said today in a dispatch from the north coast city.

Bomb craters, some nine feet deep mark its streets and rubble is scattered about the town. A cable barrel weighing more than a half a ton was lifted over a row of houses and deposited 200 yards away.

Japanese machine-gunners used armor-piercing bullets in the two raids last Thursday. They apparently exepected to find more ships in the harbor, the dispatch said. However, ther were comparatively few vessels there, it was said.

In Darwin, the newspaper said, there are no illusions about the Japanese and they are expected to return in an effort to wipe out the town.

Pick Dr. Temple To Fill Canterbury Post

LONDON, Feb. 23 — (CP).—The Archbishop of York, Dr. William Temple, last night was nominated by the King to succeed Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang as Archbishop of Canterbury.

In replacing the 78-year-old Dr. Lang, who offered his resignation a month ago to yield to a younger man as Primate of All England, Dr. Temple becomes the first son of an Archbishop of Canterbury to attain the same high place as his father.

When the new, 98th Archbishop of Canterbury was born 60 years ago his father was Bishop of Exeter—but Lambeth Palace, the mediaeval London home of the Primate, now partly destroyed by Nazi bombs, will stir memories of his youth.

It was his home during his father's life and later he served his father's successor Dr. Randall Davidson, as Chaplain there.

Dr. Temple is one of the most progressive leaders of the Church, a philosopher and outspoken social reformer. He has outlined his ideas in a new book, "Christianity and Social Order." He was headmaster of Repton School before he was 30 and later became the Bishop of Manchester.

The King named Dr. Cyril Garbett, Bishop of Winchester, to succeed Dr. Temple as Archbishop of York. Dr. Garbett, 66, is the son of a country parson and was Bishop of Southwark, the poor, densely-settled Diocese in Greater London, for 13 years before going to Winchester in 1932.

Essentially an organizer the new Archbishop of York has not taken a prominent part in church debates, but has been active in the House of Lords in support of moderate social reforms.

Royal Dragoons Swoop 100 Miles Nab Prisoners On Axis Columns

CAIRO, Feb. 23—(AP).—British Royal Dragoons, operating more than 100 miles from their base, staged a surprise raid on Axis forces in the Msus region of Northern Libya and brought home an unspecified number of prisoners after destroying motorized equipment, the high command announced.

Heavier scale resistance from Axis columns has been encountered by British Empire fighting patrols operating over a wide area east of El Mechili and south of the El Mechili-Tmimi line, British headquarters announced to-day.

The daring sortie carried a small force, described only as a patrol, 125 miles from Ain El Gazala, one of the points in the British-held line running from Tmimi, to El Mechili.

German and Italian forces are massed "in considerable strength" east of Msus, military reports said, and are being harried almost daily by British patrols which stab deep into enemy territory.

R.A.F. fighter patrols and British artillery batteries are assisting land forces in their excursions. Axis forces were forced to withdraw after patrol skirmishes under British gunfire.

R.A.F. headquarters announced that its fighter planes resumed offensive operations in the forward area of Cirenaica Saturday and two Axis planes were shot down, one by anti-aircraftmen.

Meanwhile, it was said, Axis airmen kept up their blows on Malta, raiding Malta Friday night and again Saturday with "some damage and casualties resulting" but with at least one attacking bomber intercepted and damaged.

In all the operations, three British planes were missing but the pilots were safe.

U. K. Plays Cricket to Sway 398 Millions

(By DEWITT MACKENZIE.)

LONDON, Feb. 23—(CP).— Britain's reported decision to grant additional powers of self-government to British India has the earmarks in these initial stages of being one of the great developments of our time.

If it means what preliminary advices seem to indicate, and the Indians find it acceptable, then it becomes a matter of vast importance to the whole world, and for three wholly unrelated reasons:

First: Strategically it is a powerful move to win India's full war support for defence against Japanese invasion which, if successful, might enable Nippon and Germany to join hands and overrun a major portion of the globe. Self-government is the price which British India is demanding for complete co-operation.

Second: It is another mile-stone in the epochal changes which have been going on in the structure of the Empire.

Third: It will bring advancement to an empire of 389,000,000 people who are undeveloped but who are potentially great.

Because it does represent common sense—and if informed sources are right in stating that Prime Minister Churchill is making this gesture, we get a new measure of the calibre of the man whose hand is at the tiller of Britain's destiny. There is no sign here that his government is afraid to adopt heroic measures, as some sections of the British press have charged. Rather is it a development which is calculated to inspire confidence among the Allies and their friends.

While this momentous change is brewing in Britain, Russia to-day is celebrating Red Army Day and the success of Soviet arms against the Nazis.

Premier Joseph Stalin in an address to the nation again promised victory, but he warned that the Germans aren't yet beaten and that a stern struggle lies ahead. The Red Leader did not repeat his prediction of last November that the enemy could be crushed this year, although the Army publication Red Star did make this forecast.

Four months from now we likely will be able to gauge the strength of the enemy closely. By then the spring offensives will have got under full swing and we shall know how much Hitler's strength has been impaired by the terrific beating the Bolshevists have given them during the winter.

The Nazi chief is busy realigning his forces and re-equipping them mechanically. There can be small doubt that he will be able to put a strong army into the field. However, it is equally likely that while it will have great striking power, it may not have the reserve strength to undergo another siege like that through which it now is passing.

Much also must depend on Russia's recuperation by spring.

The great spring offensive in reality is being fought right now in the factories of the belligerent countries The resources which are actually on the battle-front are going to determine which way the conflict will go.

LONDON, Feb. 23—(CP).—Premier Joseph Stalin's prediction of an ultimate Russian victory was reflected today by a British military expert who in the past had been extremely conservative in assessing the weight of the Red Army's Winter offensive.

Writing in The London Daily Herald, Major E. W. Sheppard, one of Britain's highly-regarded military authorities, pointed out that to reach the Caucasus and its vital oil regions next Summer, Hitler must drive approximately 500 miles.

This, he emphasized, is far again as he was able to get last Summer, even with the element of surprise in his favor against a comparatively unseasoned opponent.

"The German army has now a very long defensive front of 2,000 miles to hold in Russia," he wrote.

SIR JAMES GRIGGS BECOMES BRITAIN'S NEW MINISTER OF WAR

Grigg War Minister As Churchill Wields Axe Further

LONDON, Feb. 23—(CP).—In the most drastic overhauling of his ministerial team since he became Britain's war leader in 1940, Prime Minister Churchill has dropped five members of the Government and brought further new blood into the direction of the war effort.

Following upon his reorganiza- of the inner war cabinet four days ago, Mr. Churchill announces these changes:—

Sir James Grigg to be War Minister, succeeding Capt. David Margesson.

Col. J. J. Llewellin to be Minister of Aircraft Production, succeeding Lt.-Col. J. T. C. Moore-Brabazon.

Viscount Cranborne to be Colonial Secretary, in the place of Lord Moyne.

Lord Portal to be Minister of Works and Public Buildings, succeeding Lord Reith.

Arthur Greenwood, minister without portfolio, who fell out of the war cabinet in last week's reorganization, was dropped from the Government altogether. His duties, dealing with post-war reconstruction, lapsed.

convoy and its destination. Two hours later 32 Jap bombers appeared overhead and bombed the convoy.

"I asked the lieutenant if they had shot down any Japs. He answered it was so hard to hit the Japs with the ammunition on board. I asked him why.

"He explained that the anti-aircraft ammunition was 1930 and 1931 issue and when it had been tested a year ago, it was found to be only 30 per cent. efficient.

"The lieutenant told me it was impossible with this ammunition to work out a fire pattern. He added he would like to tie to the foremast the gentlemen responsible for United States warships being equipped with this type of ammunition."

Agronsky mentioned that as he spoke "the outcome of the Allied defence of Bali is not yet completely known," but that "it would take an incurable optimist to doubt the ultimate result. The Allied defences there, as throughout the Far Eastern theatre of war, are pitifully weak.

1,000 Fighters Could Save the Day

"You must know that when land fighting starts in Java the odds will be equally great...If 1,000 American fighter pilots and machines and another 500 bomber pilots and machines were to arrive today, the Allies would have a good chance of holding Java.

"The Japs are not supermen," Agronsky declared. "They can be stopped if the lessons of morale and in fact of the entire Far Eastern campaign are not only recognized, but put to use.

"In Malaya the British were not only outnumbered, but outsmarted and outgeneralled. From the first days of the campaign the Japs gained about as much from enemy bungling as through their own well executed attacks. Time and again, in the course of the British retreat, lack of organization gave the Japs intact air fields, petrol stores and ammunition depots."

He told of experiences related by members of the R.A.F. A shipload of pilots from England spent the entire voyage organizing as a unit so they would be ready to go into action immediately when they landed in Singapore.

Realizing the Singapore airfield might not be usable when they arrived, they laid out on their maps streets from which they could take off with fighters.

"Every detail of assembly of the crated planes had been worked out beforehand," Agronsky related. "They believed they could have their planes in the air and be functioning as an operational unit within 24 hours of landing.

"When these men arrived in Singapore they found no one at the docks who even knew they were expected. After much searching they reached an R.A.F. headquarters officer and asked that they be allowed to go into action immediately.

"Instead, they were informed that as they were apparently not expected in Singapore they could not operate there but would have to go to Java and receive instructions from the high command.

"All of this time their ship was being heavily bombed at the dock.

"They finally got to Java. I cannot reveal the number of their casualties."

"It cannot be held with much less than 200 divisions. Of these, jackal armies might provide 50. That would leave Germany 50 to 80 of her total army of from 200 to 230 divisions to use for a great Caucasus offensive—say 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 men."

Such a striking force probably would include completely-refitted German mechanized forces, Maj. Sheppard said, but he added it would be "very little larger numerically" than the army which failed to cover 40 miles in the final assault on Moscow last Fall.

A Red Army staff officer, writing anonymously in the Soviet war news, declared Hitler never could replace the crack officers and men or the first-grade materials he had already lost; and could "never restore to his retreating soldiers the spirit of much advertised German invincibility."

Mostly Destroyed

"Owing to the strong action by the Allied air and sea forces it can be assumed that the fleet which the Japanese sent out for the conquest of Bali has for the greater part been destroyed or badly damaged."

It said that at present, however, it was impossible to give further particulars of the state of affairs on Bali.

Previously, however, strong resistance had been reported on that 100-mile long island which flanks Java to the east.

Denpasar, the seized airport, is at the southeastern corner of the island, and is near the only favorable harbor of the island. Rich rice lands extend along the alluvial coastal plain westward from Denpasar, but the capital, Singaradja, on the north coast, is separated from the flat area by a lofty mountain range.

Bitter delaying resistance also continued in Sumatra, on the west flank of Java, but today's communique for the first time officially confirmed Japanese reports of a landing in Netherlands Timor.

Getting A Battle On Timor

The communique said the Japanese were attacking Koepang in Timor, but were meeting stout resistance.

The attacks on Bali and Timor, 600 miles farther east, were a threat to the Indies' communications from San Francisco and Darwin in Australia, but Netherlands and Allied defenders were greatly encouraged by the display of air and sea power in the Battle of Bali.

Yesterday, the communique said, the Japanese devoted themselves to trying to knock out the airports from which Allied planes had struck so effectively.

All day the Japanese bombed and machine-gunned airdromes near Batavia, the capital that stands threatened by the advance down Sumatra, Buitenzorg, on the railway between Batavia and this military headquarters in the mountains, Jogjakarta, near the south coast, the naval base at Surabaya and Malang near Bali.

"Some damage was done here and there. Three or four Japanese fighters were shot odwn," the communique said, "There were only a few casualties."

In turn, Netherlands bombers struck at enemy targets near Palembang, where it was believed the Japanese air force was based for blows at Batavia and Bandoeng.

"Satisfactory results" were produced by this attack, the war bulletin added.

At the same time, the Indies prepared to carry out once more their scorched-earth policy in event the Japanese force their way onto Java. With vast properties and riches already committed to the torch on outlying islands, they were preparing for wholesale application of fire to their richest island should the need arise.

The Netherlands command said Japanese aerial thrusts at vital airdromes on Java Saturday resulted in loss of at least eight—and probably 10—Japanese bombers and fighters at a cost of two Netherlands planes.

Simple Service Marks Funeral John J. Turner

Under the auspices of Lansdowne Lodge of the Sons of England, the funeral of John J. Turner took place this afternoon from his Water street residence to St. Luke's Church, and continued on its final course to the Little Lake Cemetery.

It was characteristic of the loyalty of John Turner that having become a member of St. Luke's in his early youth, then a residential convenience while his father's home was for a time in Ashburnham, he continued that adherence after he had recrossed the river to live most of his life in the larger section of the city.

Member of the congregation and citizens from all phases of Peterborough's life and affairs united in St. Luke's this afternoon in a last tribute of respect to his kindly personality which seemed still to pervade that large company of men and women who have felt deeply the loss caused by his rather sudden death at noon Saturday. The service was conducted by Rev. George J. Bousfield, rector of St. Luke's, assisted by a former rector, Rev. Canon F. J. Sawers of St. Matthew's Church, Toronto. Present in the chancel were also, Rep. Canon Robertson of St. John's Church, and Rev. W. A. Filer of All Saints'.

A Final Victory

The simple burial rites of the Anglican Church in their dignity and confidence of ultimate victory for the truly Christian way of life were eloquent expression of John Turner's faith and his manifold works as a devoted layman, a stirling Christian gentleman, and a citizen of unflagging enterprise in his private and public engagements. Those who knew him best, and especially the two rectors of the church, could recall that Mr. Turner had always sought to be a helper in every aspect of the interests of St. Luke's parish. The fact that he had been a lay reader since 1898 by appointment of the Bishop of the diocese was in itself a high note of approval of Mr. Turner's worth and sincerity. He had taught in the Sunday School years ago, had been its superintendent, had been a warden of the church, member of the choir, had helped the ministers on occasion in some of the services, and of late had performed the office of vestry clerk; there were suggestions of the bonds of his place as an exemplary layman year in and year out for more than fifty years.

Floral Tributes

Beautiful floral tributes, and John Turner deeply loved flowers, gracing his factory every summer with them, surrounded him during this final service. Representatives of the business, municipal, fraternal, educational and other channels of the city's affairs, to which Mr. Turner had long given his sustaining assistance, joined with members of St. Luke's parish in the congregation of the afternoon, which filled the church.

The pall-bearers were Charles J. Ray, Robert Hendry, C. G. Graham, William R. Parkers, W. C. Hughes, and Victor Hamilton.

Honorary pall-bearers were: E. A. Peck, K.C.; Mayor Hamilton, Fred L. Roy, Charles Coleman, E. B. Fowler, T. H. Hooper, F. M. Dela Fosse, R. G. Kingan, Vincent Eastwood, John Hornsby, Alderman Dutton, W. A. Richardson, W. R. Morris, E. R. Shirley, W. R. Breyfogle, G. H. Roper, Harry Adams, G. A. Gillespie, E. F. Reid, and F. D. Kerr, K.C.

Self Sacrificing Man

"John J. Turner will live long in the memory of his friends because of the deep and stirling friendship he gave to them," said Senator Duffus. "I was a member of the city council when we were first getting experience in municipal work, and for something like thirty years Mr. Turner was deeply interested in the general affairs of Peterborough. "He was one of the most self-sacrificing men I knew. I was with him for years in the Chamber of Commerce. It was a pleasure to know him and to work with him. In our business relations, also, and later when I was in the House of Commons I had many contacts with John Turner, and my appreciation of him grew with the years. He will be greatly missed by his family and by his host of friends in Peterborough."

Loved His Fellow Man

"Peterborough has suffered a great loss in the passing of J. J. Turner," Fred L. Roy said. "His sphere of activity and influence was great; his love and loyalty to this city was unbounded. In the councils of his church, his lodge, his service vlub, and in all civic affairs he will be sadly missed. As secretary and member of the Nicholls Hospital Board of Management he demonstrated practical charity. He loved his fellow man, and his cheering smile and daily greeting will remain a happy memory in the lives of many citizens. His devotion to business had made the name of his firm world famous. His example will be a beacon light to many younger men. We all realize that Peterborough has had many good and public spirited citizens, men whose deaths were felt by the whole community, but in none will that loss be felt more than in the death of John J. Turner, who so well deserved the tribute of 'good and faithful servant'."

Interested in Health Work

"As chairman of the Board of Health it was my privilege to be identified with the late J. J. Turner in the work of the Peterborough Health Association," Alderman Dutton commented to The Examiner. "In company with other public spirited citizens, Mr. Turner devoted much of his time to the activities of the Health Association over a long period of years. The contribution he made to the general health of this community cannot be estimated in so far as the accomplishments of the association are concerned. It is safe to say that if this work in the public interest had not been done, many persons in this city would have been the poorer in physical well being. The Health Association in a quiet way had a splendid record of achievement, and the credit for a great deal of it is due to the sincere interest of Mr. Turner in this effort which was close to his heart. He was so impressed with the importance of public health work that to extend the service in Peterborough he felt some other organization should be invited to carry on the work so well established. In this connection he was one of the prime movers in the organization of a local branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses' service in this city. I feel that I may speak for the Board of Health in saying that John Turner rendered an exceedingly valuable service to the people of his own community through the fine work done by the Peterborough Health Association."

India's Hope For Wider Freedom Brightens As British Stand Eases

LONDON, Feb. 23—(CP).—At least partial realization of India's long and often bloody demands for independence was predicted by British sources today after a rapid sequence of week-end events which portended a radical change in Britain's attitude toward her 400,000,000 subjects there.

Two developments particularly buoyed India's hopes:

1. The farewell of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, who has been visiting in India. Speaking presumably with the consent of Britain and the United States and apparently addressing himself to the British, China's commander-in-chief declared dramatically Saturday:

"The vast majority of the world's opinion is in full sympathy with India's aspirations for freedom."

2. Informed British sources asserted yesterday that Prime Minister Churchill planned to enlarge India's powers of self-government and send a Cabinet representative there to try to "put the Indian problem on a more satisfactory footing."

There was as yet no precise indications of how far Britain would go toward granting autonomy, but the Government was said to be planning tentatively for an Indian national administration headed by Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, former President of the Nationalist Congress Party in which Mohandas K. Gandhi has been the guiding spirit.

Neither the Congress Party nor the All-Indian Moslem League, which represent the bulk of the politically literate in India's population, have formulated a stand on Chiang's message of hope to its masses.

Moslems Call Session.

The All-India Moslem League working committee was called to a special meeting to-day, however, and a conference of Indian leaders outside the two great parties yesterday voted support for Chiang.

Popular Election Is Guarantee Of Responsible Government

Let us remember that popular election is the only guarantee of responsible government and responsible government is the bulwark which helps keep back a flood of evils. So declared Rev. James D. Smart, M.A. Ph.D., of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning at a service attended by members of the City Council in a body. The subject of his sermon was "The Service of God in the Community."

Dr. Smart referred to a system of appointing a leader in Bible history in which there was no vote or any kind. Samuel went to Bethlehem and called all the people to a religious service. A sacrifice was offered to God at the service. As many sat at the sacrificial meal, Samuel singled out the family of Jesse as the one from which the new king should come. As his sons were brought before Samuel, he spoke with each one of them, but an inner voice, that of God, was the decisive element in the election. David was selected and Samuel anointed him as king, and "we are told the spirit of the Lord came upon David from that day forward."

Many Samuels.

Dr. Smart said he had no intention of suggesting this ancient method should take the place of our present means of selecting a leader. Undoubtedly there would be many willing to play the part of Samuel. "I think," he said, "that with all criticisms of our democratic elections they are a safeguard to the rights and privileges of the common people. It is a profound effect upon the mind of anyone in a position of government to know that he will have to render an account of his stewardship to the people who placed him in that post of responsibility."

Dr. Smart said there were many arguments that a government could carry on more effectively if they did not need to worry what the people think. "There are many things we can learn from the method described in the text of appointing a leader. In the first place, God has a concern with the whole life of the community; God has to do with everything in human life."

Master of All.

The third chapter of Genesis is as true to-day as the day it was written. The essence of man's sin is that he wants a world in which he will be God and that is why he is so anxious to get rid of the God of the Scriptures.

"But instead of looking at Hitler, I would suggest that we look nearer home at what all of our modern civilization has been doing. First the world of business and industry was declared a kind of closed system operating under its own laws. Then politics were generally agreed to be a sphere apart from religion. Next education showed a tendency to renounce all religious responsibilities. And finally social service began to think of itself as a purely secular matter. In other words, there has been an elimination of concern about God from a large part of the common activities of men. Hitler merely carried to its logical consummation the process of secularization which has been going on in all countries and in all modern society. Hitler is God's judgment upon us showing where the course leads that we have been following.

"That which alone can reinstate democracy in public respect is that our rulers should stop counting votes and do fearlessly what they see to be right and necessary. I wonder if here and there throughout our land if there are not Davids marked out by God for places of leadership who have not either heard the call or turned their backs upon it that they might not have to leave their pleasant occupations and quiet situations. It must be so. We are going to need some Davids in the days ahead to lead us through the desert and the wilderness.

"Every young boy and girl might well ask "For what destiny has God marked me out? For what vocation in the days ahead would He have me prepare myself? Let that spirit get abroad, let that earnestness get into the hearts of this generation and who can tell what great things may be not so far before us," Dr. Smart concluded.

Sub Committee To Study Assessments

A sub committee of ten under the chairmanship of H. N. Carr, M.P.P., has been appointed by the Honorable T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Municipal Affairs, to thoroughly study the proposals for an amended Assessment Act and other complimentary legislation during the recess of the House.

The committee has been selected from both sides of the House and included A. L. Elliott, M.P.P., Peterborough's representative. Among the Conservatives are the Hon. George S. Henry, Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy and L. M. Frost, K.C. The Committee meets on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week and on the 3rd and 4th days of March.

This problem has been studied for many years, and it has often been observed that a genuine equalization of assessment in the local municipality and county can only be achieved by the adoption of uniform methods and definite principles. The Act proposes to lay down definite classifications and valuating factors which must be followed by every assessor. At the present time it might be said that a different system of assessment exists in 940 munipalities in the Province, or rather that no general system exists at all. The proposed amendments also alter the whole system of appealing from assessments. In rural municipalities there will be no appeal to the Township Council but direct to a Board of County Commissioners. There is also contemplated a complete revision of the procedure in connection with tax sales.

Potatoes Sell At $1.85 A Bag

Potatoes moved up to $1.85 a bag on the market Saturday, with only a few growers facing the February weather, and they did not burden themselves with stock from the home storage. James Healey of Asphodel had only five bags of White Stars as compared with some thirty last week. The outdoor section was about the slimmest of the winter.

H. R. Gill loaded up with fresh meat, a considerable quantity more than usual, and apparently was gitting rid of the whole load. His prices were: pork, 18 and 20 cents; beef, 16 and 18 cents; lamb, 20 and 22 cents. Vegetable growers were mostly absent from their accustomed places. Norman Moncrief sold apples from a covered truck in which he kept an oil stove burning to fend off the frost. Northern Spies and MacIntosh Reds were 75 cents a peck; Russets, Talman Sweets and Salmons 60 cents a peck; Starks and Scot Winters, 50 cents.

Blank spots were conspicuous in the upper hall. One hen turkey was priced at 34 cents a pound. Butter was 37 and 38 cents; eggs were mostly 32 to 35 cents. One woman sold a few dozen of double-yolks at 50 cents a dozen, and regular first grades were generally 37 cents; and chickens 25 to 32 cents. The tpo price was asked for the younger birds of five or six months. The average price seemed to be 26 to 28 cents, with a rather light offering.

PRISONERS ESCAPED FROM BOWMANVILLE CAUGHT IN NEW YORK

German Airmen Make Way Across Border

WATERTOWN, N.Y., Feb. 23 — (AP).—Two men, identified as escaped German aviators after their attire aroused the suspicions of a patrolman off duty, are on their way to a Canadian prison camp from which they say they fled.

Patrolman John Bero noted the pair on the street last night. Curious about their bulky overalls and haversacks, he called a fellow policeman. Both escorted the men to police headquarters.

There they said they were Oberlieutenants Albert Henrick Waller and Ulrich Steinhilper. They told police they fled the Bowmanville, Ont., prison camp, "three or four days ago," crossing the St. Lawrence River ice "in 15 minutes."

(Canadian officials said the men escaped from a Bowmanville, Ont., camp last Friday. Each had escaped twice previously.)

Police here said both men had relatives in the United States. Each carried identification certificates of shipwrecked sailors ostensibly issued by the first officer of the S.S. Fley Bird of Boston, Mass. They also had well-marked maps.

Immigration officials set out for the Canadian border with the pair late last night.

Sixty-One Years Married

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huycke, Hastings, seated along with Rev. J. E. and Mrs. Glover.

Never Used Cosmetics Her Boast On 61st Wedding Anniversary

HASTINGS, Feb. 23 (ENS) — Hastings' oldest couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huycke of Clyde street, quietly celebrated their 61st wedding anniversary today.

Mr. Huycke was born in Percy township 87 years ago, a descendant of United Empire Loyalists.

His great-grandfather sailed from Holland to settle in New England and his grandfather, who preferred to live under the British flag, rowed his family across Lake Ontario from the United States.

After his marriage to Jane Elizabeth Berry of Millbrook, in Warkworth, the couple took up farming in Percy township.

Mrs. Huycke, 84, clearly remembers the wedding day and says that many of the guests froze their faces during the drive to Hastings after the ceremony. Only two of those guests are living today, Mrs. M. Scott of Picton, and J. O. Armstrong of Millbrook.

Remarkably active for her age, Mrs. Huycke is enjoying the best health in several years. She is active in war work and has knitted many articles for the Red Cross. "I manage to keep young on hard work," she told the Examiner, and added with a chuckle "I'm proud of the fact that I've never used cosmetics."

Never seriously ill in his life, Mr. Huycke belongs to a family who have lived to ripe old ages.

Of a family of five only one brother remains, L. T. Huycke of Hastings.

Although he admitted that war looks bad, Mr. Huycke firmly asserted that "We'll whip them in the end." The couple have two grandchildren in the R.C.A.F.

They have four children: Mae at home; (Violet) Mrs. P. C. Watt of Winnipeg; (Lois) Mrs. L. Gould of Staymer, and Cecil; also five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

IODE Entertains British Fliers

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23. — (ENS)—The third group of airmen to be entertained by the local Bemersyde Chapter I.O.D.E. since last November spent the week-end as guests of local citizens and were entertained at a supper dance here on Saturday evening. There were thirty-two in the group all of whom are undergoing training at the Trenton Station and most of them were youths from Britain, members of the R.A.F. here under the Commonwealth Air Training scheme. The I.O.D.E. Regent, Mrs. G. A. Ironside, was assisted in receiving by Mrs. John Storie and the guests also included members of the Trent Valley Chapter as well as husbands of Bemersyde members. Principally responsible for the arrangements were the hospitality convener, Mrs. E. C. Roberts and her assistants, Mrs. D. Maybee, Mrs. S. Hopping, Misses D. Henson and E. Ferris. The hall was gaily decorated with Valentine hearts and flags and at 10.30 refreshments were served with Mrs. Ironside and Mrs. George Hawthorne presiding at the tea table, which was centred by a large silver candelabra with red candles. Mrs. F. N. Brown was in charge of this portion of the program and Mrs. D. Maybee arranged the dance with music being provided by Mrs. J. O. Benor, Mr. Bruce Halloran and Mr. Arnold Bates. There were several novelty numbers and the prizes were hand knit sox. The lucky number prize winners went to Lloyd Taylor of Saskatoon, Sask.; birthday dance, Bruce Relf, London, England; lucky spot dance, Bob Judd, London, England. Miss Hazel Atkinson presented the prizes (flashlights and cigarettes); to the bridge winners, Bernard Major, Hull, England, and Iver Bunn of South Wales.

Also contributing to the enjoyable evening were the sing-song, very capably conducted by Arnold Bates, with Miss Dorothy Henson playing the accompaniment and the grand march, led by Mrs. D. Maybee and W. A. Kingston. At the close Mrs. Roberts spoke on behalf of the I.O.D.E., explaining how glad the Chapter was to be able to contribute in some way to the entertainment of the airmen and expressed the hope that they might all return again. Three boys who were guests of the I.O.D.E. at their week-end in November did return on Saturday — David Wilson, Scotland, Douglas Curle and Roy Salter of England. Ronald Morrison of Surrey, England, responded for the visitors and he expressed their appreciation to the I.O.D.E.

Hundreds Brave Zero Weather Inspect Train

COBOURG, Feb. 23.—(ENS)— Braving zero weather, long lines of Cobourg citizens stood patiently awaiting their turns to board the Canadian Army Train which visited Cobourg for two hours on Saturday night. The train was stationed on the Spring Street siding from seven until ten o'clock and some 1,500 people from Cobourg and rural parts passed by the electric-eye counter in the train. Chief Constable W. J. Carey and Constable E. Houghton handled the crowds which entered the train from each side. There were 15 cars in the army train, some of which were for the personnel accompanying the tour and the remainder for the various military exhibits. The local shunting engine was required to assist the regular engine hauling the train, to move the cars to the siding. With its three million dollars worth of quipment, it was a very heavy train to handle.

Victory Loan purchasers had an ample opportunity Saturday night during their inspection of the army train to learn how their money was being spent. With the exception of anti-aircraft guns of heavy calibre and plans, there was on exhibit almost every type of military equipment used in modern warfare. Field telephone, long range and portable two-way communication sets and some sets which were dismounted to show the chassis, gave the spectators some conception of modern communication systems in war. In the Army Service Corps car were shown samples of the food which was fed to the men in a scientifically-balanced diet, designed to produce maximum efficiency. In the hospital car the very latest in equipment was on display, including a portable x-ray and the accompanying equipment for speedy development ofthe x-ray film.

Army uniforms for both men and women were shown on life-size models, and spread out for examination was the complete kit of a soldier, including the new army rifle with its short, three-sided bayonet. In another car was a 25-pounder artillery piece, Lewis gun, Bren gun, trench mortars and anti-tank gun. Cut-away sections of shells used in these guns showed the nature of the charge and the fuse construction. Other army equipment was to be seen throughout the cars. Perhaps most of the attention of the spectators was focussed on a huge anti-aircraft searchlight made by the C.G.E. It tilted and swung with great ease under the hand of the operator. Electricity was generated for its carbons by a portable unit. Both the light and the generator were mounted on a flat car. This light throws a beam which tests have shown to be capable of being seen 60 miles away. As it swept the heavens in its demonstration Saturday night, it spotlightd the high clouds without any dificulty. A Valentine tank, communications car, a "jeep" or "blitz-wagon" and a universal carrier completed the exhibition of army equipment.

Jas. L. McCamus Buried Sunday

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 23 (ENS)—A former Warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, James L. McCamus of Cavan township, whose death occurred last Friday morning, was buried here Sunday afternoon.

Mr. McCamus had been increasingly ill for nearly two years, and for several months of late his friends had retained little hope of his recovery. He was born in the township, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCamus, and was one of the most respected citizens in a large area of Durham county.

He grew up on the farm and followed the occupation of farmer all his life.

Actively interested in the progress of his community through a deep and sustained sense of citizenship Mr. Camus was a member of Cavan Council for several years, then attained the reeveship which he held for four years. He was then appointed warden of the United Counties. Mr. McCamus had been a member of Bailieboro Anglican Church since his boyhood and was church warden for a number of years. In politics he was a Conservative.

The funeral was held Sunday after a short service was conducted at the homestead and then proceeded to Bailieboro Anglican Church where Archdeacon Simpson held a very impressive service to a church filed with relatives and friends from far and near.

Pall-bearers were Arnold Brown, Howard Fair, James Fair, Leonard McNeil, Gerald Armstrong, Thomas McCamus. The immediate surviving relatives are the sorrowing widow (Martha Brown); one son, Ralph and one daughter Isobel; two brothers, Thomas of Ida, William of Millbrook, and two sisters, (Minnie) Mrs. Armstrong, Bailieboro, and Kathleen, Mrs. Harry Ball, Millbrook.

Interment took place in the family plot in St. Paul's cemetery.

Among those from a distance at the funeral were Frank Rickard, M.P., Newcastle; Messrs. Fred Bowen, ex-M.P., Bert Reid, Milton J. Elliott, Bowmanville; James Eagleson, Orono; Alfred and Helena Armstrong, Toronto; Allen Preston and Miss Edith Preston, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Henry and Samuel Stewart, all of Peterborough.

Girl Guides Attend Special Service

PORT HOPE, Feb. 23 (ENS) — The service at the United church on Sunday morning was a most impressive one when the Scouts, Brownies, Guides and Wolf Cub packs attended service to commemorate the birthday of Baden Powell and also to pray for the Victory Loan.

The Brownies and Guides met at St. John's Parish Hall and proceeded to the church while the Scouts and Cubs met in the hall at the Central School and marched.

Miss Catharine Baines, District Commissinoner, took the salute and the Brownies and Guides took up their position in the centre of the church.

After the invocation the congregation remained standing for the presentation of colors, presented to Guides of troop No. 1 under the leadership of Miss H. Gibson, followed by troop No. 2 under 1st Lieut. Mrs. R. Clarke, Cubs pack No. 1 under leadership of Mrs. Willis and pack No. 3 under Mrs. Smith, followed by the Scouts under Scout Master H. Jordan.

The sermon by Rev. Gordon with the title "How to Write a Letter," was a most interesting one, the smallest child really understood and enjoyed. his sermon was specially prepared for the visiting troops.

Busy Brownies Aid War Effort

COBOURG, Feb. 23 — (ENS). — Quietly and industriously and with no publicity, a little group of Brownies have been working away in making a huge amount of material for the bomb victims' work of the Salvation Army Red Shield. The Brownies are an interdenominational group in Cobourg. Known as No. 1 Sunbeam Brownies Pack, they number 31, and are under the leadership of Margaret and Dorothy Cowin. The war work done by the Brownies was on display in the Salvation Army Hall on Saturday, at which Adjutant G. Bloss of Toronto, who is in charge of Salvation Army Girl Guide work, was on hand. The Brownies, assisted by the Girl Guides, have made coats, bonnets, knitted-parkas, layettes, sweaters and other articles of clothing as would be worn by children up to five and six years of age. One of the features of Saturday's display was an ensemble of coat, bonnet and leggings, modelled by Georgina Lingard, which had been made from a blanket dressing gown that moths had attacked. Enough material was salvaged from the moths to make the outfit.

On Ill-Fated Corvette

Petty Officer Harry Haynes of Cobourg, R.C.N., shown ABOVE, can thank the fact that illness resulted in his transfer to a land post from the ill-fated corvette "Spikenard." Otherwise he would have been aboard her when she was lost in action. Mr. Haynes, who has been in the navy for more than thirty years, saw submarine service as well as duty on warships in the last war. When the present war broke out he went to sea again.

Will Be Soon Back In Service

The destroyer Shaw, which the Japanese announced had been destroyed in the Pearl Harbor attack of December 7, will soon be back in service. Equipped with an emergency stub bow and a temporary bridge on the after end of the ship the Shaw arrived in a west coast port for repairs. Within a few weeks, navy officers said, a new bow and bridge, now under construction, will be fitted to the damaged destroyer and the ship will be in service again.

Avonbank Patrons Boost Quality Increase Production By Half

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23 (ENS) —Patrons of Avonbank Cheese and Butter Company not only increased their production quota by over 46 per cent, but they also aimed at high quality and succeeded in so improving this that they did better than double their premiums on high scoring cheese. This was revealed in the statement presented to the 65 patrons at their annual meeting held at the factory in Morganston Friday afternoon. There were a number of factors contributing to the splendid record rung up by the company which is one of the few where all milk is drawn by paid carriers. The extra production was largely the result of an extra month's operations coupled with the policy of making on Sundays inaugurated in 1941. These farms solved the whey return problem several years ago by adopting pasteurization and last year they made another vital improvement to their factory by installing mechanical refrigeration in a new curing room as well as putting in electric lighting. They will have their share of the $1,260 refrigeration job paid for as soon as the rest of their bonus money comes through, thanks to the hard-headed business policy of their able president, W. E. Davidson, who was re-elected for his fifteenth term by the unanimous vote of the patrons.

Auditor Alex. McComb gave the report of the year's operations which showed a total of 2,653,467 pounds of milk which contained 84,899 pounds of fat and 228,651 pounds of cheese. The cheesemaker Douglas Turney turned out 2,442 boxes of cheese during the season and only 120 of these were under grades, a fact which he attributes chiefly to the non-operation of their curing room until the middle of September. The average test was 3.2 and they got an average price of 16.65 cents per pound, making a total of $38,092.05. It required an average of 11.6 pounds of milk per pound of cheese or 2.69 pounds of cheese per pound of fat. Average price of milk per cwt. was $1.47; average cost of manufacturing cheese 3.15 cents and the average price per pound fat (including bonus) was 46 cents. The provincial bonus amounted to $4,572.20 and the premius on quality brought $2,196.59.

Congratulating patrons on their record, Dairy Instructor John A. Murray announced their increase of 46 per cent. was the highest in this district. He said 97 per cent. of their cheese had been first grade or over and their average score was 92.897 with 78.7 per cent. of it in the premium class. The following officers were named for 1942: President, W. E. Davidson; Secretary, C. B. Carr; Auditors, Donald Massey and Clarence Nelson; Directors: M. McComb, N. Harren, R. Knight, C. W. Massey, R. Robson, H. Ducie.

500 Inspect Big Army Train

PORT HOPE, Feb. 23 (ENS) — The Canadian Army train arrived in Port Hope on Saturday afternoon in a blinding blizzard and despite the weather it was estimated about 500 people passed through its 15 cars and viewed the interesting exhibits.

All through the trip which began in Ottawa, going to Toronto for two days and spending several hours in the smaller centres, the train has proved very popular, and it is believed that in all about 500 people have been ticked by the electric eye which flashes and click every person that contacts its beam. This is only one of the many interesting displays.

One of the new made-in-Canada "Valentine" tanks, a 22-ton machine built in Montreal attracted much attention. A Thompson sub-machine gun is on display, as well as the Vickers and Lewis fachine guns. A huge display of anti-aircraft shells hand grenades and various types of high explosives are to be seen. A feature of the smaller arms is the new Canadian army rifle, a Lee-Enfield, with a new short, dagger-like bayonet only nine inches long.

One of the most interesting displays was the Red Cross hospital car, complete with operating table, a hospital bed comfortably made up in snowy white linens, cabinets containing all hospital supplies, even a stretcher was displayed in this complete exhibit.

Another car was devoted to the Dental Corps, displaying the dentist's chair and all its equipment.

The car in which the food was displayed had as a background posters showing the different cuts of beef, lamb and pork given the soldiers, while on the table in front was a fine exhibit of fresh vegetables, eggs, bacon, butter, all kinds of canned goods, jams, preserves, honey, vegetables, etc. Also in small glass jars were displayed sugar, flour, baking powder, tapioca, sago, beans, rice, peas, and all dry materials bought in bulk.

As one left the inside of the cars there were still flat cars to be viewed, displaying a Bren-gun carrier, tanks and the new small army car now used. At the very rear of the train was a huge searchlight whose light can be seen from 40 to 60 miles away, and is rated at 800,000,000 candle power.

Baden Powell Service Largely Attended

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23 (ENS) —Sunday's "Thinking Day" ceremony which took place at the morning service in St. John's United Church brought to a close of the most important weeks in the annals of the local Girl Guides Company which has now reached its largest enrolment since its organization here. It was in honor of the birthday celebration for Lord Baden-Powell that the Guides, under their captain, Miss Grace Payne, marched to the church in their uniforms to take part in the service. Even the wearing of their uniforms bore special significance since this was a gesture on behalf of Guide companies in the occupied countries of Europe, who long ago had been forbidden by their Nazi over-lords to wear them. They were welcomed to the service by the pastor, Rev. G. N. Maxwell, who paid tribute to the work being done by the Girl Guides.

Another eventful occurrence, at least in the eyes of the local company, took place at their regular meeting on Friday evening when ten new members were inducted by repeating the threefold promise after their captain, Miss Payne. This brought the strength of the company to forty, which constitutes a record enrolment and in the opinion of Miss Payne this record is due primarily to the fact that older members are not dropping out as has been the case in the past, but are instead continuing to show interest in the meetings and Guide work. Further proof of this increased interest was indicated by the fact two five-year service stars were presented during the meeting. It was the first occasion that this award had ever been given two members at the same time and for the two girls, Patricia Ironside and Maisie Lloyd the tokens indicated they had attended seventy-five per cent of all meetings held during the past five years. Three members of the Brownie Pack also received awards during the evening. Marian Maxwell, Barbara Greig and Betty Johnston were given the gold bar, significant of the Brownie, II. Class, and they were the first of the group of 15 to earn this award.

In addition to their regular work the local company is busily engaged on what is known as the Ontario War Project for Guides and is principally concerned with supplying clothing for British refugee children. They are working on a quota which includes sox, mitts, sweaters, parkas and scarves.

Victory Loan Worker Dies On Job

COBOURG, Feb. 25 — (ENS). — Northumberland County Victory Loan Campaign lost one of its best organizers over the week-end in the sudden death of Camborne of William J. Gibb. Mr. Jibb had been working out in Hamilton township. Thursday evening, in his daily report to campaign headquarters here he reported that he had been canvassing that day in a rural section which was impassable except on foot due to slush and water which at times was two feet deep. It was impossible to make it in a horse and cutter, he reported. Saturday, Mr. Jibb died after he had been shovelling snow away from his car and had pushed his car a distance up to the gasoline station. He suffered a heart seizure after the exertion, and it is believed that his conscientious efforts on Thursday in bucking bad roads on his canvassing route for the Victory loan, perhaps contributed to the factors responsible for his heart attack. His death spread a gloom over campaign headquarters here.

Painful, Pus Filled Boils the Cause of Much Misery

If you suffer from boils you know how sick and miserable they made you feel.
Boils are an outward indication of impurities in the system, and just when you think you are rid of one another crops up to take its place and prolong your misery. All the lancing and poulticing you can do may not stop more coming.
To help overcome boils you should purify the blood, so why not give that old, reliable blood medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, a chance to show what it will do in helping you get rid of them? Thousands have used it for this purpose for the past 60 years. Why not you?

A Grand Setting, Anyway

The Vichy Government is apparently fond of theatrical effects. For the trial of five former leaders of France on charges of failure to adequately prepare for, and to prosecute, the war, when it broke out, against Germany, the court room at Riom, where the trial is being held, has been specially decorated for the occasion. Eighteen crystal chandeliers, taken from the Tuileries Palace ball-room in Paris, under which the Empress Eugenie waltzed, have been put up. Priceless tapestries are on the walls. The seven judges, picked just for this occasion, sit in a row of chairs against a semicircular wall done in rich scarlet and gold. Seats for the prosecution flank those of the judges. The accused sit directly in front on red and gold chairs with their lawyers beside them.

Some of the men who were in the governments concerned but who escaped to England and America, say the entire trial is a political farce staged by Marshal Petain and his man Friday—Admiral Darland. Well, the court has spent seventeen months carrying on investigations of records and documents and preparing charges, so with this elaborate setting there should be quite a show put on for weeks to come.

The whole affair reminds one of the famous Dreyfus case which kept France in a turmoil forty years ago and which involved much of the political life of the nation at that time. The only difference, perhaps, is in the specific character of the charges and the fact that there are five men facing the mills of law instead of one, as when Alfred Dreyfus was in the prisoner's docket in 1894.

In the present case of prosecution, whatever the finding of the judges may be, two or three features stand out. One is that the judges have been hand-picked by the Vichy authorities; another that events of this kind are invariably influenced by the smooth stratagems of politics, and the third is that even if the prisoners are found guilty, they can be considered as products of the loose, intriguing, superficial and decadent state to which the people as a race had sunk. The decline and fall of France, following the start of the present war, was due to a low, honeycombed morale as much as it was due to the futility of the Maginot Line of defence. At least the performance in all its grand impressive setting may serve to wash a lot of soiled linen.

Riom, the town where the inquiry is proceeding, is in central France and has a population of about 10,000. It stands on the left bank of the Ambene, on a height above a fertile plain. Some of the houses, dating back to the 15th and 16th centuries, were built of lava and have a very sombre appearance. That would seem to be strangely congruous as a setting for so dark and gloomy an event as is now attracting the eyes of the world.

When some men pass away it is like a large, stalwart tree falling in the forest. A big vacancy is left. The late John J. Turner, president of J. J. Turner & Sons of this city, was one of those men. He filled so large and useful a place in the life of Peterborough and district that his departure is a significant loss, not alone to his family and wide circle of friends, but to the public generally.

Coming to this city with his parents when a youth, he grew up with the municipality during fifty-six years of residence, but he did not remain aloof from its public affairs and activities. Rather, he found time in his busy business career to fill many positions of trust and responsibility from that of Mayor and member of the Board of Education to the presidency of the Chamber of Commerce, president of the Y.M.C.A., and for the past fifteen years as treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce. Other interests also received his attention such as church work and fraternal and service organizations. To all he brought the seasoned judgment and counsel of a public-spirited, Christian gentleman who desired to advance in every way he could the best qualities of citizenship. Another fine aspect of his personality was that he followed the policy of retaining in his employ those who had spent a long time with him in building up his business.

Naturally one of such broad humanitarian principles will be profoundly missed, yet he has raised the greatest monument that any person can erect and that is of a life well and nobly spent in both his own field and in that of the entire community.

"On The Road To—"

For many years "On the Road to Mandalay" has been a popular song, particularly with banquet crowds. It was created out of a renowned poem by Rudyard Kipling who was born in India and after being educated in England, returned to the land of his birth and became sub-editor of the Lahore Civil and Military Gazette. He travelled through India, China and Japan and therefore knew the East intimately as his books reveal. Consequently this ballad about Mandalay had the true ring of the Orient.

Now, it is reported that Japanese bombers have made a heavy air raid on the Burma city which the famous English poet and novelist brought to the notice of the outside world through his song. Mandalay is about 350 miles north of Rangoon, on the railroad to Lashio, which is the terminus of the Burma Road. So the place has got into the war news and the familiar lines are recalled:

"On the road to Mandalay where the flying fishes play,
And the sun comes up like thunder, out of China, cross the way..."

Great Changes

The war has brought about many changes, inevitable changes, but nontheless announcement of them causes surprise. Now another institution, which is known practically all over the world, has passed, namely Cook's famous travel agency. It has been absorbed by four main-line British railways and the banking part of the business has gone to a financial house. It is just a few months over the century since the idea took shape which grew and expanded until it handled millions of passengers throughout a hundred years of political upheavals, wars, earthquakes and other happenings.

What has taken place in this instance is evidence of what is going on in many other ways, particularly in Europe. The generation which comes along after the present world-wide conflict is over will know a civilization quite modified, and in numerous respects quite different, from that existing previous to September of 1939. History is being rapidly made. One is reminded of the saying: "The old order changeth, giving place to the new."

Restrictions In Germany

Canadians who complain, or who think hard but say nothing aloud, about the restrictions that are being imposed upon them by the Government, should be impressed with two facts—one, that a war cannot be carried on without the materials needed for equipment and munitions; the other, that what we have been called upon to get along without is easy compared with the curtailment being made in Germany. And over there it isn't wise to question authority; the Gestapo has long ears and reaching arms.

According to special correspondence from Berne, Switzerland — and coming from that neutral country the news may be considered reliable—drastic rules are being enforced to make it possible for the great maw of war to be fed. Coins are being withdrawn from circulation, it is reported, so as to provide valuable copper. The use of private cars is forbidden on Sundays and holidays. In fact no cars are to be used by Germans by order of the Fuehrer except in fulfilment of "vitally important missions."

Previously these and other restrictions were applied only to Nazi-occupied countries from which the Huns, with characteristic barbarism, took everything they wanted, but now the latest decree applies to Germany itself. The strain of the conflict is evidently becoming hard on the economic life of the Reich.

A Stirring Note

Representative Hatton W. Sumners of Texas is reported to have cried out in the House of Congress at Washington: "My God, we are being licked," and, "Are you going to let the hope of the ages perish from this earth because of our unworthiness?"

That sounds very much like the red-blooded kind of pioneers who made the United States in its early days. They were the men who didn't want war any more than we in Canada want it, but when an enemy came to kill or rob them they knew there was only one thing to do and that was to be quicker, stronger and better armed than he was.

What is so hard for people living outside the borders of the United States to understand is the idea which seems to have obsessed so many of the population over there that no country dare to challenge the Republic and if it were foolish enough to commit such an audacious act the attack could be treated with a kind of superior indifference.

Of course the Government leaders were not of that mind. They apparently anticipated what the war would eventually develop into and tried to educate the population to be ready to meet an assault when it came. As in this Dominion, however, that process has had a good many self-centred people dragging reluctantly behind. Wtih the successes that Japan has had since it attacked the Philippines, one would think the isolationists and the complacent type everywhere would all be gone, but evidently they still exist when so strong an exclamation comes from Congressman Sumners.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One and a half million dollars is the amount which State Secretary McClarty estimates the plebiscite will cost. That is a huge sum to divert from war production use, but if it brings some kind of unity out of the muddled political state in Canada, the expenditure need not be too much deplored.

Gasoline, petroleum technologists say, is powerful enough to propel a car 450 miles to the gallon if some way could be devised to obtain complete efficiency of consumption. Why not link it up with some of the speed maniacs who "eat up the road" and leave nothing over but a few dust particles?

Jap officials in London, Eng., obliged to stay in close quarters since their country struck at the Philippines and Britain, are complaining that they can't get out to barbers for a haircut. Perhaps if they did the barbers in an absent-minded way might use a razor instead of a pair of scissors and give them a close shave.

A considerable number of Conservative members of the Ontario Legislature have declined, it is reported, to make application for the $1,000 cheque which the Government handed out after the sudden adjournment of the House. Perhaps they had paid their room rent in advance, after going to Toronto, and didn't want to be bothered with a petty little sum like ten hundred greenbacks.

Mayor La Guardia of New York has come to the conclusion that the war will be long. He expressed the view some months back that it would be of short duration. He has apparently found that fighting an election down in Gotham is a somewhat smaller affair, even to New Yorkers than battling against blitzkrieg millions in Europe and Asia.

This English language "am mos' won'erful." It permits of many fine shades of meaning. For example the Glasgow Herald says there are better ways of begging the use of a lighted match for your cigarette than to say: "After you." An elderly gentleman was heard to remark to another man in a shop: "May I inherit your flame?" But most men who have a flame think her too precious to bequeath to any other masculine admirer.

THE FORTUNATE SON

The first son walked behind the plough; the second
Studied law; but the third ran off to sea.
While John was tracing the broad furrow, and Peter
Dimmed his sight with books assiduously—
Dick went free.

John was gladdened by the yellow uplands
Loud with a silky whisper of ripe grain—
Peter took his joy in legal quibbles
And queer dusty quirks of the human brain—
But Dick saw Spain!

Life served them merry and well: yet John at moments
Thought of Peter's judgehood enviously—
And Peter longed for the feel of the plough-handle—
Only Dick was nothing loth to be Slave of the sea.

Dick kept his luck to the last: for John grew feeble
With age, and Peter lived to be grey and blind;
But Dick never outwore his young manhood—
The sea took him at the hour assigned—
The sea was kind.

Torpedo Still Is Deadliest Weapon of War

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 —(AP)— Events of the last week, strident with sounds of battle alow and aloft all around the world, cast little new light on broad trends of the Allied-Axis conflict. They did powerfully reinforce, however, the conclusion that the self-propelled torpedo still is the deadliest menace to Allied victory.

Ships that sail the surface of the sea are the backbone of United Nation power. Without shipping and naval craft to protect transports and cargo carriers, it would be almost impossible to bring vastly greater Allied resources in manpower and economic and industrial might to bear against the Axis.

Torpedoes fired from the submarines brought Germany almost within sight of victory in the first Great War. They are causing the greatest sea havoc in cargo tonnage in this war. U-boats alone, however, could not win this war at sea any more than they could win the last.

FORECAST 30 YEARS AGO

The prime new weapon that this war has seen in deadly action is neither the aerial bomb nor the tank, greatly as both have affected the course of the conflict. It is the flying torpedo, launched from an airplane.

The day of the flying torpedo was foreseen more than thirty years ago. Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, U.S.N., retired, began exploring its possibilities half a decade before the outbreak of the last war. No plane of sufficient lifting power to carry even a small self-propelled torpedo had yet been flown or designed. That did not daunt Fiske's insistence that such a weapon would develop to revolutionize naval warfare.

This writer talked with Fiske in 1915. The naval officer then held patents for both the theory and device for distant radio control of self-propelled vehicles of any type afloat or ashore, patents obtained even before radio communication was assured. Evolvement of the Tesla coherer in the '90's had set him dreaming of the war possibilities of radio while he was serving as Commodore Dewey's flag officer before the war with Spain.

EXPERIMENTS IN 1910

With the first plane flights by the Wright brothers in 1903, Fiske was fascinated by the possibility of aerial torpedoes. By 1910 he had induced naval experimentation with means of dropping torpedoes successfully from planes to attack surface fleets otherwise secure in land-locked harbors.

A score of years passed before that Fiske dream, like his fore-vision of distant radio control, was realized.

Every naval power now relies heavily on flying torpedoes. The heaviest naval casualties of this war, American, British, German, Italian and Japanese, have flowed from that fact.

The most recent confirmatory evidence that it is flying torpedoes, not air bombs nor submarine torpedo attacks, that fast moving and heavily armed surface ships have most to fear came in the Nazi escape from Brest. Ten months of night and day British high-altitude bombing at those three German heavy war craft failed to knock them out or cripple them while they were in port. Harbor contours did not permit torpedo-plane attack even had the Nazi anti-aircraft barrages or defending planes been unable to prevent that form of assault.

PEACE "IN STAGES"

IT IS utterly unrealistic to picture this war ending in another armistice, another convocation of statesmen like that at Paris, another formal peace treaty and another wave of disillusion, cynicism and incapacity among the victors. It is quite possible that there will never be a formal peace treaty at all, but that the war will end in stages—stages of collapse among the brutal servitors of world Hitlerism and stages of practical adjustment by the free peoples to the successive practical problems that world organization will raise. The peace is not something that will be written at some distant future date when the guns have fallen silent. It is something that is being written now with every burst from a free man's machine gun, by every free pilot or bombardier or turret captain, by every free worker behind them feeding them the bombs and shells and tanks and ships and in the process co-operating with every other free man and woman, who only by working and fighting together on a world scale can win this world crisis. —New York Herald Tribune.

ART OF PRINTING

FIVE hundred years before Gutenburg and his associates had made their types at Mainz, the Chinese had made moveable types of clay, hardened by fire, but the art had no such development as it had in the west, which may account in some considerable degree for the differences in the two civilizations.

No art has a wider scope than this art, which preserves in its comprehensive memory all the past that seems worth remembering, which makes the world new every day in its news, which is ever peering into the morrow of the world and making its editorial auguries through those who know best how to interpret the omens. With the facilities it has acquired for gathering, reproducing, interpreting and disseminating what the other arts produce, it has become the art of arts.—Chatham News

CHINA IS INFLEXIBLE

THE cold, philosophical calm with which the Chinese view Japan's resumption of the offensive in many parts of their country is astonishing evidence of their unbreakable spirit and of their new determination to crush Japan at any cost. The more supplies and lives Japan wastes on these enterprises, the less will she have to use elsewhere. Of course, it will cost China many lives to take those Japanese lives; but China can afford them, while others cannot afford them, least of all Japan. That is the gist of the comment.

A nation with less moral stamina might have hoped that, with Japan busy elsewhere, their own towns and fields would have been spared for a time the cruel ravages of invasion. A war-weary people might have been tempted to let the Japanese on their soil have a truce if they wanted one. Not so the Chinese. They have deliberately forced Japan to give them her attention, and are grimly pleased to remark that they have provoked a general offensive.

A little while ago the Chinese were just determined to hold on and on, with vague hopes of a turn in their fortunes. Now, they are sure that they are fighting to break Japan. — New York Herald Tribune.

LEAN AND LIMPID

WALTER P. ARMSTRONG, president of the American Bar Association, is weary and legal double-talk. "Few briefs and not many opinions," he notes, "are written in lean, limpid, concise English."

Bravo! We have never fully understood the sense of referring to Joe, the furnace man, for example, as "the party of the first part herëinafter designated as the party of the first part hereinunder described and set forth as follows, to wit."

But why stop with the lawyers? How about the good preachers whose sonorous syllables roll forth with a maximum of sound and a minimum of message? Or the senators who are forever referring to "the rockbound coasts of Maine," etc.?

Let us all draw a lesson from the handful of Marines on Wake, who, presented with a golden opportunity to spout about the flag being still there, said in "lean, limpid, concise English": "Send us more Japs." — Chicago Sun.

GROW MORE SUGAR

WE have no shortage of wheat in Canada—but we produce a very small quantity of sugar compared to all European countries and with the United States. Canada assumed the attitude that it "can't happen here." The governments of Canada forgot to safeguard the necessities of the people.

It is about time that some planning was done by the authorities, with a view of ensuring the people of Canada a sufficient supply of essential foods that can be produced very satisfactorily in Canada; and conversely, not to produce foods or commodities not urgently needed. In British Columbia we are short of many essential supplies that could be produced here. —Vancouver Sun.

ACTIVE LAZINESS

INDOLENCE, indeed — especially, perhaps, the indolence that takes the form of lying in bed—is unnatural to the majority of human beings. Even men who dislike work are as a rule what I should call early risers. I have known men who avoided work like the plague, but who, nevertheless, could not lie in bed after six in the morning. They could not endure the passive kind of idleness of the sluggard. They liked doing nothing, but they liked doing nothing actively—fussing, pottering about, wasting time on their feet rather than on their backs.

We are born fussers. We may, some of us, lie in bed till lunch-time, but in the end the call to be up and doing affects us as it affects the still greater fussers who get up at six in the morning. Neither cold nor heat can deflect us from our purpose. For a part of the day, at least, we are doomed to be as busy as the busy bee or that still busier and fussier insect, the mosquito. — London New Statesman.

A Bible Message For Today . . .

For I know that in me (that is, in my flesh), dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me; but how to perform that which is good I find not. For the good that I would not, that I do. Now if I do that I would not, it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me.

I find that a law, that, when I would do good, evil is present with me. For I delight in the law of God after the inward man: but I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members.—Rom. vii, 18-23.

This I say then, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh. For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: so that ye cannot do the things that ye would.

But if ye be led of the Spirit, ye are not under the law.—Gal. v, 16-18.

For though there be that are called gods, whether in heaven or in earth (as there be gods many, and lords many), but to us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him.—I Cor. viii, 5, 6.

JOCK TAMSON'S BAIRNS

SIR:—Like many another trite saying, the expression, "We're a' Jock Tamson's bairns" originated in Fife. John Thompson, a former beadle at Cults (the birth-place of Sir David Wilkie), was blessed with a large family. Mrs Thompson being too busy with other duties, the Saturday-night job of bathing the weans fell to her guid-man. Jock's modus operandi was to place a well filled tub on the kitchen floor, and to scrub each child in turn. The little fellows, after being dried, were heaved into the box-bed with the words: "Find a place for yerself." Hence the saying: "We'll find a place for oorsels, like Jock Tamson's bairns."

A STUPENDOUS JOB

What the past few days must have taught us is the stupendousness of the job ahead. We are going to need more warships, guns, planes, tanks and merchant ships than even Mr. Roosevelt has been thinking of. We are not only going to need quantities such as we had not previously realized, but we are going to need types and qualities that are not yet in production. And we are going to need modernly trained officers and men to handle the new equipment and need them on a scale for which we have not yet made provision. — Kingston Whig-Standard.

THE HUMBLE NICKEL

PROBABLY the most important coin issued at the Canadian mint is our nickel. At least, we do not know what many churchgoers would do without it. It is the most religious coin we know of. It is also a handy way of expressing one's feelings towards charity—and how some people make use of it! Yes, the nickel is a mighty important coin; especially to "tight-wads." Probably if they were taken out of circulation for a while the churches and many other organizations that depend on silver collections and free will offerings for their maintenance would become healthier financially.—Winchester Press.

EXPLANATION

Count Herbert Bismarck, son of the great German militarist, once accompanied the emperor on a visit to Rome, Coronet recalls. At the railway station he rudely shoved an Italian official. When the victim objected, Bismarck glared angrily. "I don't think you know who I am," he snapped. "I am Count Herbert Bismarck." The Italian bowed suavely. "That," he replied, "is an insufficient excuse—but as an explanation it is ample." —Niagara Falls Review.

DE VALERA'S ATTITUDE

ONE night in Berlin I heard the German radio broadcast a play based on the life of Sir Roger Casement. At the end of his trial, in June, 1916, after he had been sentenced to death for high treason, Casement made a speech which will live as long as the English language. The Nazis, I thought, rather bungled it, but their version recalled to me one of the many noble utterances in that speech as I had read it years before. "Ireland," Sir Roger said, "has outlived the failure of all her hopes." I thought of it again the other day (January 12) when Mr. De Valera was moved to remark: "We will avoid war, please God, unless we are attacked." It is a noble hope, like so many others that Ireland has had, but in this Hitlerian world it seems doomed to failure. And to cling to it to the extent of permitting a Nazi victory would result in the failure of the greatest Irish hope of all, the one that became a great reality—Irish liberty and independence. That failure Ireland might never outlive.—William L. Shirer in The Nation, New York.

IRONIC NOTE

An American weekly carries a despatch from a field hospital serving with General MacArthur in Bataan. It is written by an army surgeon. In the article the writer mentions what they have found in probing shrapnel wounds. Parts of Ford cars have been removed, even in one case, part of a Singer sewing machine. It is a macabre and ironic note, a grim reminder of the thousands of tons of scrap iron shipped from Canada and the United States to build up the Jap war machine. Duffus, assisted by 10 members, have completed 6 gowns and 2 quilts. The Salvage Workers, under Mrs. S. McCarthy, have arranged to help at the Salvage Depot once a week. Anyone willing to give one day to this worthy war work should phone Mrs. S. McCarthy. A very satisfactory report was read by the treasurer, Mrs. G. Fleming. A series of vanishing teas have received a gratifying response and the proceeds will be used to buy supplies for war work.

The chaplain, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, commended the work of the C.W.L., especially in the war work and the study clubs, and asked them to add to their work the social one of visiting new citizens in our midst. At the next meeting a nominating committee will be appointed and officers will be elected at the annual meeting in April.

PATTERN 9910.

The kindergarten set chooses the button-front frock that makes it easy to dress oneself and not bother mother. Pattern 9910 by Marian Martin is a favorite because it may have a bolero to match or contrast—making it into a complete ensemble just like grown-ups wear. The little gingham frock has a trim notched collar, short sleeves and squared-off side sections that add flare to the skirt. The bolero may have short or long sleeves and two optional round pockets. With the sew chart's aid, why not stitch up two wash frocks and a bolero to wear with both? For a touch of contrast, use a fresh white pique collar on one version of this little dress.

Pattern 9910 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Sizes 6, dress, requires 2⅝ yards 35 inch fabric

Tea Is A Success Despite Weather

Despite the bitterly cold weather a good crowd turned out to the tea held on Saturday by the Major Bennett Chapter I.O.D.E., at the Y.W.C.A. The mellow gleam of lighted candles and the friendliness of spring flowers lent the room a warm air that was a happy contrast to the weather.

The general conveners, Mrs. J. Comstock and Mrs. J. M. King were responsible for all arrangements. A home baking table was supervised by Mrs. George Barnes and Mrs. H. Tewsley; and a Pick an' Pay table, a variation of the White Elephant table, was presided over by Miss Isobell Duffus and Miss Jean Dorris Miss Jean Belleghem was in charge of tickets for a picture which was raffled at the tea.

The Regents of the other I.O.D.E. Chapters in the city poured tea at the pretty table, covered with a lace cloth and centred with a bouquet of snapdragons, iris and daffodils. The ladies pouring tea were Mrs. A. C. Turner, Mrs. F. E. Hooper, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, and Mrs. W. Preston, Jr. Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, honorary Regent, and Miss Margaret Preston, Regent, received the guests.

WEDDING RING HAS NO POWER TO CHANGE HUMAN NATURE

Spoiled Girls and Wayward Boys Remain Same After Trek to the Altar.

THE other day two kids only 15 years old got married, and when asked what was their hurry about rushing into matrimony they replied that they did it to keep themselves off the streets, as they didn't think that it did them any good to play around so much and that they might as well settle down. This naive reason for entering into the holy estate calls attention not only to the many curious motives which lead men to the altar, but to the child-like faith which makes them believe that marriage is a sort of nostrum that will cure anything that ails them and will turn life into whatever they want it to be. They regard it as a sovereign remedy for heartache, that empty gone feeling of loneliness, poverty, tyranny, work, uncongenial surroundings, a craving for pleasure and all the other ills to which human flesh is heir. And the fact that they never seen it work on others doesn't shake their belief that it will take on them. Every day I get letters from girls who tell me that they are tired of working, want to take life easy, have pretty clothes and good times, and so they are marrying boys who make $10 or $12 a week. Or they write me that the are marring so that they can get away from Mother's bossing and be free and independent and able to do as they like. Or they are marrying drunkards who they are sure will never take another nip after they are married. Or lazy good-for-nothings who will become go-getters. Or philanderers who will never look at another petticoat as soon as the magic words of the marriage ceremony have been said over them.

And men are equally sold on the supernatural powers of marriage to change a girl from what she is into what they want her to be. Every day we see highly educated, cultivated men marrying little nitwits, who never read a book in their lives, in the fond belief that as soon as they are married these girls will become intellectual companions to them.

They Just Don't Change

We see men marrying feminine clothes horses, and thinking that marriage will cure their love of dress and make them prefer basement bargains to little numbers from the specialty shops. We see men marrying viragoes expecting marriage to turn them into gentle little lambs.

Of course, the matrimonial conjure never works. The girl who marries a poor boy in order to loaf finds that instead of having an eight-hour job she has an 18-hour one. The one who married to escape Mama's tyranny discovers that she has jumped out of the frying pan into the fire, and that a wife who has no more personal liberty than a dog on a leash. Those who married philanderers to reform them find that they have just as wandering feet after as before taking.

And men find that after their brides have packed away their orange blossoms and tulle veils they have no more brains, or sweeter dispositions, or taste for cheap hats than they had as maidens.

No Magic Properties

When so many other old superstitions have been scrapped, it is strange that this unquestioning faith in the magic properties of a wedding ring should still persist. But it does, and so deeply is it imbued in men and women that they not only believe that marriage will change those whom they are marrying, but that it will change themselves.

The spoiled, pampered, rich girl, who has been accustomed to every luxury and led a gay and exciting life, honestly believes that she will not mind going shabby and cooking and scrubbing and walking instead of riding in limousines after she is married to a poor man.

The drunkard thinks he will never thirst for another highball after he is married. The I. W. W. thinks that marriage will galvanize him into action. And Don Juan is sure his eyes will never wander again. And it is this faith in miraculous powers of marriage that more than anything is responsible for what we call the disillusions and disappointments of marriage.

For, of course, marriage cannot change human nature. What we were on one side of the altar we are on the other. Our tastes, our habits, our inclinations and desires have not been altered by the few words the priest or clergyman said over us. And if, after marriage, some of us do "settle down," as the phrase goes, and adapt ousselves to our mates and sacrifice our personal desires to theirs, is by reason of the strength and wisdom and generosity that is in us, and not because of any miracle that marriage has worked in us.

The moral of all of which is: Pick out the kind of husbands and wives you want instead of trusting to lucn that marriage will change them.

Unstable Boy Friends

DEAR MISS DIX—I love my boy friend very dearly and he claims to love me, but every now and then he quits coming to see me and just fades out of the picture until he sees me going out and having a good time with other fellows. Then he comes back and wants me to go with him steady again. He has done this over and over again and I have always forgiven him and taken him back. I haven't seen him now for nearly three months and I am asking you if I should let him come back if he wants to? If I do, what can I do to hold him? He is one of these "go" men. He wants me and still he wants other girls, too.

ANSWER—You must be dumb if you can't take the warning this boy gives you. He is one of the unstable men who can't be true to any woman, and if you marry him he will be one of the husbands who will just fail to come home some night and you will be left to support yourself and probably two or three little children. Don't think of marrying him unless you are hunting for trouble. It is bad enough to be a deserted sweetheart, but it is a million times worse to be a deserted wife.

COBOURG AND PORT HOPE TEAMS WIN BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Eagles Batter Indians 5-2; Reds Lose 5-2

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 23 — (CP).— Only New Haven Eagles who appeared in one game, can lay claim to a perfect average in the American Hockey League's heavy week-end schedule, as all other active clubs split their double assignments.

The outcome failed to alter any positions in the standing and to-day attention still is centred on the battle for Western Division honors where Hershey Bears and Cleveland Barons are tied at the top of the heap with Indianapolis Capitals threatening in second place only a point off the pace.

For the space of about a day, Indianapolis had enjoyed second place in the standing when it defeated Springfield Indians on Saturday 7-5, while Cleevland bowed to Pittsburg 8-3. New Haven, however, spoiled the Caps' chance of moving into first place when last night they registered a 5-2 triumph.

Meanwhile, Cleveland recovered from its previous day slump to topple Pittsburg, 5-3, while Hershey was falling victim to Washington Lions by a decisive 4-1 score.

New Haven's victory pulled them two points closer to the Springfield club, which turned aside Providence on Sunday 5-2 to remain at the head of the Eastern Section table with an 11-point advantage over Eagles.

In the other Sunday game, Buffalo overwhelmed Philadelphia 7-3 after losing on Saturday to Hershey in a close battle, 4-3.

Saturday, Philadelphia had got off on the right foot when it rallied to beat Washington, 2-1.

Reds Close Behind.

The Lions trail New Haven in the eastern section followed closely by Providence and Philadelphia, while Buffalo and Pittsburg are in fourth and fifth places respectively in the western division.

After New Heaven had taken a 3-1, first period lead Indianapolis was unable to come back and scored only once more in the second period while the Eagles added another pair of goals to their total.

Vic Myles, Mike Dzuira and Norm Burns got the first-period New Haven goals, while Norm Tustin and Al Catlin scored the other two. Norm Sawyer and Ed Keating divided the Cap markers.

Cleveland had to rally in the third period to overcome Pittsburg's Hornets. Barons took a 2-0 lead on single goals in the first two periods by Stan Smith and Robertson, but Norm Mann and Squee Allen got those back for Hornets. Smith's second goal, however, put Barons in front to stay, with Norm Schultz and Les Cunningham coming through with two more Baron goals.

Hershey joined the list of those clubs which have found Washington a tough nut to crack in its own back yard. After Bob Kirk had scored midway through the first period, Washington came roaring back to take command the rest of the way and score four goals for victory.

Little Rod Lorrain, on loan from Canadiens of the National League, scored two Washington goals with Peggy O'Neil and Frank Mailley picking up one apiece.

The league's leading scorer, Pete Kelly, came through with two straight goals to pace Springfield to its 5-2 win against Providence Reds. His second tally broke a 2-2 deadlock midway through the second period, then Gus Marker and Bob Dill scored in order for Indians in the closing session. The Red goals went to Jack Shill and Norman Calladine.

Three veterans of pro hockey, Jack Toupin, Max Bennett and Dede Klein, who work on the same line, carried Buffalo to its 7-3 verdict over Philadelphia, when they combined for four goals and eight assists.

The Herd took a three goal lead early in the game and were never threatened after that. Bennett and Mundo McKay each tallied two goals with Topin, Klein and Regis (Pep) Kelly getting the others. The Rocket scorers were Jim Peters, Kik Lofvendahl and Bus Wycherley.

Dit Clapper Heads Back To Boston

HASTINGS, Feb. 21 — (ENS).— Aubrey "Dit" Clapper, star defence man and captain of the Boston Bruins, left today (Monday) for Boston after a week's rest at his home here. The popular hockey star is recovering from a tendon injury, sustained in a Toronto-Boston hockey game played in Toronto January 31.

Clapper told the Examiner Saturday afternoon that his chances of playing again this season are very slim. "It all depends on a series of treatments which begin in Boston this week," said Dit. "But," he said with a smile, "even if I don't play Art Ross will probably have plenty for me to do."

Referring to Peterborough's Julian Wade, now playing for Hershey, Clapper said his chances of hitting the N.H.L. this year are good. "Considering the many injuries which have struck Boston this season, we are going to need plenty of "breaks" and plenty of reserves to again capture the Stanley Cup. Reports of Wade's playing reaching Boston are very good and Ross might use him before the season is over."

Bombers Snatch 4th Place In Western Loop

REGINA, Feb. 23 — (CP). — Playoff time has rolled around again for competitors on the Saskatchewan Senior and Junior hockey fronts.

Finalists in the Senior League were not decided until Sunday when the last scheduled game of the season was played at Flin Flon. The outcome—a 6-1 victory for the Flin Flon Bombers over Yorkton Terriers—sent the Bombers into fourth place and left Coach Slim Holdaway and his Terriers in the basement suite, out of the playoffs.

Final standings showed the seasonal pace-setters—Saskatoon Quakers—on top with 43 points, made up of 20 wins, three ties, and nine losses. In second place were Art Somers' Moose Jaw Millers, who since the New Year, set a hot pace in the five-team circuit. The squad compiled 40 points — 18 victories, four ties, and 10 losses in their 32-game schedule.

Last year's Allan Cup champions, Regina Rangers, clinched third place with 27 points. Their closely-fought 2-1 victory over Moose Jaw last Saturday night gave them the nod over Flin Flon who finished with 26 points. Yorkton ended with 24.

Regina now play Moose Jaw in a best-of-five series for the right to enter the provincials against the winner of the Saskatoon-Flin Flon best-of-five series. Rangers and Millers play their first game on Wednesday at Moose Jaw with the second at Regina on Friday.

With an all time high record of forty-five rinks playing for the annual Neil Trophy competition, play will get under way to-night at 6.45 o'clock.

There will be two events, the primary and the consolation. Each game will be 10 ends and the entrance fee is $2.00 per rink.

All rinks, barring the last eight to stay in the main event, will be entitled to play in the consolation.

As the committee intends to run a double-header each night, we would ask that all the players make a special effort to be on time. This co-operation would be greatly appreciated. Thank you!

Maybe it was the extreme cold weather that kept the crowd down on Saturday afternoon, but those who did come out seemed to enjoy the real frosty, crisp air.

The winners were:

E. Bickell, C. Cox, G. Green, J. Richmond, skip—3 wins, plus 11.

O Price, A. Buck, C. Giroux, J. Welsh, skip—2 wins and 1 tie, plus 5.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The stage is set for tonight's big hockey battle between Whitby Palm Billiards and Peterborough Soldiers in the third game of the series for the senior B group championship, staged for Brock St. Rink at 8.30 o'clock sharp. The teams are on even terms. The Petes won the first game here 6 to 2 on Wednesday night and Whitby squared the series at home Friday night by a 5 to 4 victory in a hectic battle that was in doubt until the final whistle. The winner of ton-ght's tilt will have a nice hold on the group title and both clubs are geared up for what should be the hardest-fought and most exciting argument of the series. Fast ice is assured and as both outfits like a smooth cushion there should be no complaints from either of them on that score. Whitby will have their full battle array of Oshawa reinforcements in action tonight and the Petes will also be at full strength, so that the tussle looms up as the most exciting and classiest contest of the current campaign. It will be played before the season's largest crowd, too, for there was a rush after reserved seats Saturday that showed that fans regard this as the hockey classic of the season.

* * * * * *

The teams will line up almost exactly the same as in Friday's game at Whitby. At least there will be no change in the Peterborough setup and it is expected Coach Hamel will also stand pat with the team that squared the series for him. The Petes will have Harding in goal and the same two defence formations and forward lines they have been using all season when at full strength with Bruce Bennett seeing action as the extra forward. Whitby will have Ab Barnes, Doug Maundrell and Bill Vipond doing defence duty in front of Peg Hurst and the same forward combinations they used against the Petes on Friday night. Here is the lineup and we throw in the Whitby numbers so you can follow the visitors: Whitby—Goal, Hurst (1); defence, W. Vipond (3), Barnes (4); centre, Covert (7); wings, Dafoe (8), Cooper (6); alternates, Durling (11), Gamble (9), Heard (10), Brown (2), Maundrell (5), L. Vipond (12). Peterborough—Goal, Harding; defence, Crowe and Jopling; centre, Kingdon; wings, Tompkins, Heal; alternates, Godfrey, Burton, Reilly, Nichols, Blewett, Bennett.

* * * * * *

The Petes are confident that they will go one up on the series in tonight's battle. They are a bit nettled over their failure to come through with a win in Whitby which means that they will have to go back there for another game no matter what happens tonight and they hope to go out there tonight and pull off a convincing victory over the strongest lineup Coach Hamel can toss out against them. They got a bad start in Whitby by blowing early scoring opportunities and then finding themselves behind a four-goal deficit but they rallied like a championship team and had Whitby hanging on the ropes for the balance of the engagement. Only a fluke goal off the stick of Jerry Cooper that was deflected into the net saved the day for them and even at that the Petes who outshot them 2 to 1 should have copped the decision if they had got a break at all. The Soldiers say that it will be a different story tonight and that they will carry the visitors along at a pace that have them lashed to the mast before the final whistle. At all events gobs of action can be expected and it should develop into the hottest argument of the entire season.

* * * * * *

The girls' basketball tourney at the Collegiate gymnasium which kept ten teams from Bowmanville, Lindsay, Port Hope, Cobourg and Peterborough in action on Friday night and most of Saturday was one of the most successful events of its kind ever staged here. A most gratifying feature was the attendance on both days. Games were played before a crowded gallery and as the proceeds went to the Collegiate's mobile kitchen fund, the liberal patronage was certainly appreciated. Peterborough Collegiate teams failed to grab off either of the major contests, those honors going to the Port Hope High School girls who won the senior title and the Cobourg lasses who annexed the junior championships. They will represent this group in their respective divisions in the Cossa playoffs in Toronto and the other schools in the district will wish them luck. The Lindsay teams earned brackets by both reaching the final round only to be eliminated when in sight of the senior and junior honors. The whole affair was well-handled and was a success from every point of view, both financially and artistically.

* * * * * *

The Quakers, generally regarded as the team to beat for City Basketball League honors were sizzling Saturday night when they tackled the fast young team from Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School in a league contest and ran up the highest score of the season to beat the students 81 to 43. Jimmy Thorburn and Joe Jakafby each tossed in fifteen baskets for a total of 30 points each and against that kind of sharp-shooting the P.C.V.S. team hadn't much chance in spite of the fact they did some nice shooting themselves and ran up a score that was high enough to have given them a victory in any ordinary game. Quakers and Dominions are tied so far as points are concerned, each of them having won four games but the porridge crew have a game in hand and will undoubtedly end the regular schedule at the top of the heap. The real battle is for second place.

Rangers Back In Front

After a somewhat lucky win over the Brooklyn Amerks on Saturday night had put them tied with Rangers for first place Toronto Maple Leafs slipped back to the second slot again Sunday when they absorbed a 3 to 0 trimming at the hands of the Detroit Red Wings while New York Rangers came out of their losing streak to beat the Chicago Black Hawks and go out in front again. Rangers' victory, their first in five games, was notable by reason of the fact that the winning goal was scored by rookie Hubert Macey, formerly of the New York Rovers who was playing his first pro game. Rangers came from behind to hand the Black Hawks a 3 to 2 trimming and the Patrickmen have now a lead of two points over the Leafs. The Toronto team, however, has a game in hand. Incidentally so have the Boston Bruins who are now four points off the pace, a game behind the Maple Leafs.

Leafs will probably not score as lucky a win all season as they picked up Saturday night against the Amerks when Syl Apps slammed in the winning goal from a faceoff near the Brooklyn nets with only 20 seconds to go. That counter was a break in itself but two of the Leafs' earlier goals were favored by fortune too. One came on a pass from the corner by McDonald which hit Johnny McCreedy and went into the cage and another was pulled into the net by Goalie Rayner who stuck up his hand on a long high shot by Schriner that was going over the top of the citadel. However they all count and the soft counters enabled the Toronto men to share the leadership with Rangers for 24 hours any way.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Jerry Cooper and Roy Covert who will be here with Whitby against the Petes tonight ran wild in their T.H.L. game in Toronto Saturday night....It looked like old times with Canadiens Saturday when Toe Blake ran in two goals to help beat the Black Hawks 5 to 3....Incidentally the win left the Canadiens a point behind the Amerks for a playoff berth....The big scoring three of the New York Rangers, Hextall, Watson and Patrick each picked up a scoring point last night to remain at hte top of the heap....The Red Wings' 3 to 0 win over Toronto was only the second the Detroit team has been able to grab off from the Leafs. According to Detroit version of the game Toronto were badly outplayed and only a fine exhibition by Broda saved a worse trimming. Incidentally Broda's chances for the Vezina trophy slipped a bit over the week-end. He has already had 100 goals registered against him this season while only 87 have been scored against Frankie Brimsek of the Bruins....The ladies' basketball game scheduled for tonight between Y Gym and the Electrics has been postponed for a week ....The next games in the loop will be the usual program Friday night.

Two PCI Teams Eliminated Early In Play

P.C.V.S. girls' basketball tournament, a new event for this district and one that proved highly successful in every way, came to a conclusion late on Saturday afternoon with two teams, Port Hope High School Seniors and Cobourg Collegiate Juniors emerging as the Lakeshore League titlists and representatives of this group in its quest for C.O.S.S.A. championships.

The agllery in the big P.C.I. gym was filled almost all day on Saturday from the first game early in the morning until the senior final was played around supper time, and the big crowd saw a lot of fine basketball before the winners were declared.

Both the P.C.I. teams were eliminated before the finals were reached, Cobourg knocking out the Garnet and Grey Juniors in the first round on Friday night and Port Hope ending the Seniors' hopes by beating them 10-3 in a morning game.

P.C.I. Seniors had won their first round over Bowmanville the previous night.

An interesting sidelight lies in the fact that two Lindsay Collegiate Institute teams managed to battle their way to the finals of the two sections, but were then eliminated. The Senior winners, Port Hope, won their title by defeating P.C.I. 10-3 in the morning and just barely beating Lindsay 16-14 in the final in one of the best games of the entire tournament. Cobourg Juniors annexed their championship by defeating P.C.I. 6-2, Bowmanville 10-5, and Lindsay 25-9 in the final round.

The Senior final was in doubt right till the final whistle or in fact until a few seconds after the final whistle had blown. On the last play of the game, and with the score 16-14 against them Lindsay was awarded a pair of free throws which if made could have tied the score, but they both missed the mark and Port Hope became champions. P.C.I. Juniors won the consolation game played between the losing teams of Friday night's games by beating Bowmanville 12-2, and Bowmanville copped the Senior consolation affair by trouncing Cobourg 16-5.

The Versatile "Flash"

When he scored both goals, by which the National Hockey League champion Boston Bruins defeated the Detroit Red Wings, recently, to complete, for them, the first half of the present race, William "Flash" Hollett stamped himself, again, as one of the most versatile players in the major league.

Quakers Regain League Lead

In one of the highest-scoring games in the history of the City Basketball League, Quakers regained possession of first place in the league standing by smothering P.C.I. under a torrent of field goals to the tune of 81-43 at the Y.M.C.A. Saturday night.

Quakers, with their high-scoring offensive running in high gear threw baskets from all angles once they got going after a slow start and slowly, relentlessly piled up their big margin.

The Garnet and Gray quintet managed to hold them in check in the early minutes but midway in the half the ultimate winners got rolling, built up a 48-21 lead at the half way mark and continued to pile it up in the last twenty minutes.

P.C.I. battled courageously to stay with the red-hot Quaker team in the first half and managed to pile up a commendable number of points themselves during the contest but their defensive endeavours weren't equal to the show of fast passing and miraculous shooting the winners put on. By virtue of their victory, Quakers once again pulled up in front of Dominions with whom they are engaged in a nip and tuck battle for first place, while the loss didn't make P.C.I.'s task of securing a play-off berth any easier.

Two players shared the scoring spotlight for the winners last night, Thorburn and Jakafby both throwing in 15 field goals for a total of 30 points apiece, while the whole team played well in a supporting role. Ferguson was the big gun for the P.C.I. offensively with 16 points and Gardner had ten. The teams—

P.C.I. 43—Ferguson 16, Taylor 6, Saunders, Richardson 7, Gardner 10, Burns 2.

Quakers 81—Thorburn 30, McArthur 12, Jakafby 30, Gillespie, McPherson 8, McIntyre 1.

Challenge Matches For 5-Pin Bowlers

The bowling fraternity will have a glimpse of twenty outstanding bowlers in action at Duffus Recreation Academy between 7 and 9 o'clock tomorrow evening. Two all-star men's teams will clash in one challenge match and two teams comprising the ten high average lady bowlers will meet in another match.

The affair is being arranged by the management of the Alleys but unfortunately the good averages of several industrial league trundlers are not available at present. Those asked to participate are the cream of the performers from the city leagues of this year.

The easy job of choosing the men's teams will be left to Fred Martin and Tom Curvin and if past performances mean anything the pins are due for an awful pounding. Martin is a real bush-whacker himself. His dizzy pace of 255 leads all other local 5-pinners, while Curvin, who is only a few steps behind Fred in the City League race, can be counted on to throw a 247 game every time he toes a certain board on the bowling runways. In addition to the above pair the material placed at their disposal should warm the heart of any team captain. There is Tommy Miller with 242, Bud White with 239, Jack Playford 238, Doug Abraham 238, Bert McCarroll 236 and Fire Chief George Gimblett, Frank Wood and Alf Mattuci with averages of 235 each. Spares, if needed, will include either the one and only Bud Weese with 234 or the 230 Bud Goodson.

They have stars galore to pick from in the Ladies' City League. Marjorie Hawthorne and Margaret Selkirk will be asked to arrange the two teams from the first ten average bowlers. Miss Hawthorne is listed as the top-ranking player of the loop with a 203 average for 45 games, while Miss Selkirk for the same number of games is second with 194. Betty Castle is third with 194 for 38 games, Kay Calladine has 191, Betty Goldie 191, Margaret Sanderson 190, Marion Watts 189, Marion Timm 188, Marie Tully 186 and Gerry Payne 186. If substitutes are needed Mrs. Holt's 184 for 42 games should get the first call. Mrs. McDonald has 184 for 40 games, Francis Margueratt 184 for 40 games, Lois Darling has a 182 average and Mary Sisson 181.

Frank Lennard New ORFU President For '42

TORONTO, Feb. 223. — Frank Leonard of Dundas, acting president during 1941, was elected president of the Ontario Rugby Football Union at the annual meeting here Saturday. Seventeen delegates of the various O.R.F.U. groups attended.

Secretary-Treasurer Harold Bailey reported a balance of $271 on hand.

Sam Manson, executive member of Hamilton Wildcats, criticized the Canadian Rugby Union for its handling of the Eastern semi-final between the Wildcats and Ottawa Rough Riders last season. He said the game should have been played in Hamilton, and that the Wildcats should have received $1,200 to $1,300 expenses for the trip to Ottawa, but received only $1,100.

He said the amount of expenses to be allowed was specified in the minutes of the last C.R.U. annual meeting, and the delegates passed a motion that the C.R.U. forward minutes of annual meetings to all the C.R.U. members.

It was agreed that everything possible would be done to keep alive a senior series next fall. Fred Waghorne, president of the Toronto Rugby Football Union, suggested that a weight-and-age group be sponsored by the O.R.F.U.

Other officers elected were: J. E. McLean, Hamilton, first vice-president; Dr. McDonnell, Kitchener, second vice-president; Douglas Paul, third vice-president.

Those elected members of the executive committee were: Sam Manson, Hamilton; Fred Porter, Toronto; W. A. Fry, Beamsville; Norm Perry, Sarnia; Dr. D. V. Currie, St. Catharines; Gordon Price, Hamilton; Rev. Flanagan, Toronto; Fred C. Waghorne, Sr., Toronto; and F. F. Duftin, Cobourg.

Premier Hepburn and Lieutenant-Colonel George Drew, Provincial Conservative Leader, were named honorary patrons.

RED WINGS HALT TORONTO 3-0 AFTER LEAFS WHIP AMERKS 4-3

Rookie Macey Breaks Tie For Ranger Win

TORONTO, Feb. 23. — (CP) — A young fellow named Hubert Macey played his first professional hockey game last night and scored a goal. Which wouldn't be anything particularly exciting except for the fact that the goal ended a four-game losing streak for New York Rangers and could go a long way toward settling a tight National Hockey League race this year.

The youthful ex-Winnipegger was signed to a pro contract by the Rangers on Friday when Alfie Pike showed up with an injury and he got into action for the first time last night on home ice against Chicago Black Hawks. His goal with less than six minutes left broke a 2-2 tie and gave the Rangers a 3-2 triumph.

Macey's first tally as a moneyed player looms up as an important one when the other game last night is taken into account. That saw Toronto Maple Leafs have their five-game winning streak snapped with a 3-0 loss at Detroit, giving Goalie Johnny Mowers his fifth shutout of the year and his second in three games.

These results left Rangers two points up on the Leafs and holding onto the league lead with eight games left to play. The Leafs have nine to go—two of them against the Rangers March 7 and 8.

Max Bentley and Bob Carse put the Chicagoans ahead in the first period and Neil Colville cut the deficit in the second. Then Phil Watson tied it up and left the way open for Macey to come through with his hero's act.

Leafs Tired Out

The Leafs never came close at Detroit and showed the effects of fatigue after a home victory Saturday night over Brooklyn Americans, 4-3. Syd Howe got one for the Wings in the first game and Sid Abel and Mud Bruneteau finished it off in the second.

Detroit's win pulled the Wings into sole possession of fifth place and shook off—at least temporarily a growing threat from Montreal's last-place Canadiens.

The Canadiens scored a 5-3 home win over the Hawks on Saturday night and that left them only a point back of the Wings and the Americans, who were tied for fifth place. However, the Amerks were idle last night and dropped into sixth place as a result of the Detroit win and their own defeat at Toronto Saturday.

Americans and Canadiens each have eight games to go and they play each other twice next week-end, when the question of which club is going to grab that last play-off spot may well be settled for keeps.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Phil Watson climbed within a point of his linemate, Bryan Hextall of Rangers, at the top of the National Hockey League individual scoring race, when he scored a goal last night to boost his total to 44. The third member of this Ranger line, Lynn Patrick, remains in third place with 41 points, while grouped in fourth position are Bill Thoms, Chicago and Detroit's Don Grosso.

Sid Abel, another Detroiter, picked up a goal on the week-end to take over sole possession of sixth place with 37 points, while Gordie Drillon of Toronto holds down seventh position, a point behind Abel.

Canuck Skiers Place 2nd, 3rd At N.Y. Slalom

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Feb. 23 — (AP).—In walk-away style, Charles Blum of New York City's Norsemen's Ski Club won the slalom race, Saturday's feature of the 21st annual Washington's birthday ski tournament.

His victory in part avenged defeat of United States skiers by Canadians Friday in the downhill—but the Canadians were close up in the slalom, George Jost of Toronto and Sergeant Pilot Louis Cochand of the Royal Canadian Air Force getting second and third, respectively.

In women's competition for the Kate Smith Trophy, however, the United States team won a standout victory over a crack Canadian quintet, sweeping the first five places in slalom racing.

Both men's and women's events were run on Mount Joe's tough rimrock trail, just short of three-quarters of a mile long. It was bitterly cold and a savage wind raked the course.

Blum's time, 1:34.4, beat Jost's by eight seconds. Cochand, who won Friday's downhill, was a second behind the runner-up.

Marilyn Shaw of Stowe, Vt., paced the United States women with a brilliant winning run of 1:44.4. Second was Joan Hinton of Bennington, Vt.; third was Jean Dent of Ithaca; fourth, Carolyn Landon of Hanover, and fifth, Dorothy Hoyt of Schenectady, who won the downhill.

The victory put Miss Shaw on top in combined scoring with 196.94 points. Highest scorer in the Dominion team was Dorothy Beauvais of the Esterel Ski Club, in fifth place with 180.49 points.

Mangrum Takes Orleans Open

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 23 —(AP).—Lloyd Mangrum stands second among the leading money winners in the National Professional Golfers' Association this year, but he will need some more big winnings before he catches up with Ben Hogan.

Mangrum, who pocketed $1,000 yesterday by winning the New Orleans $5,000 open, now has a total of $3,106, but Hogan leads the field with $5,958, according to figures of Fred Corcoran, manager of the association.

The pros move next to the St. Petersburg, Fla., $5,900 open on March 4-6.

The outstanding feature of Mangrum's play in winning the New Orleans event was his chipping. On at least half a dozen occasions he blasted out of trouble and within a few feet of the pin.

After shooting three straight eihtgeens of 69, three under par, Mangrum faltered to a 74 on the final round yesterday, but it was enough to take first prize from Snead and Little, former national open champion, who were one point behind his 281.

Soldier Jailed In Mother, Sister's Murder

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 23—(CP). — Charles Clarence (Dickie) Dickinson, a soldier home on leave from Camp Borden, was scheduled to appear in court today, charged with the murder of his mother and sister.

The two women, Mrs. Amy Dickinson and Megan Dickinson, aged 19, were found dead of bullet wounds in their home here Saturday night. There were four bullet wounds in Mrs. Dickison's head and two in her body. One bullet had entered the girl's head and another had severed her jugular vein. Mrs. Dickinson was found lying on her blood-soaked bed upstairs. The girl was in the kitchen.

Police said the 21-year-old soldier, a member of the 63rd Battery, mobilized at Guelph and stationed at Camp Borden, walked to the police station Saturday evening and asked two policemen to go to his home. They said he was carrying a .22-calibre rifle, a single-shot weapon which would require reloading after each shot.

Megan Dickinson had just become engaged to Gnr. Joseph Graff of Guelph, a close friend of Dickinson and also a member of the 63rd Battery. Graff had given the girl a diamond ring Friday night.

Dickinson had been home on leave for a week. He had been chosen with a group of other men from his unit for coastal duty and was due to report back to Camp Borden yesterday.

He is said to be a teetotaller and a non-smoker. He is also an enthusiastic hunter. Police said the rifle he was carrying was borrowed from a cousin.

Charles W. Dickinson, husband and father of the two dead women, was at work in a nearby plant when the shootings occurred.

Police said they did not know of any motive for the shootings.

Train Kills 2 in Cutter.

The double slaying and four traffic fatalities in Ontario during the week-end raised the toll to seven persons. In traffic accidents two persons were killed when a train smashed into a horse-drawn cutter, two women were killed when struck by street cars in Toronto and a woman was killed in an automobile crash.

At a level crossing at Lancaster, 18 miles east of Cornwall, a fast Canadian National Railways express on Saturday plowed into a cutter in which were riding Arthur Curier and his 12-year-old son, Lionel, killing both instantly. Details of the accident were not immediately available, but the crossing was reported protected by a wig-wag signal.

Edith Brophey, 18, was killed early on Sunday at Guelph when the automobile in which she was riding crashed into a Hydro standard and fire hydrant, then overturned. Roy Ferris, 19, driver of the car, was arrested on a careless driving charge and released on $5,000 bail. He suffered minor bruises in the accident.

Two pedestrians killed in Toronto when struck by street cars were Miss Gladys Bell Harshell, 37, and Miss Amy Hawthorne, 60. Both were struck on Friday night and died on Saturday morning.

Churchill Reconstructs His War Cabinet

Bowing to the wishes of the House, Prime Minister Churchill reconstructed his War Cabinet by shaking it up and putting in several members with no direct Cabinet responsibilities. The War Cabinet was reduced from nine to seven men with the dropping of Sir Kingsley Wood and Arthur Greenwood. The revamped Cabinet is headed by Mr. Churchill, as Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury and Minister of Defence. Lord President of the Council is Sir John Anderson, TOP LEFT. Lord Privy Seal and leader of the House of Commons is Sir Stafford Cripps, TOP CENTRE. Dominions Secretary and Deputy Prime Minister is Clement Attlee, TOP RIGHT. Foreign Secretary is Anthony Eden, LOWER CENTRE. Minister of Labor and National Service is Ernest Bevin, LOWER LEFT. Minister of State with general supervision over production is Oliver Lyttelton, LOWER RIGHT. Lord Beaverbrook, former Minister of Production, has been given a special mission in the U.S.

Grigg Is Approved

The changes, like the previous reduction in the size of the War Cabinet, were in answer to wide demands for new imaginative direction of the war. The selection of 51-year-old Sir James Grigg, permanent head of the War Office, as War Minister, was greeted with surprise and general approval.

By his unprecedented dip into the ranks of the Civil Service for his new War Minister, Mr. Churchill startled his critics and backers alike but generally pleased them. Some newspaper headline writers already have dubbed Sir James as "Whiterall's Tough Boy."

If, as many believe, Mr. Churchill is unloading much of his routine administrative duties onto others in order to concentrate on war strategy, his selection of Sir James apparently was fortunate.

He is considered a ruthless administrator, one of the best in the Government. Moreover, as private secretary to the Chancellor of the Exchequer he has had experience as a Churchill subordinate.

The appointments of Col. Llewellin, one-time understudy to Lord Beaverbrook, and of Lord Cranborne also were accepted favorably.

The departure of Capt. Margesson from the War Office was not unexpected and there, too, the change was applauded in the press. Both he and Col. Moore-Brabazon had been targets of critical outbursts in recent weeks.

However, the prime minister retained L. S. Amery, Secretary of State for India, and Sir Archibald Sinclair, Secretary of State for Air, both of whom had been marked for changes in Commons lobby reports.

The Daily Herald called Col. Moore-Brabazon, a "capable man" but he had been under a shadow since he was accused several months ago on expressing hope that the German and Russian armies would "exterminate each other" and leave Britain as Europe's dominating power. The issue reached the floor of parliament.

Shows No Partiality

Mr. Churchill apparently wielded the axe with political impartiality, for of the five men discarded three were from his own Conservative party, Mr. Greenwood was a Labor member and Lord Reith had no affiliation.

Since Mr. Greenwood's post, the only one eliminated, was related primarily to post-war reconstruction there may be some satisfaction in the realignment for those who have demanded that the cabinet be devoted entirely to the idea of winning the war.

After praising the choice of Sir James Craig, the Daily Mail said: "As for the rest of the changes, it can not be said at first sight that the ministers who have arrived at the present are any improvement over the ministers who have gone.

"One of the most disappointing features is that with the exception of Sir James Grigg they include no name that is not known to the present or past administrations."

The new appointees, the News Chronicle demanded, "must introduce new methods and must infuse a fresh spirit of enterprise and daring into the conduct of the war" to justify their selection.

Lord Beaverbrook's Express, with no judgment pro or con, renewed its frequent appeal for national unity, calling the new set-up Mr. Churchill's "final drastic alterations" and "bold concessions to end the internal war." Now, it declared, "the country should give Mr. Churchill and his new team the fullest support."

last Fall, dealt only generally with the military field as the German-Russian war went into its ninth month.

He said the enemy was defeated at Tikhvin and Rostov, in the Crimea and before Moscow; that the Moscow and Tula areas had been cleared of the enemy, and the war would be different now that the element of surprise which formed the German reserve stock of power had been spent.

The Germans, he said, have allies fighting beside them while "so far we have not been in that position."

While the Soviets have held their own and eventually will win, the Premier and Defence Commisar said "it would be unlike the Soviet people to delude themselves into the belief that the enemy has already been beaten."

What The Reds Must Do

Then he laid down this general policy for coming months:—

"New units must be sent to the front to forge victory.

"Industry must work with redoubled vigor.

"The army must receive every day more and more tanks, aircraft, guns, machine guns and other arms.

"Therein lies the strength of the Red Army. But the strength of the Red Army lies not only in this. Above all it lies in the fact it is fighting a national war of liberation and not an imperialistic war of aggression.

"The task of the Red Army is to liberate from the German invaders our Soviet land, the citizens of our villages and towns who were free people before the war but are now oppressed and suffering from plunder and starvations.

"Every member of the Red Army knows this is a just war, a war of liberation."

What appeared to be an invitation to the German people to overthrow Hitler was voiced by the Russian leader.

No Destruction of German People.

He renounced as a "wicked, foolish libel" statements which he said appeared in the foreign press that the Red Army aimed at the destruction of the German people.

"It is probable," he said, "that this war will bring about the end of Hitler's clique. We would welcome this situation. But it would be ridiculous to identify Hitler's clique with the German people and the German state.

"History teaches that Hitlers come and go but the German people and the German state remain."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur sent congratulations from his beleaguered positions on Bataan Peninsula in the Philippines.

MacArthur declared that never in his experience in a number of wars and in his study of other conflicts had he observed "such effective resistance to the heaviest blows of a hitherto undefeated enemy, followed by a smashing counter-attack which is driving the enemy back to his own land.

"The scale and grandeur of this effort marks it as the greatest military achievement in all history."

He said the "world situation at the present time indicates that the hopes of civilization rest on the worthy banners of the courageous Russian army."

India's Hopes

Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, they resolved to advocate immediate British measures to give India rank with other self-governing units of the commonwealth and reconstruction of the Governor-General's Executive Council as a national government during the war.

They asked also that India's representatives in the British war cabinet and on the Pacific war council be non-official and "representative of the people." India was invited Feb. 12 to send representatives to those bodies.

"I hope and believe that Britain, without waiting for any demand on the part of the Indian people will, as speedily as possible, give them real political power," Chiang said in his farewell.

The Calcutta Statesman said that Chiang, "having spoken so plainly to India," now "has not only the right but the urgent duty to speak plainly to the British." It expressed confidence that his advice would be taken, adding "there is no alternative."

One British source said Sir Stafford Cripps, former ambassador to Russia, had made an agreement on India policy a condition for accepting a seat in the war cabinet and forecast that Sir Archibald Sinclair, Secretary of State for Air, would be sent there as Britain's representative.

FRACTURES COLLARBONE

Miss Elva Laing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Laing, 272 Armour Road, received a fractured collar bone while sleigh-riding recently and the break was such that she had to spend some time in the hospital. She is getting along fine and should be back to school soon.

SOLDIER IN HOSPITAL

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Preston of Lakefield that their son, Gunner Hugh Preston has come through an operation in a military hospital in England, and is well on the way to recovery. He has been overseas eight months and is serving with an anti-tank unit.

THEY MEET TO-NIGHT.

All relatives and friends of sailors from the city and district in the Canadian Navy are invited to attend. The group will send clothing and comforts to these boys for the duration of the war. A naval officer from Kingston will preside.

WARNING TO PARENTS

Small boys in this city have been seen grabbing the rear of passenger cars and unknown to the motorists are stealing rides on the rear bumpers. Two boys hopped a car at the Post Office on Sunday afternoon and were whisked across the bridge at a high rate of speed. This is extremely dangerous and serious injury would result if the boys tried to get off while the car was travelling even at a moderate rate of speed.

WISE ADVICE

Alderman Bob Cotton sounds a warning today to residents of Burnham Point who have been taking a short cut across the river to the C.P.R. bridge. Alderman Cotton says currents in the river at this point are treacherous and with the rapid approach of spring, the ice may become dangerous almost overnight. The short cut from the point to the centre of the bridge is scarcely a short cut at all, and people using this path across the ice should change their habits at once.

AN AMBULANCE WAS WAITING

Love laughs at war, love laughs at the weather and because love laughs at all forms of adversity this world is a better place in which to live. On Saturday afternoon while the motorized convoy was parked outside Murray Street Baptist Church, a young couple newly-wed hurried out of the church amid a shower of confetti from friends, and husky soldiers who have battled blizzards, rain, sleet and sub-zero weather riding in the open Bren gun carriers, grinned a welcome from their cold perches in the "Jeeps," and even the officers turned to see this gay party start life in a war-torn world. By a strange coincidence a Red Cross ambulance was parked opposite the door, immediately behind a big artillery piece, two symbols of protection for other young Canadians who will wed and be happy if this Victory Loan goes over the top.

A picture in an Old Country paper of Christmas presents from the children and staff of King George School, Peterborough, being distributed among the children of a school in England, was enclosed in a letter which B. MEET AT INTERSECTION

Cars driven by George Chapman, Bethany, and Dr. R. K. Magee, Crescent street were damaged in an accident at Stewart and Simcoe streets, Saturday. Chapman was driving south on Stewart street and Dr. Magee east on Simcoe street when the vehicles met in collision at the intersection. Both cars received considerable damage.

FINED FIFTY DOLLARS

An elderly Lakefield man who pleaded guilty to having been drunk and who admitted a previous conviction last August for the same offence was fined $50 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. He was warned by the court that another conviction within the year would mean a jail sentence of from three to six months.

APPOINTED INSTRUCTOR

R. C. Tivy has bee struck off the strength of the Prince of Wales Rangers upon his appointment as sergeant instructor at the new basic training centre at Lansdowne Park in Ottawa. He was a member of the Rangers since the Spring of 1939 and a former carrier boy for the Examiner. He was employed by Whitaker's Wool firm here for several months.

GET ADJOURNMENTS

Two local men, charged with being drunk over the week-end this morning, both pleaded not guilty in police court today and secured an adjournment on the understanding that they wanted the delay in order to secure money to pay their fine. A third man who had obtained a similar concession a week ago changed his plea to guilty today and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

CAR AND TRUCK COLLIDE

A truck and a car were damaged in a traffic accident at Simcoe and Downie streets, Saturday. William R. Penrose, 334 Reid street, was driving his car east on Simcoe street and at Downie street his vehicle met in collision with a Sunshine Dairy truck driven north on Downie street by Jesse Brown, 532 Rogers street. The left front fender and bumper of the truck and right front and rear fenders, hub cap and frame of the car were damaged.

ICE 21" THICK

Ice men of the city who have taken samples of ice out of the upper stretches of the Trent Canal, report that ice is 21 inches thick and of excellent quality. It is lovely blue ice without a thick snow cap, such as existed last winter and which was responsible to some extent for the shortage which existed late in the summer. Ice cutting operations will be in full swing by Wednesday.

IT COSTS MONEY TO COURT

A gay caballero who is courting a lass in Ashburnham has a few harsh things to say about the Hunter street bridge. It seems that on two consecutive trips to see his lady-love this man has had his fedora whisked off his head and into the river by the strong breezes. The young man who works in a factory down near St. Peter's Cemetery has been lamenting the loss of the hats to his fellow-workers.

Returns To Date Way Below First War Loan

"A disappointing week" was the description given the first week's effort in the Second Victory Loan campaign in Peterborough county by George N. Brown, one of the local organizers who worked on the First Victory Loan here last June

According to the figures released to-day the canvassers failed to reach one quarter of the objective of $2,750,000, securing a total of $583,250, or just about 22 per cent. of the grand objective. The returns are down generally throughout the entire county with the exception of two bright spots, the village of Lakefield which has produced 56 per cent. of the objective and the northern townships of North Burleigh, Chandos and Anstruther, which are up to 57 per cent. of their $10,000 total.

Canvassers this morning reported that sales were a little more brisk, but with just two more weeks left, it means that every possible source of revenue must be tapped, if Peterborough County is to go over the top in the time allotted.

Following is the summary to date:

District	Objective	Secured to Date	% of Objective Obtained
City of Peterboro	$1,350,000	307,400	22.8

McKee was charged with having gone through a form of marriage with a Smith township girl, knowing his wife to be alive.

Defended by Capt. J. Keir, he elected trial by the magistrate and at the request of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., was remanded until Wednesday, with the understanding that there would be a further remand until Tuesday of next week. Bail was fixed at $2,000.

Men's Service At Park Street

An inspiring men's service at Park St. Baptist Church was taken entirely by a group of men of the church last Sunday evening. It had been announced that Mr. Average Man would be in charge, but that the inspiration was far above the average was the unanimous testimony of the large congregation that attended.

The chairman for the service was James Benson. Special music was provided by a male quartette of Jos. Sands, George Batly, C. Corbett, M. Dunkley. A duet by Jas. Benson and C. Corbett. The anthem by the male chorus was entitled "Marching with the Heroes." The invocation prayer was given by Mr. Robt. Turner and the pastoral prayer offered by Mr. Walter Armitage. The scriptures were read by George Batly. C. Corbett was song leader and S. Northrop the organist and music director. The offertory prayer was given by the men's choir, repeating John 3:16 in unison.

Albert Lorimer, formerly a Baptist minister of Quebec gave a very clear and forceful address on the subject "Christ Our Rock." He showed Christ to be the true rock foundation for every life, the source of never failing supply for our every need, the sheltering rock from the storms of life, and from the power of Satan, sin and the judgment to come. Benediction was offered by the pastor, Rev. C. C. Boyter.

Kept On Going

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23—(AP). (AP). — George McCabe 60, gave police this explanation of his fall from a third-storey window at his home: "It was just one of those things. I went to the window for some air and just kept on going." He broke bones in both feet.

Army Tank Wrecks Bandstand In Victoria Park

No, these pictures weren't taken in Russia. This shows the demolition of your bandstand at Victoria Park about one o'clock Saturday afternoon by one of the tanks of the mechanized convoy that visited Peterborough. (RIGHT) The bandstand is shown as it collapsed after the tank had rooted supports from under it. Close to 600 persons witnessed the show. At LEFT the tank is shown climbing up the bandstaff roof in a further effort to wreck the none too sturdy rafters.

Victoria Park Bandstand Wrecked By Tank

Battered by a blow from an 18-ton Valentine tank, the old wooden bandstand at Victoria Park, sagged and toppled into a pile of twisted and broken debris on Saturday afternoon while a crowd of about 500 youngsters and a sprinkling of adults enjoyed the spectacle. It was bitter cold, and this condition kept the majority of people indoors.

The tank was part of a 45 vehicle military convoy which is touring Military District No. 3 in conjunction with the Second Victory Loan, to exhibit to Canadians what their money is used for in this war of mechanized armies. As a further attraction, the local Victory Loan committee obtained permission to demolish the old bandstand which was in a dangerous condition and would have been torn down in the spring anyways.

The original plans called for a 32-ton Ram tank to do the job, but as this vehicle was delayed with a slight breakdown the Valentine tank took over the job, and as he had two headlights on the front for night driving, he backed the tank into the bandstand doing the job just as well.

It was amazing the lack of interest that was apparent throughout the trip as people even failed to come to the windows and watch the convoy pass, although the route had been well advertised and sound trucks heralded the approach of the convoy.

Major Bolton, adjutant of the Prince of Wales Rangers had everything arranged to the letter, and except for the fact that the convoy was half an hour late, plans were run off without a hitch.

The convoy which was in charge of Major J. Inrig, and Captain J. Soutter was met by Col. John Dewart, Major Bolton, along with W. McBride and W. Reid, two of the local Victory Loan organizers. Following the demolition of the bandstand, the convoy was drawn up on Murray street while the men were fed.

Over at the Legion Hall, members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion headed by Mrs. E. Porter, had plates piled high with steaming hot carrots, potatoes, roast beef and luscious brown bravy, along with steaming coffee, pie, bread and butter and the 120 soldiers were loud in their praise for the fine meal. "We have had grand meals along the way, but this one sure hits the spot," was the comment of one husky tank driver.

Dinner in Officers' Mess

The officers were tendered a dinner in the Rangers' Mess, which was also attended by the Victory Loan organizers, Mayor Hamilton, Vincent Eastwood and officers of the regiment and the 4th Field Battery, including Lt.-Col. D. J. Lawrie, 4th Brigade, R.C.A. and Lt.-Col. Maurice Park, 2nd-in-command of the Rangers.

Col. Dewart tendered a welcome to the guests and said, "We of the Prince of Wales Regiment are only too glad to boost the loan and anything else in connection with the Canadian war effort."

Vincent Eastwood, Sr., Peterborough County chairman in replying said the guests and particularly the Victory Loan committee appreciated the courtesy and co-operation that had been given by the Rangers. He thanked Major Inrig and his men for helping to impress the citizens with the need for the loan. "It is a desperate and terrible problem to impress people who are not war conscious yet, in this land of peace and plenty. The chief mission of the convoy is to point out the urgency for giving substantial support to the war. The most we can do is all too little."

Col. Dewart then called on Mayor Hamilton for a few words and in introducing the mayor said, "We in Peterborough are fortunate in having a man like Jim Hamilton as mayor, during this time of war. If all mayors thrroughout Ontario are putting the same effort into the many war jobs as our chief magistrate then the job is being well done."

Mayor Hamilton extended a welcome to the officers and men on behalf of the citizens, and Major Inrig in replying expressed his regret at the fact that a couple of breakdowns had delayed part of the convoy.

The youngsters had a field day and scrambled over the vehicles in flocks, much to the amusement of the soldiers who were busy answering questions. The men were well wrapped up in winter uniforms and sheepskin lined sentry coats, but all the soldiers in the Bren gun carriers, or as the soldiers claim the "jeeps" had to face the cold wind without protection throughout the trip and had trouble keeping warm. Since leaving Kingston last Monday they have barged through rain, sleet, hail, three blizzards and sub-zero weather with biting winds, but they keep on rolling.

The convoy rolled out of Peterborough shortly after 3.30 en route to Lindsay where the town officials had built a log cabin, and a big tank soon flattened the cabin.

FIRST GIRL IN 60 YEARS

The first girl born to the Francis family in sixty years was the distinction within its household of the little visitant who has come to Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Francis, 589 Sherbrooke street. Presumably for several generations of this family girls have been missing.

Faithful Old Dog Who Followed Postman Daily On His Rounds Fatally Injured

Old Moose is dead. The big, shaggy Newfoundland dog passed on to the Happy Huhting Ground on Saturday following an accident on Sherbrooke street.

There are sad hearts today in many west-end homes for Moose was more than just a dog, he was an institution, and for the past ten years he has covered the mail beat in the western part of the city with Frank Smith, well known postman, and war veteran. Today Frank walks alone, and it is doubtful if this man could feel worse if his closes friend had died.

Eleven years ago, the late Gus White bought Moose as a pup in Montreal, and when the dog was about a year old he developed the habit of meeting the postman and going the rounds with him. Soon the people got to know that when the dog came along, the mailman was not far behind, and many took the trouble to save their scraps for this huge dog. The dog never forgot the kindnesses and many doors in the west end, bore his scratch marks, made when the people were a little tardy putting out the food, and old Moose was hungry.

As ages go, it is a rule to multiply a dog's age by seven which would make this dog 77 years of age in comparison with a human, thus did he enjoy a ripe old age. Like all animals and people who grow old, the infirmities came with the years and in recent months, the dog suffered from partial paralysis of the hind legs. In fact in his last visit to Smith and Freeman's barber shop, the old fellow lay on the floor for two hours taking up quite a bit of space and ate three chocolate bars that the customers bought for him.

In the last Federal election, a sign was placed on the dog's back, exhorting the people to vote for R. M. Glover, and he made his rounds carrying the blanket banner. The dog was extremely friendly and had a great love for children, often standing for several minutes beside some four or five-year-old youngster while the child stroked the shaggy coat, and murmured endearing things into this majestic animal's big ears.

One of the finest tributes which could be given the dog came on Friday, the day before his death when a four-year-old lad on Bolivar street, stood stroking the dog, and as the postman approached said: "Isn't he a lovely dog, not a bit cross," and this was typical, for the shaggy almostf ierce looking dog loved people, especially children. In tribute to his faithful buddy of ten long years, Mr. Smith has penned the following epitaph:

To Moose

Sleep on old Moose and take your rest.
I will miss you old pal, you were one of the best.
Fair weather or foul, you were on the job,
And you received small acclaim from the maddening mob.

This war-ridden world with its trouble and strife
Could take a lesson from Moose's life.
His friends were many, his enemies few,
And he loved human beings as few humans do.

For ten long years you were by my side,
And I loved every hair on your big black hide
I'll carry on Pal, as you would have me do.
And try and be as true as you.

Douro School Children Aid War Fund

Of late, the week-end receipts for the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund have come mostly from the young folk, and last Saturday proved no exception to this. The spotlight for the day centres on the boys and girls in School Section No. 4 at Douro, who through Miss Francis Towns, turned in the results of an effort from which the proceeds amounted to $6.50, and to them we say thanks a lot, boys and girls, and we hope to hear again of your good deeds in the future.

Helen Rush is only a tiny little girl but she has a big heart, for having saved all her pennies since the beginning of the year, she brings them in to help other less fortunate boys and girls in England, and today we credit her with ninety-five cents.

Similarly, the little children of the Primary Class of Bridgenorth United church Sunday School, through their teacher, Mrs. W. J. Robinson, have been saving up their pennies, and the $1.00 listed under their name today is a continuation of help already given by the same group several times to the fund.

One personal donation is listed, this being the seventh one to be made by the same person, and is the first of its kind to come in for a week, a gentle reminder that in a city of this size, more individuals could take advantage of the facilities to send help to Britain, every dollar being still a whole dollar when it reaches them, without any added cost to the sender.

Draw for Lace Cloth

The Business and Professional Women's Club, of which Miss S. Eastwood is president, is sponsoring the sale of tickets at 25c each for a draw on a beautiful hand-made lace table-cloth, made and donated by Mrs. J. P. Halcrow of Rutherford avenue. For some time this has been on display in the windows of Barries Ltd., through Miss Olga Haskill, and this week will be displayed in the windows of R. Fair, Ltd.

The draw is to be made on Tuesday, March 3rd, and tickets may be procured from any member of the club, or Mrs. Halcrow.

Catholics Urged To Support Victory Loan

Catholics in all parts of the Peterborough diocese were urged to put all their resources to work to boost the Victory Loan over the top and thus reach peace through victory, in appeals from the pulpits of all Catholic churches on Sunday.

In co-operation with the Government priests followed instructions contained in a pastoral letter from His Eminence Cardinal Villeneuve, representing the Catholic Heirarchy of Canada which pointed out the great danger that exists from the totalitarian foes, and explained the urgent need for money to finance the war effort and thus keep the fighting men and the auxiliary forces supplied with all the essentials of war.

"We must unite to stop the pitiless invaders who are sowing death and destruction everywhere," the letter says in part.

The announcement stressed too the value of investing one's savings now in order that a reserve would be set up for the lean days that inevitably follow a war period.

WHAT COULD BE FINER THAN A GOOD HOT, STEAMING
Steak & Kidney Pie
1-lb. Tender Round Steak . BOTH FOR
½-lb. Beef Kidney 39c

Almost any stew is, we think, improved by cooking on the day before it is used, and for a time saver why not double the quantity and serve stew one day and steak and kidney pie the next day.

½ pound beef kidney
1 pound round steak
Seasoned flour
Hot shortening or dripping
2 tablespoons (or more) finely-chopped onion
Boiling water
6 small potatoes
6 small whole carrots
Pie paste

Soak the kidney in salted cold water for 1 hour. Drain and cut in sections. Dice the steak. Coat kidney and steak pieces with seasoned flour and brown well in a little hot shortening or dripping, with the onion. Cover well with boiling water; bring to boil, lower heat and simmer for 1½ hours. (Of course, if you have a deep-well cooker, this is a grand time to use it.) Add potatoes and carrots, add water if necessary to cover again, and season with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Cover and simmer until meat and vegetables are tender. Thicken the liquid with flour, blended to smooth pouring consistency with cold water; season well.

Line the sides of a deep baking dish with pie-paste. Turn in the meat, vegetables and sauce. If you like, a support may be put in the dish before turning in the stew; this keeps the crust from sinking. Cover pie with paste, in which eyelets have been cut for the escape of steam. Bake in a hot oven, 425°, about 30 minutes.

CANADA MUST KEEP ARMY VEHICLES ROLLING TO EVERY FRONT

Deadly Nest On Canada's West Coast

Machine gun nests such as the one shown in this photo dot the shoreline in the vicinity of the big coastal guns which guard Canada's Pacific approaches. Extension of enemy activities to within a few miles of North America's shores has put every man in Canada's Pacific defence organization on the alert, and that these might be fully equipped Canadians are asked to buy Victory Bonds.

One Armored Division Must Have 3,500 Vehicles With 387,500 H.P.

Modern armies not only move on wheels, they move on the chain treads or rolling tracks of tanks and carriers.

In 1918 an army division could move 15 miles a day, while in 1942 a Canadian army division can move 50 to 200 miles a day, depending upon the number of troop carrying vehicles at its disposal.

Canada's automobile plants have been turning out thousands of armored vehicles since war began, with transport vehicles predominating Canadian army vehicles have already gone to every front where the British flag is flying in this war against tryanny, having served in Egypt, Libya, Syria, Iran and Iraq, and the Far East, as well as in the Motherland.

The Canadian automobile industry has been called on to produce numerous different types of war vehicles but most production has been concentrated on five types which were easy and quick to design and adapt, and which were first to come off production lines in quantity.

Meanwhile, engineers have been preparing for production of fighter types, complementary to the transport vehicles. These are much harder to produce and much more expensive, the cost of a fighter machine being probably ten times as great as the cost of an average transport vehicle.

Two major factories in Canada are already assembling tanks, while scores of other plants are making parts for these tanks.

Power For Fighting

The chart herewith presents a "break-down" of the number of vehicles of different weights and types required for each of the army divisions that Canada is assembling.

An infantry division must have vehicles to move the entire personnel, and to carry food, ammunition and all other needed supplies. An Armored Division has fewer vehicles but they are, on the average, much more powerful. Horsepower required to operate the Fifth Canadian Armored Division would be sufficient to supply all the electric power and light used at peak load in the City of Toronto.

In Canada's overseas army, one third of the total strength will be represented by "Panzer" units, as against one unit in 13 of the German army. Whether on the offensive or on the defensive, Canada's army will know the art of war on wheels—and on treads.

Following are the complements of the Armored division and the Infantry division:

New Approach Is Used On Employees

OTTAWA, Feb. 23. — Something new has been added to the Second Victory Loan Campaign — a new method of approach to the industrial employees of Canada. Since the Government is depending upon wage earners to provide a more substantital percentage of the total subscriptions to the coming Victory Loan than ever before, the National War Finance Committee has adopted a plan for the mass-selling of bonds to employees, while preserving and increasing war savings pledges.

Under the plan, the chief executive of a company sends a letter to all his employees and has a bulletin posted which announces the Victory Loan drive and the fact that it will require the co-operation of every individual citizen in order to be most successful. The letter and the bulletin tell the employees of the company that a Company Victory Loan drive is being organized. This drive will be handled by the company's own employees and an announcement of a mass meeting of employees is also given.

The appointment of a Company Victory Loan Committee is then carried out, the committee consisting of a manager or sales manager, the treasurer or comptroller and the plant manager or personnel manager. The manager or sales manager is responsible for sales promotion; the treasurer for administration of the mechanics of the company plan, and the plant manager recommends canvassers, and is responsible for the co-ordination of the whole plan as it applies to the plant.

Canvassers are chosen from the ranks of the employees one for every 25 or 30 fellow-employees, and company quotas are determined. These quotas are based on an estimate of the amount of bonds that can be sold for cash within the plant and upon the estimated amount of bonds that can be sold from current earnings via the payroll savings plan, without disturbing war savings pledges.

When all the information and material needed by canvassers have been assembled and placed in their hands, the manager or sales manager or organizer meets with the canvassers, gives them a sales talk and urges them to be enthusiastic. Then comes the mass meeting of employees, with inspirational talks, and the canvassers set about their work immediately.

This plan of campaigning was tested out in several plants and proven to be successful before it was adapted to industrial plants of all kinds in all provinces of the country.

Come On Canada!

THERE has been no profiteering in this war; the government is skimming off the excess profits due to war activities; extremely heavy taxes have been laid upon us—taxes such as we never dreamed of before the war; but still money is needed. In such times as these it is good for the country that there are moneyed men and moneyed companies and corporations who come forward and take large blocks of the new loan. But even this will not meet the need. The great mass of the people must come forward with their money to equip our forces and pay for the sinews of war, for modern war is expensive.

Housewives' Help Needed For Success Of Loan

For success of the Victory Loan, the help of the Canadian housewife is vitally necessary.

In a forceful address, Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance, recently explained exactly why this is so, and how the woman of the home can contribute.

"Each week out of your household money you can save something. You can weigh even more seriously your decisions," Mr. Ilsley said. "When shopping, ask yourselves if you really need it, ask yourselves if that money, together with other possible savings, might not be better spent in helping to buy planes, bullets and guns, with which our men on active service can stay the enemy's advance toward your home. Each and every one of you, through these small with repeated sacrifices will not only play a vital part in this war, but you will have the deep satisfaction of knowing when the war is won that you, personally, helped to win it."

Extent Of Our Danger

"Recent events have burned into our minds the extent of our danger, and the uselessness of soothing words. At the same time the situation is a challenge to us, to our capacity for seeing a bitter fight through to a victorious finish, our capacity for clear thought, decisive action, our capacity for self denial and self forgetfulness.

"We have been losing to the Axis because they were prepared and we were not. Now we must hurry. We can affor dto spare nothing and no one. Of all the nations on our side, only the Russians are winning battles now. They are able to do this because for years the men, the women, the children of Russia went without.

"They went without shoes, without proper houses in order that the Russian army and the Russian Air Force might be created and equipped. Now we must do our share," was the challenge Mr. Isley directed to housewives.

Spending money on things we don't need must stop, he warned. Instead, we must lend our money to our country to buy planes, ships, guns, and the thousands of things needed to fight a mechanized war. There are many things the housewife buys that are unnecessary in the light of the present imperative need for money for war purposes. By cutting down she can contribute to the need of the hour. "The responsibility of safeguarding the heritage of centuries has been thrust upon us," Mr. Ilsley said in making his strong appeal to women on the household front to discharge their responsibilities.

A Job To Do

WE in Canada have got to pay. If we stop paying, we shall have to stop arming, and if we have to stop arming, we might as well throw up the sponge. In view of the fact that only two alternatives face us, victory or national debt, we shall have to go on battling and paying. Canadians have a job to do. Thousands of them are doing their job on the battle field, in the air, and on the sea. Hundreds have given their lives for freedom. If those men at Hong Kong were willing to sacrifice their country, what citizen will hold back a few paltry dollars? The 1942 Victory Loan must be a success.

Canada Swells Output Of Machine Guns

Machine guns have proved vital and effective weapons in beating off the enemy and turning the tide of battle in favor of the forces of democracy.

In the supply of such guns, Canada has made a tremendous and mounting contribution. One Canadian plant alone has been expanded to a point where in size and rate of output it exceeds any other small arms plant in the world.

Production of various automatic guns in this and other Canadian plants has been stepped up time after time, until now it is anywhere from double or triple up to six or seven times what was originally slated.

Three Types of Guns

Three types of guns produced in the largest Canadian plant are: the famous Bren light machine gun, Browning Mark II aircraft machine guns and Boys anti-tank rifle. To fabricate the Bren guns, three thousand separate production operations on one hundred and sixty-one parts are required. The gun weighs only twenty-one pounds and has a potential rate of fire of 450 to 500 rounds a minute, although a fast-working crew usually fires from 180 to 200 rounds a minute.

The Browning gun is a heavier weapon with a rated potential capacity of 1,200 rounds a minute and is the principal type of machine gun installed in the wings of the British fighter planes and on battle aircraft generally.

Boys anti-tank rifle fires an armor-piercing bullet roughly double the calibre of the standard .303 ammunition used in Bren guns and in the British Lee-Enfield rifle, now in mass production in Canada.

Production of all three of these guns involves problems of precision, perfection of materials and complex plant engineering. These are matched by the tremendous jobs of erecting big plants, installing the equipment, mobilizing large labor forces and attaining big production peaks with the utmost possible speed.

Volume of output attained with the big government-built arms plants, the huge payroll, and the continuous basis of operations, is parallel by the standards of product which had won approval from war supply authorities and high officers of the armed forces. A recent published statement from Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commanding the Canadian troops in England, was reported as saying:

"The Bren guns made in Canada were sent me straight off production. They were not selected guns. I put them to every test, in use by my troops and on the ranges, and then in our armorers' hands. I can state definitely that our Canadian Brens are mechanically, and in finish and material, the finest guns of this design obtainable."

From the standpoint of quality and quantity, Canada now takes front rink in the production of machine guns, weapons that give the members of the armed forces a feeling of confidence when facing the foe anywhere.

War Costs Paid By Citizens, Self-Denial Taxes

The totals in Canada's war budget make all previous figures of public spending in Canada look very small. War has become as expensive as it has become complex.

Already this war has cost Canada as much as the last war cost up to the beginning of the great March offensive of 1918.

The largest amount the total national budget reached in any year of the Great War of 1914-1918 was $697 millions, of which $447 millions was for war purposes.

In the total period of that war, from the outbreak of hostilities through to the end of the period of demobilization—or taking an arbitrary date, to March 31, 1920—total expenditures on account of war amounted to $1,670 millions.

Compare these figures with the barrel of money now being rolled out.

To March 31 next Canada will have spent including financial assistance to Great Britain, $4,056 millions on this war. Comparative figures are as follows:

War Expenditure Years to March 31

World War I.

1915	$ 60.8 millions
1916	166.2 millions
1917	306.5 millions
1918	343.8 millions
1919	446.5 millions
1920	346.6 millions

World War II.

Direct War Expenditures.

1940	$118.3 millions
1941	791.9 millions
1942	1,450 millions

Aid to Britain.

1940-1	$795 millions
1942	900 millions

War expenditures are at an accelerating rate. For the months to March 31, 1940, our direct war expenditures were at a rate of $560,000 daily. In the next year they were at the rate of $2.2 millions daily.

For the current fiscal year they are estimated at $4 millions daily.

Pay As We Go.

Canada's declared policy since the beginning of the war has been to pay as large a share as at all possible of thse bills out of current taxation. Canada eschews all facille formulae for paying for the war some "easy" way. It has chosen the way of work and self-denial, hoping to be able to avoid the morass of inflation. In pursuance of this policy, Canada is this year collecting in taxes an amount equivalent to three dollars out of four of the national budget ((other than financial assistance to the United Kingdom).

This is unprecedented.

Put It On the Cuff.

In Great War I. Canada paid 47 per cent of its bills by taxation and added 53 per cent to debt.

In that war Great Britain paid 30 per cent of its national budget out of taxes; the United States 36 per cent.

France paid 17 per cent of its Great War bills by taxation; Italy 15 per cent, Germany only 12 per cent.

In this war Canada's objective for the current year of 73-79 per cent compares with Britain's 36 per cent in the past year and 44 per cent in the current fiscal year of harsh, sacrificial taxation.

The argument of Canada's financial authorittles is the borrowing is a "kidding" process, since metals, labor, shells, planes, guns cannot be borrowed until they have been made.

Canada is unable to borrow outside of Canada any portion of the money needed to pay its war bills. The Neutrality Act has effectively barred Canadian access to United States capital markets. Even if we had been able to borrow in the United States it is doubtful if we would have done so, for it is not desirable that Canada should end the war with its debtor-creditor position, vis-a-vis Uncle Sam, too greatly extended.

The scope of the financial problem that war has laid on th desk of the Minister of Finance is of first-rate magnitude.

This year's national budget on all accounts amounts to between $2,668 and $2,818 millions.

Taking the larger of the two figures, this is now the expenditures will be divided up:

Army	$677 millions
Air Force	386 millions
Navy	170 millions
Aid to Britain	900 millions
New war plants and other war items	227 millions
Total	$2,816 millions

That is an enormous sum for Canada to raise. The pre-war tax revenues of the Dominion Government (year to March 31, 1939) amounted to $463 millions. The war then has created an enormous gap eevn after some economies have been effected in normal routine, peacetime expenditures and even after the stimulus of a war "boom" ups ordinary tax revenues.

It is not surprising then that Canadians are experiencing taxation of hitherto unprecedented character, taxation which ranks in weight with that of Britain and Germany.

Want $1,400 Millions.

Ottawa hopes this year to get $1,400 millions in taxation of which the principal items are approximately as follows:

	Millions.
Personal income tax	$225
Sales tax	203.5
Excess profits tax	180
Corporation tax	165
Customs duties	137
National defence tax	110

This leaves a gap of between $1,268 and $1,418 millions, which must perforce be met by borrowing. The gap is equivalent to about 25 per cent of the national budget, if aid to Britain is not included; or something under 50 per cent if such aid is included.

Three Ways to Borrow.

There are three chief sources of borrowed funds available to the treasury.

The first is through the sale of War saving Certificates and normal annual increase in Government funds such as superannuation, unemployment insurance, etc. From these sources $200 millions is expected this year.

The second is by the sale of war bonds direct to the general public. Herein is the chief source of funds to close the gap between income and outgo.

Third, there is the sale of Government securities direct to the banks. This device has been used sparingly by the Government and some of the bank borrowings have been primarily monetary in purpose, being designed to give the economy of the country a "lift" before full employment bad been reached and when a broader credit structure was deemed likely to help war production without having any unhappy inflationary kickback.

Support Of Victory Loan Urged By Mayor Hamilton

MAYOR JAMES HAMILTON

"Citizens here have been generous in their givings to and support of war charities, the British War Victims and other causes connected with alleviation of suffering by the ravages of war. They have been splendid really in many ways," Mayor Hamilton said.

"However, this Victory Loan is something else again. It must be a great success if Canada's fighting men on land, on sea, and in the air are not longer to be handicapped by the lack of first class weapons in their combat for us against a wily foe.

"We are not giving, we are lending. It is like a man spending money to repair the foundations of his home. Some broad cracks in our defense foundations have opened up recently, and we must make haste to repair them.

"We can't "let John do it." The success of the Victory Loan starts with each one of us buying bonds to the limit of our ability."

Victory Bonds Give Ample Return

Candians who buy Canada's new Victory Bonds obtain a fine interest return together with assured safety of the money they invest in these gilt-edge securities.

More important, every dollar they subscribe for the purchase of War Bonds can properly be looked upon as a means of saving the lives of Canada's soldiers, sailors and airmen and giving them the utmost both in striking power and protection against the enemy forces.

These are the views recently expressed by the Hon. J. I. Ilsley, finance minister, in a recent announcement through his Ottawa office relative to the second $600,000,000, which is now under way.

For the convenience of investors, the bonds will be offered in three maturities as follows:

A 2½ year, 1½% issue, maturing Sept. 1, 1944; a six-year issue, maturing March 1, 1948, bearing a coupon of 2¼%; and a 12-year issue, maturing March 1, 1954, bearing interest at 3%.

The long term issue will be payable at maturity at 101%, and will be callable at 101% during or after 1952, on 60 days' notice.

3.07 P.C. If To Maturity

The yield on this 3% issue if held to maturity will be 3.07%. All of the issue will be sold at par.

The finance minister said there were two Dominion of Canada bond issues maturing in May and June 1942. An issue of $95,500,000 of 1½% bonds matures May 15, and another issue of $60,000,000 2% bonds matures June 1.

"These bonds will be accepted in exchange for bonds of the second Victory Loan in any of three maturities," his statement said. "The maturing bonds are largely held by life insurance companies, banks, and financial institutions."

The long term bonds will be offered in denominations ranging from $50 to $25,000.

They will bear interest as from March 1, and will be available either for immediate payment in full or on the instalment plan so that Canadians may pledge their credit or purchase out of earnings or future income.

Instalments Vary

The instalments will run a follows: On application, 10%; April 15—15%; June 15—20%; July 15—20%; Aug. 15—20% plus accrued interest.

For those who wish to buy bonds by pledging their credit, arrangements have been made for banks to provide accommodation for a period of six months at the coupon rate.

Where groups of employees of any concern undertake to purchase bonds as a group, special arrangements have been made with the ...nks to finance such subscriptions ...r a longer period ending as late ...ct. 1.

Complete information as to bonds of the three maturities will be furnished by J. S. McCutcheon, county organizer, or any of his assistants.

The forthcoming second War Loan was announced Dec. 9 by the finance minister, when he said the war in the Pacific had increased the Dominion's financial requirements.

The three previous loans of this war were: January, 1940—$200,000,000 loan subscribed to the extent of $321,276,650 cash.

September, 1940—$300,000,000 loan subscribed to the extent of $324,248,300 cash.

June, 1941 (first Victory Loan)—$600,000,000 loan subscribed to the extent of $710,958,950.

Speaking of the new war loan, Mr. Ilsley said, "I am sure that our citizens will be prepared as our troops are prepared to face without flinching any sacrifices that are necessary in order that we may do our full part in winning this war."

Citizens of Peterborough county, activated by this spirit, and having an understanding of the investment opportunities offered by the new war bonds will go forward as in the past to subscribe more than their $2,750,000 quota set for the February campaign.

PETERBOROUGH CITY AND COUNTY ARE ASKED FOR $2,750,000

Canada's Second Victory Loan Is Directed In Peterborough By Organization Of Business Men

Business men of the city, the men who are called on every time there is any community effort, are again putting their shoulders to the wheel to move the Second Victory Loan over the top, neglecting their own businesses, using up leisure time, and putting all their energy and ability into the drive to put Canadian dollars to work in the front line.

Heading the organization is Vincent Eastwood, chairman of the City Trust, who held the position of Peterborough county chairman in the first drive, and is now back in harness once more. His experience in the realm of Victory Bonds extends back through the Great War of 1914, 1918 when he was vice chairman in several campaigns that reached their objectives in record time.

D.O.C. Urges Support Of Victory Loan

Endorsing the Victory Loan campaign, Brigadier Logie Armstrong, Officer Commanding Military District No. 3, said:

"Voluntarily and with good heart Canada this month seeks fulfilment of another great manifestation of her loyalty to the British cause and her determination to play her part—her full part—in the victorious prosecution of the most fearful war ever forced upon the world.

"This is no sacrifice that we are called upon to make, for sacrifice means much more than temporary monetary self-denial. We should feel privileged indeed, honored, that it is within our scope to serve—to serve merely by lending.

"Today, as 20-odd years ago, the finest of our manhood stands to meet the foe, to die if need be to defend our nation, our women, our children, our heritage. Many of these brave boys—at sea, on land and in the air—already have taken their places with their brothers and fathers who gave their all in 1914-1918 to defend the Christian way of life. We must brace ourselves for even greater losses, for the struggle will be long and terrible.

"What of our national conscience? Not only today, not only tomorrow, but of the years to come. Shall we, when victory has been achieved and the evil powers of our aggressors are but grim memories, be able to say with open minds that, to a man, we played our full part? Or shall we write in history that we failed?

"Canada's fighting men look to us with confidence that we will not let them down. They need the ships, the guns, the planes, the shells and the thousand and one other necessities to defeat the foe. They need these things to defend themselves while they fight to defend us.

"The eyes of the world—the eyes of our aggressors—are focussed on us at this time. The success of Second Victory Loan, 1942, will inspire the whole British Empire and its allies to greater achivements, will strike fear and misgivings into the hearts of our enemies.

"We must not fail in this great undertaking. Every man, woman and child must lend to the utmost of their limits and then strain their resources to the breaking point.

"Second Victory Loan, 1942, is our opportunity to reconsecrate ourselves to the great and noble cause which is ours.

THE LEAST THAT CAN BE DONE

Let every Canadian citizen get busy and each do a small part in making the new Canadian War Loan a success. This is the least that can be done by the Canadian people, who have as yet suffered very little adverse effects and discomfort from the war.

Responsibility Rests On All To Put Victory Loan Across

"The Second Victory Loan launched on Monday, February 16, takes precedence in importance in the life of every Canadian," Vincent Eastwood, Sr., chairman of the Victory Loan Committee, said.

"These monies must be forthcoming at top speed if the wheels of industry are to continue to pour out all of the essential requirements to maintain our forces at sea, on land, and in the air.

VINCENT EASTWOOD

"Food and clothing and all the necessities of these branches of the service must not lag nor fail.

"Lack of preparation has already cost the Allies enormous losses. Our sailors, soldiers and airmen have made the supreme sacrifice in appalling numbers.

"These brave men are our kin, yours and mine, and no words can ever declare too strongly, too insistently to every Canadian that this loan must be largely oversubscribed, in order that the great work that Canada is doing shall not only continue but shall be increased many times.

"We have the men and the women, we have the tools and the vast resources of an Empire.

"We have $1,600,000,000 on deposit in the savings accounts of the chartered banks, and the banks themselves recommend and urge their depositors to put their funds into the Victory Loan.

"Therefore, to all of us who live in Peterborough County I say 'Why should we hesitate; why should we keep these funds in stagnation when they should be on active service? delays are costly and wars are not won that way. We have no excuses. We must buy Victory Bonds and buy them until it hurts. This responsibility rests upon every citizen of this county and city'."

Life In An Air Raid Shelter

One of the most spectacular scenes in "Pull Together Canada," the elaborate revue coming to the Collegiate auditorium this Thursday, is a reproduction of a London subway in which rich and poor, titled and commoners, take refuge during an air raid. In this miniature revue which the people themselves stage until the Luftwaffe wings its way homeward, singers, dancers and instrumentalists contribute their talents. FOREGROUND shows Doris Gilmour as the opera singer. Incidentally in private life, Doris Gilmour is an opera singer, having achieved overnight success with the San Carlo Opera Company. "Pull Together Canada" will be presented here in connection with the Victory Loan campaign.

Canadian And American Talent Be Seen In Patriotic Revue

From rousing opening to spectacular finale, patriotism with a punch is thrillingly packed into "Pull Together Canada," first entertainment unit in the Victory Loan campaign, in which top-ranking talent from both sides of the border are uniting in a sparkling show which will be presented at the Collegiate Auditorium on Feb. 26.

"Pull Together Canada" is the Canadian premiere of the adaptation for this country's theatre-goers of the famed production "You Can Defend America" that patriotic revue which has created such a sensation in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and other principal American cities. Most of the original cast will be seen here together with outstanding Canadian stars of stage and radio. Supervisor of the production is Eric Greenwood, young Canadian producer, who has had extensive experience in the New York theatre but has returned to Canada to lend his particular talents to the success of the Victory Loan campaign. The stage manager is Howard Reynolds of Vancouver, the musical director is Jack Ayre, famed baton-wielder with the "Dumbells."

"Pull Together Canada" is a new patriotic revue in 12 scenes and peopled by an outstanding cast of 35. In a blend of stirring song, dance and drama, this rollicking revue brings patriotism down to brass tacks in presenting a cross section of Canada's war effort and the contributions that are being made by housewives and office girls, munition makers and the Home Guard, employers and employees. Paramount throughout is the theme of the urgency of today's situation and the awareness of the need for all Canadian patriots to pull together. The rousing opening has the entire cast of 35 on-stage for what promises to be one of the greatest war-songs of the current conflict—"You Can Fight For Canada." Against a red, white and blue motif, the splendid chorus in costume includes nurses, defence workers in overalls, munition girls, farm folk and city-dwellers, lumberjacks and service-men.

New Songs.

Eleven entirely new songs, bearing the hall-mark of patriotic popularity, are included in the 12 scenes of "Pull Together Canada." Some of the most spectacular in point of elaborate production are "The Home Front Chorus," "Everybody Wants to Build a New World," "The Arm Behind the Army," "The Ordinary Man,"" "The Shopper's Song" and "Let's Get Together." Incidentally, the opening number, "You Can Fight For Canada," has been chosen as the theme song of the Victory Loan campaign. One of the most impressive and spectacular scenes in this absorbing revue is "London Air Raid Shelter," complete with bombing effects. The scene is set in a London subway as all types of citizens from titled lady to Cockney housewife, take refuge from the Luftwaffe and put on an impromptu concert to while away the time until the "Alert" is sounded. This splendid scene is a mixture of comedy and pathos, with comedy predominating, but the current of the dialogue expresses that "carry on" spirit which has characterized the British civilians in this war. Another spectacular scene which has the whole company of 35 on stage is "The Arm Behind the Army" number, a modernistic conception of Canadian industry, with a pantomimic background to the sinking, in which humans depict the machinery of war manufacturing.

"Pull Together Canada" is a patriotic revue that will appeal to everyone and is a definite attempt to bring something new to Canadian drama. In song, dance and tableau, the revue carries throughout the main theme of the Victory Loan campaign, that friction must be broken down—if it exists—between employer and employee, that the industrialist, the merchant and the farmer have their own vooperative work to do in furthering victory, that Canadians have the willingness to pull together and make temporary sacrifice in order that the Canadian way of life may be maintained.

Demands Are Increasing Minister Says

Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance, has isued a strong letter to the people of Canada, enclosing a copy of the official "prospectus" the Second Victory Loan.

Mr. Ilsley's letter follows:

Ottawa, February 16, 1942.

FELLOW CANADIAN:

Once again it is my duty to communicate with you with regard to the financial needs of the country for war purposes.

In June last 762,000 Canadians responded to an appeal to buy bonds of the First Victory Loan, and thus supported the Government in its huge program for manufacturing munitions of war and for equipping and maintaining our fighting men in the Navy, Army and Air Force.

Now the time has arrived when it becomes necessary to offer the Second Victory Loan to provide the funds for a continuation of the same purposes. Since June last, the conflagration of war has spread and now the enemy faces us on two oceans, so that, far from there being any lessening in the demands upon us, the necessities of the hour have increased. If there was ever a time in our history when the resources of every Canadian citizen should be placed unhesitatingly at the disposal of the country that time is now.

It is therefore with high confidence that I ask you to read carefully the enclosed prospectus relating to Canada's Second Victory Loan, and searchingly to decide for yourself the utmost extent to which you, out of your own resources, can support this highly important national enterprise. I would particularly draw to your atention the fact that the bonds can be purchased on a partial payment basis spread over a period of months.

The Victory Loan of last June met with such resounding success that our Allies were cheered and our enemies were given conclusive proof of the solidarity and determination of this Dominion in its fight for liberty. I have no doubt whatever that what we did before we can do again. The opportunity is open to help our country and at the some time to invest in the safest security which can be found for your money.

A Victory Loan salesman will interview you at an early date to obtain your subscription and I confidently and earnestly invite your co-operation when he calls.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) J. L. ILSLEY
Minister of Finance.

$550 Millions Will Be Needed To Expand War Industries

Capital commitments made in Canada by the Canadian and United Kingdom Governments for new plants, plant extensions and equipment totalled $550,000,000, according to estimates made over six months ago.

This vast sum is needed to finance Canada's expanding war industries, and the money goes to the following places:

To private industry, for land, buildings, equipment, working capital	$380,000,000
To wholly-owned government companies	70,000,000
To Aluminum Co. (Loan by U.K.)	55,600,000
To Railway Companies for rolling stock	24,200,000
To Government Agencies (special allotments)	25,200,000
Total	$550,000,000

What It Goes For

Latest official figures at May 31, 1941, show that the money goes for the following:

Chemicals, Explosives	$116,194,000
Guns, Carriages, etc.	113,786,000
Shells	52,953,000
Railway Equipment	24,234,000
Aircraft	23,683,000
Machine Tools, etc.	19,646,000
Tanks and Carriers	14,378,000
Automotive Equipment	7,413,000
Bombs, Mines, etc.	2,758,000
Materials, Not End Products and Special	136,212,000
Total	$511,256,000

Where It Comes From

Money for Canada's war industries, maintenance of armed forces and all other defence measures can be obtained in only three ways, namely: by taxation, borrowing, or inflation. Taxation is yielding almost as much as private individuals and firms can possibly pay, and further taxes are contemplated; but these will not meet the need. Inflation would throw the country into chaos and cripple the whole war effort, so that only by borrowing can Canada's great war program be continued.

Money borrowed by the government from millions of Canadians who purchase war bonds, flows back into the stream of industry to give employment and good wages to workers everywhere, so that those who remain at home benefit while they provide the sinews of war to those who go into the firing line to protect the homes and industries of their country. Now is the time to lend for Victory.

Grove School Ties Upper Canada Teams

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—Upper Canada College divided the honors with Lakefield in their Saturday morning games at Maple Leaf Gardens.

U.C.C. Midgets recorded a 5-1 decision over their visiting opponents, but the boys from "up country" came back with their classy junior "Firsts" to take the second engagement by a 9 to 3 margin.

As both clubs shared the spoils on the occasion of their first meeting at Lakefield School two weeks ago, another annual home and home series has gone into the records between these two well-known institutions, with all points even after four games.

Johnny Arnoldi on left-wing for Lakefield had a scoring picnic in the junior game, picking up no less than five well-earned goals in displaying a blistering shot from the wing that generally found its mark. Oronato was also effective in a scoring way for the visitors with two fine scoring plays. Carr-Harris and Harris completed the total for Lakefield with single efforts.

Upper Canada College were more outlucked than outscored during the first two periods when Goalie Christie for Lakefield turned aside their many attempts to break into the scoring. Finally in the last period "Pepper" Clarke picked up two goals and Ladigan on a pass from Reid was responsible for the third College effort.

For the U.C.C. younger lads in their winning effort, Spence scored twice while Williams and Hugh Smythe also rallied. Budgeon secured the lone Lakefield goal.

Lakefield Midgets—Goal, Hyde; defense, Budgeon and Dickson; centre, MacKenzie; right wing, W. Christie; left wing, P. Wilkes; alternates, R. Harold, D. Pope, J. Wilkes, A. Stevens and W. McBrien.

Upper Canada College Second Juniors—Goal, Rawlinson; defense, Jamieson and Osborne; centre, Clarke; wings, Ladigan and Reid; alternates, Parry, Turnbull Cherry, Jeffs, Gee, Lawson and McColl.

Lakfeield First Juniors — Goal, Christie; defense, Pope and Tilley; centre, Urquhart; wings, Arnoldi and Carr-Harris; alternates, Hemstead, Harris, Onorato and Geroux.

VICTORY LOAN IS AN INSURANCE OF TRIUMPH OVER THE AXIS

Archbishop Asks People To Support Loan

Endorsing the Victory Loan Campaign, His Grace Most Rev. M. J. O'Brien, archbishop of Kington issued the following statement: "I most heartily endorse the 1942 Victory Loan. I have circularized all the priests of the Archdiocese of Kingston asking for their continued co-operation and directing all pastors to endorse the loan on Victory Sunday, to encourage the people to contribute and to exhort all to second every effort of our Government for the successful prosecution of the war.

"About one year ago our country called for a loan from its citizens; the response was splendid and proved that we were alive to the dangers that then threatened. Since then the threats have become much more serious and are making for a long and ruthless war. We must again do our part for our beloved country; we must defend it not only along the Atlantic but also on the Pacific. To do this money is absolutely necessary.

"Everything we hold dear is at stake,—our Christianity, our liberties, our lives. Paganism has run riot; nothing sacred has been spared by the anti-God forces and men's lives are a mere pawn. Our valiant men, and women too, have taken up the challenge and have gone and are going to active warfare. We must not let them go unprotected and unprepared. Our enemies have been preparing for years and are well armed; we have loved peace and it is to our credit and to that of our allies that we were not prepared for war and that we did not desire it.

"Immense sums have been spent for equipment and the support of our forces; more must be spent if we value our liberties. Hence the need of a new loan. I hope all may contribute according to their means and to the imperative needs of our troops engaged in this gigantic struggle. The Government is asking only that we lend our money; it gives the best of security; it pays a reasonable interest. It could not call for less, and it forces no one; it treats all as free citizens of a free country."

"May this very fact engage all, to do what they can to sustain our free and liberty-loving country in its fight with tyrranny. More than ever let us make our country's fight our own."

Out Of The Red

OTTAWA, Feb. 23—(CP). —The name of the Canadian National Railways, with the word "deficit" following it, disappeared from the annual estimates for 1942-43, tabled Friday in the House of Commons.

For many years, the estimates provided for payment of the losses incurred by the National system, but 1941-42 estimates told the first chapter of the story of better times. In the Blue Book issued for that year it was noted that an appropriation of $15,000,000 made for 1940-41 was not required for 1941-42.

In the 1942-43 Blue Book, there is neither mention of, nor provisions for, a railway deficit.

KINGS ROW

By HENRY BELLAMANN

THE STORY: Orphaned Parris Mitchell is reading medicine with Dr. Tower, town mystery, wonders why Tower keeps daughter Cassandra so close to home. His best friend, Drake McHugh, talks boyishly of plans to marry Louise Gordon, daughter of town's leading physician. Parris thinks often of childhood sweetheart Renee; plans, at suggestion of overseer Tom Carr, to study treatment of mental ills when he goes to Vienna. Madame von Eln, adored grandmother of Parris, hasn't long to live. He does not know it. Other characters: half-wit Benny Singer, hired by Madame after lawyer Skeffington saves him from jail after bullying by Fulmer Green's gang; tomboy Randy Monaghan; fearsome Dr. Gordon.

A SECRET FROM PARRIS

CHAPTER XI

Madame Von Eln sat by the fire. It was late, and Parris had gone upstairs to study. She knew that Anna was in the kitchen waiting for her to go to bed. Tonight Anna would have to be patient.

The room was warm, though the fire was low now. The sound of the wind rose and fell in long sighs and howls. Madame wanted to think. She shook her head. No, she didn't want to think. She tried very hard to be reminiscent, but it was not successful. The uneventful years of her girlhood; a first marriage and the birth of Parris' mother; the second marriage to the picturesque but unstable Franz von Eln; his death; her own first struggle; the ensuing poverty; the deaths of Parris' father and mother—how many deaths one counted in a lifetime! —and these happiest years of all her life with Parris to watch over. Now—this time—this day was more important, and more interesting.

She wondered a little just why she so much wanted to live. Parris? Yes, of course. Because he loved her, but more because she loved him. She thought of him and smiled. Then she dozed . . . yes, and because she liked to see the wind moving the tops of the maple trees. . . .

She called Anna.

Anna turned to the fire and raked the ashes from beneath the grate. "Yes, Madame?"

"Well, now, Anna, I was just wondering what would become of you when—when I'm not here any more?"

"Oh, Madame—"

"Have you any money, Anna?"

"Yes, Madame. I have saved everything. I—I shall—should be able to take care of myself. But who will look after Parris?"

Madame drew her shoulders together a little as though a chill draft struck her. "He will have to look after himself, Anna. He's a good boy—I suppose."

"Parris is a good boy." Anna spoke with undoubting emphasis.

"I hope so, Anna, I hope so. I think he is some kind of a gentleman. I shouldn't expect him to be an angel—or want him to be."

"Has Dr. Gordon said—?"

"He gives me one year, or two."

"What can I do for you, Madame, quickly?"

"Nothing, Anna. Just go on as if everything were the same as always. I don't want Parris to be disturbed—"

"He doesn't know about this?"

"He must not know, Anna. We must be as gay as possible, plan things, and appear to be happy. His studies—I want him to do very well. Now, go to bed."

"You are not going to bed yourself?"

"Not yet."

"Then I will wait. I'll just set some bread. Might as well bake tomorrow."

What was Parris like, deeper down than the surface? What did he dream of, look forward to? What did he desire?

The answers to these questions—these all-important questions — would not come from Parris or from her observation of him. Madame's own training had given him an exterior that communicated little, for all its seemingly expressive vivacity. Now, as she thought of it, she realized that he was far less vicacious than he used to be.

Parris was less lively. He talked a good deal but less gaily. He was —she hunted for a description—he was darker. Yes: that described him exactly. She wondered why. She must observe him a bit more closely. Maybe she had been neglecting him a little.

She would try to understand him better. Where she would find her answer—that was another matter. Not in Parris, she thought again, no; not in herself, because they were quite unlike. She tried to recall her daughter, Parris' mother. She had never understood Marian very well. No, she hadn't really liked Marian.

Obviously, she wouldn't be able to understand Parris through his mother. Parris' father, Sumter Mitchell—what an attractive boy he had been! A simple, forthright person. Anyway, he must have given Parris good qualities—more solid ones, she had no doubt, than Parris had from her own blood.

It might have been better if Parris could have had less of her own "foreign" ways, and more of the Mitchell manner. She knew that people commented on her bearing and conduct and thought her peculiar and alien. Well, she had left a wide circle of freedom about him—mental elbowroom, just as she demanded, and had to have, for herself. He had been happier because of that, she was sure.

Later Anna laid her firm, shiny hand under Madame's elbow, and the two women went slowly up the stairs.

Parris came to his door, frowning against the light of the unshaded lamp Anna carried. Madame shook her head. "You are up late."

"So are you, both of you."

"You are studying at this time of night?"

"I'm up late every night, Grand'mere—you know that."

"Well, well. But you must get your sleep. Good night."

He kissed her on both cheeks. "Good night. Good night, Anna." He sighed as he returned to his room. He was tired. There was so much to do every day. Work at Aberdeen was not easy, Dr. Tower demanded that he cover a lot of ground; and his music—he didn't want to neglect practice.

Parris worked hard throughout the winter. He felt that he had moved completely into a new world. He did indeed look thin and a little pale by April.

Dr. Tower, who consistently maintained an impersonal attitude toward his pupil, noticed the changes.

"Better ease up on your work a little, young man."

"Oh, I'm quite all right, sir."

"You don't look it. Leave your notebooks today and get out somewhere. Why don't you walk? Look up some of your friends—"

Parris looked straight into Dr. Tower's eyes for a moment. There was a barely perceptible softening of the doctor's hard, bright gaze.

"What is it?" Then he added jocularly: "Have you no friends?"

Parris did not smile. "No, sir," he said simply.

Dr. Tower flushed a little, whether with embarrassment or annoyance at the turn of the conversation, Parris did not know.

Dr. Tower looked out of the window. "You get used to it."

Parris did not reply to this. Dr. Tower looked back after a moment and went on, almost angrily: "Anyway, there is nobody around here for you. You seem to have a mind—hope I'm not mistaken about it; I'd hate to waste my time."

"I used to have some pretty good friends." There was a kind of protest in his voice.

"Well—you ought not to live too much to yourself." Dr. Tower spoke more gently. "Go on out today and look up somebody. Knock around a little." He slapped the notebooks on the table. "Forget this and your piano for a couple of days, cut classes, get some air."

"All right, sir, I will. Thank you."

He walked down the drive that skirted the Towers' front yard. Cassandra was on the porch. He waved gaily to her, and she lifted her hand in an awkward, childish response.

As he came in sight of the Livingstone house he saw Drake coming out of the drive. He had Molly, a fat old mare belonging to Mrs. Livingstone, hitched to a shiny new buggy.

"Hey! Hey, Drake!"

Drake was about to turn in the other direction, when he heard him. He stopped. "Why you old country stick-in-the-mud! Where have you been all of this time? I haven't seen you all winter. Hop in."

"Where you going?"

"Nowhere. Just trying the new buggy. Say, how you been? What all you been doing?"

Parris took a deep breath. "Oh, working hard."

"Why aren't you in school today?"

"No classes today. Dr. Tower sent me out, said I needed—said I needed to see you."

"Aw, now!"

"Almost. Said I better go out and see some of my friends."

"Let's go to the country. How about it?" Drake looked pleased.

Parris settled back. The new buggy had rubber tires and rolled softly the macadamized street.

"How's Louise, Drake?"

Drake grinned. "Fine. How's Cassie?"

"I don't know."

"Say! Do you mean to sit there

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, February 24

A moderately successful and happy day is read from the predominant astral aspects, with the easier and more pleasant activities probably engaging the attention. While business affairs may move in routine grooves, the accent may be social, domestic or sentimental doings, or on business enterprises that contribute to these. Artistic and cultural pursuits thrive.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of happiness, progress and prosperity, especially in all matters involved in the home or private life. Domestic, social, emotional and artistic engagements overshadow more sordid activities, unless these are part of such associations. Art, music, culture and all that are enhances the idealistic and finer phases of living are under excellent prospects.

A child born on this day will be blessed with a gentle, sociable and friendly nature, which will combine to insure it a life of hapiness and success.

and tell me you ain't done anything about her yet?"

"Well," Parris felt that he ought to justify himself somehow for something—he was not quite sure for what. He swallowed hard. "Well, I don't ever see her."

"Well, why don't you see her?"

"Dr. Tower makes me use the side door, and I just don't see her."

"I bet I'd find a way. Say, boy, Cassie Tower is—well—well, I'd see her in spite of her old man. What does he do, keep her locked up?"

"I see her on the porch once in a while, but I'm kind of afraid to stop."

As Drake talked Parris felt his spirits rise. There was a contagion in Drake's exuberance. A tension of excitement arose in his throat. He talked, too, more and more freely. It was a fine feeling to have a friend—an especially fine feeling to discover that Drake was really his friends as much now as ever.

The harness jingled with Molly's valiant efforts, the wheels made a pleasant grinding sound in the sandy road, the sun warmed more and more.

Parris frowned a little. "I've been working pretty hard this winter, Drake."

"Sure, I know you have. That's what I'm talking about. You can't keep your face in a book all the time. You got to get out and have some fun."

"I guess I'm kind of peculiar, Drake. I don't know very well just how to have fun. You know — I live way out there and I don't see anybody—I mean in my free time."

"Take some time. You don't work all night, do you? We'll get dates."

Rotary Marks 37th Birthday

Peterborough Rotarians arranged for a gala celebration today, was observed. The affair marked not only the 37th birthday of the Rotary movement, but also the coming of age of the Peterborough Rotary Club, founded 21 years ago.

Rotary began in Chicago 37 years ago Monday, and the story of its origin is full of interest.

On February 23, 1905, Paul P. Harris, a young Chicago lawyer, gathered with a few friends to discuss with them the conclusion he had drawn after several years of reflection on the problems confronting the businessman of that day. Educated in Vermont and Iowa, Mr. Harris had come, after extensive travels, to practice his profession in Chicago, a city which by its very vastness made almost impossible the friendliness, comradeship, and understanding between businessmen that are so much a part of small-town life. Those few men who gathered at luncheon in Chicago that day agreed with enthusiasm upon a plan to meet occasionally in their respective places of business. They agreed from the outset that their group should include only one representative from each distinct business and profession, in order to eliminate friction due to competition, and to avoid domination by any one group. Because of the rotation of the meeting place, the name "Rotary" was apoted.

Accepted Universally.

Since that day, the ideas of Paul Harris and his friends have become ideals, which are not confined to any one group, one community, or even one nation. They have been accepted by men of practically all nationalities, of all political, and of all religious beliefs; by 210,000 business and professional men in more than 70 countries or geographic regions of the world.

The Rotary Club of Chicago soon became too large to meet in the places of business of its members and decided to meet, instead, around the luncheon table, once each week. These weekly luncheon meetings and, in some instances, dinner meetings have been adopted by Rotary clubs all over the world.

Rotary soon spread to other cities, and within five years there were Rotary clubs in the 16 largest cities of the United States. Representatives of these 16 clubs gathered in Chicago, in 1910, and formed the National Association of Rotary Clubs as a move toward unifying the movement. In 1912, in order to recognize the internationality of Rotary—for by then clubs had also been organized in Canada, England, and Ireland—the International Association of Rotary Clubs was formed. The name was shortened to Rotary International in 1922, a year after the Peterborough club was formed.

Cuba was the first non-English speaking country to welcome Rotary, when the Rotary Club of Havana was organized in 1916. The first club in South American was founded at Montevideo, Uruguay, in 1918; the first in Asia at Manila, Philippines, in 1919; the first on the continent of Europe at Madrid, Spain, in 1921; and the first in Australia at Melbourne in 1921. Year after year, Rotary spread to other countries, until today there are oRtary clubs in more than 70 different regions of the world.

Feel Poised When Speaking in Public

Saying the Right Thing

Such a moment ca shatter you if you aren't used to public speaking! You must address the chair or you're presented with an award . . and you turn to jelly!

Yet it's easy to say charmingly: "Mr. chairman, fellow members, thank you—"

Just learn correct forms, parliamentary rules! It smooths your way in any organization. In meetings, you win respect and attention with "Mr. chairman (or Mr. president) I should like to disagree with the last speaker." Merely "I object" is blundering and incorrect.

Even a few short words will impress your audience if you know how to use your voice. Practice reading aloud at home—standing up. A way to overcome nasal tones is to keep your voice to the front of your mouth.

On the job, too, you get ahead faster when you know how to state your case.

Our 32-page booklet shows how to speak effectively, overcome voice defects. Gives rules of parliamentary order, what to say on many occasions. Helpful pointers on preparing speeches, radio speaking.

For your copy of "Public Speaking Self-Taught" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

MAKE IT EASY FOR HIM

WHEN YOU hold a hand so powerful that your partner is quite likely to have a weak holding, and yet you are not strong enough to open with a forcing two bid, obliging a game contract by your side, what are you going to do? Especially when you have three fine four-card suits, and you are willing to try a game if you can find your partner with just a few dregs of merit in one of them. Isn't the best opening bid the one which makes it easiest for him to respond with the barest amount of strength? And isn't that bid 1-Club?

North: ♠ J 4 2 ♥ Q 9 6 5 2 ♦ 9 4 ♣ J 4 3

West: ♠ 10 ♥ 10 7 3 ♦ K J 8 2 ♣ A 8 6 5 2

East: ♠ K 8 7 6 3 ♥ 4 ♦ 7 5 3 ♣ K Q 10 7

South: ♠ A Q 9 5 ♥ A K J 8 ♦ A Q 10 6 ♣ 9

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East

Use of a 1-Club bid to open such a deal probably will be unanimous among the first flight of expert players within the next few months, as soon as the reasons for it are more widely understood, as it is so obviously the best call. With hands of normal strength, neither near-minimum nor near-maximum, so that the partner is very likely to hold a fair amount of strength, the approved opener on a hand with three four-card suits is the suit just below the singleton. That makes it easier for him to respond, and for you to show your distribution, as a rule, since he is more likely to hold the suit in which you are short, than any other.

When you are as strong as South's holding here, however, 1-Club is the best bid, no matter what three suits you hold, as you want to help him respond at all. If he raises the clubs, you can try No Trumps. If he bids any other suit, hop to game if it is a major, and to four if it is diamonds, letting him decide whether to try game.

This principle, first emphasized by Cecil Head of New York and his partner, Jerome Scheuer of Boston, brought a top to exemplifiers of it on this duplicate deal. Where 1-Spade was South's opening, it usually was passed, and the declarer had a struggle to make more than one extra trick above his discouraging contract.

North: ♠ J 10 6 5 4 2 ♥ A Q 9 ♦ J 4 ♣ 4 2

West: ♠ K 7 ♥ K J 10 4 ♦ A K Q 10 6 ♣ J 5

East: ♠ 9 8 3 ♥ 8 5 3 2 ♦ 9 8 7 2 ♣ Q 3

South: ♠ A Q ♥ 7 6 ♦ 5 3 ♣ A K 10 9 8 7 6

In the wrong contract of 5-Clubs, how would you play for it if West took two diamonds and then switched to the heart 4?

Marmora Club Wins In Badminton

HASTINGS, Feb. 23—(ENS).—In a "crucial" badminton tournament here the Hastings club was nosed out by the Marmora club 7 games to 5. By virtue of their defeat, the home racquet wielders slipped back to third place in the Kawartha League standing. Campbellford is at the top of the heap with only a few tournaments remaining to be played.

All games were closely contested with the visitors gaining their narrow margin in the ladies' and men's doubles. Each club captured three games in the mixed doubles.

One of the best games of the night was that which saw W. Sabine and W. Hilton of Marmora nosed out Isabel Fowlds and George Bonds, 15 to 12.

Following are the result, with Hastings named first:

Special The Examiner By a P.C.V.S. Student

All school activities figure prominently in the headlines this week—"The Echoes", the Dramatic Club's play—Fanny and the Servant Problem, the basketball tournament, the mobile kitchen f nd—all these and many other so read on and find out what's in the news at P.C.V.S.

Literary Contest Winners

"The Echoes", 1942 edition is fast moving into the flurry of the Easter rush and evidences of this were seen and heard in the assemblies this week. Maureen Brown announced the top notchers in the literary set at the Collegiate in this school year and these winners were called to the platform on Wednesday and Thursday mornings. This year, as last, prizes were dispensed with due to wartime conditions but the term—honourable mention—is more than adequate for students at P.C.I.

Among the 31 winners it was announced that the poetry from Grade XI and the short stories from Grades XII, XIII, and Special Commercial was particularly good. A high standard was set this year and an excellent literary section in the school magazine is assured. As you look for your name among the following bear in mind that the name is first, then the form, and finally the article.

The War Effort

Last week we reported the mobile kitchen fund total to be $847.35 but there is quite a difference this week. Over one hundred dollars rolled into the fund from two donations boosting the total to $961.55—leaving but $188.45 to be raised before Easter. Just to show you how rapidly this fund has grown we'll bring you the weekly totals to date—November 15—$30.00; Nov. 22—$61.00; Nov. 29—$85.00; Dec. 6—$147.60; Dec. 13—$502.39—so much for 1941. Now for 1942—$527, (Jan. 17)—Jan. 24—$607.24; Jan. 31—$754.29; Feb. 7—$804.29; Feb. 14—$847.35; Feb. 21—$961.55. There's a record that will go down in the annals of P.C.I.'s history of deeds well done—don't you think so?

Bob Honour read the financial report of the annu' "At Home" on Monday. Total receipts were $688, expenditures $423.99, profit $264.01. It is interesting to note that the profits for the previous year's formal were $130.42. We mention this report under the mobile kitchen fund because on Tuesday Edward Geraghty presented $100 to the fund from the Students' Council and this money was raised through the "At Home". Grade IX F was the next in line and Jean Marchen presented Ed with $14.20 on behalf of her form.

The girls' tournament no doubt will increase the fund considerably and other organizations and forms are planning to donate sums in the near future. Let's smash the thousand dollar mark next week—how about it?

Two More Weeks

That's right—just two more weeks until the P.C.V.S. Dramatic Club's feature attraction is just a memory. Tickets will be on sale next week so get started right away and put this play over the top in the same way as we did the "Night of Plays". The seating plan will open next Saturday likely but this year we will not have to get up early in order to get a good seat, as the plan opens in the afternoon. Practises are being held each night and the cast will be in perfect shape for this production, "Fanny and the Servant Problem". Tickets are 50c and 35c for reserved and 25c rush.

Don't forget that Thursday, March 5, is to be students' night with very very special entertainment for the audience. For one of the funniest evenings of your lives come to the play on Students' night. A committee is working hard for your amusement so plan to be there. Don't forget that we warned you. Enough for that.

Miss White and R. L. Hale are lending their untiring efforts in order that the play will be a complete success so let's back our Dramatic Club and have a sell-out on the nights of March the fifth and sixth.

Teasettes

War Sales went up $25 this week for a total of $458.00. Stamp sales were $390 and the Certificate sales amounted to $68.

The Junior boys played a return game with Cobourg last Friday (a week ago) in the gym and came out of the battle victorious. The score was 23-19 for our boys. Don MacTavish, Dinsdale and Smith were outstanding for P.C.I. There was an excellent crowd in the balcony and this probably influenced the outcome a lot.

Alden Gourley's moustache cultivation ended abruptly last Tuesday as you have probably heard by now. Included in the ceremony was the man (?) with the sideburns—George Sills. P.S. He lost them also. Alden went to play practice with one half a moustache and caused much merriment—as you can well imagine—or can you? Several students turned barber over night and the results were quite satisfactory. We'll let the culprits rest in oblivion as if they were not known already, but there you have the dramatic sequel to the heroic efforts of Alden to return to the "eighties". Ohhhhh me.

The group picture taken at the HI-Y conference in Toronto some time ago arrived in the city this week. The delegates from Peterborough occupy a good part of the photo.

The Bugle Band and a high majority of the pupils in the school turned out to the Victory Loan ceremony in the park last Monday. School was dismissed at three o'clock for the occasion.

Junior members of the Camera Club were exhibitors in the showcase this week with a number of interest shots. Good work!

Air Cadets received more prominence this week and it looks as if some action might be taken. Don't forget Pilot Officer Jerry Wooll's fineo ffer.

A third floor science teacher has hit upon a new method of coping with his pet aversion—the gum chewing of his pupils. Upon his desk there is a bottle that is enriched by one nickel every time he catches someone chewing their cud—as it were. This novel method will either cut down excess gum chewing or swell the mobile kitchen fund by a considerable sum. Pretty good we'd say. Another Industrial teacher extracts a ten cent fine from pupils who haven't their homework done. Any other ideas?

Form pictures are finally finished—or should be. The Camera Club have co-operated closely on this project and the profits should be considerable.

Four students received free admittance to the Percy Grainger concert on Wednesday evening by looking after the cloakroom for the patrons.

Don't forget the dance in the gym tonight (Saturday).

Two more new songs were introduced this week: "You Can Fight for Canada," and "We Did It Before." The first was sung in Junior assembly and the last on Friday morning. That's the way to do it!

The Senior boys play an important game against the Quakers tonight Saturday, in the Y.M.C.A. Take time out from the dance and drop over to see this thrilling struggle. The boys are going to try to redeem themselves after their previous bitter defeat at the hands of this team. We'll be seeing you.

World Prayer Day At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 22.—(ENS). — "Praying and Giving" was the title of the interesting paper presented by Mrs. J. N. Simpson to the ladies of Lakefield when they gathered in the Baptist Sunday school on Friday afternoon in the World Day of Prayer program.

Mrs. A. Harvey, president of the Baptist Mission Circle, presided for the opening part of the program. Others representing the various churches, who assisted in the leadership were: Mrs. W. W. Yale, of the United church, Mrs. (Rev.) S. A R Wood of St John's church, Mrs. J. W. Ridpath of St. Andrew's church, and Miss Marjorie Dunford of Grace Gospel Chapel.

Although the prayers of Christian women are daily and hourly ascending to the throne of Grace, Mrs. Simpson's paper was the story of the day that is set apart for women to pray together, when from a given theme and using the same program, printed in many languages, adapted to meet the particular need of each country, an ever increasing multitude sends prayers and supplications to the Father of us all. Steadily and surely the knowledge and love of Christ has deepened and widened, more meetings have been held with larger attendance and offerings, more translations have been made, greater numbers of programs ordered, new projects have been included in the allocations and rich have eben the resultant blessings.

Mrs. Simpson concluded her paper by showing what an interest the missionary magazines published in the different countries and which have withstood the troublous years of anti-religious feeling have created among the women of other lands.

Others who took part were Mrs. B. Nichols, Mrs. C. S. Tanner and Mrs. (Rev.) G. F. Kelly.

Two delightful solos were contributed, Mrs. G. B. Gaul singing 'The Beautiful Garden of Prayer' and Mrs. C. E. Butcher, whose solo was 'Hear My Prayer.' Accompanists were Mrs. H. E. Moore and Miss Grace Yonge.

Recruiting Costs

Ottawa, Feb. 22 (CP)

ARMY recruiting has cost $1,085,247 since the outbreak of war it was reported in a return tabled in the House of Commons Friday.

Total cost of building and preparing camps used for training men under the National Resources Mobilization Act was given as $9,622,560 with an explanation that these camps were later converted to basic training centres.

Total cost of training men called up from Oct. 9, 1940, to Dec. 31, 1941, was estimated by the army at $24,152,600.

Uruguay Facing Vote Uprising

MONTEVIDEO, Feb. 23—(AP).—President Alfredo Baldomir dissolved the Uruguayan Congress today after the Senate had adopted a resolution repudiating the government's policy in connection with a national election to be held March 29.

Police immediately occupied the Congressional building and forbade anyone to enter or leave. Offices of the National Electoral Court also were occupied.

The Minister of War, Gen. Julio Roletti, resigned at once and President Baldomir assigned his duties temporarily to Foreign Minister Alberto Guani.

Leaves of all troops were cancelled and the army was placed in readiness to maintain order as the dispute between Baldomir's supporters and the minority party led by Senator Luis Alberto de Herrera reached a critical stage.

Special guards were placed around all public buildings and the Montevideo electric power plant.

The President summoned the Cabinet to meet later in the day to decide on further precautionary measures and it is expected he will broadcast a message to the country after the session to explain his reasons for dissolving Congress.

In a message accompanying the order of dissolution he declared that the contemplated no measures affecting civil rights, and did not intend to impose censorship on the press or on communications.

"It is my firm intention to respect all guarantees established by the constitution," he said.

Successful Euchre.

The progressive euchre sponsored by the I.O.O.F., Millbrook, No. 308 held in the Oddfellows' Hall on Thursday evening, brought out guests to have ten tables in use for play. Bad roads, however, and the exceptionally cold night, with intervening events in nearby communities, reduced the usual attendance to a noticeable degree. Proceeds were in aid of the I.O.O.F. War Fund, and the local Lodge has been holding a series of such parties to raise its allotment from headquarters at Toronto.

Prize-winners were Mrs. Harold Tate for high ladies' score and Reeve W. E. Ball for the gentlemen. Lunch was served at the close of play, the Noble Grand Bro. Harold Tate, and members of the social committee attending to the service.

Hanson Protests Heavy Censoring

OTTAWA, Feb. 23—(CP).—Conservative House Leader Hanson on Friday renewed in the House of Commons a protest a* censorship practices.

"I find that every telegram I send and every other membe sends is censored," he said. "Long distance telephone calls have not been tapped here but telephone communications in certain defence areas are tapped and records made."

There w s need for some censorship but "this thing has gone beyond all reasons," he complained.

"Let's have an end to censoring letters of members," he said. "As far as telegrams are concerned it is just as well to be forewarned. I guess we'll have to get a code."

Mr. King told Mr. Hanson he had asked for a report following the complaint made by Mr. Hanson earlier in the week but had not yet received it.

C.C.F. Leader Coldwell supported Mr Hanson and asked full information be tabled.

HEALTH CHATS

By D. B. AVISON, M.D., D.P.H., Medical Officer of Health

Infant Feeding

It is not my intention in this chat to give feeding formulae for babies of different ages but rather to state some general principles that are essential in determining the feeding of our infants.

The typhoid fever incidence in any community is said to be an index of the state of civilization of that community. That is, since we know how to control typhoid fever, its presence to any degree in a community indicates that that community hasn't the intelligence to apply our modern knowledge to the eradication of this disease.

It would seem on the other hand, paradoxical as it may appear, that the higher we rise in modern civilization the less capable we are of feeding our own babies with the food that nature has provided as best for its own young. At any rate, the Oriental usually has plenty of milk not only to feed her own baby but to help out needy other babies and to feed her own for at least two years and in our own country the poorer mothers, on the average, seem better able to have milk for their babies than those in better financial circumstances. I have been especially concerned, since coming to Peterborough, to observe how common it is for infants to be reared on artificial milk preparations.

Through all the years of my experience, I have pondered on these questions:

1. Is it true that as we advance in the scale of modern civilization that our mothers have less milk for our babies and, if so, why?

2. Is the habit of turning the feeding of our babies over to a cow or a tin can the result of feeling that other things are more important than feeding our babies with the food that nature intended for them?

3. Is it true that many mothers no not feed their babies lest it spoil their own figures and is it true that the mother who does not suckle her young will retain a better figure than the one who does?

Before answering these questions let us consider for a moment why mother's milk is better than any of the preparations we use so much.

Mother's Milk

Any milk for a baby must contain various ingredients in proper proportion such as carbohydrates, fats, proteins, mineral salts and vitamins in proper proportions, it must be clean and it must be at a proper temperature. Only mother's milk meets all these conditions. The temperature is maintained throughout the whole time of feeding and, in a healthy mother, if the nipples are clean, the milk will be clean. Nature provides that all the other ingredients are there in proper proportions so that we need not worry about them. Aside from the fact that the mother must be with her baby at feeding time, there is no time or thought necessary in preparing food. Nature increases the volume necessary as the child grows and demands more.

The above represents the truth under normal conditions. We will grant that in rare instances a mother's milk may not agree with her baby or that more frequently the volume is not adequate. The former is rare. There is no reliable laboratory test to prove it, the baby itself being the true test. If the baby does not do well after a proper trial then we may assume that a change of milk is desirable. If the volume is not adequate, we should try to increase the volume before we decide on a change.

Artificial Milk, whatever its nature, was not intended by nature for human babies and every formula prepared is an attempt to make the artificial food as nearly like human milk as possible. Cows milk does contain all the assential elements but in different proportions. Not only the proportions are different but the composition of some of the ingredients are different. For instance, the fat mollecular is why we dilute cows milk in our formulas and though this helps the infant organism in digesting the fat we have provided a food with less fat than that in human milk. Then, cows milk has normally less carbohydrate than human milk which we lessen further by the water added. We try to correct this fault by adding cane sugar, milk sugar, dextrose or corn syrup. In any case, we seldom make the carbohydrate proportion the same as in human milk and the result is never the same carbohydrate as in human milk.

I have practiced pediatrics for many years and have had to raise many babies on artificial formulae. Along with many others, I have seen many babies do well with such artificial feedings but I still feel that we cannot compete with nature and that every baby has the right to expect the best that can be provided.

In our next chat I want to try to answer the questions which I mentioned earlier in this talk.

57 Crew Escape Torpedoing In Three Boats

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Feb. 23 — (CP). — Divided by torpedo and storm crewmen of an Allied freighter rested in two Canadian ports to-day while they looked forward to their re-union after separate rescues.

The whole crew of 57 was intact. Not a man was lost as they evacuated their doomed ship and subsequently drifted 16 or 26 hours in three boats before rescue ships picked them up.

Possibility that a freighter accompanying their vessel also had been torpedoed was reported by some of the 40 men who arrived at this port. They said the second ship continued on after theirs was hit, and shortly afterward they heard an explosion on the horizon.

Although nearly all crew members suffered from exposure and some had frozen feet, none was seriously injured. The wireless operator was taken to hospital for frostbite treatment, and eihgt of the first boatload were admitted to hospital on reaching land.

The first boat, with 17 men aboard, was picked up by a coastal ship after working close to land 16 hours in two boats before being taken aboard a merchant ship.

The two boats were in sight of land nearly all day, but wind and tide sweeping seawards defied their efforts to make shore. On the morning of the day they were picked up they sighted two Canadian corvettes but although they hoisted rags and shirts and shouted themselves hoarse, the warships passed without seeing them.

They were sighted by two patrol bombers which circled the boats before winging away for assistance, and about an hour later they were picked up by the merchantman.

U-Boat Shells Oil Coast As FDR Talks

Brazenly Rakes Wells With 5-Inch Shells In California Dusk

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Feb. 24.—AP). — An enemy submarine fired its reply to President Roosevelt's war address in the middle of his chat last night—25-inch shells badly aimed toward an oil field and refinery near Goleta, seven miles north of here.

Witness said the shells, presumably of the shrapnel type, exploded large volumes of dirt from beaches and pastures, frightened horses into screaming madly—but hit only one well. The pumping plant and derrick of that well were damaged. However, no fires were started. No one was killed or injured.

It was the first attack up United States soil in this war, although Japanese submarines off the Pacific coast and German submarines off the Atlantic have sunk some ships and damaged others.

Coast Black, Radios Off

The coast was blacked out at 8 p.m., from Goleta to 25 miles south of Carpenteria. Radios only were silenced in the remainder of southern California. The all clear was given at 12:12 a.m., (3:12 a.m., EDT)

Several flares were sighted just off the coast during the blackout. Police at Ventura, 27 miles south of here, presumed they were dropped by U.S. airplanes searching for the submarine. However, army officials gave no information.

Witnesses at Goleta said the submarine seemed to head south after it ceased firing. Rev. Arthur Bushman of Pomona, visiting at Montecito, saw a vessel he thought was a submarine flashing signal lights as it left Santa Barbara Channel about 8:30 p.m.

The Los Angeles district press relations office of the 11th naval district made public the following account of the shelling, obtained from S. W. Borden, superintendent of the Bankline Oil Company at Elwood, near Goleta:—

"At 7:30 p.m. one large submarine came to the surface about one mile off shore and fired approximately 15 shells from a deck gun. One direct hit reached one well, causing damage to the pumping unit and derrick.

"There were several close misses on a crude oil storage tank and a gasoline plant. Apparently no damage was caused by these shells. A complete survey of the grounds has not been made and there may have been superficial damage. Whatever other damage is disclosed will not be extensive.

"No fires were started as a result of the firing. No tanks were hit. From fragments of shells found and marks on the ground it is believed a four or five-inch gun was used. The firing was done leisurely, apparently only one gun being used.

Loan Past 50 p.c.; Metropolitan Life Tops List

OTTAWA, Feb. 24—(CP).—Canada's second $600,000,000 Victory Loan campaign bounded past the half-way mark at the close of business yesterday, the Victory Loan committee announced today.

Subscriptions yesterday totalled $55,661,600—the biggest single day's business since the campaign opened February 16—and brought cumulative total to date to $310,810,750.

The total was swelled by the largest subscription so far—$20,000,000 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of Ottawa.

G. W. Spinney, chairman of the National War Finance Committee, said this large subscription "gives all loan workers great encouragement."

"The subscription has a two-fold value," he added. "It is an indication of the way the large institutions of Canada are solidly backing the loan and it represents the life insurance savings of hundreds of thousands of Canadians.

17,861 Workers Buy Monday.

"I should like to add that not only are the large institutions supporting the loan, but the small subscriber, and particularly the worker, is evidencing a real interest. Yesterday's returns included 17,861 workers in factories and business houses, who subscribed a total of $1,818,200. The dollar of the working man is just as important as the dollar of the large corporation and the working men of this country are showing that they realize this fact."

Mr. Spinney added that the loan now is beginning to reflect the widespread interest of the whole country, the cumulative total of individual subscriptions having reached 30[illegible],527, compared with 292,506 at the same stage of the last loan.

Winnipeg became the second large municipality to achieve i[illegible] loan objective, passing 100 per cent. of quota yesterday. Edmonton had reported exceeding its quota on Saturday.

US Destroyer Freighter Lost In Gale

189 Men, Officers Drown In Surf Off Newfoundland

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP).—A United States destroyer and a naval stores ship have been pounded to pieces off the rocky east coast of Newfoundland in a roaring gale, the navy announced today, with a loss of at least 189 officers and men.

Among the dead was Lt.-Cmdr. Ralph Hockox, 38, of Washington, D.C., who commanded the destroyer, the Truxton, an old four-stacker of first Great War vintage. The commander of the stores ship, the Pollux, was not identified but the navy reported him safe.

The heavy loss of life was attributed to the fact that the two ships, constitution a portion of a convoy, were smashed to wreckage under the merciless battering of wind and waves quickly after they ran aground.

Near Harbor Mouth.

The double disaster occurred in daylight but visibility was extremely low. The frothy surf set up by the dashing of the waters against rocks and reefs made the coastline indistinct and regular aids to navigation were obscured by low sweeping scud. The point at which the ships went aground was described as near the entrance to Lawrence harbor on which is located the town of Lawrence, Newfoundland.

Residents of that place were praised by the navy for their heroic efforts in pulling such men as survived through the icy storm-tossed seas to safety.

The certain dead aboard the Truxtun were placed at seven officers and 90 men and there was a possibility that three more deaths would be confirmed later, the navy said. Dead aboard the Pollux were one officer and 91 men.

The Truxtun was the same type of old destroyer as the Reuben James which was torpedoed and sunk in the North Atlantic off Iceland with the loss of 100 officers and men last fall.

The normal complement of the Pollux, a new 6,085-ton merchant vessel, which had been taken over by the navy last year, was not given.

6 Planes Crash Killing Six RCAF Men

OTTERVILLE, Ont., Feb. 24 — (CP).—Two bodies were found in one of two Royal Canadian Air Force training planes which crashed in this village today, but workers have been unable to search the wreckage of the other for bodies because of intense heat from the burning fuselage. Otterville is near Woodstock, Ont.

At first it had been believed that each plane had a single occupant. It was not known whether there were one or two persons in the burning aircraft.

The two planes locked wings over the village and crashed, one on the banks of the Otter River in the village and the other in the field south of the village. The one near the Otter was burning. Two bodies were found in the other.

It was believed the planes were from the training station at Aylmer, Ont.

Dr. H. G. Downing, whose office is a few yards from where the burning aircraft crashed, rushed to the wreckage in an attempt to drag the airmen to safety but was unable to get close enough to the plane because of the flames. The Otter-

Report Nazis' Leningrad Lines Going

History's Bloodiest Battle Raging Before Smolensk

LONDON, Feb. 24.—(CP).— The Vichy radio was heard to-day broadcasting a statement attributed to the German radio that the Russians had launched their biggest offensive of the war and that the relief of Leningrad was expected at any moment.

"Our troops on Leningrad front are in great danger," Vichy quoted the Berlin broadcast.

(No such German broadcast was heard by New York listening posts and Vichy's version may be propaganda designed to lull Allied peoples.)

As relayed by Vichy, the German radio added that with the "biggest and bloodiest battles" in the history of mankind raging in the Smolensk, Dnieperopetrovsk and Sevastopol sectors, the Germans could not afford to yield another inch.

"It would mean our death and destruction. We are fighting against a colossal enemy and he gives no quarter."

Hundreds of thousands of Russian troops freshly brought to the front from Siberia are launching fierce attacks on Nazi positions in the north, the centre and the south, according to this version.

Vichy added that the Germans reported they had been forced to withdraw to a new defence line 40 miles southwest of Leningrad after being hurled out of several strongly fortified positions in a save battle.

Britain In Favor

LONDON, Feb. 24—(CP).—The British Government "is in favor of India's political freedom," Viscount Cranborne, Colonial Secretary, stated today in the House of Lords.

Lord Cranborne, who became Government leader in the House of Lords in the week-end shakeup of the Cabinet, declared that "His Majesty's Government welcome the message of Chiang Kai-Shek to the Indian Government."

"We are glad that there should be the closest understanding between the Indian and Chinese people. Chiang Kai-Shek urged India to rally to the cause of liberty and so do we," said Lord Cranborne.

British Backed On Sittang; Shift Command

LONDON, Feb. 24 — (CP). — Britain made her Commander-in-Chief in India responsible today for operations in Burma, indicating that the steady advance of the Japanese had made the defence of the the two great British possessions a single military problem.

An announcement in New Delhi said the India Commander, Gen. Sir Alan Hartley, had assumed direction of the bitterly-contested campaign in which the Japanese are approaching Rangoon and the railway that feeds the Burma Road.

The shift in command was said to have been one result of the visit to India of China's leader, Chiang Kai-Shek.

The Japanese have thrown fresh troops into a mounting Burma offensive which has driven the defenders back upon the Sittang River, last natural barrier guarding the Rangoon-Lashio Railway which feeds the Burma Road, a military commentator declared. Presumably Japanese forces freed by the fall of Singapore now have joined the invasion of Burma.

Withdrawing from the 30-mile sector between the Bilin and Sittang Rivers in a stubbornly-fought rearguard action, the defenders now hold positions within 25 miles of the railway town of Pegu.

Premier Sees Final Victory Over Axis Year Or So Off But May Come Unexpectedly

Army Lost At Singapore—40,000 In 9 Convoys Admits Japs Rule Air—Shipping Strained, Pleads Nation Weary Not, Nor Fail Allies

LONDON, Feb. 24—(CP).—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today that Japan rules the air and is exercising a temporary and "waning command of the sea" in the area of her operations but he predicted a final victory, which he said might come unexpectedly, over the Axis.

The Japanese also are employing numerically superior land forces of about 26 divisions—probably 390,000 combat troops and 100,500 additional men in supply and auxiliary forces—in the A.B.D.A. (American, British, Dutch, Australian) area, he added, and their command of the air "makes it costly and difficult for our air reinforcements to establish themselves and secure dominance."

Efforts to reinforce the area are further complicated by Britain's "very heavy" shipping losses since 1939, losses which he admitted had shown a most serious increase in the last two months.

An Army Lost at Singapore.

The Prime Minister disclosed that "a whole army" was lost at Singapore. "Seventy-three thousand.... are stated by the enemy to be prisoners of war," he said. "Certainly larger numbers than that were in the fortress at the time."

He disclosed that 40,000 reinforcements sailing in nine convoys, had reached Singapore to take part in the final phases of the campaign. He said Singapore was essentially a naval base, its security depending on sea supremacy, fortified by command of the air.

"We have to face the situation resulting from this great loss of base troops and equipment — a whole army," the Prime Minister declared.

"Our anti-U-boat flotillas and naval light forces of all kinds are strained to the utmost limit," he said.

Thus, as a result of Japan's entry into the war, Britain must reckon with "an evident prolongation of the war" — perhaps until 1943 or 1944.

Unexpected Victory?

But he announced that he shortly would submit a scheme for post-war reconstruction because "we cannot be sure as in the last war that victory may not come upon us unexpectedly."

Even without sensational victories, he suggested a successful conclusion of the war might come for the United Nations through the effects of attrition.

"It would not be necessary even to push back the German lines over all the territory they have absorbed. Germany might be defeated more fatally in the fourth or fifth year of the war than if the Allies had marched into Berlin in the first year."

Announcing that Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek has accepted an invitation to join the Pacific War Council, a body upon which Britain, the Netherlands East Indies New Zealand and Australia already are represented for the purposes of recommending war strategy, he declared that "if we can look forward

Java's Defenders Near Zero Hour; Air Blows Grow

BATAVIA, N.E.I., Feb. 24 (AP)—Urged by the governor general of the Netherlands East Indies to face the foe with "faith and an iron will," the Allied defenders of Java neared the zero-hour today in the battle for this last bulwark blocking the Japanese from the vital United Nations supply lines in the Indian Ocean.

There was no new official word on the situation in southern Sumatra and in Bali, where the invaders have wrested their latest footholds directly west and east of this island citadel in the face of stubborn opposition from outnumbered defence forces.

A brief Indies high command communique reported only fresh aerial blows at Java, the heaviest of which was aimed at military objectives around Bandung, Netherlands army headquarters.

Lease-Lend Settlement to Better Trade

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—An Anglo-American agreement on broad principles for post-war settlement of lend-lease aid extended Great Britain was announced today by the White House.

Pointing out that it was too early in the struggle to foresee or define detailed terms of settlement, the agreement set forth a "fundamental framework" which included expansion of trade, elimination of discriminatory treatment in international commerce, a reduction in tariffs, and n general the attainment of the economic objectives of the Atlantic Charter.

More specifically, it stated that articles which at the end of war can be returned to the United States, and which his country wants back, will be returned.

Full account is to be taken of all reciprocal aid.

The agreement, signed yesterday by Sumner Welles, acting Secretary of State, and Viscount Halifax, the British Ambassador, declared that the terms finally agreed upon "shall be such as not to burden commerce between the two countries, but to promote mutually advantageous economic relations between them and the betterment of world-wide economic relations."

It was stipulated that the proposed Anglo-American post war economic improvements are "open to participation by all other countries of like mind."

In detail, those objectives are listed as: "Expansion, by appropriate international and domestic measures, of production employment, and the exchange and consumption of goods, which are the material foundations of the liberty and welfare of all peoples; elimination of all forms of discriminatory treatment in international commerce, and to the reduction of tariffs and other trade barriers; and, in general, attainment of all the economic objectives set forth in the joint declaration made Aug. 12, 1941, by the President of the United States and the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom."

At the outset, the agreement reaffirmed the intention of the United States to continue supplying aid to Britain, and provided that the British government would supply this country with such reciprocal aid and information as it is in a position to give.

Britain agreed it would not, without the consent of the President, give away any defence articles or information transferred under the Act, to anyone not an officer, employee or agent of the British government.

Patent rights of Americans are to be fully protected.

The agreement covers all property, services, facilities and information provided since March 11, 1941, date of the Lend-Lease Act.

Aid Tripled Since Attack

The rate of lend-lease aid to the United Nations has tripled since Pearl Harbor, it was disclosed today in an official report.

VANCOUVER, Feb. 24 (CP) — Smiling and chattering gaily in their native tongue, 100 Japanese Nationals left here last night in the first evacuation of Japanese from British Columbia's vital defence area and more than 500 of their countrymen turned out to give them a roaring sendoff.

Hardly a tear was shed as the men—the youngest 18, the oldest nearing his 50's—boarded a Canadian National Railways train.

The men were described as "volunteer" by their police escort. They volunteered to go to Lucerne, B.C., and Rainbow, B.C., near Jasper, Alta., to construct work camps for other male nationals of military age, said to number close to 2,000, and who must be out of the defence area by April 1 under orders of the Dominion government.

Norway To Canada, Back Possible Says Belgian

MONTREAL, Feb. 24.—(CP).—A young Belgian artillery officer who was a Nazi prisoner in Belgium claimed to-day that Canada is within easy range of German bombers based in Norway and that Canadians should not feel that they are safe from the horrors of war.

Thirty year old Lieut. Nicolas Van Stein, now serving with the Belgian army unit at Joliette, Que., said in an interview that Nazi four-motor bombers now stationed in Norway could fly to Halifax and back with ease and have available a good amount of time to locate targets with their bombs.

Van Stein, who has had several close-ups of war so far, spent some time at Dakar, in French West Africa. While detained there by the Vichy officers he declared that he saw dozens of submarines and that only three were "obviously French." The others, he said, were "just as obviously Nazi."

Huns Use 'Chutists Trying To Hold Leningrad Front

MOSCOW, Feb. 24 — (AP).—Red Army troops have occupied Dorogobuzh, on the Dnieper River only 50 miles from Smolensk, in a violent central front attack launched at dawn yesterday after hours of artillery preparation, Soviet authorities said to-day.

Massed infantrymen, led by tanks, supported by field guns and covered by planes, headed in force toward Smolensk, a key German base 230 miles west of Moscow, to capitalize on conquests a month earlier in the Mozhaisk sector at their rear and on correlated pincer actions.

Without identifying the sectors, the Soviet Information Bureau said one Russian unit had repelled five fierce counter-attacks and killed more than 500 Germans, that Red Army infantry and cavalry had co-operated to reoccupy 10 settlements, annihilate more than 2,500 invaders and take a number of prisoners, and that a Soviet detachment had killed 130 in a foray in which it destroyed three tanks.

"Soviet units operating on one sector of the southern front," it said, "captured three German tanks, four guns, eight mine-throwers, nine machine-guns, 60 cases of mines, and two field wireless stations. The enemy lost more than 100 officers and men killed."

Kill 14,000 at Kharkov?

Coincident with this activity—developed on the 24th anniversary of the formation of the Red Army—it was announced that more than 14,000 Germans had been killed in recent savage fighting in which the Russians captured numerous points on the approaches of a large southwestern city. (This may have been Kharkov, industrial centre 400 miles south of Moscow.)

across" the initial setbacks since Japan entered the war "we can see very clearly that our position has been enormously improved not only in the last two years but in the last few months."

He said he had no more news of what happened at Singapore upon the fall of which he would "not attempt to pass judgment which would be an unseasonable and a very ungracious task."

Declaring he was satisfied with the present assignments of various Cabinet members in the reshuffled Government and the chiefs of staff, he said he had no intention of making further major changes. Only a few under-secretaries will be shifted, it was indicated.

Regrets Colleague's Loss

Expressing regret at the loss to the government of his "colleagues who readily placed their resignations" in his hands in order to facilitate the changes of the past week, Mr. Churchill declared:—

"They had, of course, no greater share of responsibility than the rest of the administration in the disasters which have fallen on us in the Far East."

He said he was sure the government "had achieved a more tensely braced and contained administration to meet the new dangers and difficulties coming upon us."

The Premier said Capt. Oliver Lyttleton, newly-named minister of state in charge of production in the war cabinet, soon would return from Cairo to assume "as his sphere the whole question of production in all its aspects."

He added that the whole previous supply set-up, under which Lord Beaverbrook as minister of war production was subject to certain limitations, was being scrapped for a new one.

He said he shortly would submit a scheme on post-war reconstruction. The new war cabinet setup, he asserted, bears "a fairly close resemblance" to that by which David Lloyd George successfully directed Britain's efforts in the last war.

In the last two months there has been a most serious increase in shipping losses, he declared.

He said "We in this difficult period have other things to do besides living up slavishly to the standards and methods of the past."

Outlining the duties of the cabinet members and chiefs of staff, he said he was satisfied the present system of government by which the country is conducting the war is "the best which could be devised."

He added that "there is no question of making a change of serious or fundamental character" so long as Mr. Churchill "retains the confidence of the House (of Commons) and of the country."

He said that "however tempting it may be at some time of trouble that lies ahead to step aside and let someone else take the heavy and repeated blows which are coming," he did "not intend to adopt that cowardly course."

Referring to the increased shipping losses, he asserted that "from the moment Japan attacked we set in motion in the Far East naval forces, aircraft, troops and equipment on a scale limited only by the available shipping."

He said Britain's shipping losses since 1939 when "the war began have been very heavy."

After predicting a "final victory" for the United Nations, he said:

"Weary Not, Nor Fail Allies"

"The ordeals through which we have to pass will be tormenting and protracted. But if everyone goes on with unrelenting effort and resolve and we do not weary by the war or fail our allies, we have the right to look forward across a good many months of sorrow and suffering to a happy and reasonable prospect—to complete and final victory."

"I will not speak a little about my own function. At the time I was called upon to form the present Government we were in the throes of the German invasion of France and the Low Countries.

I did not expect to act as leader of the Commons. I therefore sought His Majesty's permission to create and assume the title of Minister of Defence, because obviously the position of Prime Minister in war is inseparable from the general supervision of its conduct and from the final responsibility for its results.

I intended that Mr. Chamberlain should be the leader of the House and take the whole of the House of Commons work off my hands. This was not acceptable and I had myself to take the leadership of the House as well as my other duties. This parliamentary task weighed upon me heavily.

During the period that I have been responsible I find, to my horror, that I have made more than 25 lengthy speeches to Parliament, in public or secret session, to say nothing of dealing with many questions and current emergencies. . . .

Sure of Cripps.

Although I feel a great sense of release in laying down this burden, I cannot say that I do so without sorrow. I am sure, however, that it is in the public interest. I am also sure that Sir Stafford Cripps will prove to the House that he is a respector of its authority and a leader capable of dealing with all the incidents, episodes, and emergencies of the Commons and parliamentary life.

While I take the constitutional responsibility for everything that is done or not done and am quite ready to take the blame when things go wrong as they very often do and as they are likely to do in the future. I do not, of course, conduct this war from day to day myself.

The war is conducted from day to day, and in its future outlook, by the three Chiefs of Staffs, namely the First Sea Lord, the Chief of the Imperial General Staff, and the Chief of the Air Staff....

I do not think that there has ever been a system in which the professional heads of the fighting services had a freer hand had more complete control of the course of events, or received more constant and harmonious support from the Prime Minister and the Cabinet under whom they serve.

It is my practice to leave the Chiefs of Staffs alone to do their own work, subject to my general supervision, suggestion and guidance....

The Lack of AA Defences

I see that some gentleman who has escaped from Penang has announced to the world with much indignation that there was not a single anti-aircraft gun in that place. Where should we have been, I should like to know, if we had spread out our limited anti-aircraft guns throughout the immense, innumerable regions and vulnerable points of the Far East instead of using them to preserve the vital life of our ports and factories here, and of our fortresses which are under continuous attack and of our operation and field armies in the Middle East?

The House and nation must face the blunt and brutal facts. If, having entered the war yourself ill-prepared, you have to struggle for life with two well-armed countries, one of them possessing the most powerful military machine, and then, at the moment when you are in full grapple, a third major antagonist with far larger military forces than you possess suddenly springs upon your comparatively undefended back, obviously your task is heavy and your immediate experience will be disagreeable.

From the moment Japan attacked we set in motion to the Far East Naval forces, aircraft, troops and equipment on a scale limited only by available shipping.

All these forces and supplies were diverted from or came from theatres which already needed them and both our margin of safety and the advance of our operations have been notably, but I trust not decisively, affected . . . .

Before I left for United States early in December, most of the principal orders had been given and in fact we managed to reinforce Singapore by over 40,000 men together with large numbers of anti-aircraft and anti-tank artillery, all of which were withdrawn from other points where they were needed or even actively engaged.

This was especially true with regard to modern aircraft. Unfortunately before enough of these latter could arrive in the Malay peninsula, although there was no delay in giving the orders and many varying methods were adopted by the commanders—the airfields in Singapore Island were already under fire of Japanese artillery from Johore from which we had been driven out.

Nine Convoys Got There

Nevertheless the speedy reinforcements of Singapore by not less than nine convoys would be judged a splendid achievement if the resulting defence had been crowned with success.

Singapore was of course a naval base rather than a fortress. It depended on command of the sea which again depends upon command of the air. Its permanent fortifications and batteries were constructed from a naval point of view.

Various defence lines constructed in Johore were not successfully held, and the field works constructed on the island itself to defend the gorge were not on a sufficiently large scale.

I shall certainly not attempt at this stage to pass any judgment on our troops or their commanders. Seventy-three thousand of them are stated by enemy to be prisoners of war. Certainly larger numbers than that were in the fortress at the time.

I shall not attempt to pass judgment. We have more urgent work to do.

We have to face the situation resulting from this great loss of base, troops and equipment—a whole army. We have to face the situation resulting from that and from the great new Japanese war which has burst upon us. There is little more I think that I can usefully say at that juncture upon the progress of the general war. Certainly it would be very foolish to try to prophecy its immediate future.

On the other hand if we look forward across the considerable period of immediate punishment through which we must make our way in consequence of the sudden onslaught of Japan—if we look forward across that to the broad and major aspect of the war, we can see very clearly that our position has been enormously improved not only in the last two years but in the last few months.

This improvement is due of course to the wonderful strength and power of Russia and the accession of the United States with its measureless resources to the common cause...

Our position has on fact been improved beyond any measure which the most sanguine would have dared to predict.

Beyond this phase of tribulation, which may be shorter or longer in accordance with our exertions and behavior, rises the prospects of ultimate victory of Britain, of the United States, of Russia and of China, indeed of all United Nations—victory complete over all the foes that have fallen upon us.

A Spectacular Show

This is one of the scenes in "Keeping the Wheels A-Turning" that will have a special appeal to all industrial workers in the nation and is taken from the musical revue, "Pull Together Canada." This is the Canadian counterpart of the American patriotic revue, 'You Can Defend America,' which has already had outstanding success in New York, Los Angeles and Washington. This spectacular revue will be presented at the Collegiate auditorium on Thursday, Feb. 26, and will be here for one night only. In three Ontario cities audiences have appealed to have the show held over for a second run, but this is impossible as the schedule has been arranged. The show is being held in connection with the Victory Loan.

Moving Pageant Of Canadian Life To Be Seen In Sparkling Revue

"Pull Together, Canada," a sparkling revue which comes to the Collegiate Auditorium on Thursday, February 26, in connection with the Victory Loan campaign, is a moving pageant of Canadian life, with all its homespun wisdom, its faults as well as its virtues, touched with a magic quality of humor set to lilting song, witty dialogue and tense drama. It brings patriotism down to brass tacks. It shows in a hundred different ways what Tom, Dick and Harry can do to build morale in their home and community.

Unique, colorful, and original from start to finish, with eleven brand new song hits, this revue has been conceived, written and produced by civilian volunteers, as part of their national service. It is a counterpart of the American revue, "You Can Defend America," which has met with much acclaim across the border, and is accepted by theatre critics and officals of defense councils, army, and government alike, as an excellent contribution, essential to the war effort. It was described by Major-General Wilby, now Superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, as portraying the arm behind the army, and Richard M. Hadden, composer of the Victory Loan theme song, "You Can Fight for Canada," said that this was what gave him the idea for another song-hit of the show, "The Arm Behind the Army."

Front Line Spirit

"Pull Together Canada" brings the front-line spirit down across the footlights and pictures the way in which each Canadian can fight with every muscle and every dollar for total victory at home and overseas.

From the spectacular opening, with the entire cast on stage for the rousing commencement to the equally imposing patriotic finale, the revue is run off with the professional polish of a first class New York theatrical production.

They Wanted More

The show made such a hit at Brantford that the head of one industrial concern had the singers come down to his factory and sing the song hits for the workers as a special entertainment during working hours, and efforts to have the show appear again were futile despite heavy demand by the workers.

Dick Flood of the Personnel Department of the C.G.E. head office in Toronto, who saw the show in Toronto, said he would pay two dollars to see it again, and advised his friends in the local plant to be sure and attend when the revue is shown in Peterborough.

Over at Woodstock in Western Ontario, P. M. Dewan, Minister of Agriculture, liked the show so well, he wrote a letter to Victory Loan headquarters for the benefit of his many friends across the province and his letter read as follows:

"I had heard that the Patriotic Revue was good. I had no idea it was so good until I saw it at Woodstock. The Woodstock audience were keenly appreciative as evidenced by the loud and almost interminable applause. They wanted more.

"The Revue is no flippant presentation. It is highly entertaining but at the same time it teaches a lesson impressive and persuasive. No one can see the Revue without being deeply convinced of the necessity for team work and unity throughout Canada.

"The cast deserves the warm gratitude of the Canadian people for their voluntary and highly effective contribution. Their donation, given in a spirit of national service, exemplifies the selflessness and mutuality which should govern the actions of all of us in these critical days.

"The artists do their parts with professional skill and dignity leaving their audience pleased, enthusiastic and resolved. 'Pull Together, Canada' should be seen if possible by every community in the land—not only during the Victory Loan Campaign but for the duration."

"P. M. DEWAN."

States lend-lease administrator, said in testimony made public by the Senate appropriations committee that during the first 8½ months of the program, such aid averaged about $141,000,000 monthly, compared with $338,0000,000 in December and $462,000,0000 in January.

He also disclosed that the air ferrying service across the Atlantic to the Middle East, created last summer and operated with lend-lease funds, has been extended "so that the bombers for our fighting forces, as well as those of our Allies, can be flown by that route to the fighting areas of the Southern Pacific."

Lend-lease aid to the Free French and the Free Belgians contributes to protection of the route across Africa, he said. Bases in Scotland and Northern Ireland, built with lend-lease funds, now are available for American troops in that part of the world, he added.

Dr. Downing said he was unable to see into the wreckage to determine how many airmen had been in the plane at the time of the crash.

R.C.A.F. planes circled over the scene while firemen brought the blaze under control.

It was the third training aircraft accident in Ontario within the last 24 hours. Six men are known to have been killed, with the roll not complete until the fire-swept wreckage here is examined.

PO. Donald Beardall of Weston, Ont., died at Trenton, Ont., yesterday when two training aircraft collided on the ground and three Royal Air Force men were killed when two training planes crashed near Kingstone last night. Their names have not been released pending notification of next-of-kin.

Oil Adds Trouble.

Disclosure of the loss of the Truxtun, following closely on the Navy's announcement yesterday that the coastguard cutter Alexander Hamilton had been torpedoed and later sunk off Iceland with a "moderate" loss of personnel, was made in a communique which tersely described efforts at rescue and how difficult they were on the rocky coast and in the oil spilled from the broken ships.

Efforts to put lines ashore from the stricken vessels failed. A breeches buoy finally was rigged to a ledge at sea level, but some survivors were washed away before they could be got to the top of the cliff that lined the rocky coast.

The Truxtun, the Navy said, broke up almost immediately after the grounding and soon afterward the Pollux also went to pieces under the pounding of the violent seas.

Such as did survive owe their rescue in large measure the Navy declared, to the "tireless, efficient and in many cases heroic action of the people of St. Lawrence, Newfoundland."

The 6,085-ton Pollux, a converted merchantman, was completed in 1940 at Kearny, N.J., at a cost of $2,100,000. She was then named the Comet and was owned by the United States Marine Commission.

Her normal complement as a naval stores ship called for 18 officers and 160 men. She had a speed of 15 knots and was converted into a naval auxiliary at a cost of $1,500,000.

8,000 Canadian General Electric Employees Are Engaged In Producing War Materials

More than 8,000 employees of the Canadian General Electric Company in its several plants, including Peterborough, are engaged in the production of war materials. Photographs of machinery, products and buildings are shown in a booklet issued by the company entitled "Electricity and Canada's War Effort."

The Peterborough works are prominent all through this interesting photography confined entirely to the C.G.E. The Allis-Chalmers plant is turning out 2,500 H.P. steam engines for Canadian-built cargo boats of 9,300 tons. Wire cable for protection of steel-hulled ships against magnetic mines, searchlights, anti-aircraft guns, machinery used in the manufacture of Bren guns and other equipment for the making of larger guns, Carboloy metal from which sheels are machined, and a whole range of motors and dynamos are shown in this review of C.G.E. Company's war action.

What If Result Close? Urges Yes Ballot To Force Full Action

(By C. R. BLACKBURN.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 24 — (CP). — Debate on the Government's Bill authorizing a plebiscite to seek release from no-conscription pledges was to be suspended to-day while the House of Commons sits in secret session.

The plebiscite proposal, which has occupied the House almost exclusively since the session opened, reached the Bill stage yesterday when the authorizing measure was given first reading.

It revealed that the vote will be recorded in each riding and province separately as in the case of elections thus disposing of reports that results would be lumped together for all the Dominion without distinction as to ridings or provinces.

Otherwise the measure in printed form revealed nothing that has not covered when the resolution on which it is based was moved last week for consideration in committee.

There were indications at yesterday's sitting that the measure is due for a stormy passage notwithstanding the long debate on its principle during the four weeks' consideration of the Throne Speech.

Conservative House Leader Hanson, speaking on the plebiscite resolution, demanded "a straightforward pronouncement indicating what action they (the Government) will take if the plebiscite is decided in the affirmative."

Want Full War Action.

J. W. Noseworthy (C.C.F.-York South) in his first speech since he defeated Conservative Leader Meighen in the February 9 by-election, said his group would demand assurance from the Government of a total war effort.

C. E. Johnston (N.D. Bow River) said he would oppose the plebiscite under present circumstances. He attempted to move an amendment to the resolution which would provide that the plebiscite be taken without cost excepting printing, and that the question would seek "defi-

Juveniles Trim Tweed Outfit

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24. — (ENS). — Campbellford Juveniles laced Tweed by a 5 to 1 count in the first game of their home and home total goal series played in the local arena. The fast skating, hard checking Tweed outfit was no cinch for the local sextette since despite the one-sided score they gave a good account of themselves and time and again menaced the local bailiewick only to have their attack broken up by what looked like superior checking. The home crew paced by Hamilton and Dunk moved into the lead in the first frame, when Hamilton sank the disc on Milne's pass from the corner. Bertrand encored on Dunk's assist to end the period 2 to 0, with Hamilton in the cooler.

D. Merraw got the visitors' lone tally in the opening of the second with Hamilton still doing time, but Fraser buzzed back down the ice with Hamilton and Smith five minutes later to send home a stinger. Ken Dunk rapped home Bertrand's pass to make the score 4 to 1 at the opening of the final canto, and Smith drew a pass from a face-off and registered from close range for the final tally.

First Period.

"MOTHER USED MUSTARD BATHS TO HELP STOP DAD'S COLDS...
AND THE DOCTOR PUT MUSTARD ON MY CHEST WHEN I WAS ILL," SAYS "BUDDY" McMURCHY

EVER since "Buddy", Mrs. W. McMurchy's young son, was seriously ill with a bronchial congestion, Mrs. McMurchy has realized the grave danger that can lurk in a neglected cold. She has realized, too, how helpful mustard is as a means of overcoming colds and certain chest complaints. Mrs. McMurchy gives all the credit for "Buddy's" recovery to her doctor and the mustard treatment he used. The McMurchy family live in Regina, Sask., where winters are long, cold and windy. And Mrs. McMurchy sees to it that they take no chances with colds. When either of her two boys or her husband show symptoms of a cold, she insists that the one afflicted takes a mustard foot bath. For years, the time-tested remedy, mustard, has been a guardian of health in this home.

Another Alberta Woman Praises Mustard Baths

After a long period of treatment ... a few years ago ... Mrs. M. Harvey of Red Deer, Alberta, recovered from a threatening chest condition. Today she is a healthy, busy woman, but still has to be careful not to let a cold or congestion affect her chest. "If I feel any tightness whatever in my chest," she said, "I take a full mustard bath just before retiring. I take two heaping tablespoons of mustard, mix to a paste with cold water and then place it in the bath. As soon as I am ready for bed, I have a mustard poultice placed on my chest, leaving it on for not more than 20 minutes. This treatment is most helpful. It aids in dispersing the tightness—helps my breathing to become normal and there has never been any return of the old chest trouble."

The strongest proof that mustard is reliable, lies in the fact that thousands use it year after year. Let mustard help to relieve you when you have a cold or feel chilly and depressed with grippe or some other winter infection. Use it to help relieve pains of neuralgia, rheumatism, neuritis and other ailments which commonly affect you. If symptoms are serious be sure to consult your doctor.

Be sure to keep a tin of mustard handy and always have the best. Keen's Mustard is known the world around for its high quality.

Sizeable A.E.F. Now In East Reveals F.D.R.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP). —President Roosevelt admonished the American people last night to prepare themselves for further reverses on the war fronts, and even as he spoke an enemy submarine was raking a spot on the California coast with gunfire.

By the grimmest coincidence, the bombardment opened up just before Mr. Roosevelt reached that portion of his speech in which he declared the United States also could expect to suffer continuing losses at the hands of Axis underseas raiders in both Atlantic and Pacific "before the turn of the tide."

To speed the turn of that tide, Mr. Roosevelt called for "uninterrupted production" to build up an overwhelming superiority of war supplies for the ultimate grand offensives of the United Nations.

The President's voice was sharp as he stressed the two words—"uninterrupted production"— although he made no specific mention of the series of work stoppages which, for various reasons, halted war production in some industries yesterday.

Mr. Roosevelt was unaware of the California coast bombardment while he delivered his 35-minute radio address to the country and many parts of the world, but he said early in his talk the battle ahead was "warfare in terms of every continent, every island, every sea, every air-lane in the world."

Not a Great Surprise.

Washington was not unduly surprised to learn of the bombardment —the likelihood of such sporadic raids was foreseen in competent quarters here early in December when the first Japanese submarines appeared off the Pacific coast.

The immediate reaction was that such forays showed a poor understanding of American psychology, and that, instead of creating mortal terror, they would have the opposite effect of making the people fighting mad.

"The task that we Americans now face will test us to the uttermost," the President declared. "Never before have we had so little time in which to do so much."

The President's address had both a sombre side and an encouraging side.

The Axis, he reported, is exerting every ounce of strength, striving against time, in a supreme effort to destroy the lines of communications linking the United Nations, so that the Allies would be isolated and then conquered one by one.

The United Nations had been forced to yield ground and might have to yield more, he said, but he added:

"Actually we are taking a heavy toll of the enemy every day that goes by."

Edge on Jap Planes.

Specifically, he said "to date — and including Pearl Harbor — we have destroyed considerably more Japanese planes than they have destroyed of ours."

Moreover, Mr. Roosevelt disclosed, American forces in the South-west Pacific battle theatre are steadily growing.

Transportation difficulties had been immense, "but I can tell you that in 2½ months we already have a large number of bombers and pursuit planes, manned by American pilots, which are now in daily contact with the enemy in the Southwest Pacific.

"And thousands of American troops are to-day in that area engaged in operations not only in the air but on the ground as well."

This was the first official intimation that a sizeable vanguard of an A.E.F. was on the scene of action.

Turning to the debit side, Mr. Roosevelt discussed the situation of the Philippines in terms that left no room for optimism on the possibilities of reinforcing or relieving Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The turn of events there he said, had long been anticipated.

"For forty years it has been our strategy—a strategy born of necessity—that in event of a full-scale attack on the islands by Japan, we should fight a delaying action, attempting to retire slowly into Bataan Peninsula and Corregidor.

"We knew that the war as a whole would have to be fought and won by a process of attrition against Japan itself... We knew that, to obtain our objective, many varieties of operations would be necessary in areas other than the Philippines.

"Gaining Eternal Glory"

"Nothing that has occurred in the past two months has caused us to revise this basic strategy of necessity—except that the defence put up by Gen. McArthur has magnificently exceeded the previous estimates of endurance; and he and his men are gaining eternal glory therefor."

The President paid tribute to the fighting forces of the United Nations in China, in Burma and in the Indies.

"They are making Japan pay an increasingly terrible price for her ambitious attempts to seize control of the whole Asiatic world. Every Japanese transport sunk off Java is one less transport that they can use to carry reinforcements to the army opposing Gen. MacArthur in Luzon."

The President administered stern reproof to "the rumor mongers and poison peddlers in our midst" for "damnable misstatements" on American war losses, and he called attention to the promptness with which Axis propagandists seized on such material to encourage defeatism.

Mr. Roosevelt said the consequences of the attack on Pearl Harbor had been "wildly exaggerated" in weird rumors of staggering losses.

Cautioning the people against placing stock in unfounded gossip of this character, he promised the country would be kept informed on the trend of the war.

Mr. Roosevelt had this to say "one and for all to the people of Kings Row . . . .

By HENRY BELLAMANN

THE STORY: Orphaned Parris Mitchell is reading medicine with Dr. Tower, town mystery, wonders why Tower keeps daughter Cassandra so close to home. His best friend, Drake McHugh, talks boyishly of plans to marry Louise Gordon, daughter of town's leading physician. Parris thinks often of childhood sweetheart Renee; plans at suggestion of overseer Tom Carr, to study treatment of mental ills when he goes to Vienna. Madame von Eln, adored grandmother of Parris, hasn't long to live. He does not know it. Other characters: half-wit Benny Singer, hired by Madame after lawyer Skeffington saves him from jail after bullying by Fulmer Green's gang; tomboy Randy Monaghan; fearsome Dr. Gordon.

AFTERNOON WITH DRAKE
CHAPTER XII

Molly's jouncing gait had an almost hypnotic effect. It was hard to keep the eye from resting on some shining buckle or patent-leather trimming of the harness which rose and fell with her pace. Parris began to feel sleepy. After a while he began to see behind his half-closed lids something like a luminous thread stretching on and on ahead of them. It moved and whined faintly, and little figures ran and danced along the silvery transparent line. They were like the people he knew: Drake, himself, Louise Gordon, Cassandra, and over and over again tiny images of Renee, like a long screen of linked paper dolls. The figures fell about and postured and grimaced. They seemed not to like him. He wanted to call out to them, but they seemed very far away. . . . "

"Hey, sit up." Drake pushed him with his elbow. "Darned if you didn't go to sleep."

"I—I guess I did. I was even dreaming."

"I guess you and me had better stick together a little bit, Parris. Good gosh, you got to have somebody."

"We will; you bet."

"I want to get married and all that kind of thing some day, but I want to have all the good time I can first. But—well, you get kind of tired even having a good time."

"I expect so." Parris slipped back into an awkward feeling of childish inexperience again. He didn't know what to say exactly.

"Madison Geer and all that crowd, Jesse Alexander and Babe Fuller and the rest of 'em, get drunk a lot."

"Gee, you know I never did have a drink."

"Well, no use taking one either, kid. I expect to stay off drinking. Don't do you any good."

Parris nodded and tried to look judicious. "Um, yes, I expect so."

Drake chuckled. "You sounded just like a doctor then. You know, I expect you'll be a good doctor. Wouldn't surprise me at all."

"Well, darn your old skin. I expect to be."

Drake looked very serious. "You know, Parris, I wouldn't tell this to another soul on earth, 'cause I know everybody thinks I'm kind of wild and that I run around an awful lot, and that I ain't steady. But I'm going to surprise some people around this old town. I'm going to settle, and," he cut a quick sidewise look at Parris, "I'm going to make Louise proud of me."

"Is she in love with you, too? Now, I mean."

"I don't know. You can't tell anything about Louise."

"Well, of course she is. If she wasn't I expect you'd know that in a hurry."

Drake blinked at this unexpected perspicacity.

"Say, I guess that's right. I never thought about that. Gee—get up there, Molly. We don't want to spend our lives out here—no, sir, I never thought of that! How d'you happen to think about it?"

Parris waved his hand with a wise little gesture of deprecation. It implied a wide knowledge of the ways of women of which this was the merest sample.

"Parris, you know Preston Hill out there west of town?"

"Yes, of course. Why?"

"I want to buy it."

"Good gracious, Drake! What for? It's just a hill."

"Kings Row has got to grow, hasn't it? That the best direction for it to go. Wouldn't that be a good place to build houses—you know, looking down across the creek there, and away out over the country?"

Parris was mightily impressed. "Why, that's wonderful! You'd make a lot of money, wouldn't you, and be rich?" His voice sounded a little wistful.

"Well, doctors make a pile of money. Wouldn't it be the darndest thing if we, you and me, could build houses for ourselves out there, right next to each other?"

"Listen, Drake—" Parris wriggled about and pulled one foot under him. He rested one arm along the back of the buggy seat and gesticulated in his odd foreign fashion with the other. The talk ran on into details. It seemed to them at that moment that life was clear and straight ahead of them and pleasant. They would do this, or that, thus or so. They wondered once or twice why older people always spoke of the difficulties of life. But, of course, in olden times everything was different. There really wasn't much use in paying attention to old people. They didn't understand that the world had changed now, and that things were easier and simpler.

All of the next day, and the next, Parris went about in a pleasantly unthinking haze of mind.

That one afternoon with Drake had relieved the whole feeling of loneliness which had weighed on him for weeks. But he did not want to see him—not just now. He could talk to Drake about his work, his hopes and plans, and about a good many of his everyday troubles. But at this moment he longed for someone who spoke the language of another side of his personality.

He recalled now what Dr. Tower had said last week about intuition. Place strong reliance on it—if you have a mind that works clearly and well on the—now what was it he said?—oh, yes— the normal planes of consciousness.

People thought Drake was wild. As happened so often, Parris' intuition said no to everything people thought. It had been that way with Tommy Carr and crazy Lucy. He wondered if his intuition was reliable? Just because people were on different roads, couldn't they still understand each other?

After supper he remembered his notebooks. He had left them in Dr. Tower's study the afternoon he began his unorthodox holiday. He would have to walk into town for them.

IT was quite dark when he reached Cherry street.

As he was about to step onto the low porch floor, he saw to his surprise that it was Cassandra and not Dr. Tower who sat in the deep chair under the green-shaded light.

"Hello, Cassandra. It's me—Parris. Didn't want to scare you."

"Why, hello." She arose and dropped her book face down in the chair. "Come in?" The words were distinctly question, and not invitation.

"Well, I—I just came after my notebooks. I left them here Tuesday."

Paris dropped his hat and coat on a chair. "I've been playing hookey."

"From father?"

"No. He put me up to it. Said I needed to rest."

"He's in St. Louis."

"Sure enough? When did he go?"

"He said tell you when you came back he'd be ready to see you on Wednesday."

"Wednesday. Oh. All right."

Parris felt himself grow a little ill at ease under her steady scrutiny. He really hadn't had a good look at her for a long time, and he had forgotten how lovely she was. He felt his heart beat a little faster and his breath come quick and short.

"Well, I guess I'll hurry on."

"Why?" Her long green eyes were steady now. They looked straight at him. He replaced the notebooks and looked at her in some surprise.

"Sit down. No, over here—on the couch. It's comfortable."

She sat down and pulled a pillow behind her head. She seemed perfectly at ease now.

"I—why, do you know, Cassie, I haven't seen you to talk to you, really, in a long, long time "

She out in suddenly. "It will

COBOURG, Feb. 24—(ENS). — Appointment of Charles Bolster as market clerk on probation was made at Monday night's meeting of the town council, when several items of business were disposed of.

A letter from the tax collector applied for the post of assesor as both jobs are interlocked. He also asked for an increase in salary. Deferred for later consideration of the council.

Mr. Fred Pepino, on behalf of the Business Men's Association, pointed out that no unpleasantness was intended in regard to enforcing the closing by-law.

Police On Job

The letter was received and filed as the matter was being handled by the Police committee.

Request of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion for a tag day on July 18 was granted. Permission was granted to the Eastern Star for a "Penny Drive Day" for war work on May 23.

War Loan Total Below Last Drive

COBOURG, Feb. 24 — (ENS). — Two factors are making the Northumberland Victory Loan Campaign somewhat slow, in the opinion of campaign officials revealed at loan headquarters here. As far as the towns are concerned, they were very thoroughly canvassed last year and large idle balances put into the loan. In the absence of war industries the money has not returned. In the townships the canvassers were prevented by impassable roads from getting out to contact the farmers, while the latter were for the same reason prevented from getting in. However, it was learned that in most cases the rural canvassers were doing very well and that the individual sums invested in bonds were surprisingly large. The cumulative report covering the first five days of the campaign revealed that the total percentage was 21.02 as compared with required percentage for that period of 27.78.

Cobourg's cumulative total for the five days is $55,050, or a percentage of 17.76; Hamilton Township, $35,750, 31.09; South Monaghan Township, $150, .60; Haldimand Township, $6,300, 10.25; Alnwick Township, $6,700, 35.50; Percy Township, $32,000, 35.75; Cramahe Township, $7,800, 15.60; Hastings $9,250, 37.00; Colborne, $11,000; 27.75; Brighton Township, $8,500, 17.09; Brighton, $14,900, 19.10; Murray Township, $7,700; 12.83; Campbellford, $35,200, 36.56; Seymour Township, $7,700, 12.83. Total, $236,350 out of objective of $1,125,000.

British Columbia's Danger

Well may the Attorney-General of British Columbia and the Mayor of Victoria urge the Government at Ottawa to remove three or four thousand Japanese from the Pacific coast to the more central area of the Dominion where they can do little or no harm if the Nipponese from across the sea make raids on the coastal cities and towns. The authorities in that part of the Dominion must be keenly conscious of what the danger is when they telegraph Hon. Ian Mackenzie and Prime Minister King to get the aliens out of there at the first possible hour.

It is of course, not a simple act, picking up many hundreds of the yellow men and transplanting them some place else. Provision must be made for their removal and for their maintenance and, inasmuch as they may not be disloyal, they are not to be arrested and kept for months in an internment camp at the country's expense. So long as they are closely watched and give no evidence whatever of being in collusion with their warlords back in the Orient, they are entitled to be treated with tolerance and should be kept at work earning their keep. If spread over different parts of the country, particularly parts that are several hundred miles away from the coastal belt, they could not co-operate to any extent with raiders from Japan, even though they should act as traitors to this land where they have been enjoying peace and making a good living. So long as they are in British Columbia, however, they could create an ugly situation if Japanese bombers came over in squadrons and rained missiles down from the skies or if they came in hordes as parachutists.

It will soon be three months since the attack was made on the Far East islands. Since then the successes of the Japs is well known. One of the ways for Canadians to protect themselves is to remove a potential danger as fast as possible, remove it from places where the craftiness of the Oriental aliens would be futile if they wanted to put it in operation.

There are, no doubt, many of the Japanese along the Pacific who do not want to commit any overt act. All who are of good repute, according to the Mounted Police records, should be shown every tolerance so long as they continue to be law-abiding, but to remove them to inland points would do them no serious injury in view of war conditions. On the other hand it would take a possible menace from the presence of the people of an exposed province. The authorities at Ottawa are reported to be preparing to make the evacuation of about 3,500 within a month, but even that is a long time after the destructive raids made on Honolulu, Hawaii and elsewhere. Meanwhile the constant anxiety of the westerners can be easily understood and appreciated.

Visual Demonstration

The military demonstration in Peterborough on Saturday while not as effective as it might have been in drawing crowds, because of the rigors of winter, nevertheless was the kind of thing which should be carried out in all parts of the Dominion between Loan appeals as well as during campaigns. No better method can be devised of effectively making young and old alike conscious of the fact that a war is going on.

"Mob" psychology, as it is called, is a peculiar manifestation of how minds are aroused when a crowd is together in contrast to how the the same individual minds would be affected were they alone. Much can be taken in through the sense of hearing; much can be read, but neither sense is stimulated to anything like the extent when by itself as when it is in the presence of many other people. Certainly anything in the form of military bodies, manoeuvres and equipment quickens in a peculiar way the romantic and adventurous impulses.

There are those who smile with tolerant amusement, if they don't outwardly scoff, at the "sham" program put on in Winnipeg in which the methods of German armed forces, as practiced in Europe, were carried out. There was an attack made at the border of that city, then the army came triumphantly in, seized the public buildings, closed the churches, burned old books and papers—the entire show designed to give citizens a first-hand experience of exactly what would happen were the Huns to get over here. Press reports say that the excitement and the stark realism of it all deeply impressed the public. Winnipeg, in any case, is among the cities which up to Saturday night had raised a large percentage of its Victory Loan quota.

When throngs see war in actuality, even though it is a "pretense" war, they impart from one person to another a patriotic zeal which can be obtained in no other way. The only regret is, so far as this city and community are concerned, that thousands more could not have seen the troops and their equipment when they paraded here.

Staggering Enemy Losses

When the great battleships of Britain and of the United States were sunk some weeks ago in the Far East by Japan, the news caused the feelings of people in Canada to drop like as the mercury in a thermometer goes down to zero. It was natural that the tremendous loss should have depressed everybody terribly, but some way or other the opposite effect is not created to the same degree when one reads of Italian or Japanese losses at sea. The result is that too often the defeats and reverses of the enemy are unwittingly minimized in our minds.

For example, a terrific battle went on out in Far Eastern waters for four or five days last week. According to news from Batavia, Java, no less than eighteen Japanese ships—including five cruisers and four destroyers—were sunk or damaged during the engagement. One of the enemy cruisers exploded and another was set on fire. Both presumably were total losses. Four planes were also destroyed. United States and Dutch warships as well as air forces of the Allied powers were in the great conflict. The latter suffered, too, as would be expected in so prolonged and stubborn a naval battle, but the score against the Nipponese was so prodigious that we in this country certainly have reason to raise our spirits.

All wars have gains and losses, of course, but the powers that can hold out longest are the victors in the end. The Allied nations are known to have superior resources now to those of the Axis powers. That superiority will show itself much more to advantage a few months hence than it can today. Even as it is, the Axis forces are being trounced badly in Russia; the British are holding them fairly well in North Africa, and though the thrusts of the Japanese are powerful and widespread in the Far Eastern theatre, they too will soon be made to slow up now that India is co-operating with China that Britain, the United States and the Netherlands are combining effectively.

With the arrival of spring—namely in March—both the enemy nations and the Allied powers will embark, it is expected, on a widespread and bitter offensive. It is unwise to predict, but from all that can be gathered, the prospect is for a greatly reduced German and Italian strength and a much improved Allied position by the end of the summer. No other conclusion can be drawn from all that has been happening of late.

What Fighters Endure

The agonies through which many persons are forced to go because they offer their services to some branch of a country's uniformed defence can scarcely be realized by those of us who are here in Ontario. We are thousands of miles away from the carnage and welter of battles and of the cruel, hungry seas in winter time. The tales of those who suffer and endure, or who suffer and then die from cold, wounds and privations, are beyond imagination in many instances. Indeed, if a writer were to create in fiction form tragedies and heroics similar to those now and then reported in the press, people would say the stories were mere figments of the imagination. They just couldn't be true!

An example came to notice last week through an Associated Press dispatch. It stated that husky seamen, victims of torpedoes, fought each other for ten days to ward off death from freezing in a pitching lifeboat out in the ocean, after their ship had been sunk in the North Atlantic. A Norwegian doctor related the facts after the sufferers were rescued by a Canadian destroyer.

Supposing any one of us is in a lifeboat tossing this way and that, far out in the icy, rolling waters, and there are twenty-three others. Finally, two die as a result of exposure and cold. The others battle on against apparently hopeless odds and, in order to keep up circulation of the blood and ward off the numbing sleep that precedes death from freezing, they fight each other, perhaps none too tenderly. In pitiless, hopeless hours of that kind, people do not care a great deal, it is said, whether they are knocked down or even overboard, although it is instinctive to cling to life under normal circumstances.

It is this sort of thing — taking a chance for the defence of one's own freedom, of one's family connections and of one's country—it is this sort of work for which every man and woman should feel a profound sense of gratitude. But for every such experience which comes to public attention through the press, there must be countless others of which the world at large never hears.

The Vigor Of Democracy

The reorganization by Prime Minister Churchill of his Cabinet and a readiness to adjust himself, and those associated with him in the administration of affairs, to changing conditions is one of the healthiest signs possible that democracy is not decadent in the heart of Empire. The shuffle may be, probably will be, interpreted abroad by the Axis powers as a proof of their contention that our English-speaking form of government is going down hill, and falling apart as it goes, but we in this country, and those in Britain, the United States and other parts of the world, know that just the opposite is the case.

In fact the proof of strength is in the right of the people and the press to offer sane criticism; of the government of the day to respect that criticism and to meet it squarely, and of the government's wisdom in recognizing social and political trends and going along with them, so far as seems prudent for the time.

For example, some good men have been dropped from the Cabinet and others moved up. The welfare of civilization as a whole has been declared thereby to be much more vital than the career of any individual. Again, out of the Civil Service has been brought a man to take the pre-eminent post of War Secretary. Third, Sir Stafford Cripps has been taken in. He is of definite Socialistic leanings and is non-Imperialistic. Fourth, plans are to be worked out to widen India's power of self-government.

Other changes and progressive phases could be mentioned, but these manifest the genius of the Mother of Parliaments and of the political organism there set up from time to time to direct Ship of State through stormy seas and to prosecute the war in accordance with the will of free men. In the interests of not only Great Britain itself but of the entire co-operative effort among the United Nations, this Cabinet shake-up will no doubt prove to be effective. Probably we shall witness a more aggressive war against the three major Axis enemies.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Trying to figure out what the cost of living bonus means, who gets it that shouldn't and who doesn't get is that should, together with the problem as to whether anybody gets it and when, is a new game that has taken the place of the crossword puzzle.

"It Can't Happen Here" is almost threadbare, it has been used so much for three or four years, but Premier MacMillan of Nova Scotia is to be commended for putting the slogan aside as a lot of nonsense. He is preparing for the worst and urges his people to be on the alert.

UP, BRITANNIA

When disasters would oppress us,
  When our backs are to the wall,
That's the time that British courage
  Never has been known to fall.
Temporary gains can never
  Make us feel that all is lost;
And our enemies have often
  Found that out, and to their cost.

Faith in freedom, faith in justice,
  Faith in triumph over wrong,
Always have been British bulwarks
  Though the battles have been long.
Character still reigns triumphant
  In the struggle to be free,
And no arrogant enslavers
  E'er shall make us bow the knee.

In our empire we have ofttimes
  Been the prey of scheming men,
Who, in moments of our weakness
  Planned our subjugation then;
And our trustful faith in others,
  Who have tricked us right and left,
Is the cause of Europe's downfall,
  For of hope they're near bereft.

Up, Britannia! gird your empire
  With a prayer of gladsome hope;
Strengthened and resolved to conquer,
  Great your task, and great its scope.
And the annals of the future
  Britain's greatness will acclaim,
For that citadel of freedom
  History will ne'er defame.

New Biography Published On Churchill

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

ANYTHING about Winston Churchill is news; and any new book by Philip Guedalla is news too. I leave you to imagine what sort of event it is when Philip Guedalla produces a biography of Winston Churchill. To undertake the task of writing the life of a British Prime Minister during his period of office, when that period is certainly one of the most fateful in the history of Britain and of the world, is a task which might daunt the stoutest heart. And when, in addition, that Prime Minister is himself a master of the English tongue and an historian of note, the risks of such a venture seem almost too great to be borne. But Mr. Guedalla has elected to bear them, and his excellent new book, "Mr. Churchill" is the result.

One is a little inclined to think, when one sees a biography of the Prime Minister appearing at this time, that it is another catchpenny affair, designed to make quick and easy profits, to trade upon the timeliness and popularity of its subject, and then to be forgotten. Several such books have appeared already. But Philip Guedalla is no writer of catchpennies. He is one of the most brilliant of living historians and he has a great literary reputation to sustain. His book is an honest book, and by far the best study of Winston Churchill that has yet appeared (unless one excepts Churchill's own book, "The World Crisis," which Arthur Balfour once called "Winston's brilliant Autobiography, disguised as a history of the universe").

Guedalla has had unusual opportunities to study Winston Churchill at work, and to gain knowledge of the political background of his career. The historian was educated at Rugby, and was a distinguished member of Balliol College, Oxford, where he took first class degrees in Classics and Modern History. He practiced as a barrister between 1913 and 1923, and during the first Great War he was legal adviser to the Contracts Division of the War Office, as well as organizer and secretary of the Flax Board. He then entered politics and was a contestant of several constituencies. He is Chairman of the British Council and of the Board of Trade. He has been head of the Latin-American Division of the Ministry of Information since 1940. And so, when Mr. Guedalla writes about politics and the inner workings of the British system, we are sure that he knows what he is talking about.

When he writes about Winston Churchill we are also sure that he knows what he is talking about, because we have heard it all before so many times that we know it to be true. In "Mr. Churchill" Philip Guedalla produces not one new important fact about his subject. The story is the familiar one of the boy who was incorrigibly naughty at school, a daredevil in the army, an untiring and fearless critic of his superior officers in Africa, a valiant orator in the House of Commons, an ingenious but unfortunate First Lord of the Admiralty and, for many years, a discredited Jeremiah in his own country, prophesying the coming conflict with Germany. A familiar story, yes, but we have never heard it better told than by Mr. Guedalla. This writer has the rare ability to cut out what is unnecessary, and to allow the shape of his story to emerge, unhampered and unobscured by unimportant details. The lack of new matter is not to be wondered at. Until a man is dead it is possible to obtain material about his life from two sources only, —from his friends, among whom it is fair to include himself, and from his enemies, whose word must generally be suspect. Mr. Churchill has a host of friends from whom it would be possible to glean anecdotes concerning him, though these would be of slight value; he has remarkably few enemies, save those who are contained in the Axis, and we cannot attach any importance to what they say. Fifty years from now, when the smoke of contemporary events has subsided, and when private papers and diaries are available, there will be much new matter available concerning the Prime Minister, whom Mr. Guedalla believes to be the greatest British War Minister since Pitt; but it is doubtful if Mr. Guedalla, who is 53, will be on hand to analyse and summarize it for us.

But although his book contains no new information, it does contain some interesting new points of view. The myth of Mr. Churchill's 'political instability' is exploded. That myth is founded chiefly upon the fact that the Prime Minister has changed his party allegiance twice during his career. Politicians who regard the business of changing one's mind twice in a lifetime as revealing essential instability have regarded him with suspicion on that account. But, says Mr. Guedalla, Winston Churchill has, all his life, been haunted by the disastrous career of his father, Lord Randolph Churchill, the Tory-Democrat, who failed to cross the House when his common sense told him to do so, and remained with the Conservative party, only to be victimized by it in the end. And so the son of this unhappy father has not hesitated to become a Liberal when his views coincided with those of the Liberals, and to become a Conservative when Liberalism became too wishy-washy to hold his respect. At all times he has been an Englishman and a great Imperialist, and we are beginning to realize that he was right in most of his ideas.

Guedalla's book is one which should enjoy great popularity at present. It is an admirable and understandable portrait of a great man, and it renews our confidence in him. Although Guedalla's book may be superseded as a book of facts, it is unlikely that his judgment of Churchill will be altered by the passing of the years. The greatest War Minister since Pitt—that is precisely the sort of man we want now.

• Japs Crimped On Bali

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 —(AP)— Telling air-sea blows struck by United Nation forces defending Java have blunted both jaws of the Japanese pincer attack from Sumatra and Bali sufficiently to warrant the conclusion that American air power is already definitely challenging the Nipponese design of conquest.

Even lacking complete details, it is clear that the prime factor in both theatres was participation of American planes backing up Netherlands units on a scale to give the Allies local air control.

Indies reports tell of Japanese naval craft, transports and supply ships smashed or driven off about Bali to isolate the troops landed on the island. Unless an adequate Japanese sea supply line can be reopened to Bali, the garrison of Java has little to fear on its eastern flank; and that is the most dangerous sector. Only a mile-wide stretch of water separates Bali and Java.

DIFFICULT OPERATION

Japanese spanning of Sunda Strait from Sumatra on the west represents a more difficult operation. At no point is there less than fourteen miles of deep water across. Prompt shifting of the American-Indies and possibly Australian air attack to harry enemy troop and supply craft endeavoring to build up a powerful invasion force in Sumatra indicates that the Java defense High Command has concluded that the Bali flank is temporarily secure.

These encouraging developments about the Java defense bastion possibly account for subsiding of the Japanese attack on General MacArthur's lines and forts in the Philippines.

It is too early yet to deduce that Allied sea-air blows in the fight for Java have forced a revision of Japanese strategy on Luzon. Any such loss of enemy shipping and personnel as is indicated in the actions off Bali and Sumatra, however, must force the Japanese to resort to the quickest possible source of replacement.

That naturally is the Malaya Peninsula and Japanese-occupied French Indo-China and Thailand. The whole Japanese effort in the south centred on the advance bases prepared in French Indo-China and Thailand before the surprise attacks of December were delivered. But scaling them down to replace losses in the Java assault would weaken the force of the Burma drive.

LOSS OF TIME FATAL

It is therefore arguable that the operations against MacArthur's stoutly held lines on Luzon are to be scaled down to siege proportions while Japanese air forces, shipping and even troops are rushed southward to cope with rising allied air concentrations in Java. In a strategic sense, Bataan and the Manila forts, with the fall of Singapore, ceased to be immediately important, or the use of Manila Bay so essential to the Japanese that it could not be safely by-passed.

Failure to push the attack on Java and against the Torres Strait route from the Pacific to the Java Sea for American reinforcements would be a serious matter for Tokyo. Loss of time there could be fatal to the whole Japanese conquest design, while prolonged delay in dealing with MacArthur would not.

There is every indication that the strain of maintaining communications on a 3,000-mile-wide front from Burma to Torres Strait, nowhere less than 3,000 miles distant from Japan, is telling on the enemy. Loss of local air control in the Bali and Sumatra actions graphically illustrates the dangers inherent in the wide dispersion of Japanese forces.

He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.... Therefore speak I to them in parables: because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand....

WINSTON CHURCHILL

What sacrifice are YOU making?

When Mr. Churchill took over the wheel of state, he offered the British people, if they were to win through to victory, only "blood, toil, tears and sweat."

Today, that is still the alternative before us all — sacrifice . . . or slavery. Young men you know are giving up their jobs . . . their homes . . . perhaps their lives, for victory. What are YOU sacrificing? You will share in the benefits. Are you sharing in the sacrifices? There must be some luxury, some ordinary comfort you can go without so that you may lend more to assure and hasten final victory.

Every dollar counts. The least we can do — those of us who are not asked to offer our lives — is to buy MORE Victory Loan than we THINK we can afford.

Tie Up Bundles To Stay Tied, Help Salvage Work

Did you ever stand on a truck full of loose newspapers at half past five on cold, wet afternon and thinking unchristian thoughts about perfectly nice people? Did you ever pick up an apparently secure bundle of papers, only to have it fall apart and its contents blow to the four winds of heaven

You didn't? Then you never worked on the Salvage Truck. These things, and others just as irritating, happen all too frequently to helpers at the Salvage Depot.

Salvage work is hard, tiring and dirty enough when everything goes well, without the added annoyance of needless waste of time and energy, waste that can be avoided by a little co-operation and commonsense. This is everybody's war, and if the Salvage workers can do their share by collecting and handling the stuff, surely you can do yours by making it easier to handle.

Keep your newspapers and magazines. Magazines in good condition are distributed to camps, training centres and service men's clubs. And keep all the magazines of one kind together. This will save the sorters all kinds of time and trouble. Keep women's magazines separate. Good uses are found for them, but not in training centres.

Keep picture newspapers, especially coloured comic papers separate from the ordinary kind. Even old comics are enjoyed in the sailors' clubs and hostels in Halifax; any anyway, coloured papers must not be mixed with white when they are sent to the pulp mills.

Last of all, don't for Pete's sake, spoil the good work by tying up the bundles wth the string off the groceries. Use good, stout cord and bounce your bundles a few times to make sure they won't come undone. Get a Wolf Cub or a Brownie to show you how to tie a good strong knot.

The clear tones and fine declamation of Dorothy Allan Park, soprano, gave distinction to the earlier episodes."

SALLY'S SALLIES

DOROTHY DIX

TIGHTWAD HUSBANDS CAUSE MORE MISERY THAN OTHERS

Thrift Is A Virtue but Too Much Of It Becomes a Serious Vice

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Listen to the woes of a bargain counter wife. When we were married several years ago my husband was only earning $27 a week and I willingly pinched pennies and did everything I could to save, but now that he is getting $50 a week I am fed up on stinginess and feel I have a right to a little of the money that I earn as a household drudge. I am allowed $8 a week on which to run the house and for my own personal needs. On this I must feed my husband, baby and myself, buy my clothes, pay for household necessities such as soap, cleaning fluids and clothes lines. If I go to town I must pay my own carfare. If I want someone to care for my baby I must pay for that. If there is an extra holiday or we have company I must stretch my money over that. At canning time I am expected to can everything in sight, but am not allowed a penny extra for fruits, vegetables and sugar. But do I get any praise? Not on your life. If I go over a couple of dollars my husband says: "I don't know what you do with the money." I don't know what it is to have a dress I like. I have to get the cheapest I can find. I feel and look like something out of the basement bargain. Besides the $8 I get 25 cents a week amusement money which doesn't even cover the neighborhood moving picture show and I have to pay the 3c extra myself. I am willing to save. I want to save. But I think my husband overdoes it and that we might have a few of the comforts of life as we go on. What do you think?—Bargain Counter Wife.

ANSWER—If you can make $8 a week cover all the household expenditures you mention, you are a financial wizard who is wasted on mere domesticity. Your place is in the Treasury Department at Washington. You are needed there. Present your receipted bills as credentials to Mr. Morgenthau.

Probably there is no other husband in the world who is so unlovable and who gets on his wife's nerves as much as the tightwad does. Beside him the drunkard and the philanderer and the ne'er-do-well are desirable mates. For the drunkard is not always soused. He has his moments of sobriety in which he tries to atone for his fall from grace by taking his wife out and giving her a good time. Not infrequently the philanderer presents his wife with jewels and cars and mink coats as peace offerings. And even the ne'er-do-well may kiss the hand that feeds him.

No Redeeming Qualities

But the tightwad has no redeeming qualities. The only woman he ever really loves is the lady on the silver dollar and to her he sacrifices his wife without mercy. For him there is a price ticket on everything in life. He does not think of his wife and children in terms of love. He figures out how much it costs to feed them and begrudges the price. He is not grateful to his wife for making him a comfortable home and keeping it clean and shiny. He is worrying lest she may have burned a little too much gas for her cooking, and wondering if she couldn't have used her old mop and scrubbing brush a little longer.

And the trouble is that there is no possible hope of reforming a stingy man. Avarice is a vice that grows on him as he grows older. Every year he will get a tighter grip on his pocketbook, and the only chance his wife has to enjoy any of his money is to outlive him. Luckily there are no pockets in shrouds.

I am strong for thrift. I believe that everyone should save something of what they make, even if it is only a nickel a week, for the rainy day that comes to us all. That is only common sense, common prudence and honesty. But there is moderation in all things and it is just as wise to spend some of what we earn as to save it. To eat mean food when we can afford good, to go shabby when we can afford nice clothes, to deny ourselves all amusements, all pleasures, all entertainment, is folly, because it affects our health, our happiness, even our chances of success, and it does more than any other thing to alienate the affections of our families and friends.

When You Are Unwanted

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a widow with a 17-year-old daughter. During the winter I teach school for a living and keep my daughter with me, but in the summertime I go back to my parents. Now, although I have just about furnished the home and in additon buy most of the groceries when my child and I are with them, my parents have made us understand that they consider us a burden and that we are not welcome. They seldom speak to us and when they do, it is rudely done. We are not even allowed to have our friends visit us. My daughter is taking a secretarial course and hopes soon to get employment. Could you suggest any work I could do during the summer?—Crushed.

ANSWER—It seems most unnatural in your parents not to want you to stay with them in the summer, but old people are very notional and if they do not want you you should not force yourself upon them.

Fortunately, your daughter will soon be self-supporting and now when there is such a demand for women workers everywhere I should think that you would not have any difficulty in finding employment. Talk it over with some vocational expert, but get busy about it at once. Between now and when your school is out next summer you will have to fit yourself for whatever work you want to undertake.

Young Flier Honored By Friends

The friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thomas gathered at their home on Monday evening at a surprise party in honor of their eldest son Murray, and to wish him Godspeed on his new adventure.

Murray, although only eighteen, has lately graduated as a pilot officer in the R.C.A.F.

A pleasant evening was spent with music, played by Isabel Birdsall and Everett Elmhurst, followed by games, conducted by Mrs. Percy Graham, Mrs. John Davidson and Miss Norma Moore.

After the games P.O. Murray Thomas was called forward and an address in his honor was read by Isabel Birdsall, followed by the presentation by Wilbert Graham of a fountain pen, writing case and money belt, all in Air Force blue. Although taken very much by surprise, P.O. Thomas was able to reply with some fitting words of thanks for the gifts.

A delicious lunch was served at the end of the jolly evening and all present joined in the singing of God Save the King and "Auld Lang Syne."

KAWARTHA LADIES WIN 4 POINTS TO PUT WESTCLOX IN 1st PLACE

Extra Frame Is Necessary To Name Winner

The Kawartha Ladies assisted the Westclox into City League first place for the second time this year when they handed the champion Outboard Marines a startling 4 to 0 upset at the bowling alleys last night. After Kawarthas had won two games and tied Marines in the third the whole league went into a sort of secret war session behind closed doors. The decision was an extra frame—Kawarthas won out in overtime and the ball game was over.

The plucky Eaton team threw a big surprise into the Westclox camp by winning the second game. Lucky Strikes lost a game to the Mic-Macs but ended on top of a 3 to 1 score. Five V's and Commercials tied with 2 points each while the Lawn Bowlers handed Miss Johnston's Aces a 3 to 1 defeat.

Mrs. Watts of the Kawarthas was the evening's best bowler. She jammed a lovely 317 single into a 701 total score. Marg Hawthorne chalked up 643, Lois Darling 625 and Mrs. Les Calladine 632. Other good singles included Miss Hawthorne's 292, Miss Darling's 290 and Miss Craig's 258.

The standing: Westclox 57, Outboards 56, Lucky Strikes 47, Lucky Strikes 47, Kawarthas 44, Aces 33, Mic-Macs 32, Lawn Bowlers 24, Five V's 21, Commercials 16, Eaton's 10.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

The annual bonspiel for the Neill Trophy got off to a flying start Monday night, when all rinks scheduled commenced play pretty well on time.

The co-operation of the curlers in this regard is greatly appreciated by the committee. There was only one extra end game played all night and that was between H. White and C. Blewett on Ice No. seven. Mr. White's rink got the extra end.

Only one Lakefield rink, that of F. Erskine, survived the first night.

Ernie Hand surprised himself and everybody else when he doubled the score on our president.

Dave Grant made Jimmy Richmond's group winners go all out to win.

Jimmy Hall and F. Erskine had a tidy battle—8-7 for the Lakefield boy.

Another close one was C. Westbrooke and N. Hamley—8-6 for the George St. merchant.

It is a long time since Jimmy Ridpath, Lakefield, commenced curling. He had been at it a long time when we started this game, and that wasn't last Tuesday either.

Games will continue to-night at 6.45 o'clock and at 9.00 o'clock.

The games that will most likely draw the attention of the crowd to-night will be—J. Richmond vs. R. Downey and Dr. Clark vs. N. Hamley Just kind of a little grudge affair.

Big Saint Rally Whips Weavers, Majors Victors

TORONTO, Feb. 24 — (CP). — Hamilton Majors and Niagara Falls Weavers were just one game away from the O.H.A. Senior "A" final today. Hamilton last night beat Toronto Marlboros 5-3 to take a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven series. In the other semi-final Niagara Falls were crushed by St. Catharines Saints 9-3, but the Falls held a 3-2 lead.

At St. Catharines the Saints staged a powerful comeback in the final period to trounce the Weavers 9-3. After trailing by the odd goal in three going into the stretch, the home team opened up with all they had to ram in seven goals. At Hamilton the Majors displayed a little too much fight for the highly-tooted Marlboros and chalked up a 5-3 victory before a crowd of 5,000.

The series continues on Wednesday with games scheduled for Toronto and Niagara Falls.

Early in the first period at Hamilton Marlboros went into the lead on a goal by Stewart. Barlow evened up the count and Laurent and Dinning made it 3-1 for the Majors before the period ended. Stewart scored again in the second period to narrow down the Hamilton margin. Miocinovich and Brady put the game away for the home team though with a goal each to make the score Hamilton 5 Marlboros 2. Shamlock got the lone goal of the third period on a solo try.

In the opening frame of the game at St. Catharines Fritz and Young tallied for the Falls, while Goble marked one up for the Saints. Hal Cooper put the Weavers further ahead with his score. In the second period Davey reduced the visiting team's lead to one goal. The third period was all St. Catharines. The Saints staged a terrific comeback as soon as the whistle blew. Cooper and Davey each scored twice, while Mundrick, Thompson, and Goble added to the final count with a goal each.

Norseman Tokle Jumps 230 Feet

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Feb. 24 (AP)—Torger Tokle, the flying Norwegian from Brooklyn, hung the twenty-first annual Sno Bird's invitation ski-jumping championship on his many-titled cap yesterday at Intervales Hill.

Arthur Devlin, the home-town entry, as expected, gave Tokle cause for concern—but Devlin was not the only threat. Crosby Perry-Smith, another Lake Placid boy, now a Dartmouth student, tossed a bombshell into the field on the first round with a leap of 220 feet.

The feat gave Perry-Smith a chance at the crown, but he dropped back on his second try and the field outscored him. He was third in final standing, Devlin second.

Tokle scored the day's record leap, a sensational 230 feet, on the second round. Devlin had given him a mark to beat a few minutes earlier when he hit 227 feet in perfect form.

Fourth and fifth respectively, were two Norwegian Air Corps entries from Little Norway, Toronto: Ola, who holds the United States Eastern and National titles, and Sigurd.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Peterborough Soldiers came through last night in the game that should mean the group honors. Outscoring the full-strength Whitby team by 9 goals to 6 the homesters went out in front 2 games to 1 in the best three-of-five series for the championship of the group and they can take the title Friday night with a win in Oshawa. They should be able to do that and wind the affair up. Otherwise it would be all up to a fifth game to be staged here next Monday night. On the showing last night and in the previous game at Whitby last Friday night there doesn't seem to be any reason why the Petes cannot take it all without a fifth game being needed. They played the ace line of the visitors into the ground last night and the bulk of the scoring was done by Whitby's second line, with the Petes' razzle-dazzle trio doing most of the effective attacking for the winners. But Blewett, Nichols and Reilly can't be as unlucky around the nets again this season as they were last night when they were outlucked time after time. They are just as likely as not to come through with a mess of goals in Friday's game to end the argument.

* * * * * *

On the season's dope, the Petes can outskate the Ontario county team from gong to gong and have a big edge over them in stick-handling. But the Oshawa-Whitby combination are smart around the nets and take advantage of the slightest letdown. They showed that last night when they came back with three goals just at a time when it looked as if they were going to be beaten by a city block. In other words if the Petes come through with their usual strong offensive and play canny hockey back of their own blue line there isn't a reason in the world why they cannot bring the series to a close right in front of the Whitby customers. If they tighten up in their own territory there isn't any doubt of the result because they have the speed and the drive to battle through to a win, unless they neutralize their advantage by carelessness behind their own blue line.

* * * * * *

Bun Kingdon's smooth scoring of four goals and, the persistent speedy dashes of Art Heal who never stopped going, along with smart stick-handling and fast breaks by Honey Tompkins made the Petes starting line stand out all night. Pitted against the much-touted Covert-Cooper-Dafoe line they made that trio look very ordinary by outscoring them 7 to 1 which was surely decisive enough to be convincing. None of the Whitby trio got anywhere and they would have been off the score sheet altogether if it had not been for a fluke goal by Cooper, the second of that kind he has scored against the Petes in this series. The Gamble-Durling, Heard line, assisted by Barnes who did not shine defensively but helped out the attack effectively were much more of a scoring threat than the starting combination with Gamble sparking the attack with a goal and three assists. Nine pucks rattled past Peg Hurst but at that he made some fine stops as did Ray Harding in the Petes net.

* * * * * *

The Season's Record

So far this season the Petes and Whitby have met seven times in group games and playoffs and the Soldiers have won five out of the seven. In the matter of goals for and against the Petes' record is even more outstanding for the figures show that they have more than doubled the score on the boys from the capital of Ontario county. The totals are Petes 46, Whitby 22. Last night was the first time Whitby have had their full team in action against the Petes at Brock St. Rink and it is rather a strange commentary that the best showing Coach Hamel's team have made here this season was on their second visit during the regular schedule when they were only beaten 3 to 1 despite the fact that they were shy Covert, Cooper, Barnes, Gamble and Durling. Earlier in the season despite the fact that they had their Covert-Cooper-Dafoe line intact, they were handed their worst defeat of the campaign when the Petes set them back on their heels to the tune of 13 to 4. All of which may prove something or other, including the fact that the Oshawa reinforcements are either getting too much hockey or that they are not as powerful as some folk think.

* * * * * *

Just who will be assigned to the task of refereeing Friday night's game in Whitby looks like a nice problem for the O.H.A. The Petes came back from Friday's game feeling that they had got all the worst of it at the hands of Bert McCaffery and they immediately asked the governing body not to assign him for any more games in which the Soldiers are involved. Last night Whitby were equally indignant over the work of Referee Mike Rodden whom they claimed missed plenty and they don't want any part of him in any future games. Houston is also on the Whitby black list and with the rival clubs thus turning thumbs down on a number of the best-known whistle-tooters Secretary Bill Hewitt will have quite a job picking out an official who has not been blackballed by one or other of the clubs.

* * * * * *

Here is some dope from Ken Colling in the Belleville sheet: "Some startling figures were revealed when the scoring averages of the top three teams in group No. 1 in the senior "B" series of the O.H.A. were completed. Although Belleville, out of the finals, statistics show that in their four meetings with the Petes there was only one goal difference in their respective scoring. Belleville scored 13 goals against the Petes while Jim Ellis' crowd rattled 14 into the Belleville net, which isn't a great margin over a period of four games, each team winning two. Against the Whitby Red Wings there was a difference of two goals in seven games played, four league games and three semi-final matches. Hap Hamel's "Blue Shirts" scored 40 goals against Belleville in seven games, while Mike Rodden's charges were driving 38 behind Peg Hurst. In their three semi-final games Whitby scored 16 goals and Belleville 15, which proves there wasn't a great margin of difference between Peterborough, Whitby and Belleville after all. However, it was games, not goals, that proved the payoff with Belleville missing the mail in the latter category."

* * * * * *

Whitby Pulls One

The fourth game in the senior B group playoff series was scheduled for tomorrow night but the Whitby management has pulled a fast one on the O.H.A. by getting the battle postponed until Friday. The reason given for the transfer was the fact that Oshawa and Brantford juniors are meeting in Oshawa Wednesday night in a playoff fixture and that the senior B game would suffer from the viewpoint of attendance. All of which is true enough but of course the real reason is that if the game had gone ahead tomorrow night as scheduled Whitby would have been shy Barnes, Cooper and possibly Durling and Gamble and Covert. Now they will be able to ice a full team. But there is one advantage in the postponement. The game will be played in Oshawa instead of in Whitby and good ice is therefore assured.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Brantford got the jump on Oshawa Generals by defeating them 8 to 5 in the first game of the playoffs. The second game will be played in Oshawa tomorrow night and a number of local fans will see the game....The Peterborough Soldiers will have the services of Guy Roach, Kingston Combines defence man, in Friday night's game with Whitby. The Kingston garrison team is out of the running in the military tournament and Roach is being transferred to the local Military Training Centre camp. He has already been ruled eligible to play with the Petes....Oshawa and Kingston Bees are all square in their series.... Alfie Moore who played goal for London against the Petes in the 1926 senior finals has been bought by Buffalo from the Philadelphia Rockets.... Phil Marchildon, the Penetang boy with the Philadelphia A's is threatened with blood poisoning as the result of an injury to his hand. Young Rangers Swamp St. Mike's 12-3

TORONTO, Feb. 24—Coach Ed. Wildey's Young Rangers jumped into a one game lead in their Big Seven Junior quarter-final series with St. Michael's Majors at Maple Leaf Gardens last night as they snowed the Irish under a 12-3 count in a fast-moving game.

The second game of the best in three series will be played at the Gardens Saturday afternoon.

Rangers left little doubt as to their superiority over their intra-city rivals in the minds of some 1,200 spectators as they sped into an early lead and continued to dominate the play for the greater part of the contest.

The battling Irish were powerless to stop the determined Rangers' sweeps and Goalies Joe Cleary and Johnny Marois who alternated in the St. Michael's net were subjected to some heavy shelling. Marois took over puck-stopping chores after the first period when Cleary aggravated a back injury and was forced to retire.

The rampaging Rangers worked into a 5-2 lead in the first period, hammered home four goals in the second without a reply, and wound up a brilliant night's work by outscoring the opposition 3-1 in the final frame.

Big Bill Shill was the heavy scoring gun for the Wildeyites, adding to a steady defensive performance by firing four goals, three of which were crammed into the second period. Bob Murray and Defenseman Bill Balmer each added a pair of counters to Rangers' total.

The luckless Irish never really got started against their smooth-working opponents and except for brief flurries in the first and final periods, gave Goalie Gord Thomas comparatively little work. The front line of Bennett, Stanton and Dodd carried the greater part of the offensive and managed to click for two goals. Jerry Hickey bagged Majors' other tally on a fine individual effort.

Although outclassed in last night's encounter, the Irish must still be counted very much in the running. Always noted for their battling qualities, this year's team is no exception and they promise a complete reversal of form for the return game Saturday.

St. Michael's—Goal, Cleary; defense, Foley and O'Neil; centre, Bennett; wings, Dodd and Stanton; alternates, Hickey, Schmaltz, Gregoire, Rebstock, Morrow, Lobraico, Marcix.

Young Rangers—Goal, Thomas; defense, Balmer and Morris centre, McKeown; wings, McLean and Smylie; alternates, Gibbson, Murray, Shill, Htmilton, Cresswell, Leeming.

Referee—Bert Hedges, Toronto.

Rookie Hurler Has Odd Name

BOSTON, Feb. 24 — (CP). — Fondly hoping to be struck twice in the same place by lightning, Boston Red Sox are willing to argue that figures don't lie in predicting that Yank Terry will prove as valuable a rookie hurler as was Heber (Dick) Newsome last season.

It is coincidental that the oddly-named Terry—Yank is his official handle—comes to the Sockers from San Diego, where he fashioned a sensational 1941 record of 26 victories and only eight losses.

Newsome came to Boston from San Diego last year with a 23-11 record and almost went back there without a chance. His five-hitter on a bitter April day gave him a chance and he went on to become the most effective Boston hurler, with a 19-10 tally for the season.

Terry, it seems, took part in just 315 innings last season in compiling his fine record. Newsome was in exactly the same number of innings when he did so well with San Diego in the preceding year.

The Red Sox bosses are keeping their fingers crossed even as they predict bright things about Terry. Too often they have gone overboard on some hurling prospect, seen him get away to a flying start, and then made the customary clutch for the headache powders as he collapsed suddenly and mysteriously at mid-season.

Terry is no stranger here. He was brought up last season after a long sentence at Louisville. But there was no room for him on Joe Cronin's veteran staff and off he hustled to San Diego. He might have helped later in the year when some of Cronin's veteran hurlers came apart at the seams. He'll get every chance this season.

Bryan Hextall Clings To Scoring Lead

MONTREAL, Feb. 24 — (CP). — Bryan Hextall, scrappy New York Rangers forward, picked for the right wing position on Th Canadian Press all-star team for the last two seasons, retained his hold on first place in the National Hockey League's individual scoring record during the past week, according to statistics issued today.

Hextall started his 10th week at the top of the heap, two points ahead of his nearest rival, linemate Phil Watson. One assist during the week shot Hextall's total up to 46 points—21 goals and 25 assists. Watson had 14 goals and 30 assists for a 44-point total.

The left-winger of the famous Rangers line, Lynn Patrick, trailed Watson by two points, having added an assist during the week to make his total 42-23 goals and 19 assists.

Detroit's Don Grosso swept to fourth place past Chicago's Bill Thoms by scoring one goal and assisting in two others to bring his total to 39 points. Thoms failed to increase his 38-point total during the week.

Brooklyn's Pat Egan held on to his title as the league's bad man by adding 10 minutes to his discredit during the week to raise his total to 88 minutes. The American defenceman also has two misconduct penalties against him.

Beautiful Shot Wins For Metcalfe Rink

(By HERB MARTIN)

After watching the ladies play in their regular curling games, Monday afternoon, we are now positively and definitely sure that we don't know the first thing about curling.

It was in the game between Mrs. J. Bruce and Mrs. E. Metcalfe; last end and the score all tied coming home; a perfect setting. Mrs. Bruce had finished playing and was lying two shots (mighty well guarded) one stone just about covering the tee and the other one at the right on the eight-foot ring at about a 45-degree angle. What would Mrs. Metcalfe do? Of course all the wise guys (including yours truly) on Number 8 knew what should be done; knew just how to do it. Why doesn't she play an out-turn and come through that port? Why doesn't she play a wick shot? Why doesn't she loop the loop or jump out the window? Why doesn't she? Because Mrs. eMtcalfe had other ideas and she knew just what should be done and went right to work and did it. Remember, this is the last stone of the played. It was a case of getting the shot, or good-bye. The chances are 100 to 1 against her making it. There will be no second chance. So away goes Mrs. Metcalfe down to the north end of Number 2 ice, picks up her stone, cleans it off—or did she—we don't know, steps in the hack black and lets fly with a fast in-turn. Down skids the stone, glides past and through all the guards, hits the first stone, sends it over to the shot stone with enough force to send them both out to the far side of the 12-foot ring; her own stone lying well within the 12-foot ring and counting the shot and by so doing winning the game.

Well, you should have seen the expressions on the different faces of the spectators on Number 8. We know that they each and all lost two pounds in weight, two inches off their height and also all interest in life.

However, hats off to Mrs. Metcalfe, she double-crossed everybody, but we still think that she had "one foot in heaven" when she made that shot.

SOLDIER PETES STEP INTO SERIES LEAD LACING WHITBY BY 9 TO 6

Razzle-Dazzle Line Outfoots Invaders' Best

Peterborough Soldiers went out in front in their O.H.A. senior B group playoff with Whitby here last night by beating Coach Hamel's team 9 goals to 6 in a free-scoring, hard-hitting battle before the biggest crowd of the season at Brock St. Rink. The Petes now lead in games 2 to 1 and can take the series with a win in the fourth game billed for Oshawa Friday night. If they should fail in that effort, the fifth and deciding game will be played here Monday night.

Sparked by the razzle-dazzle line who ran in seven goals and completely outplayed the Cooper-Covert-Dafoe trio the Petes were good value for their win. They outscored the visitors 2 to 0 in the first period and with any luck would have had two or three more, split four goals with them in the middle session and then came on to grab off five counters to Whitby's four in the a third period scoring carnival. At one stage the homesters were in front 7 to 2 and again by 8 to 3 but they got a little careless then and Whitby let them know that they could not afford to let down by ramming in three quick goals before Art Heal got the final marker on a breakaway in the last few seconds of the game.

It was a robust-checking affair. The venerable Mike Rodden officiated and missed a lot of stuff and the teams took advantage of his leniency to lay in a lot of heavy bodychecking and high-sticking, most of which went without any official notice. There was a time when Rodden ranked with the best but the game has grown away from him.

The Petes scored the first two goals and were never headed after that auspicious start. They were breaking fast and passing nicely and the result was they had a big share of the territorial play, although Whitby were dangerous in close and the homesters could not afford to let down. They sagged a little in the last few minutes and the visitors ran in three goals to close the gap.

Razzle-Dazzle Line Shines

The Kingdon-Tompkins-Heal line carried too much scoring punch for the ace line of the Whitby outfit, helping themselves to seven goals and a total of 13 scoring points while Covert and Dafoe went without a scoring point at all and Cooper got one sloppy goal on a pass-out that Harding pulled into the net.

Kingdon paced the Peterborough attack with four smart goals, three of them on plays set up by Art Heal and the other on a similar play started by Honey Tompkins. In the clear Kingdon race in at top speed to beat Hurst four times and on each occasion it was in a different way. He back-handed the first, slid a low shot under Hurst as he tried to flop the second time in, picked a corner for the third and on the fourth feinted Hurst out of position and pushed the rubber into the empty cage. Heal came through with one of his best games of the year. He was flying all night, scored two goals and had assists on four more. Honey Tompkins also figured prominently in the score sheet and the line earned brackets for a real exhibition of effective attacking.

The Petes second line played a lot of good hockey, too, but they had no luck around the nets, particularly Joe Blewett who broke inside four or five times on speedy rushes, only to have the play go wrong in front of the cage.

There was no easy path to the Petes' nets last night. The rearguards led by Don Crowe who was smashing into all and sundry sailed into the invaders at the blue line and some of the Whitby attackers must have been punch drunk when it was all over.

Most of the effective hockey for Whitby was played by the second line with Gamble getting in on the most scoring points and Barnes proving more successful on the attack than defensively. The first line was stopped almost completely and most of the scoring punch was supplied by Gamble, Durling and Barnes.

Petes Score First

The game opened at top speed with plenty of robust checking and the Petes went on the attack early, missing several great chances. Art Heal on a breakaway went in on top of Hurst but shot over the top and Nichols and Blewett also missed good chances. Tompkins got a penalty for slashing but Nichols and Blewett did a nice job of forechecking and Whitby could not get an attack organized. When the sides were even again the Petes again pressed and did everything but score. Finally however at the 5:30 mark Joe Blewett put Din Reilly in the clear on a breakaway play and the centre man raced in alone to pick a corner to put the Petes in front 1 to 0. W. Vipond drew a penalty for cross-checking but the Petes failed to cash in on the break. However after a little more than 13 minutes had gone Kingdon broke away on a pass from Heal and Hurst lunged in vain at Bun's accurate back-hander, near the end of the period Nichols was chased for slashing and the Whitby atackers made it hot for a while but good checking and some fine stops by Harding, held them off.

Whitby's First Goal

A penalty to Les Burton for tripping paved the way for the first Whitby goal. While he was off Joe Blewett broke inside and pulled Hurst out of the net but got too far to the side himself and his shot hit the Whitby goalie over the eye as he flopped. The game was held up until the slight cut was patched. When play was resumed Whitby ganged up and were rewarded when Gamble centred to Barnes, unchecked in front of the Peterborough net and the defence man shoved the rubber past Harding.

That made it 2 to 1 and the figures remained unchanged until the 9:27 mark when Tompkins put Kingdon into the clear with a forward pass and Bun beat the Whitby pack in a race from the blue line in and slid the rubber under Hurst as the goalie dropped in an attempt to save. A little later Kingdon took a forward pass from Art Heal and again dashed in to score at close range. Near the end of the period Whitby scored on a breakaway, Gamble doing the shooting with assists to Durling and Barnes. Heal was hurt just at th end of the period but was back in action when the third period opened.

Three Quick Goals

The razzle-dazzle line opened the final twenty minutes with a series of lightning thrusts that saw three goals scored in 65 seconds. Art Heal got the first one, stickhandling close in after taking a pass from Tompkins. It came in 30 seconds after the start and right from the face-off the Petes went in again and Tompkins scored at close range after Heal had carried it in. Twenty seconds later Don Crowe made it 7 to 2 when he barged through alone and fired a shot at Hurst. The goalie stopped the first drive but Crowe dashed in to net his own rebound. Soon after Whitby closed the gap a little when Johnny Heard slapped in a goal on a pass from the corner by Durling. Kingdon scored his fourth goal to get that one back when he took a pass from Heal, and fooled Hurst completley to slide the disc into the net.

At the 8:00 minute mark Whitby got a soft one when Brown passed across the goal mouth to Cooper near the boards on the other side. Cooper tried to pass the rubber out in front and Harding, trying to intercept the puck, knocked it into the net.

With the score 8 to 4 play grew ragged for a while and it looked as if the scoring bee was at an end. Then at the 18:00 minute mark Whitby scored again when Louis Vipond drilled home a goal on Gamble's rebound and ten seconds later Tommy Durling made it 8 to 6 when he took Gamble's pass and pulled Harding out to register a smooth goal. There was just five seconds left when Art Heal got a breakaway and sailed down all alone to rip a shot just inside the post on which Hurst had no chance.

Generals Laced By Brants In 8-5 Tangle

BRANTFORD, Feb. 24. — The Lions downed Oshawa Generals here 8-5 last night in the opening game of the O.H.A. Junior A Big Seven semi-finals. The Leos had their big period in the first when they scored four goals while the Generals were blanked. In that period, Halliday, the Lions goaler, turned in one of his finest performances of the season. The former Etobicoke player paved the way for the Lions win in that first period shut out.

The Generals held the Lions even in the middle period and outscored them 1-0 in the third frame. But their belated rally did them no good as the Lions barred the door against them.

Bob Wiest, who has blasted groups of goals home every game in the last three, got four last night. Hewson, rookie of the Lions, got two, and Simpson got two. Curry and Tilson each got a pair of the Generals' goals. Davies got the other.

Wiest's superman performance in the first period got the Lions' first three goals. He rattled them in in eihgt minutes. Schad, Oshawa goaler, couldn't fathom him on any close try. Campbell got an assist on two of Wiest's goals, and Linn picked up the assist on the other in the period. Simpson got the fourth Lions' counter as the period neared its end. The Generals were in on Halliday a dozen times with what looked like sure counters, but he held them off. Quackenbush and Simon were doing plenty of good work on the Lions' defence.

Tilson, Curry, Depew, and Davies gave the Lions the most trouble. Curry worried Halliday more than any other man on the ice. Tilson got the Generals' first goal in the first minute of the second period. It looked like Oshawa was ready for a burst at the enemy that would be sustained.

Oshawa — Goal, Schad; defence, Galbraith and Guidolin; centre, Depew; wings, McNaughton and Davies; subs., Tilson, Curry, Smith, McCoy Mortimer, Sullivan.

Brantford — Goal, Halliday; defence, Quackenbush and Simon; centre, Wiest; wings, Linn and Campbell; subs., Simpson, Fitzpatrick, Hewson Giesebrecht, Fraser, Latham; spare goaler, Hammer.

Referee—Ken Holmshaw, Toronto.

BordenHamilton In Finals Of Army Tourney

TORONTO, Feb. 24 — (CP). — Camp Borden and Hamilton's Canadian Army Trades School will clash tonight in the final of the Ontario military hockey tournament as the windup of a whirlwind two-day knockout contest between eight teams.

The Camp Borden crew, which hadn't even had time for a practice before it entered the competition, whitewashed Petawawa Grenades 16-0 in one semi-final last night, while the Hamiltonians staged a driving finish to down the favored Kingston Garrison squad 5-4.

A slugging interlude between Pte. Jack Dunn of the Hamilton team and Lieut. Don Smillie, Kingston defenceman, provided a diversion in the latter semi-final. Privates and non-commissioned officers grinned broadly at the spectacle of a private pasting an officer without running the risk of spending the next six months or so in the jug. Team-mates finally pulled the pair apart.

Hamilton trailed until halfway through the final period. The score was tied 1-1 at the end of the first period on counters by Clark and Jack Dunn. Smillie and Prentice put Kingston two up in the second, but Gordon Swelin reduced the advantage to 3-2 in the last minute of the period.

Hamilton went ahead in the last frame on goals by Larabie and Tommy Dunn. Clark tied the count but Larabie scored the winning goal in the last minute.

The Camp Borden-Petawawa encounter was just a parade. Lloyd Kinkbeiner tallied four goals, Gar Peters three, Scotty Reid, Jim Russell and Frank Riddell two apiece, and Danny Fowler, Benny Harris and Speed Fowler each scored once.

In earlier games Petawawa downed Toronto Military Hospital, 4-2; Kingston eliminated Kitchener Basic Training Centre, 7-4; Hamilton defeated Woodstock, 6-2; and Camp Borden swamped Kingston Royal Military College, 7-1.

Injured Back Forces McAvoy Out In Front

LONDON, Feb. 24.—(CP Cable)— Freddie Mills, England's boxing find of the war, scored a quick victory over Jock McAvoy Monday when an injured back forced the British middleweight champion to retire at the end of the first round of the scheduled 12-round bout.

The match was to obtain a challenger for Len Harvey's light heavyweight title. Mills, 22-year-old Bournemouth boy, is regarded as promising heavyweight material and a number of impressive victories in the ring have made him one of the best drawing cards in Britain.

The unsatisfactory ending to the most important fight of the war came just before the bell when McAvoy stopped fighting and slumped into a corner in pain. A doctor said later he had sprained a muscle behind his left kidney.

Mills, who outweighed McAvoy 174 pounds to 170½, had been expected to win but the crowd, filling every seat in massive Albert Hall, had hoped for a close fight in view of McAvoy's greater experience.

Total War Is Achieved Through Bonds

"At this moment it means that we shall carry to a swift and signal success this second Victory Loan on which we are now engaged," declared Rev. Dr. W. H. Sedgewick, pastor of Westminster Central United Church, Toronto and member of the Toronto Rotary Club in an eloquent address beore the Peterborough Rotary Club on Monday.

"We must say it with bonds and say it loud," continued Dr. Sedgewick, "so that we may say it and say it louder later on with bombs. It means that we shall give to the enemy what he has asked for—total war."

Rev. Dr. Sedgewick was guest speaker at the most successful birthday luncheon held by Peterborough Rotarians in which the 37th anniversary of the founding of Rotary and the 21st birthday of the Peterborough Club were observed. There was a 100 per cent attendance of members to make the occasion noteworthy and a birthday cake, with 21 candles, donated by Rotarian James Dutton was another feature.

Two new members, Wes Brown, formerly of St. Catharines, sponsored by Ian F. McRae, and Grant Miller, introduced by Norman Nesbitt, were welcomed.

The First President.

Rotarian Fred Roy, first president of the Peterborough Club, spoke briefly as father of the club. He called attention to the fact that many members of the old guard, men who were charter members or who had joined thet organization during its first years were still active members. In that respect, he said, Peterborough Rotary had a record that no other club in the district could equal. Congratulating the membership committee upon the type of new members they had been bringing in, Rotarian Roy said that if he were father of the Rotary Club he was certainly proud of it.

Among the guests yesterday were Rev. H. L. Roberts, George Street United Church, Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart, St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Mayor James Hamilton, John H. Sedgewick of Peterborough, brother of the guest speaker.

Rev. Dr. George S. Faston, president of the club, was in the chair, and introduced Dr. Sedgewick.

"I am doing a bold thing to-day," said the guest speaker. "No less than borrowing the title of the Pope of Rome for my subject. It is Pontifex Maximus—chief bridge builder. I do it without hesitation. I do it or I have never been able to discover any other title which so well expresses the genius of Rotary."

The speaker stressed the importance of bridge building and then declared that Rotary was a bridge builder, pontifex if not maximus. "And when I have said that," said Dr. Sedgewick, "I have said the finest thing that can be said of any institution. Herein as I see it, and we do well to remember it, this anniversary week, lies the secret of the growth and vitality of Rotary. It offers as many as are admitted to its roster an opportunity of joining the blessed company of bridge-builders."

"The world in which we are," continued the speaker, "is scarred and seamed with chasms. I want to name some of these chasms in our social structure where Rotary has been at

The first of these, he said, was the chasm that yawned between man and man. Thirty-seven years ago big-city loneliness had moved Paul Harris to bring together around a luncheon table three other young Chicago business and professional men in what was destined to be the birth of the first Rotary Club. There was something in nearly everyone, Rev. Dr. Sedgewick remarked, that cried out for fellowship of that kind. It was not good for a man to be alone or loneliness could turn a human soul into a desert.

The Most Interesting Thing.

"What is the most interesting thing in life to us, to all of us, rich or poor, scholarly or unlearned? Politics? Oh, dear, no, grave as politics is at this hour. There are lots of things more important than politics though, even in war time there are some people who do not seem to realize that fact."

The most important thing in life was not politics, or ideas or things, on the contrary, the most interesting thing in life was people. "It is the wine of our life," the speaker said, pointing out that Rotary stood for fellowship.

Then Rotary helped to bridge the chasm between "the man I am and the man I ought to be." In this connection the speaker said that moving story of service rendered by Rotary to the community was just the exterior shape of Rotary; there was in Rotary a spirit more important than all these forms. Rotary was an ideal, a mystic energy, an incalculable spirit holding before its members high ethical standards in business and professional life, the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations, and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society and the application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal, business and community life.

For Crippled Children

Rotary, too, said the speaker had been busy since the beginning in bridging the gap between crippled children and soul-saving self-support.

"On ever-increasing army of disabled youth," said Rev. Mr. Sedgewick, "is crossing over from hopeless despair to the joy of being independent by a bridge built for them by a Rotary club. For this, if for nothing else Rotary deserves the appreciation of every community in which it serves."

"There is another piece of bridge-building," said the speaker, "waiting to be done in this country in which Rotary ought to be able to play an important part. I am thinking now of the chasms which yawn between groups in this country, chasms due to competitive industrialism."

"Much of the social unrest of today is the protest of the most precious thing in the whole world, personality, against the progressive dehumanization which is the accompaniment of a machine age and the economic system under which we have been functioning. The tendency of the machine is to make a hard and inhuman world and the tendency of an economic system that sets profits above human values is in the same direction. Rotary proclaims the equal dignity of all men and all occupations and no one can be a Rotarian who does not believe that. A member of a Rotary club he may be, but he is not a Rotarian."

"So long as the relationships between groups within the nation are unbrotherly, Rotary belong to the party of protest."

Racial Disunity

"Which statement," continued Dr. Sedgewick, "brings us here in Canada face to face with another dangerous division in our national life: racial disunity, which at the very moment in all our history when political unity is most needed in threatening disaster. We do not discuss politics at Rotary meetings and certainly I am not going to adventure on that stormy sea. But, politics or no politics, the situation in our Dominion is most disturbing. It is up to us as individuals in our speech and in our silence, by what we do and what we leave undone, to see to it that no word or action of ours shall widen the chasm that gapes between two racial groups who together laid the foundation of this nation. It has been our happy lot in other days to solve here some difficult problems in government. These successful efforts have all been in the realm of conciliation. This gives us hope we should not fail in the situation where we now find ourselves."

In conclusion Rev. Dr. Sedgewick stressed the fact that there was another colossal job of bridge-building, caused by the "inescapable and justifiable war." Quoting President Roosevelt's "We are all in, we are going all the way and with all our resources," the speaker said that this time there must be no stopping before the job was finished. "Last time," he said, "we came away too soon."

"This time," he added, "we carry on to the end of the road. And all our resources, all our material resources, all our resources of man power and woman-power to be used wherever they are most needed."

Then the most colossal bit of bridge-building of all would come with the end of the war, the building of the bridge by which a battered and impoverished world would cross over into the Elysium of peace. It was a task that must be thought about and planned for now, Dr. Sedgewick declared, adding that the Atlantic Charter might be regarded as the first blue print of a better world order.

The thanks of Rotary were extended to the speaker on motion of Rotarian George A. Gillespie.

nite direction" from the people.

The debate was interrupted by Prime Minister Mackenzie King who argued that the amendment was out of order under the House rules, and that furthermore the whole debate was out of order according to standing orders.

Speaker Glen took the point under consideration during the dinner recess after which he ruled the amendment could not be moved but that debate could continue providing it was in general terms and not on details of the proposed plebiscite.

That ended the plebiscite discussion for the day. The House permitted the resolution to go to committee where it was adopted without question and the Bill introduced and given first reading.

Consideration of the Bill itself will be resumed later this week when State Secretary McLarty, its sponsor, will be under questioning as to detail, and other ministers, particularly the Prime Minister, will be asked to answer questions as to intentions after the plebiscite result is known.

Some Answers Hanson Wants

Resuming his speech in the debate on the motion to go into committee on the plebiscite resolution Mr. Hanson asked the Prime Minister the direct question:

"If and when he is released from his past commitments what action has he in view? I request an answer to that question."

Similarly he wanted to know what the government would do if the result were negative, if it resulted in a small majority either way, or if the result was affirmative in some provinces and negative in others.

"These are questions which are bothering the Canadian people, and I am sure bothering members of this House, even those who blindly follow the administration," he said, amid a chorus of "No" and "Oh."

"I say that members opposite blindly follow their Leader without a why or wherefore," Mr. Hanson persisted.

"So do the people," said a voice in the Liberal ranks.

"So much the worse for the people then," Mr. Hanson said.

He said people in Halifax were alarmed over the possibility of attacks there and had called home the two Halifax members (Gordon Isnor and W. C. Macdonald, both Liberals) for consultation on defence.

Mr. Hanson asked what the Government would do toward influencing the plebiscite vote.

"What will the Minister of Transport (Mr. Cardin) do?" he asked.

"I am a member of the Government and I stand with the Government," Mr. Cardin said. "If I was not taking that attitude I would not be entitled to the position I hold in the Government of my country."

"If I understand the Minister correctly he is going out to campaign to release the Government from its pledge," Mr. Hanson said.

"Certainly," Mr. Cardin replied.

"And what will he do if the Government is released," Mr. Hanson asked.

"As much as my honorable friend will do," Mr. Cardin replied.

Hanson Urges Yes Vote.

Mr. Hanson said he would work for an affirmative vote in the plebiscite and urged all Canadians to do the same so the Government's hands would be free.

But if the Government took no action then he warned that "we will turn on the heat—so that the country may get a total war effort."

The Conservative House Leader urged that so far as the civilian plebiscite vote was concerned it should be made a condition "that every voter present his national registration certificate and that, unless he or she does so, he or she shall not vote."

"The reason is obvious," he said. "Anyone who has not registered may probably be classed as a shirker and no shirker should be allowed to vote on this plebiscite."

Mr. Hanson feared the cost of the plebiscite would be greater than the $1,500,000 forecast by Mr. McLarty last week and said he would ask later for a breakdown of this figure.

He expressed approval of the decision to make up a new voters' list. He said he was in favor of closed voters' lists. Also some provision should be made for scrutineers at the polls.

Mr. Hanson said he could not, after "the most mature reflection," take the responsibility of advising anyone to vote "No" in the plebiscite "because that would not only tie the hands of the Government but would make it impossible for further steps to be taken with regard to extending the manpower of the country for service beyond the territorial limitations of Canada; and I think that is an impossible position for this country to occupy at this grave time.

"On the other hand, if the vote carries, we have absolutely no guarantee that anything will be done and that brings to me a feeling of frustration.

"Neither of these positions is acceptable but on the theory that if one has to make a decision and choose between the lesser of two evils, I am going to ask the people of this country to vote to release the Government, and now do so."

Equal Conscription.

Mr. Noseworthy said there was no criticism among his constituents against the plebiscite proposal but there was a distinct feeling that there should be no conscription of manpower without equal conscription of wealth and resources.

He was confident the electors of his constituency would not be satisfied with the conscription of manpower alone. He believed the great majority of Canadians were ready for a much greater and far-reaching war effort than anything the Government had undertaken or envisioned.

"The people of York South, and if they are representative as I think they are, the people of this country are not nearly as astounded at the phenomenon of a Prime Minister keeping his pledge to his people as the honorable Leader of the Opposition and the Opposition members appear to be," Mr. Noseworthy said.

In this, his maiden speech, Mr. Noseworthy said he was convinced the Prime Minister should be relieved of his election pledge in respect to conscription.

He was confident the Government would receive a plebiscite majority "if they are prepared to give the country a pledge before the referendum is taken that they propose to embark upon a genuine all-out war effort that will include a much-greater mobilization of wealth than now is in effect."

There was "seething dissatisfaction" all across the country regarding the war effort, Mr. Noseworthy said.

It rested not on any failure to enlist manpower for overseas, for much of that dissatisfaction had been superficially created by a "pro-conscriptionist press." The real dissatisfaction was that industry had not been geared for war production to anything like its maximum production capacity.

Consumer Goods For Profit

Mr. Noseworthy said hundreds of industrial plants in and around Toronto still were engaged in the manufacture of consumer goods for profit that could and should be transformed to war production.

"The people of this country are clamoring loudly for bold government leadership that will give us the only policy that is worthy of our cause, a policy that will mobilize everything fo victory," Mr. Noseworthy said.

Mr. Johnston said the plebiscite question as proposed did not directly ask release but merely if electors were "in favor of releasing the government" from any obligations arising out of any past commitments.

The vote, even if affirmative, placed no obligation upon the government to alter its attitude toward conscription and would not even mean that it was released.

"To my mind it is another political trick and it shows very poor leadership," Mr. Johnston said. "Nothing is more calcuated to disunite the country.

"I say we have no time for such fooling around as that. If the Prime Minister has not sufficient vision, foresight and leadership to conduct the country through this most critical time in its history, then I humbly say that he should resign and make way for someone who can."

Walter Tucker (Lib. Rosthern) urged the government to reconsider those provisions in the plebiscite regulations which make for racial distinctions.

Too much emphasis was always placed on racial origins in Canada, he said. It was proposed that those whose origin was in an enemy country and who are prohibited from voting in provincial elections, may not vote in the plebiscite. This prevented any Japanese voting in British Columbia. It was altogether possible some province might enact similar legislation before the plebiscite and disenfranchise large numbers of loyal Canadians, Mr. Tucker said.

Sub Shells U.S.

It required about 25 minutes to fire the approximately 15 shells."

G. O. Brown, an oil worker off duty, said the submarine was only a mile offshore and "so big I thought it might be a destroyer or cruiser.

"It was lying idly on the surface. Then it began shelling, shot after shot, with great regularity. I counted 12 shells that burst, most of them on the Staniff place (where Brown lives) and the Barnsdall Oil Co. lease. I spotted the last shell at 7:35 p.m.

"The submarine still lay on the surface. It started to get twilight. I watched it as long as I could distinguish its form and then it grew dark. It didn't submerge and there were no airplanes heard."

Traffic along the coast highway, No. 101, was halted because of the blackout and army guards kept the curious from approaching the scene of the attack.

Absorption Plant the Target

Brown said Barnsdall's main absorption plant, almost on the beach, seemed to be the submarine's objective. Bankline and Rio Grande Oil Companies also have leases in this, the Ellwood Field. Wells extend out into the Pacific to form one of the largest submarine oil fields in the western hemisphere, but the submarine made no attempt to destroy these.

One of the shells whistled three miles inland to the Tecolote Ranch, where it exploded. Another cleared the highway and burst in foothills. Others fell spent, on the beach.

At midnight, shortly before the all clear sounded, the Ventura Sheriff's office arrested four Japanese and an Italian. Sgt. Leslie Williams said the Italian and two Japanese were driving about the city, despite a ban on traffic in blackouts. He said they were armed.

The other two Japanese were questioned because they had been near Goleta about the time of the attack.

Capture of Dorogobuzh placed the Russians half-way between the German base at Vyazma, presumably by-passed, and Smolensk, and gave them possession of the terminus of a branch railway line connecting with the main Moscow-Smolensk railway 15 miles to the north.

The Russians destroyed 20 German planes aloft and eight aground while losing a dozen of their own, the Information Bureau said.

Large-scale combat is reported continuing about Leningrad, where fixed German positions have been under fire of both army and navy guns.

(A Stockholm dispatch today from Berlin said German parachutists had been used for the first time in the Leningrad sector in an effort to check the Russians.

Farm Profits Primary To Farm Produce

"In this new commercial agriculture the farmer has to adjust his affairs to farm profits rather than to farm produce, and his problem must be faced in a much different way than in his father's day. So, what we are concerned about in this course is consideration of how we can get more money out of farming."

In introducing the discussion on farm management which began this morning in the office of the Department of Agriculture, H. R. Hare, B.S.A., senior assistant agricultural economist of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, said that most farmers are too prone to be satisfied with immediate results. On the other hand if he makes $1,000 a year he should not be satisfied but should set out for $2,000, and so on upward.

"Men work very hard for their bread and for the butter to spread on it, but when it comes to the jam, they are too ready to be content with a cheap sort, instead of working on until we can get plum and peach. You don't find that tendency in business fields, and once that attitude of satisfaction sets in, then decadence is not far behind."

Mr. Hare spoke of the satisfactions which farming yield to the man who knows how to do his work well, the fields of grain sprouting in the spring from well drilled rows, land that has been cleared of stones and stumps by hard work, the whinny of horses for their oats when the farmer enters the stable in the morning.

Raising Living Standard

In another paragraph of his introduction, Mr. Hare contended that farmers must set up a desire to raise the standard of living of his family, and to a considerable extent by the family. The farmer is accepted in his overalls in the office of his banker and elsewhere in business, but his wife would not think of coming in to town in her kitchen working dress, and the eldest son with the ambition of setting up his own home ahead of him has other ideas of his town coming.

The farm home was once self-sufficient, Mr. Hare said, and he could remember as a boy taking wool to be carded, and after it was made into yarn at home it finally became blankets that were used in the home. At an earlier date, the shoemaker called at the home and made boots for the entire family from hides produced on the farm, and the shoemaker was paid with sides of bacon. All that system has changed. Roads are better, education is easier to get, farmers have automobiles and radios, and all these things are made available only on the basis of cash.

"You can't trade sides of bacon any more, except on a very limited basis. Commercial agriculture is with us, and farm profits have to be considered rather than farm produce. I have met the farmer who wonders why his son can't pay the mortgage on the farm which the father developed with its buildings and machinery. He does not realize that the son has got to dig up from $200 to $800 a year more than he did, and on about the same price basis, for prices have not changed greatly.

Manager For Every Farm

Every farm needs a manager, and in Canada we have 700,000 farms. The average manufacturing plant has 30 employees. If the foreman or manager suddenly quits there are thirty men more or less qualified to take his place but on our farms there are just the owner and the hired man. The more I meet farmers the more I am inclined to take off my hats to them, those who have succeeded so well in spite of the handicaps they have had to face."

Farm management is the subject of this two days' course ending Wednesday afternoon. R. M. Miller of Markham is assisting Mr. Hare. Farm costs will be prominent in the Wednesday discussions and talks. Among those who sat in this morning were Lionel Browne and Graham Eastwood of Canada Packers staff. The attendance was quite encouraging, with the prospect of more men coming this afternoon.

Canadian Raybestos Subscribes $100,000 Loan

The second big subscription for Peterborough's $2,275,000 objective in the Victory Loan drive was received at headquarters today from the Canadian Raybestos Company. Robert Abbott, vice-president of the company (LEFT), signs a cheque for $100,000, while Douglas Pocock, sales manager (RIGHT) looks approvingly on. This was the company's subscription to the loan. Employees and staff have gone well over their own objective and they are still pushing the total up.

Half Of Income Of Canadians Goes Into War

Sixty women and men, all employees of the Bell Telephone Company from Peterborough, Port Hope, Cobourg and Lindsay gathered at the local Bell Telephone Exchange on Monday afternoon to hear a dynamic and stirring message on the Second Victory Loan delivered by the Hon. Charles Dunning, former Minister of Finance. Mr. Dunning addressed telephone company employees in 26 cities in Quebec and Ontario in a network reaching from Quebec City to Windsor and north to Sault Ste. Marie.

Mr. Dunning was introduced by C. F. Sisex, president of the Bell Telephone Company who said the company had decided to increase its Victory Loan investment by 50 per cent over that of last year. "Although our funds for investment are strictly limited," he said, "we shall subscribe for a million and a half dollars of this loan."

Mr. Dunning said in part: "There is only one thing for each of us to do, and that is to face this situation as it affects each of us individually. Not how much can I subscribe comfortably but how much can I scrape up by saving, by planning ahead by buying on instalments, or in any one of the many ways which an enthusiastic desire to help will suggest."

"Slowly but surely the conception is growing that we are fighting this war wherever it is being fought; that to fail in fighting it effectively will ensure that in due time our own land will be ravaged, our own women and children murdered. As this grim fact comes home more and more to each of us, the extent of Canada's contribution in men, munitions, ships and planes grows space and with it an ever-increasing determination to fight through to victory with our allies and thus save our right to make our own way of life."

Avoiding Higher Taxes

"Canada's present war effort is consuming nearly half of all the income of the Canadian people put together. Since the beginning of the war, the Government has chosen to get as much as possible by taxation and a much greater proportion of this war is thus being paid for as we go along, than was the case in the first Great War. Many people think taxes are already too high. One way of showing the government that they need not be put higher still is to lend to the government as freely as one can. Some people say to me that the rich ought to be taxed more, but they are usually surprised when I tell them that the richest people are paying 85 per cent of their income tax alone, without considering other taxes.

"Then others say to me that they do not think the war is being properly run from our side, that this or that policy of the government is wrong, and that therefore they do not feel like subscribing. Well, I have nothing but pity for the man who can satisfy his conscience as to his own duty by an excuse like that."

North School Bingo Helps War Fund

The district of Norwood and its surrounding country has played a notable part in helping the distress of those suffering through enemy air raids over Britain through the local and district fund which operates for that very purpose.

Only a few days ago it was reported a contribution from the public school children of that place, and today is another donation from the same district, when Mrs. Harry Morgan sends in a money order for $11.14 which represents the proceeds from a bingo held at the North School, School Sections No. 1 Belmont and No. 12 Dummer, thus demonstrating that they, too, are interested and wish to do their part in continuing this flow of help to the people of Britain. To them is extended the thanks for his help to the fund.

The box which is placed at the Empress Hotel has always produced high amounts for this type of fund activity, and the collection made from it on Monday proved no exception, for this time, once again it has execeeded even its own previous highest record by yielding the nice sum of $13.75. This in part was due to a small pool on a hockey match from which the proceeds of a little over three dollars were given to help swell its contents, giving also suggestion whereby another means of making money for the fund has come to light.

Mystery Show and Dance

A type of entertainment very seldom seen in this city is being staged in the interests of the fund on Wednesday and Thursday, March 11 and 12 in the Collegiate Auditorium commencing at 8.15 p.m., when Joseph Dean, professional magician, at one time playing with the prominent American World Famous Shows, will entertain with startling and bewildering acts, among which is "Azra" the little lady who disappears in mid air, and Marion Perry Laird will present "Young Canadians on Parade," a series of dance acts which have proved so entertaining in the past.

The price for admission on either night is only 35c, and tickets may be procured from many interested workers in the industrial plants, and also from Dick Raine's two stores, The Capitol Grill, Grafton's clothing store, pupils of Marion Perry Laird dancing school, Loblaw's Groceterias, and at The Examiner office. All net proceeds will come to the fund, and as a further aid in this particular the tickets have been pritned complimentary by Dawes Printers.

Judge Lauds Detlor Family

Mr. Justice Chevrier stopped proceedings in the Spring Supreme Court sittings here Monday afternoon to congratulate a witness upon the fact that four of his sons had enlisted in the Canadian Active Service Force.

The witness was Jordan Detlor, 28 Lafayette avenue. He was being examined by Wilfrid F. Huycke, K.C., when it was revealed in answer to a question that four of Detlor's sons had been in the army, one of them having recently been invalided home after an accident in England.

"I congratulate you," said Mr. Justice Chevrier. "If other people had done half as much they would have done more than could be expected of any one family."

Gas Service On

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 24 (CP)—Restoration of normal gas service to Industries in Windsor was resumed by Windsor Gas Company Monday, Gordon D. Wickett, vice-president and general manager of that company, announced.

Over 8,000 Windsor workers who had to leave their jobs last Friday because of the gas shortage, were back at work yesterday.

In giving the green light to industries, Mr. Wickett explained that continuance of the supply would, of course, depend a lot on the weather. Comparatively mild weather helped relieve the gas situation over the week-end.

12-Year-Old Carrier Boy Draws From Bank $5.00 As First Payment On Victory Bond

Bernard Monaghan, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Monaghan, 235 King George Street, has his own ideas about this war, and he is doing his bit in top style.

The boy is a newspaper carrier and earns about $2.00 each week. He has been making regular deposits in the Bank of Montreal and when the Victory Loan drive started he obtained permission from his parents to draw out $5.00 and use it as the down payment on a $50.00 bond. Now he plans to bank every cent of his earnings in order that he will be able to meet the payments on the bond. In this way he is helping the financing of the war and building up security for the future, using better judgment than many people who have grown to manhood and womanhood.

The boys is a student at the Sacred Heart School, and his father is a veteran of World War I, and is employed in the Ovaltine plant.

DOCTORS ON CALL.

The Peterborough Doctors are observing Wednesday Afternoon as a Half-Holiday throughout the year. Those on call on Wednesday Afternoon and Evening of this week are: Dr. W. J. Gordon, Dr. H. V. Dobson, Dr. J. M. O'Brien.

North Townships Top Other Sections

The local Victory Loan drive was given a shot in the arm this morning with the announcement that Robert Abbott, vice-president of the Canadian Raybestos Company, reported that the company was purchasing $100,000 worth of the Second Victory Loan Bonds. Almost at the same time it was reported that the employees of the Raybestos plant had topped the objective set by the factory reaching a total amounting to 120 per cent, and the canvass was still going ahead.

The $100,000 subscription does not show in the daily report from Victory Loan headquarters as the total is taken at the end of the day, and the figures appearing today represent total sales up to Monday night. The cumulative total as released this morning from headquarters on Hunter street shows a total of $648,600 or an increase of approximately $61,000 over Monday's release. Adding the $100,000 subscription to the total brings it up to $750,000, which leaves the staggering total of $2,000,000 still to be raised in the city and county of Peterborough.

North Burleigh, Chandos and Anstruther, three thinly populated townships in the county, where the settlers dug down in the sock on earlier loans to subscribe heavily are in the lead having purchased 64 per cent of the total. The objective for these three townships was set at $10,000 and already $64,000 has been subscribed. Next in line is the village of Lakefield which has subscribed $34,550 of the $60,000 or 57 per cent of the total.

Reports from canvassers today indicate that private subscriptions are pepping up a little, but generally speaking the loan is lagging just as much in Peterborough as it is all across Ontario, and unless there is a sudden spurt of activity, Peterborough will not top the objective of $2,750,000.

Citizen With Queer Sense Of Humor

Peterborough contains an individual with a misguided sense of humor, according to Chief Constable Sam Newhall who reports that this person has thought up the brilliant idea of having goods of all kinds sent by local stores on a C.O.D. basis to a south-end resident. A number of these orders have been received by the victim of the hoax who is very much disturbed over the affair. Needless to say the merchants concerned are equally upset.

"Whoever is guilty of this offence had better look out," Chief Newhall stated this morning, "or they will find themselves charged in court. They have a queer sense of humor to cause unnecessary use of gasoline delivering fake orders at a time when Canadians are being appealed to save gas and cut down delivery costs. Certainly no decent citizen would lend himself to a silly and senseless course of action that means embarrassment to the victim, a lot of inconvenience to merchants and a waste of much-needed gasoline."

Youngest C.S.M.

Believed to be the youngest company sergeant-major in the Canadian army is the distinction awarded Sergeant - Instructor Norman Chate of Peterborough, stationed at Military District 3 in Kingston. His promotion to C.S.M. came this week at the age of nineteen. Prior to enlistment with the active service a year ago, he served with the Prince of Wales Rangers for five years and rose to be Company Sergeant-Major of "A" Company.

Fur Coat Draw On Wednesday

Peterborough Lions' Club are doing their bit in bringing aid to the homeless and injured children of bomb-torn Britain in conjunction with the other Lions' Clubs across Canada, and already close to $50,000 has been sent to Britain by the St. Catharines Lions' Club, which has assumed all administration costs.

On Wednesday evening, the Peterborough Lions' Club will conduct a draw at the Capitol Theatre between the night shows on a Hudson seal fur coat for a woman, made to measure of the winner, and valued at $350.00, and for the second prize is a silver fox neckpiece valued at $75. The person holding the winning ticket will purchase the prizes for one dollar.

Tickets are available at Cripps' Studio, Deyell's Book Store, or at the C.D.S. store, and from all members of the local Lions' Club, and it will be possible to purchase tickets on the street in front of the theatre on Wednesday evening.

The Lions' Club British Child War Victims' Fund is under Royal Patronage, having the sanction of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, and it operates in Canada under the War Charities Act, licence No. 15. The purpose of the fund is to supply direct aid to the children in Britain who are suffering as a result of the ruthless bombing of the civilian population. No deductions are made for administration.

Her Gracious Majesty Queen Elizabeth was asked to designate an organization in Britain to administer the fund most advantageously to relieve the distress of children in the areas bombed. On July 23, 1941, the Queen, through Lady Marian Hyde, Lady-in-Waiting, expressed the wish that the monies received be alloted to the Waifs' and Strays' Society of Britain who were already doing excellent work in housing child war victims. Since that time regular remittances have been going forward from the Lions' Clubs of Canada, and the proceeds from the sale of tickets of the Wednesday draw will be used for this purpose.

Canada Packers Empolyees Beat Objective

A war veteran who enlisted back in World War No. 1 at the age of 16, and is now employed in the local Canada Packers plant keyed the workers to fighting pitch on Monday afternoon with a straight from the shoulder talk that scored 100 per cent.

The worker is James Edwards, and during the last war he spent two years and three months overseas. He enlisted again in this war with the 4th anti-tank and after three months in uniform was discharged at Debert because of a hand injury suffered while working on his present job.

At the local plant the employees aside from the foreman took the job of selling the Victory Loan over, and they did a grand job. The internal canvass had been progressing nicely until Monday when permission was granted from Gordon S. Matthews, plant manager, to have an employee conference. At this get-together James Edwards was the speaker, and two hours after the speech had been delivered the 15 employee canvassers reported the factory objective had been oversubscribed 120 per cent.

"We have forty of our fellow workers on active service, almost ninety per cent. of them in Great Britain, and you can take it from me, we are not going to let them down" was the crisp explanation given by one veteran employee who is too old to don the uniform.

This factory has 207 employees, and at the start of the war, a great many enlisted and each was given a factory gift of $100 as soon as they were accepted by the armed forces. Many of these were turned back after a few months when paysical defects began to show under the strenuous training, but all in all the employees in this plant have been doing a fine job, and their latest effort in pushing the Victory Loan objective over the top is just another indication that they intend to see this fight through to a finish.

It Pays To Look After Your Health

Keeping your nervous system functioning property is a great aid to the health of all bodily tissues.

The vital organs are supplied by nerves which leave the spinal cord through openings between segments of the spinal column.

Here constriction may occur and when it does a portion of the nerve energy is shut off from the tissues supplied by those constricted nerves.

This means weakness, disordered function and disease in those tissues.

Spinal manipulative treatments pay good dividends in health, strength and productive energy.

probably be the only time."

He flushed. "Well—why, Cassie?"

"I can't see anyone. You don't have to ask questions to understand that, do you?"

"Well—my goodness, Cassie, I don't know. I guess maybe I want to ask you why, but if you don't want to tell me, or, don't want to see me any more—"

"I said I couldn't see anyone."

He faced her squarely. "Your father won't let you?"

"I told you you didn't have to ask questions."

"Oh. All right."

"Don't get your feelings hurt. Let's just talk."

"All right. What about?"

She laughed—simply and naturally. Some severe constraint disappeared with it. "Oh, anything. Tell me what you do all the time."

They talked a little feverishly, and a little jerkily. One moment she seemed to be as he always remembered her, the next she seemed strange and different. She seemed then to look at him from a distance—exactly the way older people sometimes did.

A flick of lightning threw her face into high relief and intensified the lambent green of her eyes.

"My goodness, but you are pretty, Cassandra!"

She smiled a thin little smile.

"Honest you are—you're prettier than you ever have been, and you always were the prettiest girl in this town."

She leaned forward and gave his wrist a quick squeeze, "Thank you, Mr. Mitchell." Her hand lingered for a moment on his, and he leaned over and kissed it.

"Silly!" But her voice trailed over the word ever so slightly.

Again a painful excitement clutched at his throat. Outside a few large drops of rain spattered against the porch floor.

"I—I guess I'd better go."

"Oh, I'm sorry." She stood up, so close that he felt a little wave of warmth from her. Without hesitation he put his arms around her and kissed her. He felt her lips part slowly under his own as she crushed herself against him.

There was another flash of lightning and an instant roll of heavy thunder. She twisted herself free and sat down abruptly. "I've wanted you to do that," she said huskily.

"And I've wanted to."

"It gets lonely—seeing no one—"

"Oh, Cassie!" He wanted to ask her why her father permitted her no friends, why he couldn't be with her often. She shook her head, anticipating the question.

"No, Parris. But I want to be with you whenever I may. Just to talk. Will you stay and talk now?"

Burns Is Called To Fill Colville's Spot

TORONTO, Feb. 24—(CP).—Possibly acting on the principle that one good bet deserves another, the brain trust of the National Hockey League's leading New York Rangers—have summoned fresh reinforcements for their game with Boston Bruins in Beantown tonight.

With Right-Winger Mac Colville on the shelf for a week or more with a hip injury, the Rangers called up Norm Burns, a Montrealer who has been on loan to New Haven of the American Hockey League to replace the capable Edmonton boy.

If Burns turns out to be as helpful a replacement as youthful Hubert Mace, whom the Rangers summoned from the ranks of the New York Rovers of the Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League over the week-end to replace injured Alf Pike, the brain trusters will be well rewarded. For Mace, who played Junior hockey in Winnipg last season, gratefully rewarded his sponsore by firing the winning goal for the New Yorkers in a 3-2 triumph over Chicago Black Hawks, Sunday.

The game offers Rangers a chance to lengthen their National Hockey League lead over the Toronto Maple Leafs, who are in second place with 49 points to Rangers' 51. To the third place Bruins it offers a chance to climb into a second place tie with the Leafs, whom they now trail by two points.

The other game of the night finds the Detroit Red Wings invading New York to meet up with the Brooklyn Americans. The fifth-place Detroit club has 31 points and the Amerks are two notches behind with 29. Both clubs can make good use of a victory to get a firmer toe-hold on the playoff ladder for the tail-end Montreal Canadiens are only one point behind the Brooklyn crew.

the world."

"Final Battle Ours."

"We Americans have been compelled to give ground but we'll regain it. We and the other United Nations are committed to the destruction of the militarism of Japan and Germany. We are daily increasing our strength. Soon, we and not our enemies, will have the offensive; we, not they, will win the final battles; and we, not they, will make the final peace."

As proof of increasing strength, he reported that a careful survey of war production satisfied him the United States would attain the 1942 goal he set Jan. 6 when he called for 60,000 planes, 45,000 tanks, 20,000 anti-aircraft guns, and 8,000,000 tons of shipping.

For all Americans, the President set these three high purposes in the war effort:

"1. We shall not stop work for a single day. If any dispute arises we shall keep on working while the dispute is solved by mediation, conciliation or arbitration — until the war is won.

"2. We shall not demand special gains or special privileges or advantages for any one group of occupation.

"3. We shall give up conveniences and modify the routine of our lives if our country asks us to do so. We will do it cheerfully, remembering that the common enemy seeks to destroy every home and every freedom in every part of our land."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

"The Authority on Authorities"

HE MUST HAVE PLENTY

Vulnerability may not have much influence on the bidding of most players when they consider opening the auction, but it counts with all of them when they rebid at higher levels after hearing nothing from their partners except passes. Usually then you can count the bidder as probably being able to take a number of tricks within two of the number for which he bid. Consequently, if you wind up as the declarer, it is well to figure him for practically every potential trick-taker his side holds and govern your own plan of action accordingly.

North: ♠ J 10 6 5 4 2 ♥ A Q 9 ♦ J 4 ♣ 4 2

West: ♠ K 7 ♥ K J 10 4 ♦ A K Q 10 6 ♣ J 5

East: ♠ 9 8 3 ♥ 8 5 3 2 ♦ 9 8 7 2 ♣ Q 3

South: ♠ A Q ♥ 7 6 ♦ 5 3 ♣ A K 10 9 8 7 6

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	1 ♠	Pass	3 ♣
3 ♦	3 ♠	Pass	5 ♣

Better bidding by South would have been a mere 4-Clubs on his second turn, whereupon North would have bid 4-Spades to show by his bid of the suit that he held at least a six-carder, whereupon South could have passed. That could have been made easily, with the loss of two tricks in diamonds and one in trumps. But the canny bridge artist in the South, who likes to play hands and solve problems, turned the trick in the more difficult club game.

West peeled off two diamond tricks, then tried to make the heart suit hard to read, by leading the 4. The game could have been assured right there by playing the 9, but that was too long a shot to try, so the Q was put in and won, to launch the declarer on his plan, based upon counting West for both missing kings.

Then he ran six clubs, discarding to leave in the dummy two spades and the heart A-9, and in his hand the two spades, heart 7 and his last club. West discarded right, holding his two spades and the heart K-10. But it did him no good when the last club was laid down. If he trashed a spade, the spade A and Q and the heart A would have taken the last three tricks. When he instead discarded the heart 10, the spade A, heart A and heart 9 wound up the hand with a neat backward squeeze.

Warship on Rescues Norway-Africa Saves Writer, Last Of Party From Singapore via Sumatra Jungle

(The last American correspondent to leave Singapore, C. Yates McDaniel of The Associated Press, has arrived in Batavia. This is the story of the trip which took more than a week and carried him 1,200 miles by boat and launch, on foot, in a truck, and finally aboard a British warship.)

(By C. YATES McDANIEL.)

BATAVIA, N.E.I., Feb. 20.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Seven and a half days after we left the flaming Singapore waterfront, we—fifty-five men and a plucky Chinese girl—reached safety at Batavia.

My pictures are probably spoiled, my camera is ruined and I have nothing but a filthy pair of pants, battered shoes and a borrowed shirt, but I am glad to be alive and looking forward to sleeping in a bed for the first time in eleven days.

I escaped from doomed Singapore Feb. 13 aboard the last vessel to leave the battered and burning fortress and reached Batavia during an air-raid alarm this morning.

During my journey I abandoned a bombed ship, was cast up on an uninhabited island, made my way through a storm in a small launch to Sumatra, crossed that island's mountain wilds by truck, rail, pony cart, and completed 1,200 roundabout miles safely through the Indian Ocean aboard a destroyer.

Early in the morning we were looking at the peaceful scene of the little islands of Singapore when two Japanese light bombers circled and glided toward us. The old ship shuddered when the bombs exploded just astern.

A few minutes later two more planes came over at no more than 500 feet. This time they didn't miss. The decks seemed to bounce up to meet us as we flopped on our faces. I found a gaping hole through the forward hold.

Ship Started to Settle

Ten minutes later there was another ear-splitting crash, followed by the hiss of escaping steam. The ship listed and began settling. The engineer emerged from the boiler room and assured us the boilers wouldn't explode because he'd opened the valve.

The officers gave no order to abandon ship but within ten minutes a lifeboat was lowered. Before it hit the water, fifteen sailors tumbled in an pulled off, too terrified to heed the officers' shouts to come back.

After looking over the damage the captain ordered the other two lifeboats put overside. We put Miss Lim, the only woman passenger, in one. The rest of us remained on board hoping that at least one of the leaky boats would be able to reach the nearest island five miles away and return before we had to swim for it.

Propped against a coil of rope I tried to continue my journal but was forced to drop the job twice to answer the call "all hands to fight fire."

Rafts Go to Pieces.

We got the fires under control, but Japanese planes came over again and again. I helped hoist the life rafts overboard, but the rotten bamboo lashings broke and the rusty tanks sank.

We were about ready to swim for it when one of our lifeboats returned. Thirty-six of us, including the captain and all but one officer, climbed in. Six men volunteered to remain aboard for the next trip as our boat was leaking badly and we were crammed in like sardines. After an hour we waded ashore on the little Island of Bangka.

A hundred men and a girl settled down for a miserable night on the narrow beach.

Early on February 14 we were breakfasting on a cigarette, a tin of muddy water which neither tasted nor smelled like tea and one small biscuit when the lookout reported small launches approaching our ship which was still barely afloat.

The others were sure it was a rescue party but Captain Henry Steele, formerly attached to the Public Relations Office at Singapore and I feared it was a Japanese patrol. Steele and I, in a quick huddle, decided we'd make a break for the jungle or the Centre Island in the slim hope of hailing a fishing craft. We weren't going to get caught by the Japanese after all we'd been through.

An hour later our lifeboat returned reporting the launches belonged to a rubber planter on a nearby island who would try to take us off at nightfall.

Our hopes were dimmed soon after by the drone of Japanese planes. Up and down the beach they flew. They circled off and then we heard bombs exploding. They circled over us again and we heard more bombs. This process continued for two hours, but this time we were not the victims, but two ships sheltering on the lee side of one of the islands near us. Toward noon, a formation of seven bombers circled over our stricken ship. We saw two bursts forward.

The old pride of the Yangtse reared by the stern. Our Captain turned away and took off his cap. It was the first and only sign of emotion he displayed.

Our first officer and the doctor went off in a launch to see if the other ships needed help. After sundown the first officer returned and reported he had taken off six badly wounded from the other ships in which casualties were heavy. All hands were ordered to the beach.

Reach Rescue Launch

We were finally ordered to make our way as best we could, and the next forty-five minutes were the worst I ever experienced as I clambered over coral rocks and slipped into holes. All around men were pushing ahead through the darkness, swearing each time they fell and shouting in an effort to keep together. I kept my camera and exposed films of burning Singapore and the bombing of our ship high over my head until I was within twenty yards of the nearest boat, when I plunged off a rock into a ten-foot hole.

I could have cried, but I had to carry on, swimming until I was hoisted into a lifeboat full of exhausted men. Somehow, with one oar and every one shouting different orders, we managed to push hard enough against the tide to reach the launch.

Fifty-five men and one plucky girl piled exhausted and soaked, their legs bleeding from coral cuts, into a launch licensed to carry 15. Forty men gave up the struggle and turned back to the island to wait with the small party left ashore until we could send help.

If the night on the island was miserable, the one aboard the launch was indescribable. Waves rolled over the deck where we were sprawled wet and shivering, but we were still hoping we'd make Sumatra before dawn brought Japanese bombers.

Behind us chugged a smaller launch on which our skipper and doctor were working over the wounded men. Daybreak found us approaching the mouth of the river up which we worked until late afternoon. No one was quite certain where we were except somewhere in Sumatra.

Late that afternoon we got a big thrill when, rounding a bend, we saw a white ensign over warships anchored at a wharf. Ashore we found members of the Malayan Command staff whom we'd last seen in Singapore three days before. They left ahead of us and got through unscathed.

Early the next morning, February 16, we resumed our slow journey up river. By noon we had reached the motor road head, hungry and cramped, but we were soon cheered by the warm hospitality of the Dutch military and civilians who fed us and provided us with a truck for the 400-mile drive across Sumatra.

At mid-afternoon we reached Northwest Sumatra. The hotels were full of refugees from Malaya and Southern Sumatra, but a good Netherlands lady took us in and gave us wholesome food.

Officials held little hope of our getting out, but the next morning the indefatigable public relations officer rushed in with the news that there was a slim chance of getting away by warship if we immediately pushed on.

We hired pony carts and drove to the railway station during a beating of tomtoms—which are used to sound air raid alarms.

Half an hour later we detrained at the port. The effects of an earlier bombing were visible everywhere. Twice during the day an alert was sounded, but no planes appeared. Later in the afternoon, we saw the most beautiful sight I ever expect to see—a British destroyer hull down on the horizon steaming full speed toward the harbor.

Half-an-hour later, the destroyer was alongside. Officers quickly and efficiently shepherded us aboard. There were allotted spaces for 176 men, women and children—British soldiers and sailors, Americans and the Netherlanders from Sumatran oil fields, rubber planters and six weary members of the last party from Singapore.

When I congratulated one officer on the efficiency of the embarkation he laughingly said it was an old story for them for they had been "rescuing the army from Norway to Tobruk."

As the war shifts ever nearer to Australia, naval commanders responsible for defending the waters in that area are shown in conference at Melbourne. Even as they conferred reports came in of a Japanese bombing raid on Darwin, strategic port and base in north Australia. Raided The Raiders

CANBERRA, Feb. 24 — (AP). — Dispatches to Royal Australian Air Force Headquarters disclosed to-day that Australia's one-legged pilot officer took part in the aerial attack on the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau. He is Flt.-Lt. Bruce Rose, who lost a leg in a jump from a bomber, became accustomed to an artificial leg, and re-entered the air force.

The crossing was made safely under the protection of the U.S. navy.

Uruguay 'Rebel' Goes Into Exile

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Feb. 24 (AP)—Opponents of President Alfredo Baldomir, who dissolved the Uguguayan Congress Saturday and called off a national election set for March 29, were left virtually leaderless today by Senator Lius Alberto Herrera's decision to leave the country voluntarily.

Herrera, head of the opposition party and chief critic of the President's policy of co-operation with the United States, said he would depart this week for Argentina and remain there in self-imposed exile.

With the country calm, and the army, navy and police apparently solidly behind Baldomir, the President cancelled an emergency meetgin of his ministers which he had scheduled for today. He said, however, he would consult with party leaders tomorrow on formation of a council of state to take the place of congress under a decree which he signed yesterday.

It was confirmed, meanwhile, that Gen. Pedro Sicco chief of the army general staff had submitted his resignation but whether it had been accepted was not disclosed.

Messages from pro-democratic organizations, trade unions and similar groups poured in pledging support and offering congratulations to President Baldomir.

Uruguay's largest political party, the Colorado, a Liberal organziation in which President Baldomir heads a powerful wing, endorsed his action.

Three lieutenants of Herrera, Senator Ramovia, Senator Alfredo Vigliolоa and Manuel Manchez Morales, secretary of the administrative committee of congress, arrested Saturday when they tried to organize a rump session of congress, were released yesterday.

Fifty Children To Appear In Gay Operetta

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24 (ENS)—Public School pupils of this town are setting a fine example with their continued and successful drive to raise funds for war purposes. Already this year, through various school projects under the supervision of their teachers, they have raised well over $100 and they are continuing this good work in the preparation of a school concert which will be held early in March. During the last two years similar concerts have netted a total of $300 for local war organizations and the total proceeds of this year will again be divided among various active groups of war workers in this town.

Those who enjoyed last year's appealing musical treat "Between the Book-Ends" can look forward to the operetta, "Peter Rabbit" which is a delightful children's operetta arranged by Henry P. Cross and based on the well-known nursery tale of Peter Rabbit in Mr. McGregor's Garden. Over 50 children, including only those up to Grade VI, take part in this portion of the evening's performance, and for the past two months members of the staff directed by Music Supervisor Dorothy Henson, B.A., and pupils of the school have been busy planning and preparing songs, dialogue, costumes and stage settings for the production. In fact both costumes and setting are particularly attractive this year and as an added attraction the pupils of the upper grades will repeat their very popular song parade of last year's concert. In addition to the patriotic songs which are so important now, there will also be many popular songs from old musical comedy scores as well as favorite southern tunes which promise to be a colorful and stirring climax to the program.

Last year the people of this district were most generous in their support of the concert making it a most successful event and this year's concert to be held March 5 and 6 with a children's matinee on the 7th, is to be held in the High school auditorium and it is hoped a record crowd will come and see and enjoy for themselves the undeniable talent to be found in the public school and at the same time support the children in a most worthy cause.

Tokyo Spouting

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)

THE White House said today the Japanese radio was "putting on its biggest propaganda campaign, for the purpose of tearing down" in advance the address President Roosevelt will deliver tonight at 10 p.m. EDT on the war.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, read to reporters a memorandum from a government information agency to this effect.

Four times, Early said, the Tokyo radio broadcast this morning in English. He said it had reported that the president was dodging all questions at his press conference and had sought to place responsibility for American entry in the war on Mr. Roosevelt.

Chandos Roads To Cost $4,500

An estimate of $4,500 for the maintenance of township roads this year was proposed at the meeting of Chandos council Saturday, February 14, and the clerk was directed to send a copy of the resolution to the Department of Highways.

The minutes of the last previous meeting were adopted after the recission of a motion appointing William Sanchlin auditor. Payment of $10 to Wollaston township for hospital treatment of a woman was ordered by a motion by Owen Montgomery, seconded by John Reynolds.

For road work done by them, payment of Tom Trotter, Clayton Hilkes, Cecil Trotter, Pat Mahoney, Hector Montgomery and John Garrett was authorized by resolution.

Two road vouchers for $93.70 and $140.65 were passed for payment, also a municipal voucher for $182.85.

Soldiers' Kin Keen For Victory Bonds

HASTINGS, Feb. 24—(ENS)—Although no beacon fire was lit in Hastings, this village of 750 is "setting the county on fire" with its Victory Loan contributions. Saturday morning reports show Hastings to be leading Northumberland with $9,250 or 37 per cent of its $25,000 objective obtained. Campbellford is a close second with 36.36 per cent of its $125,000 mark reached.

Both local canvassers, L. E. Kelley and J. L. Doherty, report that a characteristic feature of their rounds is the fact that in nearly all homes where boys are serving in the armed forces, the family invariably buys a bond.

During his rounds on Friday, Mr. Doherty told the Examiner that he received a 100 per cent response. "One home where the mother has two boys in the armed forces, she insisted on buying a bond and I know personally she had to make a real sacrifice to do so," said Mr. Doherty.

"People who are practically penniless have offered me as low as a dollar to be sent to the government to further the war effort," said Reeve Kelley and he added, "this is the spirit that will put the loan over."

Bad roads have hindered the collectors but they are still confident that the village will straddle its objective. Both men expressed keen regret at the sudden passing Saturday of Mr. W. Jibb, who had been canvassing in South Monaghan.

Had "Nerves!" Couldn't Sleep! Tells How Syntona Helped Her

Says She Felt Definitely Better After First Bottle. Wouldn't Be Without It Now. Condition Followed Long Period of Stomach Suffering, Constipation, Headaches and Dizzy Spells.

MRS. THOMAS McKAY

Nervousness and sleeplessness are among the most distressing symptoms of a rundown condition of the system. The causes are often so elusive that it is difficult to get any one to understand that there is any real cause for complaint. To make matters worse, the sufferer must often listen to much useless advice from others who were never really sick in their whole lives, while some will even suggest that the condition is just imagination. But those who have experienced this condition know that it is very real, indeed. Syntona has proved highly beneficial in many such cases. Here for example, is the experience of Mrs. Thomas McKay, 28 Mayflower Avenue, Hamilton, as reported recently:

"For years I suffered with stomach troubles, biliousness and constipation, and then my nerves got so bad I couldn't sleep. Gas from my stomach crowded into my chest and caused palpitation and shortness of breath. After meals, sour liquids would rise from my stomach and give me a burning feeling in my throat and chest. When walking around dizzy spells came over me, spots floated before my eyes, and I would usually end up with a splitting headache.

"But I wasn't taking Syntona long before I could tell it was helping my stomach, and soon I got so I could digest hearty meals without all that gas, acidity, and indigestion. Then my nerves became relaxed so I could get a good night's sleep. I arise mornings now feeling fully rested, whereas I used to feel fatigued and depressed right from the beginning of each day. I am free of dizzy spells and headaches, my complexion has improved and I feel more healthy and happy in every way."

Let this pure herbal compound help you as it has so many other local men and women. Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

30 Jap Fighters Bagged On Rangoon Front

RANGOON, Burma, Feb. 25— (CP)—Thirty Japanese fighter planes were destroyed today, according to an official announcement. The announcement did not say whether the planes were shot down in the air or destroyed on the ground. An army communique indicated that the British and Indian forces, pushed back to the west bank of the Sittang River some 70 miles from Rangoon, had been given a breathing spell after facing intensive Japanese pressure and were making the most of this opportunity to reorganize their defences.

In Mandalay, a new Japanese push into the Shan states of northeastern Burma was anticipated here today, as British troops to the south fought a delaying action from "good positions" along the west bank of the Sittang River, last natural barrier before the Rangoon railway which connects with the Burma Road.

Rangoon, principal seaport of Burma and the capital, was half deserted following the completion of a compulsory evacuation of all but military elements.

(A Rangoon communique broadcast by the All-India radio said a military commandant had been appointed for Rangoon and a curfew proclaimed in the capital area, effective tonight. These measures apparently tightened military control on the city.

A United States military mission supervised the hurried loading of hundreds of trucks with piled stores of lend-lease war supplies and rushed them off toward the Chinese frontier while the Burma Road remained open to traffic.

Plan To Destroy New Trucks.

It was understood that stores which could not be moved in time would be destroyed. In this category, it was believed, were many new U.S.-built trucks which had not yet been assembled.

Defending the Burma frontier in the Shan state area are thousands of seasoned Chinese troops who marched 1,000 miles over rough mountain roads and trails to the Thailand and Indo-China frontiers.

So far they have had only patrol activity and a few clashes with the Japanese and their Thailand supporters.

A Japanese push into the area has been expected ever since the start of the war, and this has had the effect of immobilizing a large fraction of Burma's defending force which might otherwise have been employed in stopping the Japanese at the Salween River, the broad stream of whirlpools and currents which was Burma's best natural defence line.

A.A.'s Fire Half Hour As Suspected Blimp Cruises Coast

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25—(AP).—Anti-aircraft guns thundered over the metropolitan area early to-day for the first time in the war but hours later what they were shooting at remained a military secret.

An unidentified object moving slowly down the coast from Santa Monica was variously reported as a balloon and an airplane.

Some observers claimed to have seen two planes over Long Beach.

Army intelligence, although uncommunicative, scoffed at reports of civilian observers that as many as 200 planes were over the area.

No bombs were dropped and no planes shot down, the defence command announced.

A garage door was ripped off by AA shells in a Los Angeles district and fragments shattered windows and tore into a bed where a few moments before Miss Blanche Sedgwick and her niece, Josie Duffy, had been sleeping.

A Santa Monica bomb squad was dispatched to remove an unexploded anti-aircraft shell in a driveway there.

Wailing air raid sirens at 2:25 a.m. (5:25 a.m. EDT) awakened most of the metropolitan area's 3,000,000 citizens. A few minutes later, they were treated to a gigantic display of huge searchlights flashed along a 10-mile front to the south converging on a single spot high in the sky.

Blimp At 8,000 Feet

Observers said the object appeared to be 8,000 feet or higher.

Firing, heard shortly after 3 a.m., ceased suddenly at 3:30 a.m. after the object disappeared south of Signal Hill, at the east edge of Long

Aussie Bombers Rake Nearby Japanese Bases

CANBERRA, Feb. 25—(CP). — Australian bombers, striking at an encroaching rim of Japanese lodgments in islands 400 to 500 miles north and northwest of Australia, attacked both Rabaul and Timor last night, a Royal Australian Air Force communique announced today.

The attack on Timor followed the observation of large Japanese naval forces in the vicinity of Dili, capital of the Northern, or Portuguese, portion of Timor, and the report that Japanese transports in Dili harbor were burning.

Today's communique said the attack was carried out under good conditions of visibility and that good results were obtained on anti-aircraft sites and searchlight positions, but did not mention any ships being bombed.

Dili, about 450 miles northwest of severely bombed Darwin, had been occupied by Allied forces until Japanese launched an invasion.

"The R.A.A.F. operations last night extended from Timor to New Britain," the communique said, and added that all bombs fell in the target area.

Port Moresby Hit Anew

While Japanese bombers struck again at vital Port Moresby, on the southern shore of New Guinea, less than 400 miles from Cape York, bombed yesterday, a large force of Australian bombers again attacked Japanese-occupied Rabaul in New Britain to the east where buildings, aircraft, searchlights and anti-aircraft guns were blasted and fires were caused. One Australian plane was reported lost.

Flee Manila Bay Area Fearing American Surprise Flank Move

(By CLARK LEE.)

WITH GEN. MACARTHUR ON THE BATAAN PENINSULA, Feb. 23—(Delayed)—(AP).— The Battle of Bataan appears to have entered a definite stalemate, with the Japanese abandoning at least temporarily their hitherto costly efforts to crack Gen. Douglas MacArthur's line across the peninsula.

There are at present no indications whether the Japanese are awaiting reinforcements, planning attacks against Bataan and the island fortress of Corregidor from new directions, or whether they are content to tighten their encirclement in an attempt to starve the American-Filipino defences forces into eventual capitulation when supplies and provisions are exhausted.

In the last week infantry activity on the Bataan front has been desultory, while artillery duels between Japanese batteries on the south shore of Manila Bay and the guns of Corregidor and other fortified islands have been intensified. The Japanese have fired hundreds of shells against Corregidor.

In the Manila Bay sector of the Bataan front, which is dominated by American-Filipino artillery, the Japanese have abandoned medical and other supplies which the defenders either captured or destroyed. Hitherto there has been no explanation of these evidences of hasty departure, but the theory has been advanced that the Japanese may have withdrawn some troops from Bataan to prepare defence positions along the Lingayen gulf and Eastern Luzon, fearing American forces will land behind them.

All fronts have been relatively quiet, with artillery action limited generally to counter-battery firing.

Japanese aerial activity also has decreased, although the Japanese still control the air and periodically receive additional planes, especially 97 dive bombers which probably were brought by ship from Formosa and landed somewhere in Northern Luzon.

Finger On UK To Tighten Belts More Ease Hard-Stretched Shipping Line

(By LOUIS V. HUNTER.)

LONDON, Feb. 25—(CP Cable).—The British press is driving home to every man and woman in these islands the stark meaning of Hitler's new submarine attack on the ocean lifelines of the nation and has bluntly warned the people of the United Kingdom they will have to tighten their belts further and accustom themselves to still harder living if this latest threat to their existence is to be overcome.

Prompted by Prime Minister Churchill's grave news that shipping losses are heavier, the nation's newspapers almost without exception laid the onus for greater effort and greater self-denial on the shoulders of "Tom, Dick and Harry, Joan, Margaret and Mary."

The outspoken Daily Mirror devoted most of its front page to gloomy war news and warned "too few people realize the desperate gravity of the situation and the danger in which we all stand." Under a big black type heading, "A Challenge To All," the tabloid said, "Real personal sacrifice is demanded now."

Lad 17 Confesses To Theatre Mystery Murder

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 (AP)—Coroner A. L. Brodie said today that Clarence McDonald, 17, of suburban Berwyn, had confessed to the killing of Dorothy Broz, 17, in the balcony of the downtown Palace Theatre, a mystery that had been more baffling than the one being shown on the screen.

McDonald was picked up after police questioned a girl friend of the victim. She told investigators she knew of a theatre date Dorothy had with McDonald.

The clue was obtained shortly after identification of the girl's body in the morgue where it had lain for almost 11 hours after the shooting. Identification was made by an uncle who said Dorothy, also of Berwyn, was the daughter of a real estate man and that she had finished high school this month.

Police had obtained only a vague description of the youth who stepped across Dorothy's bleeding body, sprinted up an aisle and escaped in the dark and confusion of the theatre.

Noisy with pistol shots and girlish screams, "Hellza-Poppin," had finished and a companion picture, "Sealed Lips," had started building its mystery plot.

In the early empty balcony, Dorothy was sitting with a youth. Suddenly she cried:—

"Help, oh help me! He's got a gun!

"Oh, get that man! I'm shot, I'm shot!" she screamed, then collapsed in an aisle, a bullet beneath her heart.

The show went on and most of the audience was unaware of the tragedy. Patrons continued to enter and leave the theatre and police believed the slayer walked out among them.

Decision Due Shortly On India; Slaps At 'Blimpery'

LONDON, Feb. 25—(CP). — Sir Stafford Cripps, Lord Privy Seal, told the House of Commons today the Government would not permit a "business as usual or pleasure as usual" attitude toward the war from now on.

He made this statement as Government leader in the House when he rose to speak toward the close of a two-day debate on the conduct of the war.

He announced that a government decision would be given shortly on the problem of India.

On the home front, Sir Stafford said, steps will be taken to halt "dog racing and boxing displays" which he called "completely out of accord" with the "solid and serious intention of this country to achieve victory."

Personal extravagance must be "eliminated altogether" with every form of wastage and unnecessary expenditure in order to "key up the tempo of our war effort." No "small or selfish" group must abuse the wishes of a majority of the people.

Elaborate California Jap Invasion Trail

(By EIGRID ARNE.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The Higashi Hotel in Monterey, Calif., is an example of the trail the Federal Bureau of Investigation is uncovering in California, the trail Japan may have intended to use for an invasion of the United States.

The Higashi is a ramshackle wooden building in the Japanese section of Monterey. But it's just a stone's throw from the famous Monterey Harbor in which hundreds of Japanese fishermen have worked. It's just a short drive from the Higashi to Fort Ord, where thousands of soldiers are learning the secrets of mechanized warfare.

The Higashi was known to be the hangout of the 1,000 or more Japanese who live in Monterey. The F.B.I. spent hours in the place combing it for contraband. Their most interesting find was a huge floodlight.

The Higashi is a rundown two-storey building. The floodlight might have been used to drive sardines into the nets in Monterey Bay. But the F.B.I. took no chances, the agents made arrests and confiscated the floodlight, as well as the charts of the bay they found in the hotel.

In Monterey a story floats around—it's now impossible to prove—concerning some Japanese divers who worked with the Abalone fleet. About six months ago they quit their jobs, and headed for Tokyo. Jittery Monterey people point out that such Abalone divers would make excellent submarine captains.

In the Monterey area is a small town named Watsonville which had a sports goods store owned by a Japanese. It lies on the way from Monterey, with its huge army training centre, to San Francisco, with its many shipyards and air fields.

The F.B.I. had to get a truck to haul away the amunition they found in that store. It included several types of guns and 60,845 rounds of rifle ammuntion and 14,835 rounds of shotgun ammunition. The shop had a short-wave radio set.

Back of the Monterey lies Salinas in a great truck-gardening valley. There the F.B.I. raided a Buddhist temple, and found some curious equipment for a religious house: guns and radio microphones. There they also found a Japanese who claimed to be a priest, but until recent years he was an officer in the Tokyo police force.

And near Salinas the F.B.I. raided a huge lettuce plantation worked by 250 Japanese field laborers, who lived in 26 shacks. In them the F.B.I. found guns, cameras and searchlights.

In the San Francisco area the trail curved on.

Take a small raid the F.B.I. made on an ordinary middle-class apartment house. They arrested three Japanese. Two of them, until recently, had been officers in the Japanese army. Here they were white-collar workers in a Japanese bank.

But they could walk a short distance from their apartment to a

P. H. Gardner of Kingston, told a meeting of reserve unit officers here.

He announced last night at Area Command Headquarters the organization of the new brigade group which has been authorized by Defence Headquarters. Some 80 per cent of the men in this group will be from Ottawa he said.

The men, all soldiers of the 11 Ottawa and district reserve units chosen to make up the new brigade group for Military District No. 3, are to be provided with the same equipment as is issued to Active units, Col. Gardner said.

RUSSIANS CRUSH GERMANY'S 16th FIELD ARMY IN STARAYA SECTOR

Kill 12,000 South Of Leningrad

Big Resort Retaken Dead Everywhere, Vast Mass Of Booty

MOSCOW, Feb. 25.—(AP).—Russian troops were declared officially to-day to have crushed Germany's 16th field army, shattering three divisions and killing 12,000 men through encirclement operations in the Staraya Russa sector 140 miles below Leningrad.

A special communique said laconically that northwestern front units commanded by Lt.-Gen. Kurochkin set the trap Feb. 15 and "a few days ago the operations were concluded."

The 290th infantry division, second army corps; the 13th infantry division, 10th army corps; and an S.S. (Elite Guard) division were smashed, it said, and the field was littered with German dead and equipment abandoned by the survivors.

(The battle, of a scope rivalling activity in the bloody Smolensk zone 200 miles fatrehr south, evizone 200 miles farther south, evidently represented a major stroke in Russian efforts to clear communication lines of the Lake Ilmen region in preparation for further thrusts at the rear of invasion units entrenched before Leningrad.)

The latest Red Army success was seen as giving the Russians a vitally important sector from which to launch new operations covering the entire northern zone.

In addition to Lake Ilmen to the north and a railway line running almost due west, the Staraya Russa area controls the junction of three highly-useable rivers—the Pola, Polista and Lovat.

The important Nazi defence position at Velikie Luki lies on the Lovat, the longest of the three, some 110 miles south and slightly west of Staraya Russa.

Staraya Russa is a German-held mineral springs resort south of Lake Ilmen on a railway that—like the crossbar of a huge "A"—links trunk lines from Leningrad to Warsaw and from Leningrad to Moscow.

The Soviet radio said Russian troops had recaptured four settle-the outset of the war, declared that inadequacy of air support for the army and navy had been a constant factor in British reverses.

Another, he asserted, was underestimating the enemy.

He told the House that Britain was presumed to have reached parity with Germany in plane production, but that "neither the army nor the navy has the types required."

"The navy," he said, "lacks land-based torpedo bombers....There is no dive bomber....There is no airplane armed with cannon sufficiently powerful to explode tanks.

"There is inadequacy of machines of the kind to carry parachute troops, and not nough transport-carrying planes....and gliders."

helping Britain lose part of her colonial empire and said this could be regained only "on condition that we hold it in the interest of the world and the people who live in those parts."

The present onslaught of the Japanese in addition to the "already enormous forces of Germany and her satellite powers" place upon Britain a "heavier burden than any we have yet borne," he continued.

"We are no less confident today of our ultimate victory," but "for weeks, and it may be for months, there will be acute anxiety and difficulty."

Sir Stafford flayed the minority of the people who place personal interests above those of the majority and declared "the Government are determined that such an attitude cannot be permitted to persist."

No Escape From Singapore

LONDON, Feb. 25 (CP)—Any attempt to withdraw British troops from Singapore would have "been sheer murder" because Japan controlled both the air and sea about the island, an informed source said today.

He disclosed there was only merchant shipping at the smoking city of Singapore at the end, that there were no warships or air protection for any ships which might have been used to take off the troops.

In the evacuation of the naval bases all oil accumulations were "denied to the enemy" through planned destruction, this source declared, and the Japanese therefore would have to rely on their own tankers to supply their invasion forces in the East Indies.

He said he believed Prime Minister Churchill's announcement in the House of Commons yesterday of a recent increase in shipping losses referred to the over-all Allied situation rather than to British losses alone.

The source said it was impossible to determine at present the extent of British shipping losses at Singapore.

"Three convoys got in with reinforcements and supplies before Singapore fell," he declared. "We don't know what ships got out or what we lost, but our shipping certainly suffered."

can-Filipino forces are carrying on guerilla warfare, raiding Japanese-held towns and picking off Japanese in small groups.

It is generally believed the Japanese high command is preparing for further assaults against Gen. MacArthur's Bataan positions, but may delay a major drive pending arrival of reinforcements released from action in areas where their main strength is at present occupied.

Heavy casualties suffered by Gen. Homma's 14th Army have undoubtedly contributed to halting of the Japanese drive. Japanese losses have not been estimated, but is certain that thousands—perhaps as high as 30,000—have been killed or wounded.

Some 2,000 Japanese have been buried by the American-Filipino defenders alone. These were wiped out in attempted landings on the west coast, and in thrusts against the west central section of the front, where Japanese were annihilated by artillery fire. An entire Japanese infantry regiment is believed to have been killed in the west coast landing attempts.

The artillery took a terrific toll of the Japanese, who in the early days of the Bataan fighting marched in close order down the roads commanded by American guns. Several times artillery fired into concentrations of between 500 and 1,000 Japanese, destroying nearly all of them. Their fanatical charges into American-Filipino machine-gun nests also cost the Japanese heavily.

In the current phase of limited patrol activities, the Japanese show little inclination to fight, usually withdrawing when they encounter American-Filipino patrols even inferior in numbers.

There are some indications that Japanese morale is not as high as formerly. This is admitted by many prisoners. Recent prisoners stripped themselves of all means of identification and attempted to deny they were soldiers, claiming they were residents of Manila pressed into service as bus drivers by the Japanese army. However, these men are unable to speak English or Filipino and their stories were quickly broken down.

On the other hand, the morale of Gen. MacArthur's men is excellent. They want to keep on fighting and are counting on the United States to give them the tools with which to do so.

The laundry workers had a complete set of United States Navy signal flags, guns, cameras (and it's easy to take pictures of the Mare Island ways from the shore) and a short-wave radio set.

strength to the Mirror's appeal.

The Star, grimly asserting the battle of the Atlantic is the ultimate key to a successful conclusion of the war, said if that was lost "the door to victory cannot be unlocked...Cut the line and the conflict collapses."

"In the shops and homes of Britain we have to attain more enonomy and an ever-present realization that we cannot eat what we like nor wear what we like," the paper said. "Every person who can honestly do without part of his permitted rations—to take that little less sugar and tea, that little less to eat—is beating Hitler's submarines."

It told the people they could not leave the struggle in the Government's hands alone and said "The national will in this matter is nothing more or less than the personal decision of Tom, Dick and Harry, and Joan, Margaret and Mary."

"We cannot say the war will be won at the nation's breakfast tables or at its shop counters, but it can be lost there," the Evening News said. "...We must face the fact that our margin of ships is desperately narrow and that if it were not to hold we must practice fortress economies."

"Not a ship must be wasted by bringing needless things to these shores," it continued. "There must be no more profligate gestures, like the gesture of last autumn, when because losses were fewer for the moment we were given extra rations.

"We must tighten our belts, remembering that rations even now are more generous than the rations of our enemies. We must cease taking men from the land to swell a bulging army—an army which not only is inadequately armed even now but cannot move overseas until more ships sail the seas."

Defeat through failure of overseas supplies is "a possibility which we must never lose sight of," the News Chronicle said in an appeal to the Government to give the nation "a more forceful lead" by implementing more drastic control of luxury goods and opportunities to spend money wastefully.

"The gravest of all our dangers has been revived with the big shipping losses in the Atlantic," the Daily Express said. "There in 1942 as in 1941 and 1917, is the shortest cut to German victory. There is an urgent summons to the shipbuilders and dock workers of Britain to give the country every effort that is in them."

The Daily Mail warned that if the Axis split the Allied supply lines "victory would be theirs," while the tabloid Daily Sketch stressed the need for faster ships and intensified shipbuilding.

"For months to come the utmost production of our (ship) yards will offer small alleviation," the Manchester Guardian said. "This must react on our conditions of life and Mr. Churchill might well have pointed the moral that our civilian standards must suffer further."

The Yorkshire Post echoed the general feeling of other papers and said: "Our duty in this country is twofold: Keep our Atlantic lifeline open at all costs, but at the same time eliminate strictly every variety of non-essential import in order to free cargo space for vital service elsewhere."

A communique claimed that the raiders also scored bomb hits on a light cruiser and two merchant ships.

Domei reported that the merchant ships, identifed as 3,000-ton class vessels, and the cruiser were attacked in port at Batavia, Netherlands East Indies capital.

Listed as the main targets of the Japanese bombers were airfields at Bandung, Buitenzorg, Tjilitan and Batavia.

"One Japanese plane was seriously damaged," the announcement said.

Cmdr. Itaru Tashiro of the naval press section acknowledged before the Central Co-operative Council that 26 Japanese transports had been sunk or damaged in the Southwest Pacific. Of 16 damaged, he said, six already have been repaired and put back in service.

Tashiro said Japan had expected even heavier losses because the allies had more than 1,000 planes in that area and had 40 to 50 submarines based on Manila and Singapore.

He claimed the Japanese navy already was using Singapore as a base for operations extending into the Indian Ocean, and that some of the damaged oil fields at Miri, in Sarawak on Northern Borneo, had been restored to production for the Tokyo war machine.

He said repair work on other oil fields in Northern Borneo also was progressing satisfactorily.

number of brush fires were observed last night, presumably started by subversive natives as beacons to enemy aviators.

British and American pilots who yesterday worked continuously up and down the highways back of the Sittang river front reported that Japanese troops were as thick as ants and could hardly be missed by the Allied bombing and machine-gun attacks.

Plenty of Boats Around.

It was said that if the Japanese were not able to bring pontoons up to cross the Sittang they could obtain small boats which abound in villages along the river.

If the invaders once crossed the Sittang, it would be almost impossible to prevent them from cutting the railway and the main road and thus obtaining a grip on Burma's chief overland communications artery. While Rangoon holds out, traffic along the Irrawaddy River to the west probably would not be disturbed.

But it is at Rangoon that the main Japanese thrust probably will be directed, leaving Upper Burma to be mopped up later.

From Pegu to Rangoon the country is flat, and at this time of year vehicles can go almost anywhere over the short stubble of the rice paddies. Once past the main road, only light scrub and jungle would present any kind of natural barrier to the Japanese.

The British and Indian forces in Burma have one advantage over the defenders of Singapore— the combined forces of the R.A.F. and the American volunteer group have inflicted heavy losses on the Japanese air force.

Rangoon however, is not well adapted to stand a siege. On the land side there is no strong natural defence line, and the Japanese would be able to spread across the country from the Pegu River, which is only 15 to 20 yards wide, west of the Hlaing, another small stream which empties into the Gulf of Martaban at Rangoon.

WILLIAM W. HENTHORNE

A polisher in the DeLaval plant for 20 years, William Wellington Henthorne, 53, died in hospital this morning following a short illness. He was born in Peterborough, a son of the late John Henthorne and Mary Jane Dawson and had been a life-long resident of the city.

The late Mr. Henthorne was a member of St. James' United church, member of Otonabee Lodge, I.O.O.F. and served three years overseas with the 116th battalion during the Great War.

Besides his sorrowing wife, Lottie Ellen Taylor, he leaves two daughters and one son, Mrs. A. Porter (Mildred) John and Eva at home; one brother, Alex of Buffalo, N.Y.; and two sisters, Mrs. McBain (Ethel) of Chicago, Ill., and Miss Beth Henthorne of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 p.m. from the family residence, 129 Maude street, with the Rev. Fred W. Craik of St. James' church officiating. Interment will be made in Little Lake cemetery.

The remains will rest at the Belleghem funeral home until Thursday afternoon at four o'clock.

DANIEL GOOLEY.

He had been a farmer all his life until his retirement three years ago, and was a member of the Church of the Immaculate Conception since coming to Peterborough.

In the passing of Mr. Gooley, Peterborough County has lost a life-long resident and one who had the faculty of making a friend of everyone he met. His wife, Ellen Twomey predeceased him about five years ago.

Five nephews and three nieces survive him. They are Daniel, Edward, Leo, William and Joseph Gooley; Mrs. Irene O'Brien, Mrs. Mary Hobbins and Matilda O'Brien.

The funeral will be held on Friday morning from 153 Maria Street to the Church of the Immaculate Conception for Requiem Mass at 9 o'clock. The cortege will then proceed to St. Mary Cemetery, Young's Point, for interment.

Buckhorn Youth Acquitted

Robert Shearer, 18, Buckhorn, was found not guilty this afternoon of reckless driving in connection with the fatal accident on Water street north in which Henry Booth was fatally injured on January 9.

Giving judgment in the case this afternoon after evidence had been heard last week, Judge S. L. Smoke acquitted the Buckhorn youth.

Declaring that where there was any conflict between the evidence given by the crown witnesses and that of the defence, he accepted the evidence of the accused and his witnesses, Judge Smoke said that there would have been no accident if Booth had not stepped out in front of the car when it was only ten or twenty feet away from him.

A motorist was not presumed to be a mind-reader, and Shearer, Judge Smoke said, had no reason to anticipate that there would be an emergency.

"After a careful consideration of all the circumstances," said Judge Smoke, "I am unable to conclude that I would be justified in holding the accused guilty. I therefore dismiss the charge and acquit the accused."

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., appear for Shearer, and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

House Resumes After First Secret Session

(By C. R. BLACKBURN.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 25 (CP)—Three separate motions for parliamentary approval of trade agreements with Chile, Brazil and the Argentine Republic will be the first business when the House of Commons resumes open proceedings this afternoon after yesterday's secret sitting, first of the war.

Of the government business on the order paper the most important is the bill to authorize a plebiscite by which the government will seek release from its pledges not to impose conscription for service overseas.

Next most controversial of the short list of government measures is a resolution preliminary to introduction of a bill to provide for land settlement of veterans of the present conflict.

Under the greatest secrecy, members of the House of Commons sat behind close-guarded doors yesterday for the secret sitting which began at 3 p.m. E.D.T. and ended at 11.20 p.m. with a two-hour dinner recess.

An official report two paragraphs long was made public when the House adjourned, over the signature

Guelph Praise For Show Here Thursday

Another boost for the big show, coming to this city on Thursday night, comes from A. H. Bazett, president of the Guelph Board of Trade, who thought so much of the show that he wrote a letter of commendation to the president of the Chamber of Commerce in this city, urging that everyone who possibly can attend the one-night performance.

The musical revue, with a cast of 40 people will stage the show "Pull Together, Canada" on Thursday at the Collegiate Auditorium starting at 8 o'clock, and tickets may be obtained at the Examiner office, at Dick Raine's stores, and at the Victory Loan office on Hunter street, phone 5774. Mr. Bazett's letter is as follows:

February 18, 1942.

The President,
The Board of Trade,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I believe you are having the production "Pull Together Canada" in Peterborough next Thursday evening. From a sense of duty I purchased tickets and saw the show here yesterday evening, expecting something more or less along the lines of the usual vaudeville. I was pleasantly disillusioned. Not only was the program an exceptionally well balanced one, but the theme behind it should appeal to any red blooded Canadian and is a tonic we sorely need at present.

I am prompted to write you primarily from this aspect which I do not think their publicity does or possibly can properly convey, and I suggest that your newspapers be urged to give the venture more than usual support. As you doubtless know, the people in this company are, with one exception, volunteers. You will meet them and will, without a doubt, receive the same impression that I did, that they are a very fine group doing something for their country that is very necessary, and, needless to add, without reward.

I am confident that their visit will help you with your Victory Loan compaign. We expect that result here and in fact have under consideration bringing them back for a return engagement.

I felt that you would like to know of the excellent impression they left here.

Yours faithfully,
A. H. Bazett,
President.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25. — (ENS).— There won't be any change in the meeting day of Christ Church Men's Club, at least for the present, according to the discussion of the question which took place on Monday evening. President Sidney Hopping explained there had been pressure from some quarters to have the night set ahead to Thursday but it was revealed that this would, in the final analysis, be no better than the regular night. It was suggested that a social evening on March 16th should be the club's next activity. Members will bring their wives and friends to the affair, arrangements of which were left with the committee, composed of the president, vice-president and Messrs. J. Poulton, W. Burgiss, A. Yearwood, F. Chapman, E. Archer and F. Bennett. The resignation of Earl Wood as secretary, who asked that he be relieved of the office for business reasons, was accepted and Joseph Poulton was named to replace him. Bill Burgiss was elected to the office of treasurer, which was formerly combined with that of secretary. President Hopping expressed his regret at Mr. Wood's resignation and added his thanks for his services to the club.

Drug Addict Is Given 5 Years In Penitentiary

COBOURG, Feb. 25 — (ENS) — R. G. Bishop, acknowledged addict, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary plus a fine of $200 by Magistrate R. B. Baxter in police court yesterday afternoon. The magistrate stipulated that upon failure to pay the fine, the accused would serve six months additional. Bishop was charged with possessing drugs illegally, having been arrested at Peterborough on February 9th and brought back here by Constable Karl Lockwood of the R.C.M.P. A long series of convictions against the accused was read, covering a considerable period of years in various parts of Canada. Most of the offenses were in connection with drugs but there were also a number of convictions on false pretences charges.

Although slight of build, Bishop looked much better after his brief stay in the Cobourg jail than on his arrest, and according to the jail physician had gained eight pounds. The arrest was the outcome of Bishop contacting Dr. W. E. Wilkins in Cobourg at which time he tried to get some heroin. Dr. Wilkins turned some morphine tablets which Bishop had, over to the Narcotic Division of the R.C.M.P., Toronto. Police were on the lookout for Bishop for some time and later he was picked up in Peterborough.

No Drugs Allowed

Dr. A. R. Richards, jail physican, upset the opinion often held by laymen that an addict will die if deprived of his drug, in his testimony in police court. He declared that when Bishop was brought to the jail he was very thin and sickly, suffering from stomach trouble and a bronchial chest infection. During his stay there he was given one shot of drugs at the suggestion of the R.C.M.P., stated Dr. Richards. Dr. Richards was a physician at Burwash for some years and he stated that even the worst addicts never got drugs at Burwash.

"I don't believe in giving an addict drugs. The addict will go through a very trying period if deprived of his drug but it will not kill him. I never saw a drug addict die yet because he was deprived of his narcotic. Some addicts put on an act because they know that if they do they will get what they are after," declared Dr. Richards.

Constable Lockwood read into the record the signed statement if the accused which the constable had said was made after Bishop was brought to Cobourg. Bishop admitted obtaining prescriptions for drugs in various towns and cities. Constable Lockwood testified that investigation into Bishop's activities had revealed that it had been his routine to visit a doctor's office on the plea that he was a tubercular case and required enough heroin to last him until he reached a sanitarium in British Columbia. He would in each case tell the doctor that he was on his way back to the sanitarium for further treatment for t.b. and usually the doctor, convinced by his emaciated appearance that he was tubercular, would give him a prescription.

Patriotic Duty To Save All Rubber Possible

Draw your own conclusions from these grimly foreboding facts.

The world production of rubber is 1,500,000 tons a year, of which 97% is grown in the Far East. The cultivated groves of Malaya, now in the hands of Japan, yielded 600,-000 tons a year, and 700,000 tons have been coming from Sumatra and the Netherlands East Indies whose fate is presently in doubt, "but probably can be considered as lost for the time being."

The rubber requiremnts of the United States for war are placed at 600,000 tons a year, and for civilian purposes between 600,000 and 700,000 tons.

Corresponding needs in Canada are: 50,000 tons of rubber for war, and between 50,000 and 55,000 tons annually for civilian uses.

Production of synthetic rubber in the United States is now around 12,000 tons a year.

A comparatively few thousand tons have been grown in Ceylon, Brazil and elsewhere, but their aggregate has been negligible.

These facts were quoted by G. E. Johnston, footwear director of wholesale and retail administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to a group of business men at dinner at the Empress Hotel last night.

Mr. Johnston is president of the J. A. Johnston Company, Brockville, footwear wholesalers with thirty-four retail stores in Canada operating under the trade name of Reward Stores. He came to Peterborough on the invitation of R. Neill and Company to discuss relations between the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and retailers, and the assembly of business men included bank managers and the heads of groceries and drygoods firms and some other branchs of retailing. Claire G. Collins, president and managing director of R. Neill & Company, was the dinner chairman.

Consumer's Duty

Mr. Johnston proposed several conclusions from Japan's seizure of the world sources of rubber supply. It was the patriotic duty, he said, of every person to begin now in the saving of every possible ounce of rubber. If you use hot water bottle, keep them partly inflated to preserve them. Make the most of your rubber footwear; save it as much as possible; and such goods should be purchased only when absolutely necessary.

His emphasis on the impending scarcity of articles made of rubber was only in parenthesis to Mr. Johnston's interesting talk on the purposes and progress of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Advancing prices have been halted, and the ultimate penalty of infractions of the Board's regulations will be "the padlocking of any offending store, the way a gasoline station was closed in Belleville several days ago for the duration." Mr. Johnston said he did not come to Peterborough to talk about penalties, although they were the ultimate sanction of the Board's operation, but to speak of the splendid co-operation of wholesale and retail business throughout Canada during the three months since trade control came into its hands. Exceptions had been chiefly involuntary and unintentional, due largely to lack of understanding.

Any person who wilfully broke these regulations, Mr. Johnston declared, was a traitor to Canada. In the Wartime Prices and Trade Board failed in its purpose, the economic structure of this country would collapse.

"It is the only means by which we can prevent the inflation of the last war being repeated. You can remember that it did not take long when it was over for 90-cent butter to drop to 20 cents; 26-cent butter to drop to six cents; and shoes to lose $4 to $6 a pair overnight. There were 21,000 commercial failures in 1921. At the peak of the last war only 10 per cent of the national income was needed for war purposes as compared with 40 per cent now. There had to be price control if only for the protection of the people as represented by the buying power of their government."

Mr. Johnston said that the government, spending to the extent of 40 per cent of its income for war needs, had become the greatest buying agency. The appeal to business in all its phases for their co-operation had resulted in the pegging of prices at the levels during the period from September 15 to October 11 of last year. "We hope the cost of living will stay pegged, but our job has only started."

Restrictions Coming

"The time is coming quickly when automobile tires will not be the only thing the consuming public cannot buy...Every business must get together and discuss standardizing and simplification of practice, the elimination of frills. Deliveries must be reduced. A lot of the wrapping we have been accustomed to must be eliminated. If you were living in Great Britain the only things you could wrap would be perishable foods. How can the public be served best with fewer inventories? That is one of the questions you must consider. This is a great opportunity for retailers to get rid of wasteful practices that have been built up during the years largely in competition one with another.

Get Ready Now

Wartime Prices and Control Board says to you "Strip for War." Businss was 25 per cent better than last February. Get ready for the time when it will be only 75% of what it was last year. Some retailers may yet have to sweep off their sidewalks and get down to business at 8 instead of 10 o'clock.

Wartime Prices and Control Board are behind you to help you save your business, but it can't help those who won't help themselves. Save materials, manpower, inventories without hurting you unduly. Don't leave it until it is too late, or you may have it forced on you in a way that may cause your more grievous hurt.

We appeal to you to study your costs, your balance sheets. What expenses can you get rid of? Get your house in order and ready for any gale that may come."

In reply to a question about values of articles and substitutions, Mr. Johnston said the intrinsic values of articles must remain as of last fall. It was the duty of any merchant as a partner in the all important scrap against inflation to provide the Board with information regarding any infractions of the regulations. Such information would be treated as confidentially as the merchant desired. Mr. Johnston also said that never in the history of Canadian merchandising had the smaller retailer received such close and vital attention from the leaders of big business as they were now receiving through the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and the merchant was assured of attention to his letters.

The Board appealed especially for the co-operation of merchants and also of the general public in the huge task of controlling prices as the only way of preventing inflation and all its confusion and grief.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Johnston for coming to Peterborough was moved by H. L. Garner.

School Boys Seeking Rifle Practice

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25 (ENS) —Even public schoo' boys here feel they may yet hav hand in winning the war, judging by their request to the Board of Education for a supervised rifle range. The b ard promised to give consideration to the matter which was brought to their attention by one of the students, Ken Burga , who said there were upwards of eight boys with their own rifles and ammunition and all they needed was some place where they could have some target practice. Replying to the obvious question of supervision if they were allowed to use a portion of the school basement, young Burgar told them the matter had already been discussed with one of th teachers, who had expressed willingness to look after this end of the question. The feeling of those at the meeting was expressed the chairman of the Internal Committee, Dr. H. O. Richardson, who was of the opinion it would be better to make some arrangements whereby the youthful nimrods could do their shooting in the range at the High School. He explained the local Veterans' Guard unit under Lieut. Alex. MacColl, had range practice there every Friday evening and it might be possible for the boys to do some shooting at that time. The matter was left with Dr. Richardson to look into.

Property Committee Chairman W. Henson told members samples of grates required for public school furnaces had been sent to a Peterborough firm for duplication but to date no word had been received as to progress made on them. Also under the heading of reports from committee came information from Dr. Richardson on the question of instituting a home economics and manual training department in the public school. He explained the matter in detail, pointing out that if the necessary equipment was installed in accordance with the Department's specifications grants amounting to $200 annually for home economics and $300 for shop work. It would be possible, he declared, for boys to have their course in the High School but in the case of home economics so much additional equipment would be necessary he doubted its feasability. Minimum equipment would include an electric stove, refrigerator, and washing machine, which would cost in the neighborhood of from $400 to $500. However, the Department's share would cut this cost in half and grants would take care of the balance in another two years, he ex-

More than half of Canada's war output comes from this Province. Given life by 'Hydro's' 2,000,000 horsepower, thousands of industrial plants work unceasingly day and night. Lack of electrical energy must never slow production. Every unit of electricity you save in your home, office or store will contribute to the all out war effort.

By far the best way to finance war production is for all of us to continue to buy Bonds issued by our Government. Remember, they are investments, not taxes! It must be one or the other. Danger Of Food Shortage

There is reason to take serious notice of a statement set forth in a letter from M. M. Robinson, of the Ontario Food Distribution Council, to Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, in which attention is drawn to the danger of a food shortage, principally in fruits and vegetables, within six months, unless competent planning is started right away.

The opinion of a man in the position of Mr. Robinson should have weight and no doubt so alert and practical an official as Mr. Gordon will give it careful study. Even to a layman, who is able to draw only on general observations and knowledge of economic conditions, can understand why a decreased production might easily be the case.

First, there is the feeling that this country has always had lots of food—at least for several decades—and that the rural communities will be pleased to keep up production from a purely money-making standpoint.

Then, few persons are in a position to know what volumes of supplies are going to foreign allied countries and how much more they may urgently need as the war goes on.

Third, there has been, and there continues to be, a trek of young men and women off the farms to highly paid jobs in cities and towns where war industries of all kinds are running at high speed. These industries and their output are so much needed that recently General MacNaughton told the public to send over more and more equipment and munitions. They are what the fighting forces require badly in the combatant zones. Nevertheless, unless some government action is taken to place the agricultural producers at a lesser disadvantage, food production is bound to drop lower than it was in 1941. The disparity between what war industries are paying all kinds of help and what fruit, vegetable and grain growers can pay is too great, as the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa must well know.

So important are the points set forth by the Council, and so directly may they affect the tables of millions of people, that they are herewith quoted. There are seven of them and, coming to attention now before the spring breaks and seeding and planting begin, steps may be taken by the authorities of the Government to prevent what otherwise might prove to be a vital misfortune.

1. No man can forecast production of any one crop, or foresee the vagaries of wind, rain, drought and frost.
2. Vegetables and some fruits are heavy labor crops—in planting, cultivating and harvesting. Other fruits are not so heavy on labor until harvest, when the manpower requirements are unusually great.
3. The farm labor situation is forcing very decided shifts in production, with curtailment of crops demanding much manpower.
4. The output of fruit will be steadier than vegetables, because nearly all the fruits are perennial crops.
5. The entire fruit and vegetable industry depends largely upon the modern canning and processing business, and to a more limited extent upon modern storage facilities. Without these, the industry would wither in one year, the tremendous expansion in fruit and vegetable production having been made possible by the development of processing and storage. It is utterly impossible for the fresh fruit and vegetable markets to absorb, during harvest time, present production, especially of those perishable products which are harvested within a period of from one to four or five weeks.
6. Canada's wartime effort demands consideration of the need for food reserves. The United States Government realizes this, but Canada, due to timidity in high places, continues to postpone important decisions.
7. In considering the question of supply, full attention must be paid to the increased buying power in the hands of the general public, and the heavy demands by the armed forces, especially for vegetables. Few people realize the army's capacity.

Another Measuring Stick

It is said that in certain quarters outside Canada, people have been led to believe that Canada's war effort is much less than it really is.

Just so long as we can carry on with a free conscience, we should be too busy to worry about what others are thinking of us. At the same time, the nation which in the last war gave the lives of 55,000 young men and received back tens of thousands more who were sick and wounded, cannot relish the thought that any outsiders should consider Canada a slacker in the new world effort to preserve freedom.

Secrecy shrouds much of our effort. Only very occasionally does a responsible minister lift the curtain for a moment and reveal to the world the gigantic proportions of the material which flows steadily from Canadian shores to the various fields of battle. Only the Navy, the Army and Air Force heads know the full story of the feverish activity among the members of Canada's armed forces. But there is one other part of this war effort which is an open book to the world—and that is the staggering totals of money being raised by the Canadian people through taxation and through loans not only to equip our own forces but those of our allies.

In this second Victory Loan period, Canadians again have an opportunity not only to do their duty for duty's sake, but to oversubscribe the loan to such an extent that outsiders say,

"What an effort by a country of only 11,000,000 people!"

An Important Pronouncement

A political development of the first magnitude is the announcement made by Lord Cranborne, Colonial Secretary in the British Government, that the Administration favors India's political freedom and that the message of the great Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, to the people of India was welcomed.

Chiang Kai-shek during his conference with leaders in India urged them to rally to the cause of liberty and to give their support to the Chinese in battling the Japanese. This addition of Lord Cranborne however, is significant:

"If the Indian leaders would get together and devise some scheme which would be satisfactory to all, the India problem would be satisfactorily solved."

In these words much history lies. Every student of India's life and history knows that in the past this getting together and devising what would meet with general approval has not been possible because of the differences that have existed, and still exist, among the Indian people themselves. Almost scores of volumes have been written about that vast, densely populated country, and, too, countless magazine and newspaper articles and innumerable talks by missionaries, travellers and others have been offered to peoples outside of India's borders. None of them, though, so far as we know, have yet shown a way by which the almost insurmountable caste, racial and religious barriers can be overcome. India would have had political freedom long ago had it been ready for the constitutional set-up which is essential to a unified nation, kingdom or empire. Never could the chasms be bridged successfully.

Now that an enemy is practically at the throat of the country—for the capture of Rangoon, should it take place, will gravely endanger the Burma Road passage into China and south into India—with this peril in sight, it may be that the dissentient groups will find a way to formulate a national federation of some kind. If that is done it is likely that the old, old contentious problem of India's independence will gradually disappear.

French Population Increases

According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the population of Quebec Province as at June 2, 1941, was 3,319,640 compared with 2,874,255 when the previous census was taken in 1931. That is an increase in the ten years of 445,385, or nearly half a million. All of the cities of importance show a marked growth in numbers — Quebec City, Sherbrooke, Three Rivers, Verdun and Montreal. The latter has jumped from 818,577 to 890,-234.

While this big increase has taken place in the Lower Province, two of the other provinces in Canada have shown a decrease. The explanation of Quebec's upward climb in numbers is largely found in the principle of parents having large families, whereas, in most of the strictly English-speaking parts of the Dominion, the number of children born to a married couple has decreased on an average as against forty or fifty years ago.

Montreal, it will be seen from these figures, remains the largest city in Canada and if the metropolitan area were considered, that is the greater Montreal which would include suburbs that appear to the eye to be an actual part of the city but are in fact separate municipalities, if these were taken in the total population is estimated to be well over a million. It is significant, though, that during the past quarter of a century the purely English-speaking population of Montreal proper has increased noticeably in comparison with the French population, whereas in early years the population was at least 75 to 80 per cent. French.

Musical Art In Canada

The retirement of Dr. H. A. Fricker from the directorship of the famous Mendelssohn Choir was fittingly marked by a special performance of music and song in Toronto. He came to this Province twenty-five years ago from England and as a successor to the late Dr. A. S. Vogt, who founded the Choir, he maintained the high standard of choral work which won for that organization liberal praise from huge audiences in many parts of North America.

It has often been said that no country ever attains to real nationhood until it develops art and culture. The musical life of Canada today is distinctly creditable and the Mendelssohn Choir has been a vital factor in stimulating a widespread interest in mass choral programs. New York, Philadelphia and other large centres in the United States have paid tribute to the superiority of the Mendelssohn vocal and musical ensemble and Dr. Fricker has been unsparing of his time and ability to make this art a spiritual and emotional enjoyment to countless thousands of people. He is succeeded by Sir Ernest MacMillan, distinguished as a director, composer, organist and as Principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music. With men of the standing of these two giving leadership to musical and choral efforts, the public has the satisfaction of knowing that the horrors and sorrows of war do not crush out all that is lovely and beautiful in life.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Peterborough—both city and county—has had a fine patriotic record in the past. This week should show a big improvement over the last week-end return in Victory Loan subscriptions if that good reputation is to be maintained.

Conservative House Leader Hanson has renewed in the House of Commons a protest at the censorship carried out on the correspondence and telegrams of members of the House. Officialdom seems to be exceeding not only good taste but sound sense. What reason is there for this excessive vigilance?

Edmonton, Alta., has set an example to all the rest of the Dominion in reaching its Victory Loan objective within a week after the campaign started. Evidently the citizens of that prairie centre are not only aroused to the necessity of the loan but they realize what a sound investment a Government interest-bearing bond is for any man or woman.

Politics is like a labyrynth, winding and twisting this way and that, often without much regard for sincerity. It now appears that one of the purposes "within" the trial of the French figures at Riom is to make it appear, if at all possible, by crafty means, that Britain was largely responsible for the downfall of France. Vichy seems to have a lively imagination, anyway.

Women in this war are giving evidence that they can hold up under the most violent disasters and dangers. They don't conveniently faint as did their mid-Victorian forebears. Out in Singapore women telephone operators remained at their posts right up to the moment when the Japanese crashed their way in and occupied the famous stronghold.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, former Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, makes the proposal that an organization of strong bands of guerilla fighters be created in British Columbia to protect forests, bridges and public utilities from possible sabotage. It is a sensible suggestion. In fact the sooner every part of Canada wakens to the gravity of the Japanese menace in the West and the German menace in the eastern provinces, the better.

CHILDREN'S WORLD

Victory Loan, 1942

Their world is on the auction block,
With history the auctioneer;
A clutching evil bidding high
For all they have and are most deaf:

Morning glory, merry riot,
Hero, fairy, gnome and elf,
Play and dream in heavens of quiet,
Treasuries sweet in every self;

Tales of wonder, starry eyes,
Faith and prayer at mother's knee,
Easter lilies, peaceful skies,
Santa Claus and Christmas tree;

All they love and live by most,
The good, the beautiful, the true.
Can you see their kingdom lost
Whose trust in God means trust in you!

Before the hammer falls, too late,
While they are happy and still free,
While you are master of their fate,
Oh, buy their happiness-to-be!

In Libya or Singapore,
At home, on sea or in the air,
This is the goal worth dying for,
The sacrifice we all must share!

Foreign Legion Is Taken Over By Nazis

Written by George Herald, a former French newspaper man now in the United States, for the Overseas News Agency.

THE Nazis have captured the French Foreign Legion and have immeasurably strengthened their hold on French North Africa in recent weeks.

How they have accomplished this was told to the writer by a French industrialist and former member of the Chamber of Deputies who has just arrived from Marseilles.

The writer has known this Frenchman for many years and has the utmost confidence in his reliability. What this man observed and heard in Marseilles is herewith related in substantially his own words:

Thousands of German soldiers in French uniforms and all kinds of modern war material have been and are being shifted from Marseilles to Oran and other North African ports on board French ships such as the "Ville d'Oran," the "Sidi Brahim," and the 'Sidi Bel Abbes."

The ships sail three-quarters of the way through Spanish territorial waters and always remain in sight of the Spanish coast. The last jump from the southeast corner of Spain to Africa is made by night in nine hours. German submarines based in the Spanish-owned Balearic islands serve as watchdogs.

Officially the Nazi soldiers aboard these transports have enlisted in the French Foreign Legion. Many of them are former legionnaires who know Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco inside out. For the moment they remain under French command, but the Germans have sent hundreds of their officers to North Africa who, at the proper time, will replace all French commanders not considered "reliable."

BEHIND this bloodless conquest of one of the world's most colorful military bodies is intense activity in the port of Marseilles.

German headquarters for French North Africa are at Marseilles. Every day, caravans of trucks filled with files, luggage and furniture now arrive from the north and are unloaded by Wehrmecht soldiers in front of Marseilles hotels.

All the better hotels in town have been forced to make room for a certain number of Nazi officers and functionaries. The luxurious Hotel de Noailles on the Canebiere, main boulevard of the port, has been requisitioned by German staff officers.

More than 2,000 Nazis have invaded the town in the last few weeks. They are all employed in the Reichsafrika-Amt (German African Bureau) as the general staff office is called. This office is inconspicuously quartered in the Hotel de Roi Rene at Aix-en-Provence, 15 minutes from the Canebiere by car. Formerly the seat of the German-Italian armistice-commission—a centre of incredible corruption. For a long time, its most profitable business consisted of selling safe-conducts of Jewish refugees at prices varying between 5,000 and 30,000 francs.

Now the hotel has been transformed into a regular war agency. In the lobby, a giant map of Africa has been placed on the wall. It shows the Continent in 1950, after the redistribution of its territories by the victorious Third Reich.

The South African Union, according to this map, will have become an ally of the Axis and all North Africa will have been divided among the Axis, France and Spain. The Belgian Congo will be German, and Egypt will be an Italian "protectorate."

Strangely enough, not a single Italian is working in the Reichsafrika-Amt. German and Italian officers in Marseilles avoid any social contact, and recently a dozen of them clashed in the Marseilles abbatoir. The object of their quarrel was a certain meat wagon; they finally had to be separated by French Gardes Mobiles!

General von Bieltiz, Chief of the Reichsafrika-Amt at the time the British Libyan offensive started, said that the German reinforcements pouring into Libya from Southern Italy would stop the British offensive. He feverishly organized the French African hinterland, however, so that aid would come from that quarter, as it did, in the event that the British forces approached too near to Tripoli.

THE Nazis, nevertheless, are prepared for the worst. They foresee that Vichy may break with the Reich one morning and invite the North Africans to defend their independence. In this event, they probably will establish a Deat-Laval-Luchaire Government at Paris, and this puppet triumvirate will implore the North Africans to maintain solidarity with Germany.

Nazi agents on the spot have no illusions about the echo such an appeal will find in Algeria and Morocco. That is why they have penetrated into all key services in these last months, especially in Morocco. They even control the Neo Destur, the anti-French movement of the Arabs, and are prepared at a moment's notice to foster a native revolt against the French administration on the grounds that it has "sold out to Anglo-Saxon-Jewish interests."

Their infiltration into the Foreign Legion has given them additional strength. If the situation becomes critical, they will occupy all vital Government posts within a few hours and proclaim a state of emergency. Any attempt at resistance will be ruthlessly suppressed. What they have accomplished in French Africa in these recent months is a masterpiece of fifth columnist activity, and it has already borne fruit in the reinforcement of Rommel's armies in Libya.

Whether or not the Germans can make the most of their infiltration and control of French North Africa depends to a large extent on how many ships of Vichy's fleet they can get hold of.

It is true that many French naval officers are Fascist-minded, but that does not mean that they are necessarily pro-German. The Nazis, who have had their experiences with the Spaniards, and the Italians are the last ones to have an illusions on this score.

They distrust the French naval staff so much that they have formed a special section in the Afrika-Amt at Marseilles which controls not only the slightest movement of every French ship but of every single naval officer. These poor fellows are at all times shadowed by spies, and a record is kept of their behavior and remarks. At the critical moment, the Nazis plan to arrest and intern all French fleet officers in North and West Africa and to seize their ships unexpectedly.

Yet they are not so sure themselves that their plot will succeed and will consider it a good result if they can prevent only 40 per cent of the Vichy fleet from passing over to the enemy!

A FINE CASE OF SUNBURN!

• Smolensk Line Totters

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Russian reports of recapture of Dorogobush on the Smolensk main front could forecast collapse of the Nazi winter line in Russia on a wide and critical central sector.

With Dorogobush, on the headwaters of the Dnieper fifty miles east of Smolensk, again in Russian hands, the westward escape route for German forces still holding both the Vyazma and Rzhev pivots is flanked from the south. The town lies about fifteen miles south of the Smolensk-Vyazma-Moscow rail and road system. It is west of the naturally strong defensive position about midway between Smolensk and Vyazma formed by the confluence of the Dnieper and Vopeth Rivers.

Those two streams and their tributaries form a wide fifty-mile-long barrier spanning the Smolensk-Vyazma Road from north to south which powerfully bolstered the defense on the east.

NAZI FLANK TURNED

Presumably the Russian attack which retook Dorogbush came up the road from Elnya, twenty-five miles to the south. At Dorogobush it has not only turned the flank of the Dnieper-Vopeth line, but is in a position to strike due west toward Smolensk itself along a direct route.

That road crosses the Smolensk-Vyazma communication system fifteen miles east of Smolensk to approach that main Nazi centre from the northeast. Red Army forces at Dorogobush therefore menace Nazi communications with Nazi advance units in Vyazma and east of that junction as well as the garrison of Russian-besieged Rzhev, is also reported from Moscow. There are Russian forces already far west of Rzhev on the Velikie Luki-Rzhev railroad, and also astride the Rzhev-Vyazma railroad south of that Upper Volga junction town. Its case seems desperate and its fall only a matter of time.

Dorogobush represents a far more important Russian success, however. Its recapture brought Russian forces within gun range of the only supply route of German troops still in the huge Vyazma bulge.

NORTHERN LINE THREATENED

They are in grave danger of complete entrapment as heavy Russian forces were entrapped in the German surge toward Moscow last fall in the same area.

Unquestionably the Smolensk bastion of Hitler's central front in Russia is in a critical position. There are Russian spearheads already west of Smolensk, both to the north at Velij on the upper Drina and to the south at Cherikov on the Soljh, by last accounts. The Smolensk-Vitebsk link with the German northern flank to the Baltic is threatened by the Velij thrust if it has not already been cut. In the Cherikov area the Russians are less than fifty miles from the Dnieper below the Osha bend, menacing also direct communications between Smolensk and the whole southern front.

Recapture of Dorogobush renders the best defensive position for German purposes east of Smolensk untenable, even before the Nazis fell back on it. It exposes Nazi defenders of the whole Vyazma bulge, which includes considerable forces deployed west and northwest of Kalugua, more than 100 miles east of Dorogobush.

Letters To The Editor

HOW TO SAVE $1,800

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—While reading of the city council's anxiety to save the taxpayers money while striking the estimates for the coming year, the thought came to me that there could be a saving of close to $1,800 by leaving the buildings on Charlotte street that they propose to wreck in order to provide parking space for automobiles that are likely to be in storage, by May 1st, due to shortage of tires and gasoline,

Yours for economy,

C. R. BANKS.

SERVICE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—We bequeath ourselves to the generations that come after us, and that is why it matters what we do. Is it better to turn from the field in the morning of our strength without a blow, without a wound, or is it better to fight a losing battle? We call them cowards that turn, but we call them brave men that stand, though it is only to face defeat.

We cannot all arise to fame
With goodly gifts endowed;
We cannot all achieve a name
Distinguished from the crowd.

We cannot all do daring deeds,
Or sit in pomp and power,
But, we can all supply the needs
Exacted by the hour.

Each one, whatever be his sphere,
I leave with you this thought,
We all can help "The Victory Loan"
Go flying over the top.

A Bible Message For Today . . .

And Jesus returned in the power of the Spirit into Galilee: and there went out a fame of him through all the region round about. And he taught in their synagogues, being glorified of all....

And he arose out of the synagogue, and entered into Simon's house. And Simon's wife's mother was taken with a great fever; and they besought him for her. And he stood over her, and rebuked the fever; and it left her: and immediately she arose and ministered unto them.

Now when the sun was setting, all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them unto him; and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them.—Luke iv, 14, 15, 38-40.

And such trust have we through Christ to God-ward: not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God; who also hath made us able ministers of the new testament; not of the letter, but of the spirit: for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life....

Now the Lord is that Spirit: and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty. But we all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord.—II Cor. iii, 4-6, 17, 18.

ST. JOHN'S

The St. John's cubs and scouts held their annual banquet Friday in the parish hall of the church.

Many parents were present, about 120 boys and parents filling up the tables, decorated with the group colors.

Mr. Fred Hooper, chairman of the group committee, acted as chairman for the evening. Following The King, the chairman voiced the appreciation of his colleagues for the splendid turnout. Canon Robertson welcomed everyone, and spoke briefly on scouting and its results.

Patrol Leader George Green gave a toast to the memory of our late leader, asking all to stand in silence of his passing to higher service.

Skipper Groombridge introduced Dr. Avison, Medical Officer of Health, who gave an inspiring and interesting talk on the boy life in Korea. He pointed out the difference in Korea of 30 years ago and Korea under the present Japanese rule. Mr. W. A. Brown passed a vote of thanks to Dr. Avison for his splendid address.

Rover Mate Bob Crocker proposed the toast to "Our Parents"; G. Wilson Craw, managing editor of The Examiner, replying.

Scouter Peter Dominik of the Sacred Heart group moved a hearty vote of thanks of Mrs. Kelsey and her committee for the great feed that had been thoroughly enjoyed by all, and to the young ladies who had waited on table.

The meeting then carried on up in the main hall, where both the scouts and cubs put on stunts and fun to entertain the parents for the balance of the evening.

One cub with an accordian filled up the vacant spaces with musical numbers after putting on his own act on the stage.

Scouter Fred Ford spoke to the parents briefly regarding activities.

On Sunday evening a small number of cubs and scouts attended divine service, where Rev. Mr. Bracken spoke on the life of Lord Baden Powell and the scout motto, "Be Prepared."

2ND ARMOUR

Alistair Fettes led the grand howl that started off a Valentine program of games and fun. The pack was disappointed in the fact that their invited guests, the All Saints' pack, was unable to be present. Games of Flying Hearts, Run For Your Supper, Pick Up Hearts (obstacle race), Whistle Race, Shooting Darts, and Spin The Arrow, with True or False, were enjoyed. This was followed by refreshments of sandwiches, cake, cookies and chocolate milk provided by the cubs' parents.

All cubs are requested to be on hand tonight (Tuesday) as special work will be started.

BOY SCOUT WEEK AT SACRED HEART

Tuesday, some 60 people enjoyed a social evening, with Jack Marshall and his string orchestra playing music for dancing. The hall was artistically decorated in the scout colors for the occasion by the boys. Ladies served refreshments in the basement, also decorated for the occasion.

Wednesday evening, the scouts together with those of the Knights of Columbus troop, played hosts to a large number of interested visitors at their open meeting. Flag break prayers and roll call followed by signalling and sense training games together with other competitive games, instruction in first aid, held the interest of those present. Campfire included scout songs, a stunt by the Knights of Columbus troop, and an interesting and inspiring talk on the scout promise and laws, by A.D.C. E. Wolfe brought the night into a successful conclusion.

Thursday, the Wolf Cubs played hosts to a large audience of small people, with a few grown ups in attendance, with an interesting and lively program. We had with us for the evening, to help out, our former Akela, Miss D. Grady. The evening included demonstrations and games such as Book Balancing, Hopping, Compass Game, Skipping, Leaf-frog and a cub Redflower (Camp-fire), with songs and a story of our late Chief Scout, and how wolf cubs were started by him, told by our acting akela.

The annual group craft show was rather discouraging, as a very few boys responded to the appeal of the scouter to have a larger number of exhibits. Only five scouts: M. Crowley, D. Jones, R. Peters, and H. Legrow and G. O'Dette with 9, 6, 1, 3, and 2 entries in order named. M. Crowley carried the honors with 3 firsts and 3 seconds, a total of 15 points; D. Jones with 2 seconds and 1 third, 5 points; G. O'Dette - first, won a cake, baked by himself, 3 points; R. Peters 1 second, 2 points; H. Legrow 1 third, 1 point.

In the cub section, 38 articles were entered, and the winners were as follows: L. Johnson, 2 firsts, 1 second, 8 points; H. O'Rourke, 1 first, 1 second, 1 third, 6 points; G. O'Neill, 2 firsts, 6 points; G. O'Rourke, 1 first, 1 second; 5 points; J. Kenneley, 1 first, 1 third, 4 points; D. Moher, 2 seconds; 4 points; N. Gilmour, 1 second; 2 points. Other boys entering were: Bernard and Philip Monaghan and Gerry Gosselin.

Sunday morning scouts of the Secred Heart and K. of C. Troops went to the 10.30 mass at the Sacred Heart Church. Rev. E. Grant made an earnest appeal to the parishioners for men to assist the work that the leaders are doing in this group. Unless this help comes forward almost at once, he said, the activities of the scouts would have to be curtailed and the cub pack suspended.

After mass, the boys adjourned to the basement of the church where three cubs: V. Grady, K. Coss, and G. Lucano, bid farewell to the cub pack and became members of the troop. Baloo, Miss Lucano, acted the part of Akela.

A.D.C. E. Wolfe was present and led the scouts in repeating their scout promise, while Scouter Dominik, led the cubs in repeating their promise. The ceremonies closed with the scout silence. Several of the parents and members of the group committee were present.

During the week the scouter, with arrangements with the Sisters of the Sacred Heart School, gave a talk on scouting to the older boys of that school, and as a result of that, it is expected that membership in the troop will be increased considerably during the coming weeks.

It is estimated that during the week of activities the scouters of this group gave some fifty hours of service to their group.

That when the O.H.A. sub-committee decided on Monday to allow Whitby to postpone the senior B group playoff game that had been scheduled for tonight, the Whitby officials were told not to say anything about the change when they were in Peterborough that night was the information brought back from Toronto by Manager Jim Ellis, who with Lieut. Bowerman attended a sub-committee meeting last night to protest against the change. Officers of the local club are so hot under the collar over the whole affair that they are tempted to drop out of the race altogether but a final decision in that regard will be made at a meeting of the club tonight. In the meanwhile the arrangement to play the fourth game of the series in Oshawa on Friday night still stands, although the Petes guaranteed Whitby a good gate to transfer the game here and play it tonight.

* * * * * *

The worst feature about the whole affair is that the playoff setup was decided upon at the schedule meeting with the dates for the various games arranged and that the O.H.A. sub-committee or its secretary went ahead and postponed a game without consulting one of the teams concerned. And if, as the local officers declare, Whitby's request for a postponement was not only granted but the matter was to be kept a secret from Peterborough until it was too late to do anything about it so far as a game tonight was concerned, the deal looks all the worse. It is of course true that the opposition of the Oshawa Generals in their junior game with Brantford tonight would have cut down Whitby's gate but the real reason for the postponement was to allow Whitby players to fulfill their Toronto dates tonight and be available to play with Palm Billiards Friday night. The O.H.A. surely must have known that fact too, but Whitby's request was granted.

Can't Get Opposition

Outboard Marines have been scouring this end of Ontario trying to book a basketball squad for a game here Saturday night but so far have had little success. At the beginning of the week it looked as if the No. 6 Initial Training School of the R.C.A.F. in Toronto would be here tonight for an exhibition game in aid of the Kinsmen's Milk for Britain Fund but the Flyers could not make the trip tonight and the game had to be called off. It may be arranged later. Efforts to secure opposition for the Marines for Saturday night have been unsuccessful but there will be a good basketball attraction nevertheless as the Quakers and C.G.E. teams will meet that night in a City League fixture that should prove a decidedly lively affair. Quakers need the win in that game to stay in front and C.G.E. want a victory just as badly to help them in their battle for a playoff berth. It had been planned to have Dominions and the Military Training Centre play a City League game tonight but the Soldiers could not field a team.

* * * * * *

If the local Military Training Centre are planning to get back into softball during the coming summer they already have the nucleus for a City League squad in camp at the present time. Two of the best known performers in the loop last season are now in training at the Military Training Centre in Ken Fleming, the reliable left-handed pitcher of the Orfuns last summer and Ossie Anderson, the fast-fielding shortstop of Dit Clapper's Hastings team. Both these lads are experienced softballers and if they are around the camp when the season opens the Soldiers will have a nice start for a strong softball entry. Some of the players of last year's Military team who are in staff posts are still in camp here but the majority of the players have taken their departure.

Ken Colling discusses the work of Referee Bert McCaffery thusly: "Out in Peterborough Jim Ellis' "Soldiers" are pretty much of the same opinion of the work of Referee Bert McCaffery, of the Toronto Maple Leaf Garden as are Mike Rodden's local charges. When Belleville lost to Whitby in Oshawa the other week, the locals were anything but satisfied with the work of Referee McCaffery and almost to a man intimated that McCaffery had given our boys what's generally termed as "the business." There was little sympathy all along the line, but of course it always depends just what dog is bitten, or is it "whose bull is bored?" However, a few nights later the Peterborough seniors played Whitby at home with the same Mister McCaffery as referee and so badly did the official lean towards the "homer" angle that in verbal protest Art Heal and Johnny Godfrey received misconduct penalties for protesting McCaffery's last period fiasco. During Friday night's game Whitby drove through to a 4 to 0 lead before the Petes scored. Then Jim Ellis' crowd swung into action and made it 4 to 3 before Referee McCaffery donned a Whitby uniform and despite his biased efforts the Petes only lost 5 to 4."

Rangers Increase Lead

New York Rangers took a step nearer the N.H.L. championship last night when they invaded Boston and defeated the shattered Bruins 4 to 3 in a game in which they had much more of the play than the score indicates but were held off by the great work of Frankie Brimsek who turned back attack after attack. The high-powered line of Hextall, Watson and Patrick supplied most of the scoring punch, Hextall and Patrick each scoring while the right-winger grabbed off an assist as well to strengthen his hold on the top shelf in the National League scoring race. The victory put the Rangers four points ahead of the Toronto Maple Leafs. The latter have two games in hand but winning both of them would merely tie the Toronto gang and the Rangers in the matter of points and Rangers by reason of their much higher goal average would take top berth in the event of a tie so that the task of the Leafs is to finish ahead of Rangers on a point basis. They have nine games to play, four of them at home, while the New Yorkers play only seven games to finish their schedule.

Meanwhile at New York Jack Adams' Detroit Red Wings were doing all right by themselves in the battle for fifth place by knocking down the Brooklyn Amerks 3 to 2. The win helps appreciably to ensure Detroit of a playoff spot. Detroit who pinned Toronto's ears back the other night have now won four games in a row and apparently Adams has his machine in high gear at the right time to ensure the Red Wings' appearance in the playoffs and also to guarantee that the Detroiters may make lots of trouble for everybody when they land in there. The Wings took a one-goal lead in the first period last night with Rookie Bush shooting the marker and Carveth adding another in the second period. Brooklyn outscored the invaders 2 to 1 in the final period but the rally was too late to pull the game out of the fire.

Maroon Oldsters Renew Rivalry

MONTREAL, Feb. 25 — (CP). — Hockey followers of a bygone era who have argued on the relative merits of their favorite players, had a chance to get one last glimpse of some of their heroes as Oldtimers of Les Canadiens and Maroons donned uniforms again last night to renew a rivalry which highlighted professional hockey here more than a decade ago.

It was Maroons' night, as they pulled out a 5-3 victory, but the outcome was only a small issue as far as the crowd of more than 13,000 was concerned, for this chance allowed them to relive memories and cheer "The Old Boys" along just once more.

The game featured a Victory Loan sport parade which included a game between the present National Hockey League Canadiens and an All-Star team from the Quebec Senior League, which the former won 2-1; figure skating by several leading Canadian stars; speed skating by amateurs and pros, and a march past of Montreal Cadet units.

While the mood of the crowd was strictly sentimental in the Oldtimers game, the performance given by Goaler Alec Connell with Maroons, eclipsed all other individual displays of the show, and the crowd cheered him to the echo for his outstanding game.

RED WINGS SIGHT PLAYOFF SPOT BY TROUNCING AMERICANS 3-2

Rangers Tighten Lead, Shade Bruins By 4 to 3

TORONTS, Feb. 25.—(CP).— It wasn't so long ago that Jack Adams, refusing to lose any weight over the sad plight of his Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League chase, delivered himself of a trite remark to the effect that there was nothing wrong with his Wings that a few wins would not cure.

Well, the Wings have now taken the remedy, and it seems to be taking effect without unnecessary delay. So much so, in fact, that the Wings now can be assured with at least a fair degree of safety that they are going to take part in the N.H.L. playoffs.

Jolly Jawn's boys made .. four in a row at New York last night when they trimmed the luckless Brooklyn Americans, 3-2, and that gave them a four-point margin over the sixth place Amerks and just about assured them of fifth place.

4 Edge On Leafs

New York Rangers also helped themselves to a tighter grip on first place in the league standings last night with a 4-3 victory over the sliding Boston Bruins at Boston. And that gave the Patrickmen a four-point edge over the idle Toronto Maple Leafs, who hold second place by two points over the Bruins.

In winning their last four games, the Wings have scored 17 goals and have allowed but three.

The Amerks didn't go down without a struggle, because every loss increases the threat that Montreal Canadiens will pass them and take over the last playoff spot. Canadiens were idle last night but sixth place probably will be settled on the coming week-end when the Amerks and Habitants clash in a home-and-home series.

Eddie Bush put the wings ahead in the first and Joe Carveth made it 2-0 in the second. Then Sid Abel's third-period counter, sandwiched between a pair of Amerk tallies by Kenny Mosdell and Pat Eagon, proved to be the clincher.

At Boston the Rangers went wild against the Bruins and would have won by a much more definite score had it not been for a great display by Frankie Brimsek in the Bruin nets. As it was, they held only a 1-0 lead going into the third, after a goal by Lynn Patrick.

Rookie Jack McGill tied it up in the first minute of the final session, but Bryan Hextall and Bill Juzda banged in a pair of quick goals to make it 3-1 and the Patrickmen stayed ahead from there in.

Babe Pratt added another for the Rangers after Des Smith reduced the margin to a goal again, and Eddie Wiseman finished it off with the last Bruin counter in the final minute of play.

Sydney Defeats Miners By 4-2

GLACE BAY, N.S., Feb. 25.—(CP). — Reinforced by a pair of last-minute replacements, North Sydney Victorias sprang a surprise last night by defeating the favored Glace Bay Miners, 4-2, in the opening game of the best-in-seven Cape Breton Hockey League championship series.

Last period goals by Steve Hamulka and Lude Check—one of the new additions—gave Vics their margin over the Coaltown team, which finished up at the head of the schedule by a wide margin. The series will be resumed Thursday night at Sydney. The winners go into the Maritime final.

Check, a left-winger, and George Boothman, defenseman, had been obtained by the Vics after Sydney Millionaires, league cellarites, broke up. Officials of Miners announced they would play the game under protest unless President George Dudley of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association sanctioned their playing. Dudley said to-day he had received no application on their behalf.

LONDON, Feb. 25—(CP).—Bookmakers don't agree on the Winter favorite for the Derby, but they all seem convinced the winner will be a horse owned by the King. One bookmaker is offering 4 to 1 odds against His Majesty's colt Big Game, and 7 to 1 against the King's filly Sun Chariot. Another is making Sun Chariot favorite at 4 to 1 and quotes Big Game at 6 to 1. Both horses were unbeaten as two-year-olds.

Sgt. C. P. (Bunny) Goulding, prominent New Zealand athlete, is listed as missing. An air gunner in the Royal New Zealand Air Force, Goulding was an amateur steeplechase rider and a member of the R.N.Z.A.F. rugby team.

For the last two seasons, L. N. Constantine, noted West Indian cricket player, has received about $115 a game from Windhill, Bradford League champions, it was disclosed at a league meeting.

Lt. Bruce M. T. Wallace, prominent London rugby player, died on active service while serving on a trawler. Wallace played fullback for Rosslyn Park for 12 years.

Latest report on Leonard Hutton, Yorkshire and England cricket star, who underwent a bone-grafting operation on his arm last November, is that he will be in hospital until May. Complete recovery is expected and Hutton hopes to play cricket next summer.

Sgt. Eric Boon, British lightweight boxing champion, knocked out Norman Snow of Northampton in the fourth round of a non-title bout. Snow fought back strongly after being floored in the third round, but a body punch in the four sent him down for the count.

In a preliminary bout, Sgt. Al Robinson of Leeds stamped himself as a coming heavyweight by knocking out Cpl. Tommy Martin, who fought with considerable success in the United States, in the first round. Robinson, 22, is more than six feet tall and weighs 210 pounds.

The British army football team trounced the Belgian army 4-0 in a game at Aldershot. Brilliant work of M. Huwaert, Belgian goaler, kept the British score as low as it was.

UTS Squad Nabs Prep Honors

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—Coach Bill Stewart's U.T.S. pucksters captured the O.H.A. Junior "B" Prep School championship at Maple Leaf Gardens yesterday as they scored a 4-1 victory over De La Salle in the third and deciding game of their play-off series.

Paced by their ace wingman, Don Bark, who ripped home two of the Blue and White goals, U.T.S. was in the driver's seat for the greater part of the distance after building up a 2-0 lead in the first period of the wide-open contest.

Much of the sustained action was crammed into the final period as the De La Salle gamesters fought to get back into the hunt. The hard-working U.T.S. defense came up with some standout work to turn back the thrusts, and Goalie Bail handled the shots that filtered through in masterful fashion.

Oakland's first-string line was given expert coverage by the opposing wings, with Jack Ingoldsby getting special attention. Although he was never given a chance to really break loose, Ingoldsby played a fine two-way game and was always a threat.

De La Salle—Goal, Wice; defense, Stacey and Fitzgerald; centre, Noble; wings, Whitworth and Johnston; alternates, A. Gordon, Ingoldsby, G. Hayden, Regan, S. Hayden, DeLory, P. Heydon.

U.T.S. — Goal, Ball; defense, Brown and C. Bark; centre, Gordon; wings, Lawler and D. Bark; alternates, Houston, Fox, Firstbrook, Pugh, Ratcliffe, Huycke, Robson.

Pastor Flattens Franklin; Earns 3rd Shot At Louis

CLEVELAND, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Bob Pastor, who twice sampled Joe Louis' dynamite and lived, is itching for a third try at the heavyweight champion after proving that he, too, can knock them flat.

Tricky Robert surprised even himself by sending heavily-favored Lem Franklin flat on his face, for keeps last night in the eighth stanza of a scrap booked for 10. Many observers had reckoned Pastor might win by outboxing the Chicago slugger, but the manner of the triumph surprised all of the 13,278 customers who laid down $52,457 to give Promoter Bob Brickman a record Cleveland indoor gate.

As a result, there was little doubt today that the New Yorker would catch himself a third chance against the man he respectfully calls "Mr. Joe." Nobody gives Pastor much chance against Uncle Sam's No. 1 fighting private, but the guessers already reckoned Mike Jacobs would line things up for this summer.

Pastor entered the ring a 5-2 underdog and spotted 16¼ pounds to Lem, who scaled 179½. He took the Negro's heaviest artillery in the first three rounds, including a right that opened a cut over his left eye in the second. But he stayed right there, confusing his foe with fancy footwork and quick jabs, noting his faults and waiting his chance.

It came in the eighth. After Pastor saw Franklin had lost his zip and was defending poorly, he unloosed a flurry of rights and lefts that even a lightning calculator couldn't count. Franklin retreated to the ropes. Bob followed, firing like a machine gun. He must have thrown 30 punches before the helpless Chicagoan flopped, full length, flat on his face. Lem got up at the count of ten and staggered to the ropes, his nose bleeding, as Referee Joe Sedley raised the New Yorker's hand denoting a kayo at two minutes, eight seconds.

"I didn't have a knockout in mind—I never think of one," said happy Bob. "I noticed Franklin was standing up and getting careless. I thought 'this can't go on' and then—boom, boom, boom, and he was gone."

Glum Lem remarked "I didn't have any pep, I couldn't handle myself right—I was drawn too fine. That's the worst I have ever boxed. But I'd like another fight with him."

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Rangers' Bryan Hextall increased his lead at the top of the National Hockey League individual scoring list to four points over his linemates, Phil Watson and Lynn Patrick, when he scored a goal and assist last night to give him 48 points on 22 goals and 26 assists. Patrick also gathered up two points to pull on even terms with Watson, each with 44 points.

Don Grosso, Detroit, remained in fourth position by scoring an assist last night, while his teammate, Sid Abel, is in fifth place one point behind. Bill Thoms, Chicago, and Toronto's Gordie Drillon, hold down the sixth and seventh spots with totals of 38 and 36 respectively.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP).—Art Ross, possibly a bit annoyed because the loss of the Kraut line has made ruins of his Boston Bruins, now says he'll sign only players who aren't subject to army call for the next hockey season....Recommended reading for sport fans: "Lou Gehrig, a Quiet Hero," by Frank Graham, a quiet and capable sports writer.

Headline Headliner

When the Chicago Daily news received a story about the gal sports writer who is going to report the Phils' training camp doings this Spring, the guy on the desk scribbled this headline: "'Filly' sports scribe to cover Phillies in camp."

One Minute Sports Page

Bob Pastor claims the greatest fight he ever saw wasn't in the ring but on the football field when Fordham played N.Y.U. in 1935. There were 11 guys on each side swinging from the grass, he says. ....Mike Jacobs has ordered 150 sets of boxing gloves, just in case there might be a shortage....Hard luck tales—When Rita Hume, Seattle Times ski writer, went out to cover the snow and ice doings recently, she tumbled and suffered a triple fracture of her leg. In the hospital she propped a typewriter against the cast and pounded out a piece on the nice treatment she got from the ski troops. And just after Sports Writer Jay Simon of Coffeyville, Kans., told everybody good-bye for the duration, he had to undergo an appendectomy and the army sent him back to his desk for at least six months.

Capitals Battle Reds 1 to 1

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 25—(CP).—It's been a long, tough road for Indianapolis Capitals to travel, but today they have reached their objective—first place in the Western division of the American Hockey League.

The break for the Caps came in the form of a 1-1 tie with Providence last night, and that single point moved them into a three-way deadlock for top honors with Hershey Bears and Cleveland Barons, who have dominated the leading position, off and on, through the season.

Through most of the early schedule, Indianapolis blew hot and cold and it was not until the last month they remained mostly on the win side of the ledger. However, the Caps will have to continue along Victory Road, for the Bears have two games in hand over them and Barons one.

Capitals took the lead at 5:39 against the Providence when Joe Douglas scored on a combination drive with Ed Keating and Norm Sawyer.

Jack Shill, however put the Reds back on even terms with a goal early in the second period, and from there to the final bell, both goalers were sensational in holding out.

Tonight, both Hershey and Cleveland will see action. The former plays Springfield and Barons tackle Philadelphia. Buffalo meets New Haven on another front, while Pittsburg plays host to Providence.

Reeve Charges Labor Policy Is "Bankrupt"

TORONTO, Feb. 25—(CP)—Reeve R. J. Carter of Teck township, discussing problems of Northern Ontario mining municipalities before the Ontario Good Roads Association here today, referred to the recent strike in eight Kirkland Lake area gold mines and said the 'absolute bankruptcy of the Dominion Government labor policy was shown" in the nearly three-months long walkout.

In an address prepared for delivery before the association's annual convention, Reeve Carter said "the Dominion Government by its enunciation of labor policy encouraged the men to organize, but when this was done and men sought recognition of the union of their choice, it was found this labor policy was no more than the expression of a pious wish on the part of the Dominion Government."

(The strike in the eight Kirkland Lake gold mines, seven of which are located in Teck township and the other nearby, was called November 18 last by the Kirkland Lake Local (240) of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers in a dispute with the nine operators in which the chief issue was union recognition. The strike was terminated February 11 by the union "in the interests of national unity in wartime.")

"Though business may be a little worse before it gets better" in Kirkland Lake, Reeve Carter said he could not subscribe to the view that the town faced a "dismal future" economically as a result of the strike.

Weeding Out Needed.

"Kirkland Lake up to this time was the only northern mining town that had not a 'weeding out.' Even before the strike we were approaching that situation. I feel that this 'weeding out' will eventually improve our credit situation."

Discussing the "basic cause for Kirkland Lake being selected as the battleground for union recognition in the mining districts," Reeve Carter said "obviously the fact that we were selected as the battleground would indicate that the need for organization of workers existed.

"In some other mining areas the mines have gone quite a lot farther than at any of the mines in our district in building up good employer and employee relations by various means such as medical and hospitalization plans for employees and families, salary saving schemes, pensions plans for old employees, provision of cheap housing, supply of recreational centres and a liberal bonus plan.

"Despite the fact that our district was one of the richest...we were away behind other areas in these things and only a few of the local mines took any considerable interest in their employees once they left the mine gates. We have had in the past some operators who had little interest in the welfare of the community...these men are not with us now but they left behind them a fertile field for labor trouble to germinate."

Need Other Industries

Subsidiary industries to supply the needs of the mines themselves in the way of equipment were seen by the reeve as a vital necessity for the North. "Every large industry should maintain many small and dependent industries, preferably located within easy reach of the larger, utilizing its by-products, supplying its needs," he said.

Development of "many large and undeveloped iron ore reserves" in the north and development of the steel industry to use the ore, was suggested for consideration of Dominion and Provincial governments."

Reeve Carter concluded by speaking of "a development that has been of inestimable value to Northern Ontario," — the highway running north from North Bay into the mining section of Northern Ontario and said that in recent years it has been transformed into a "regular motorists' Paradise."

War Bonnet For Big Chief Joe Stalin

After this it's "Big Chief Joe Stalin" to the Indian tribes of the United States, Canada, Mexico and Central America. While the war drums throbbed in competition with the click-clack-click of the subway and the braves danced their tribal routines in competition with the shag, head of all the Red Russians was officially named an honorary chief of the Red Indians. Chief Falling Trees, also known as Chief Paul Horn, confided that General Archibald Wavell ran pretty close to Stalin in the voting for the oustanding warrior of 1941. Other entries trailed far behind. A magnificent war bonnet, fashioned by wives of the chieftains, which will go to Stalin, is shown being presented to Edward C. Carter, president of Russian war relief, by Chief Falling Trees at the Indian confederation pow wow at the Riverside Plaza Hotel in New York.

ments and inflicted 2,250 casualties on the Germans on the southwestern front during the last few days.

Slaughter Piles Up

Perhaps referring to the same engagements, the Soviet Information Bureau said five days of fighting on a southern sector cost the Germans 2,700 dead and wounded, 18 tanks, 11 machine guns 11 mortars 30 guns three motor vehicles and 10 radio stations.

"During 20 days of fierce fighting in February on the southeastern front" the information bureau added "a unit commanded by Comrade Zinoviev inflicted a heavy blow on the Germans. The Germans lost 3,220 officers and men, 160 machine guns, 130 guns, nine tanks and 150 motorcycles."

(Moscow dispatches to London said that in the last 48 hours the Russians had made important gains on the southwestern front, presumably between Orel and Kharkov, and were slashing a path through the complicated German defence system.

(Berlin dispatches told of heavy fighting in the Eastern Crimea and Hitler, Germany's supreme commanded, skipped the 22nd anniversary meeting of Nazi party leaders in Munich. Hitler messaged from Russian front headquarters that "it is impossible for me to leave my place, where preparations have been made for the final struggle.")

(Disaffection for the Axis cause was again evident among some Finns. Dr. Juhani Helo, former city treasurer of Helsinki, and six expelled members of Finland's parliament, were sentenced yesterday to from two to eight years imprisonment upon conviction of "preparation for high treason." All were charged with membership in an organization known as "The Society for Peace and Friendship with the Soviet Union.")

Still Listing Booty

Gen. von Bush was identified by the Soviet Information Bureau as the commander of the German army fatally struck in the Staraya Russa sector.

"Many stores of food, ammunition and equipment have been captured," it said. "The number is still being counted."

A preliminary estimate of material, however, was supplied.

"Material captured," the Bureau said, "is 185 guns, 135 trench mortars, 29 tanks, 340 machine guns, 4,150 automatic rifles 450 motor vehicles, 320 motorcycles, 560 bicycles, 15 tractors, 185 railway cars, eight railway engines 14,000 artillery shells, 9,700 mines, 1,300,000 rounds of ammunition, 6,350 hand grenades, 53 pontoons, 105 kilometres of telephone cable, 27 radio stations, 385 parachutes and 335 horses."

of Speaker Glen. It said merely that:—

"A secret session of the House of Commons was held at 3 o'clock p.m. on Tuesday the 24th February, 1942.

Debate Defences

"The sitting was devoted to the question of the defence of Canada in its widest qualifications. Statements were made by the Honorable Messrs. Ralston, Power and Macdonald, the ministers in charge of national defence. A variety of questions dealing with different aspects of the war were asked and answered. Many details were given the members of the House."

Members of the senate, which met for 16 minutes during the evening, its first sitting since Jan. 29, to conduct business of minor importance before adjourning again to March 10, were permitted to sit in the house gallery reserved for their use and a small number took advantage of the opportunity to listen to the secret discussions.

A special amendment to the Defence of Canada Regulations provides heavy penalties for members making public in any way the information given them at the secret sitting, or for others to make public what they might learn from those who attended.

Only persons in the chamber during the sitting who are not members of the House or Senate were Dr. Arthur Beauchesne, House Clerk, and his acting assistant, C. W. Boyce.

Beach. Anti-aircraft guns, fired steadily for two-minute periods, were silent about 45 seconds, and continued that routine nearly half an hour.

All of Southern California from the San Joaquin Valley to the Mexican border was blacked out. Los Angeles doused its lights first, at 2:25 a.m. San Diego, just 17 miles from the border, did not receive its lights-out order until 3:05 a.m.

Unofficial sources said army officials at Riverside, 40 miles east of Los Angeles, ordered the blackout.

It came 32 hours after a submarine fired 25 shrapnel shells at the Ellwood Tidelands oil field during President Roosevelt's war address Monday night. Damage in that attack was negligible—about $500 to an oil well engine housing and power lines. Only two of the shells scored hits: 23 fell harmlessly into pastures, foothills and the beach.

It was the second alert of the night in Southern California.

Earlier the Fourth, Interceptor Command ordered a precautionary alert along 300 miles of California coast line from San Luis Obispo to the Mexican border. The all-clear signal followed this warning three hours later without a blackout.

Allied Aces Bag 2 Transports Near Macassar

(By WITT HANCOCK.)

BANDUNG, N.E.I., Feb. 25 (AP)—Allied aircraft sank two large Japanese transport ships in a raid on a concentration near Macassar, in the Southern Celebes, and a third elsewhere, a Netherlands Indies communique said today.

Allied planes also raided an airdrome near Palembang, Japanese-occupied city in southern Sumatra, and set three enemy planes afire, it was announced.

Japanese fliers continued reconnaissance operations and raids on defence airports, obviously in preparation for an attack which the Indies expect them to launch as soon as possible against both ends of Java—from Sumatra and Bali—and probably also from the north.

Raid Broken Up

A 16-plane formation which raided the harbor of Tandjong Priok, the harbor of Batavia, was broken up by anti-aircraft fire, a communique said, and losses were small.

"Nearly all the bombs dropped in the water," it said.

The same aircraft attacked an airdrome near Batavia and burned some drums of gasoline, the communique reported.

Attacks against naval objectives near Surabaya, the United Nations fleet base, and upon the airdrome near Bandung, headquarters of the United Nations' Pacific command, caused damage described officially as slight.

The communique said one Japanese fighter and one Japanese bomber definitely were shot down and the probable toll was three fighters and five bombers.

Clear Telephone Lines for

All-Out Production

This Canadian worker and thousands like him are turning out tanks at a rate which early this year will reach 200 a month, according to official estimates. Many Canadian tanks have already seen action in Russia. Yet it was only last May that the first Canadian-built tank rumbled off the line.

No wonder telephone lines are loaded with calls: to suppliers of raw materials and essential parts; to Government and army officials; between plant departments; between continents.

You can help clear the telephone system for urgent war business by adopting "Wartime Telephone Tactics" . . . and by "rationing" the time you spend in neighbourly but unessential telephone talks with friends. Remember—your telephone is part of an interlocking system; needless delays on your line may hold up messages on which urgent wartime business depends.

WARTIME TELEPHONE TACTICS

- BE SURE you have the right number . . . consult the directory.
- SPEAK distinctly, directly into the mouthpiece.
- ANSWER promptly when the bell rings.
- BE BRIEF. Clear your line for the next call.
- USE OFF-PEAK hours for your Long Distance Calls.

These things may look trifling, but on 6,500,000 daily telephone calls, they are very important.

Victory Loan Nears Million Mark

MAIN STREET TOPICS

NAVAL RECRUIT

Robert Jackson of the technical staff at the provincial laboratory in the city hall left Tuesday morning for Kingston to enlist in the medical service of the Canadian Navy. He had volunteered some time ago but did not receive notice to report until Monday night.

WELL ATTENDED.

Sixty farmers attended the two-day course on farm management in the office of F. C. Pat-son, agricultural representative, Tuesday afternoon. It was expected that the attendance would probably be higher this afternoon, requiring adjournment to Co-op. hall.

THE WAVE CONTINUES.

Students at the Collegiate are continuing to pile up the sales of War Savings Stamps and Certificates, and this week's total show no slackening in the effort. They sold $48.00 worth of Certificates and $385.00 worth of Stamps.

TICKETS ON SALE.

Tickets for the police dance and draw are now on sale and are in the hands of all members of the force. This is the Peterborough department's campaign for the Canadian Police second Spitfire fund. It will be climaxed with a dance in the local armouries on the night of April 10.

A JUNIOR WARRIOR.

Joe Whitnell, 12-year-old son of Mrs. Mary Whitnell, 356 Stewart Street, is pulling his weight in this war in a highly satisfactory manner. He attends Central School and has now arranged to take $50.00 out of his penny bank savings to purchase a Victory Loan Bond. He already has $20 in War Savings Stamps.

SKATERS PAUL JONES.

Patrons at the Quaker open air rink last night were treated to a stunt under the direction of Vic. Barry and Art "Shorty" Barrett when a Paul Jones skate was held. It is believed this was the first time in several years this has been tried and it went well with the skaters. The stunt was directed through the loud speaker system.

SCHOOL CONCERT.

Walter Howell of the law firm of Peck, Kerr and McElderry spoke on the new Victory Loan at a patriotic concert given by the children of Sacred Heart School in the parish club-house last night. His theme was not only the necessity of sustaining Canada's war action but also of public realization of the serious developments in recent months, and of the fact that the war has come to this continent. The children presented an attractive program to a capacity audience. The silver collection was for the British War Victims' Fund. Mr. Howell was introduced by S. S. Shaughnessy, and a compliment to the school children and the sisters of Sacred Heart School was expressed by Rev. J. J. O'Brien.

CONSTABLE BEREAVED.

Many local friends of Canadian National Railway constable Ray Morden will sympathize with him in the death of his wife in Lindsay. Mrs. Morden will be buried in Peterborough to-morrow, Thursday morning.

W. J. COLLINS' FUNERAL

Requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of the soul of William Joseph Collins, 297 Westcott street, Thursday morning, at nine o'clock at the Church of the Sacred Heart. His passing occurred Monday evening.

TO GRADUATE SOON.

Reports current locally indicate that George Broadley, former officer in the Prince of Wales Rangers, and Jack Cowling, both of this city, will get their wings soon. Both have been training with the Royal Canadian Air Force for seeral months.

YOUR CO-OPERATION, PLEASE.

A hit and run driver smashed a front bumper off a car parked alongside the C.D.S. Store at 4:45 on Tuesday evening, and police are anxious to obtain more information about it. Some person picked up the broken bumper and laid it on the running board of the car. The person who did this is asked to communicate with the police.

A MAGNIFICENT JOB.

Keith S. Wightman, inspector of public schools in the city, released today figures showing the total amount of War Savings Stamps disposed of by pupils in the public schools of the city. Starting in midsummer of 1940, the children sold $1,157.00 during that year. Durin 1941, they sold $10,368.00 worth and during the month of January just passed they added another $1,330.00 worth.

SEVERAL ENLISTMENTS

Among recent enlistments at the recruiting depot, Peterborough armoury are: James Allan, 555 Bethune street, with the Armoured Corps; Raymond Nicholls of Bridgenorth, with the R.C.A.; John H. Dixon, R.R. 8 Peterborough with the R.C. C.S.; Gordon Freeburn of Lindsay, with the Canadian Forestry Corps; Leslie Sage, 268 Munroe Ave., Peterborough; G. Bowen, Cobourg, C. Earle, Cobourg, and Gordon Eason, 83 Hunter street, Peterborough, all with the Ordnance Corps.

MILK FOR BRITAIN

The Kinsmen Club's Milk for Britain Fund received today a cheque for $25 from the Lakevale Presbyterian Church. This is the first church organization to contribute to this fund. At the annual meeting of the congregation recently the sum of $25 was voted the British War Victims' Fund and $25 to the Milk for Britain Fund. Six dollars has also been received from the War Workers of the Queen Elizabeth School for the Milk for Britain Fund.

Factory Returns Starting To Swell Total

Returns in the Second Victory Loan campaign showed a big jump this morning as the total climbed to $828,800 of the $2,750,000 total, with 8 days of the drive over and ten days still to go.

At headquarters the officials stated industrial returns are negligible in the figures to date, and they are just starting to seep in now. It is apparent too, that the industrial workers are buying heavy, despite the fact that many of them had pledged to buy War Savings Stamps regularly and are keeping their promises.

This morning is the first day since the loan began that the local officials saw the bright star of success glimmering far ahead on the horizon, and with rural canvassers doing a great job, everyone is confident that Peterborough will go over the top.

The obstacles faced by canvassers are sufficent to discourage any but the stout-hearted, and it is reliably stated that the men and women on this work, are walking upwards of ten miles every day to get every single bond available. Out in Ennismore, Cecil Hayes is coming along fine, and this township is up with the leaders, having subscribed $3,900 of the $10,000 objective. Mrs. C. E. Moore is repeating her fine performance of service, which she made in the first drive, and her territory comprising South Burleigh, Harvey and Cavendish has turned in $5,300 of the $15,000 total.

Out at Omemee the subscriptions are still rolling in and the original objective of $65,000 has now grown to the grand total of $100,100, and still the people are buying. This group which takes in Omemee and Emily township was the first in Ontario to go over their objective, and the two joint chairmen, Rev. R. M. Patterson, and Rev. Father McFadden, state that the rich, the poor, the young and the old are shouldering the job of putting this loan across.

No new large subscriptions have come in since the $100,000 from the Canadian Raybestos Company, but more are expected any day. In the city proper which has an objective of $1,350,000, the sum of $408,350 has been obtained already not counting the industries and this augurs well for the final result.

Following is a summary of sales throughout the county to Tuesday night.

Whitaker Firm Goes Over Top

Another local industry came to bat today with an over-the-top reputation when G. Whitaker and Co. Ltd., wool importers reported the objective of $5,000 had been over-subscribed, the employees purchasing $10,350 worth of bonds, or 207 per cent of the total.

In this small industry there are 34 employees and 26 of that number or 76 per cent of the total purchased bonds. This according to the manager, Gordon Monkman, is a remarkably fine response, because almost to a man the employees are purchasing heavily in the War Savings Stamp bracket, and they are not allowing the purchase of the bonds to interfere with the War Savings Stamps, in any way.

Five former employees of this plant are serving with the armed forces overseas and four more are in uniform in Canada.

Boy Purchases Victory Bond

Thirteen year old Joey E. McMahon of Crawford's Grove, set a mark this morning for other boys and many grown ups to follow. He drew $50 from his penny bank which he earned at the rate of $1 a week and bought a Victory Bond. A pupil at Confederation school, Joey earned the money by helping at his parents' store, Mr. and Mrs. H. McMahon at Crawford's Grove.

This boy's field of helping in the war effort is not limited to this mornings act for on several occasions he has aided directly and indirectly in the British War Victims' Fund of Peterborough.

He is a choir boy at St. John's church and has a brother serving in the Royal Canadian Navy and a sister with the Canadian Women's Army Corps at Gananoque.

Examiner Carriers Sell $516.25 In War Savings Stamps In Week

The ninety-two Examiner Carriers of the city made a special effort to suport the first week's campaign of the Victory Loan canvassers and brought in the grand total of $516.25 sold in War Savings Stamp in the week ending February 21. Over twenty-five percent of these boys and girls brought in individual totals of from $5.75 to $64.00. The winner for the week's sales was a boy who has consistently sold large amounts since the campaign opened last November. This bright and energetic salesman is George Clark of 331 Sherbrooke street. George has won several of the weekly theatre ticket prizes during the last two months and is now a serious contender for the gold trophy for the month of February. In second place by a small margin is a newcomer to this column of commendation. This boy, who sold the fine total of $62.75 during last week, is Victor Doughty of 150 Hart avenue, who thereby becomes winner of two tickets to one of the local theatres donated by the War Savings Committee of the city.

Some familiar names among the Examiner Carrier force since this campaign began are the following boys and girls. The third place winner last week is a very competent salesman, Keith Orde, 249 Reid street, no less than four times weekly winner of prizes, now coming through with the amount of $44.50. Weldon Fanning, winner of the Examiner Gold Trophy last December, is in fourth place with $37.50 and the peppy youngster who won this fine cup last month, Donald Pagett, is again in the top brackets with a worthy $34. Grant Finnie, a comparative newcomer, comes into the top ranks with a splendid $24 contribution to the War Savings campaign. A young fellow with a route in the west end, John McDonald, of Charlotte street west, has made a great start in the higher figures with a $20 total for the week. Very close behind is another well-known carrier, Jack Harris, winner of the studio portrait last month donated by Fred Cripps for second prize in the monthly contest. Jack brought in a total of $19.50.

The north end of the city is well represented by Douglas Burrows with $11.75 for the week and an East City carrier, Bill Dundas, is again mentioned in this column for bringing in another $10.50.

Adrian Langhorne, weekly prize winner more than once, comes in again with $10 tied with Bob Shadgett with a similar amount. Walter Noble with a central route and Bob Sugden in the same distrist both made returns of $8. Cyril Robinson sold $7.75; Alan Sage, $7.25; Clare Connell, $6.75; Ray Douglas, Gerry Field and Miles Brooks all with $6.25; Fred La Plante, $6; Clifford Pirie, $5.75. The only girl to appear here this week is Bertha Bradley whose route is the smallest in the city but always come through with a respectable amount. She again brought in a total of $4.50 an average of 21 cents per customer. Many more boys and girls are working hard and producing creditable results but space prohibits mentioning them all. Their efforts are appreciated nevertheless by the Examiner and the War Savings Committee.

The prizes for the month of February are again the splendid pair of ski boots given monthly by the Robt. Neill Company and the studio portrait of the second prize-winner donated last month and now for each month by Fred Cripps, local photographer. These are in addition to the Examiner Gold Trophy and its replica to the first prize winner.

Victory Loan Revue Is Playing To Packed Houses In Ontario

As the Victory Loan sponsored patriotic revue "Pull Together Canada" completes its second week of playing to packed houses in a tour of larger Ontario cities, responsible voices and all newspapers are acclaiming the timely morale-building qualities of this sparkling musical revue.

Outstanding feature of the production is the spirit that pervades its entirety. Here is a cast of 40 people, some young and some not so young, with nothing in common but a burning desire to put across a message. Across the footlights the audience feels the cast actually enjoying itself every bit as much as themselves.

In its divers scenes, the revue touches many moods, employs widely different tricks to reach them. "No place like Home" itself a miniature play, strikes embarrassingly close to many a home; and the air raid, joked and sung away in the King's Cross tube station is thought provoking. Lil Wiggins, irrepressible Cockney mother, steals the show in this particular part of the revue.

The theme of the production toyed with in song and cajolery is crystallized into stark realism. The antagonism, moral tug-of-war between good and evil, right and wrong, selfishness and selflessness impressively symbolized stirs echoes on a smaller scale, sympathetic tug-of-war within each individual.

Justice cannot be done to this unique, entertaining production in words. It takes the songs, the pantomime and above all the enthusiasm of the performers to put it over. Already they have left a string of requested return performances in their wake, and local people who fail to see this show at the Collegiate Auditorium on Thursday, February 26th will regret it.

Hon. P. M. Dewan, Minister of Agriculture, lauds the show as impressive and entertaining, and theatre critics across Ontario have given unqualified approval to the production. The tickets are selling at 50 cents each and may be obtained at Dick Raine's Store, at the Examiner office or at the Victory Loan office.

Public Schools Not Available For Meetings

Supervision Committee of the Board of Education recommended after some deliberation on Tuesday evening that no changes be made in existing regulations concerning the use of the Public Schools of the city for other than inside organizations.

The discussion was prompted by two recent applications for the use of the schools from a local service organization, and it was felt at the time that perhaps some changes should be made in existing regulations, if the war had created a need for the school space, that had not been apparent in peace time.

T. J. Carley, K.C., presided at the meeting as chairman of the Supervision Committee and the members present were Mrs. W. R. Morris, D. G. H. Melton, H. G. Walker, and D. V. Canning.

Mr. Melton referred to a handbook written by Dr. DeWolfe, director of education for rural schools in Nova Scotia, in which the author urges that schools be community centres. "I am satisfied that Mr. DeWolfe in his writings refers to schools in rural sections where there is an absolute lack of suitable meeting places. There is no lack of small meeting places here, in fact, the only thing the city does need is a large hall. I am not greatly enthused with the idea of extending a wide-open invitation to all organizations, and if we grant it to one, we can't very well refuse another."

Mr. Walker: "We try to refrain from competing with those who derive an income from the rental of halls. Our schools are not equipped with furniture for adults."

D. V. Canning: "I think the question is not one of competition with the halls, but of providing some place for smaller groups in outlying sections of the city and I see no abjection to opening a school under certain restrictions. It seems to me that we might as well use these buildings to a greater extent instead of having them standing idle for 18 hours every day.'

Mr. Melton: "A.R.P. work is developing to a point where we may have to turn the schools over for this purpose. I fear we may be inundated with requests to use the buildings if it is opened up. If we saw our way clear to put on certain restrictions we might still be able to let certain organizations in."

Mrs. Morris: "I think that actually there is little demand for the schools."

Mr. Carley: "We are trustees as set out under the School Act and have no right to supply accommodation free to any outside group. I think it would be absurd to provide all the services and pay for strict supervision at the same time just for small groups."

Mr. Melton: "We want to approach this in a business way, if there is a definite need the public has a right to ask for accommodation."

Mr. Canning: "I feel this A.R.P. work will demand our complete attention."

Mrs. Morris: "We accepted the Salvage group, and did our best for the Women's Service Corps, but I wish to point out that we have a very special insurance rate on the schools, and if the schools are used by outside groups the rate may be affected."

Mr. Canning: "I'd hate to close this discussion with finality. I feel we ought to sort of keep the door open."

Mrs. Morris: "I will move that we recommend to the Board that no change be made in the existing regulations governing the use of the Public Schools." Mr. Walker seconded the motion and it carried, but Mr. Canning voted against it.

Another resolution developed out of the meeting when D. G. H. Melton moved that the committee bring to the attention of the Board the growth in A.R.P. work locally and recommend that the Board notify the local A.R.P. heads that they would be glad to consider any applications for accommodation, subject, of course, to the governing regulations. It was seconded by Mr. Canning and carried.

The meeting also decided to obtain prices and samples on windbreakers for the rugby players of last year's senior team and a special meeting of the Board will be called to deal with this item.

John Duncan White Is Killed In England

Duncan F. Drummond received word yesterday of the death overseas of his nephew, John Duncan White, of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Cabled information Tuesday notified the young airman's father, John White of Midland, of his son's death on January 23. No details were given, but it was thought that he was killed in a training accident, because a recent letter indicated that the young aviator expected to be engaged in England for the next two months.

J. D. White was one of the large R.C.A.F. contingent which arrived in England about Christmas. His mother was Kate Drummond, sister of D. F. Drummond, was born in Otonabee.

Request Women To Shop Earlier In Day

The women of Peterborough are going to be asked to make another sacrifice, this comparatively light after seeing their husbands, sons and other menfolk go off to war and then set to work for the Red Cross, British War Victims and just about everything else that is going on in the community.

Will they please switch their shopping schedules to be back home and out of the buses by 11.30 a.m. and 4.30 p.m.!

Frank Mitchell, head of the Peterborough bus lines, broached the proposal at the merchants' dinner at the Empress Tuesday night. The company has promised the factories to provide the best possible service for their employees, and to help that cause along the women of the city are going to hear suggestions and appeals that they start out from home a little earlier on their shopping forays and get home before the factory rush hours.

The Canadian General Electric Company, it is understood, has already done some "staggering" of the lunch hour for groups of employees as a convenience in transportation, but that experiment is not sufficient.

"We have another new bus on the way. It should be here next week," Mr. Mitchell said. "In fact we have been very lucky in that respect. We are doing the best we can in the face of new difficulties, but we simply have to appeal to the ladies of Peterborough to help us provide more bus room during the factory rush hours."

Mr. Mitchell attended the merchants' dinner to solicit their co-operation, too, by putting on special sale features and by other inducements which enterprise may inspire.

The Business Men's Association will probably take up this request at once in an effort to help relieve the city's transportation problem which has become accentuated by the additional thousands of war workers now living here.

Four Men Arrested In Raid On Barn

Police kicked in the door of a Hunter street barn this morning and interrupted what looked to be the start of a wine party. Four men found in the place were placed arrest and will likely face charges of illegal consumption of liquor in police court tomorrow morning.

The door of the premises was locked when Officers Harold Mesley and Gordon Trennum arrived at the scene, but a vigorous application of police boots proved an open sesame that took the constables inside. There they found several bottle of native wine, one of them hidden in a pile of straw. The refreshment was confiscated and the inmates of the place taken into custody.

Fees Donated War Victims By Grand Jury

Almost countless have been the ways by which funds have been raised or diverted to help the people of Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, and yet still others are coming to light with another such being recorded in today's list of receipts for the fund.

Early this week, the winter sessions of the Supreme Court were held in the Court House, with a very light amount of duties to engage the attention of the Grand Jury, who at the suggestion passed on to them by Fred Overend, for the most part turned in their fees to help along the fund, which in the aggregate amounted to $41.56, recorded in their name today, demonstrating a fine public spirit from those who comprised this group of citizens from the City and County.

Lakevale Presbyterian Church

A short while ago, the Lakevale Presbyterian church held its annual meeting, at which time it voted the nice sum of $25.00 to the fund. This was received on Tuesday per Melville H. Deyell, the treasurer, and marks the second donation that this church has given to the fund.

The box at St. Joseph's Hospital adds another $1.89 to the various amounts which have been previously recorded in its name to complete the day's receipts.

St. Patrick's Dance

The employees of the Canadian Department Stores of which Herb. Jamieson is the manager, are now engaged in their fifth effort for the fund, which includes the sale of tickets for a draw on a 1942 model of a five tube mantel radio set at ten cents a ticket or three for 25c. To climax this effort leading up to the draw which will be made on March 17, they are holding a dance at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club on St. Patrick's Day, for which the admission charge will be $1.50 per couple, during the course of which, the draw for the radio will be made. Music for this event will be supplied by Jimmy Duffus and his eight piece orchestra.

SKATERS PAUL JONES.

Patrons at the Quaker open air rink last night were treated to a stunt under the direction of Vic. Barry and Art "Shorty" Barrett when a Paul Jones skate was held. It is believed this was the first time in several years this has been tried and it went well with the skaters. The stunt was directed through the loud speaker system.

SCHOOL CONCERT.

Walter Howell of the law firm of Peck, Kerr and McElderry spoke on the new Victory Loan at a patriotic concert given by the children of Sacred Heart School in the parish club-house last night. His theme was not only the necessity of sustaining Canada's war action but also of public realization of the serious developments in recent months, and of the fact that the war has come to this continent. The children presented an attractive program to a capacity audience. The silver collection was for the British War Victims' Fund. Mr. Howell was introduced by S. S. Shaughnessy, and a compliment to the school children and the sisters of Sacred Heart School was expressed by Rev. J. J. O'Brien.

Victory Loan Nears Million Mark

Factory Returns Starting To Swell Total

Returns in the Second Victory Loan campaign showed a big jump this morning as the total climbed to $828,800 of the $2,750,000 total, with 8 days of the drive over and ten days still to go.

At headquarters the officials stated industrial returns are negligible in the figures to date, and they are just starting to seep in now. It is apparent too, that the industrial workers are buying heavy, despite the fact that many of them had pledged to buy War Savings Stamps regularly and are keeping their promises.

This morning is the first day since the loan began that the local officials saw the bright star of success glimmering far ahead on the horizon, and with rural canvassers doing a great job, everyone is confident that Peterborough will go over the top.

The obstacles faced by canvassers are sufficent to discourage any but the stout-hearted, and it is reliably stated that the men and women on this work, are walking upwards of ten miles every day to get every single bond available. Out in Ennismore, Cecil Hayes is coming along fine, and this township is up with the leaders, having subscribed $3,900 of the $10,000 objective. Mrs. C. E. Moore is repeating her fine performance of service, which she made in the first drive, and her territory comprising South Burleigh, Harvey and Cavendish has turned in $5,300 of the $15,000 total.

Out at Omemee the subscriptions are still rolling in and the original objective of $65,000 has now grown to the grand total of $100,100, and still the people are buying. This group which takes in Omemee and Emily township was the first in Ontario to go over their objective, and the two joint chairmen, Rev. R. M. Patterson, and Rev. Father McFadden, state that the rich, the poor, the young and the old are shouldering the job of putting this loan across.

No new large subscriptions have come in since the $100,000 from the Canadian Raybestos Company, but more are expected any day. In the city proper which has an objective of $1,350,000, the sum of $408,350 has been obtained already not counting the industries and this augurs well for the final result.

Following is a summary of sales throughout the county to Tuesday night.

Whitaker Firm Goes Over Top

Another local industry came to bat today with an over-the-top reputation when G. Whitaker and Co. Ltd., wool importers reported the objective of $5,000 had been over-subscribed, the employees purchasing $10,350 worth of bonds, or 207 per cent of the total.

In this small industry there are 34 employees and 26 of that number or 76 per cent of the total purchased bonds. This according to the manager, Gordon Monkman, is a remarkably fine response, because almost to a man the employees are purchasing heavily in the War Savings Stamp bracket, and they are not allowing the purchase of the bonds to interfere with the War Savings Stamps, in any way.

Five former employees of this plant are serving with the armed forces overseas and four more are in uniform in Canada.

Here's a criterion for grown-ups. Joey McMahon, 13, of Crawford's Grove, purchases a $50 Victory Bond from Chris Hughes with money he made at the rate of $1 a week. The subscription was in cash and Joey feels very happy over the move.

Boy Purchases Victory Bond

Thirteen year old Joey E. McMahon of Crawford's Grove, set a mark this morning for other boys and many grown ups to follow. He drew $50 from his penny bank which he earned at the rate of $1 a week and bought a Victory Bond. A pupil at Confederation school, Joey earned the money by helping at his parents' store, Mr. and Mrs. H. McMahon at Crawford's Grove.

This boy's field of helping in the war effort is not limited to this mornings act for on several occasions he has aided directly and indirectly in the British War Victims' Fund of Peterborough.

He is a choir boy at St. John's church and has a brother serving in the Royal Canadian Navy and a sister with the Canadian Women's Army Corps at Gananoque.

Examiner Carriers Sell $516.25 In War Savings Stamps In Week

The ninety-two Examiner Carriers of the city made a special effort to suport the first week's campaign of the Victory Loan canvassers and brought in the grand total of $516.25 sold in War Savings Stamp in the week ending February 21. Over twenty-five percent of these boys and girls brought in individual totals of from $5.75 to $64.00. The winner for the week's sales was a boy who has consistently sold large amounts since the campaign opened last November. This bright and energetic salesman is George Clark of 331 Sherbrooke street. George has won several of the weekly theatre ticket prizes during the last two months and is now a serious contender for the gold trophy for the month of February. In second place by a small margin is a newcomer to this column of commendation. This boy, who sold the fine total of $62.75 during last week, is Victor Doughty of 150 Hart avenue, who thereby becomes winner of two tickets to one of the local theatres donated by the War Savings Committee of the city.

Some familiar names among the Examiner Carrier force since this campaign began are the following boys and girls. The third place winner last week is a very competent salesman, Keith Orde, 249 Reid street, no less than four times weekly winner of prizes, now coming through with the amount of $44.50. Weldon Fanning, winner of the Examiner Gold Trophy last December, is in fourth place with $37.50 and the peppy youngster who won this fine cup last month, Donald Pagett, is again in the top brackets with a worthy $34. Grant Finnie, a comparative newcomer, comes into the top ranks with a splendid $24 contribution to the War Savings campaign. A young fellow with a route in the west end, John McDonald, of Charlotte street west, has made a great start in the higher figures with a $20 total for the week. Very close behind is another well-known carrier, Jack Harris, winner of the studio portrait last month donated by Fred Cripps for second prize in the monthly contest. Jack brought in a total of $19.50.

The north end of the city is well represented by Douglas Burrows with $11.75 for the week and an East City carrier, Bill Dundas, is again mentioned in this column for bringing in another $10.50.

Adrian Langhorne, weekly prize winner more than once, comes in again with $10 tied with Bob Shadgett with a similar amount. Walter Noble with a central route and Bob Sugden in the same district both made returns of $8. Cyril Robinson sold $7.75; Alan Sage, $7.25; Clare Connell, $6.75; Ray Douglas, Gerry Field and Miles Brooks all with $6.25; Fred La Plante, $6; Clifford Pirie, $5.75. The only girl to appear here this week is Bertha Bradley whose route is the smallest in the city but always come through with a respectable amount. She again brought in a total of $4.50 an average of 21 cents per customer. Many more boys and girls are working hard and producing creditable results but space prohibits mentioning them all. Their efforts are appreciated nevertheless by the Examiner and the War Savings Committee.

The prizes for the month of February are again the splendid pair of ski boots given monthly by the Robt. Neill Company and the studio portrait of the second prize-winner donated last month and now for each month by Fred Cripps, local photographer. These are in addition to the Examiner Gold Trophy and its replica to the first prize winner.

Victory Loan Revue Is Playing To Packed Houses In Ontario

As the Victory Loan sponsored patriotic revue "Pull Together Canada" completes its second week of playing to packed houses in a tour of larger Ontario cities, responsible voices and all newspapers are acclaiming the timely morale-building qualities of this sparkling musical revue.

Outstanding feature of the production is the spirit that pervades its entirety. Here is a cast of 40 people, some young and some not so young, with nothing in common but a burning desire to put across a message. Across the footlights the audience feels the cast actually enjoying itself every bit as much as themselves.

In its divers scenes, the revue touches many moods, employs widely different tricks to reach them. "No place like Home" itself a miniature play, strikes embarrassingly close to many a home; and the air raid, joked and sung away in the King's Cross tube station is thought provoking. Lil Wiggins, irrepressible Cockney mother, steals the show in this particular part of the revue.

The theme of the production toyed with in song and cajolery is crystallized into stark realism. The antagonism, moral tug-of-war between good and evil, right and wrong, selfishness and selflessness impressively symbolized stirs echoes on a smaller scale, sympathetic tug-of-war within each individual.

Justice cannot be done to this unique, entertaining production in words. It takes the songs, the pantomime and above all the enthusiasm of the performers to put it over. Already they have left a string of requested return performances in their wake, and local people who fail to see this show at the Collegiate Auditorium on Thursday, February 26th will regret it.

Hon. P. M. Dewan, Minister of Agriculture, lauds the show as impressive and entertaining, and theatre critics across Ontario have given unqualified approval to the production. The tickets are selling at 50 cents each and may be obtained at Dick Raine's Store, at the Examiner office or at the Victory Loan office.

Public Schools Not Available For Meetings

Supervision Committee of the Board of Education recommended after some deliberation on Tuesday evening that no changes be made in existing regulations concerning the use of the Public Schools of the city for other than inside organizations.

The discussion was prompted by two recent applications for the use of the schools from a local service organization, and it was felt at the time that perhaps some changes should be made in existing regulations, if the war had created a need for the school space, that had not been apparent in peace time.

T. J. Carley, K.C., presided at the meeting as chairman of the Supervision Committee and the members present were Mrs. W. R. Morris, D. G. H. Melton, H. G. Walker, and D. V. Canning.

Mr. Melton referred to a handbook written by Dr. DeWolfe, director of education for rural schools in Nova Scotia, in which the author urges that schools be community centres. "I am satisfied that Mr. DeWolfe in his writings refers to schools in rural sections where there is an absolute lack of suitable meeting places. There is no lack of small meeting places here, in fact, the only thing the city does need is a large hall. I am not greatly enthused with the idea of extending a wide-open invitation to all organizations, and if we grant it to one, we can't very well refuse another."

Mr. Walker: "We try to refrain from competing with those who derive an income from the rental of halls. Our schools are not equipped with furniture for adults."

D. V. Canning: "I think the question is not one of competition with the halls, but of providing some place for smaller groups in outlying sections of the city and I see no objection to opening a school under certain restrictions. It seems to me that we might as well use these buildings to a greater extent instead of having them standing idle for 18 hours every day."

Mr. Melton: "A.R.P. work is developing to a point where we may have to turn the schools over for this purpose. I fear we may be inundated with requests to use the buildings if it is opened up. If we saw our way clear to put on certain restrictions we might still be able to let certain organizations in."

Mrs. Morris: "I think that actually there is little demand for the schools."

Mr. Carley: "We are trustees as set out under the School Act and have no right to supply accommodation free to any outside group. I think it would be absurd to provide all the services and pay for strict supervision at the same time just for small groups."

Mr. Melton: "We want to approach this in a business way, if there is a definite need the public has a right to ask for accommodation."

Mr. Canning: "I feel this A.R.P. work will demand our complete attention."

Mrs. Morris: "We accepted the Salvage group, and did our best for the Women's Service Corps, but I wish to point out that we have a very special insurance rate on the schools, and if the schools are used by outside groups the rate may be affected."

Mr. Canning: "I'd hate to close this discussion with finality. I feel we ought to sort of keep the door open."

Mrs. Morris: "I will move that we recommend to the Board that no change be made in the existing regulations governing the use of the Public Schools." Mr. Walker seconded the motion and it carried, but Mr. Canning voted against it.

Another resolution developed out of the meeting when D. G. H. Melton moved that the committee bring to the attention of the Board the growth in A.R.P. work locally and recommend that the Board notify the local A.R.P. heads that they would be glad to consider any applications for accommodation, subject, of course, to the governing regulations. It was seconded by Mr. Canning and carried.

The meeting also decided to obtain prices and samples on windbreakers for the rugby players of last year's senior team and a special meeting of the Board will be called to deal with this item.

John Duncan White Is Killed In England

Duncan F. Drummond received word yesterday of the death overseas of his nephew, John Duncan White, of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Cabled information Tuesday notified the young airman's father, John White of Midland, of his son's death on January 23. No details were given, but it was thought that he was killed in a training accident, because a recent letter indicated that the young aviator expected to be engaged in England for the next two months.

J. D. White was one of the large R.C.A.F. contingent which arrived in England about Christmas. His mother was Kate Drummond, sister of D. F. Drummond, was born in Otonabee.

War—25 Years Ago

Request Women To Shop Earlier In Day

The women of Peterborough are going to be asked to make another sacrifice, this comparatively light after seeing their husbands, sons and other menfolk go off to war and then set to work for the Red Cross, British War Victims and just about everything else that is going on in the community.

Will they please switch their shopping schedules to be back home and out of the buses by 11.30 a.m. and 4.30 p.m.!

Frank Mitchell, head of the Peterborough bus lines, broached the proposal at the merchants' dinner at the Empress Tuesday night. The company has promised the factories to provide the best possible service for their employees, and to help that cause along the women of the city are going to hear suggestions and appeals that they start out from home a little earlier on their shopping forays and get home before the factory rush hours.

The Canadian General Electric Company, it is understood, has already done some "staggering" of the lunch hour for groups of employees as a convenience in transportation, but that experiment is not sufficient.

"We have another new bus on the way. It should be here next week," Mr. Mitchell said. "In fact we have been very lucky in that respect. We are doing the best we can in the face of new difficulties, but we simply have to appeal to the ladies of Peterborough to help us provide more bus room during the factory rush hours."

Mr. Mitchell attended the merchants' dinner to solicit their co-operation, too, by putting on special sale features and by other inducements which enterprise may inspire.

The Business Men's Association will probably take up this request at once in an effort to help relieve the city's transportation problem which has become accentuated by the additional thousands of war workers now living here.

Four Men Arrested In Raid On Barn

Police kicked in the door of a Hunter street barn this morning and interrupted what looked to be the start of a wine party. Four men found in the place were placed arrest and will likely face charges of illegal consumption of liquor in police court tomorrow morning.

The door of the premises was locked when Officers Harold Mesley and Gordon Trennum arrived at the scene, but a vigorous application of police boots proved an open sesame that took the constables inside. There they found several bottle of native wine, one of them hidden in a pile of straw. The refreshment was confiscated and the inmates of the place taken into custody.

Fees Donated War Victims By Grand Jury

Almost countless have been the ways by which funds have been raised or diverted to help the people of Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, and yet still others are coming to light with another such being recorded in today's list of receipts for the fund.

Early this week, the winter sessions of the Supreme Court were held in the Court House, with a very light amount of duties to engage the attention of the Grand Jury, who at the suggestion passed on to them by Fred Overend, for the most part turned in their fees to help along the fund, which in the aggregate amounted to $41.56, recorded in their name today, demonstrating a fine public spirit from those who comprised this group of citizens from the City and County.

Lakevale Presbyterian Church

A short while ago, the Lakevale Presbyterian church held its annual meeting, at which time it voted the nice sum of $25.00 to the fund. This was received on Tuesday per Melville H. Deyell, the treasurer, and marks the second donation that this church has given to the fund.

The box at St. Joseph's Hospital adds another $1.89 to the various amounts which have been previously recorded in its name to complete the day's receipts.

St. Patrick's Dance

The employees of the Canadian Department Stores of which Herb. Jamieson is the manager, are now engaged in their fifth effort for the fund, which includes the sale of tickets for a draw on a 1942 model of a five tube mantel radio set at ten cents a ticket or three for 25c. To climax this effort leading up to the draw which will be made on March 17, they are holding a dance at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club on St. Patrick's Day, for which the admission charge will be $1.50 per couple, during the course of which, the draw for the radio will be made. Music for this event will be supplied by Jimmy Duffus and his eight piece orchestra.

The Peterborough Rotary Club celebrated its 21st birthday on Monday. Twenty-four hours afterward the man who founded the local club in 1921 died in Toronto General Hospital.

He was William L. "Billy" Doyle, president of William L. Doyle and Company, investment brokers, Toronto and formerly of Belleville.

Mr. Doyle, as head of the Belleville club in 1921, was instrumental in Rotary being launched in Peterborough and he had any friends here who will be grieved to learn of his death. He attended a meeting of the Peterborough Club earlier this winter and was given a hearty welcome by older members.

In his 59th year Mr. Doyle was formerly prominent in Belleville where he served from 1914 to 1918 as assistant treasurer and as inspector of income tax for the district of Belleville from 1918 to 1927.

He was president of the Upper Seine Gold Mines, Limited, and also the Elizabeth Gold Mining Company, Limited. Born in Belleville, he was the son of the late John and Ann Elizabeth Neven Doyle. He received his education at the Belleville Collegiate and the Ontario Business College.

In 1927 he moved to Toronto and organized the business of which he was the head. In addition to founding the Peterborough Rotary Club he was also the father of Rotary in both Belleville and Trenton. Mr. Doyle was a member of the congregation of St. Michael's Cathedral in Toronto, and of the Ontario Security Dealers' Association and an associate of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

Surviving are his widow and four daughters, Mrs. J. L. Payne, Mrs. H. J. Meyers, June and Mary Doyle.

Boys Overseas Pleased With Y Memberships

Letters of appreciation are arriving almost daily at the local Y.M.C.A. from members on active service overseas and in every letter there are expressions of praise for the service rendered to the men in uniform. The Board of Directors provided each member enlisting with a membership, and cards were forwarded. Cigarettes were provided by the Leaders' Corps and the personal contributions of members of the Boad.

Fred Williams says:—A membership card in the Y.M.C.A. is always my prized possession and I certainly appreciate the thoughtfulness of the Board of Directors for their gift. Since leaving Peterborough I miss the old gang but the "Y" is always with us. The "Y" is in there all the time with sporting equipment, books, writing rooms, etc. At home I always considered the "Y" a second home and I still do over here, and it gives the best of service and courtesy. Travel has broadened my outlook of the Y and I feel sure that after the war that it will be the "Y" and institutions like it that will bring World Fellowship and understanding to nations who have lost it for awhile, so we can all go forward together and build that "Better Way of Life."

Ken Kingston Says:—I received your letter enclosing the "Y" membership card. It is really appreciated, especially the fine spirit that prompted it. It was a nice gesture on the part of the Board of Directors. Jim Gillespie, Major Turnbull, Mike Caravaggie and others I have seen have all been very happy about getting their memberships. I think we all remember only too pleasantly the Association we had with the Y in Peterborough, and are all looking forward to getting back. Jim Gillespie and I have not played any volleyball but we figure we shall have to teach Jim Wharry and a few of the other a few lessons even then. I can imagine you are a very busy man with Al. Clark away. However everything will likely iron itself out.

L-Cpl. Gray says:—Thanks for the cigarettes I received yesterday. Really it was a pleasant surprise and to know that you hadn't forgotten me away over here. The Y's over here are very good to all the boys, putting on picture shows and a lot of good entertainment.

Spr. Don Smedmor—I wish to thank you for the cigarettes. They were much appreciated and I hope you will convey my thanks to the others who were responsible for the gift. The Y.M.C.A. is doing a great work. It is hard to realize how much is done until one is overseas and witnesses it. We are provided with a modern moving picture free, once a week, sports equipment of the best quality, and writing facilities are provided. These are a few of the many services.

Jim Hawthorne—It certainly was a great thrill and surprise to receive a Y membership card. That small piece of cardboard which has in the past made possible many happy memories and what I know in the future will provide a source of friendship and social activity which will leave little room for loneliness in my life away from home.

M. Caravaggie—Thanks for the cigarettes and membership card. I appreciated them very much. The Y.M.C.A.'s over here are real good to our boys. They give us lots of sports equipment and we can depend on them for spending some weary nights over here.

L-Cpl. Pakenham—Received your letter with membership card enclosed. I am most grateful to you and the Board of Directors for the interest you have all taken in my welfare over here. I only hope that in the end I'll prove worthy of that interest. I shall treasure that membership card for all time. This is my second Christmas over here and not once have you forgotten me. Just to know that we are not forgotten by our friends at home and that they are doing all they can to help us over here is a tonic better than the doctor could prescribe. I would like to get back home as soon as possible, but not until we've finished the job over here first, I hope that it will be in the near future.

Similar messages have been received from Gnr. E. H. Holland, Wally Agnew, Lloyd Parnell, Lorne Galley, Jim Gillespie, Harold Pammett, Jack Moore, Wray Hamilton, George Crompton, Bob Thirnbeck, Wilf Jones, Frank Gishman, Frank Spencley and others.

The commission originally was scheduled to start its inquiry today.

KINGS ROW

By HENRY BELLAMANN

"I LOVE YOU."
CHAPTER XIII.

They spoke of many things— of his work, what they read, what they thought about. The rain came heavily and went away, leaving a persistent, protestant dripping from the eves. It was much later when Parris said, "Maybe I better go now."

"Waite a little." She kissed his cheek.

"I love you Cassie."

"No you don't, Parris, But that's all right."

"But I mean it."

"Hush." Her hair fell against her face. The strange, gusty intoxication of her touch seemed utterly unreal. It might all be a dream.

"You love me, don't you, Cassie?"

"I don't know, Parris." Her voice squeaked slightly as it slipped from control. "I don't know."

"Cassie, you do—you do."

"I said I didn't know. I don't—"

"Listen now, Cassie."

"All right, what?"

"Someday I want you to marry me."

She was quite silent and held so still that he said it again.

"Oh, Parris there isn't any answer for that—now."

"But why?"

"Because you don't really want to."

"I mean it. How do you know what I think I've got to study and be a doctor and it will be a long time—"

She smothered the rest of the sentence with her hand.

Parris opened the door and shivered when the drenched night air struck his flushed face. It seemed cold, and he fastened his coat tight about his throat. He stood for a moment before going out.

"Listen, Cassie, I've got to see you."

"Maybe. Maybe I can think of a way. But you'dbetter go now Parris, sure enough. It feels late."

He shivered again. "It feels early."

"Listen." The deep bell of the town clock struck slowly — four times.

"Goodness, Cassie, it's four o'clock. It'll be daybreak before I can get home."

"What'll you do?"

"I'm going over to Drake McHugh's. Then I'll say I was with him all night."

"That's a good idea."

"Good-night, then. I want to kiss you again, though."

"All right. Maybe I love you—I don't know."

The thinning clouds were turning pink overhead when he knocked at the side door of the Livingstone house.

"Say! Who's out there?" Parris thought Drake sounded just a little frightened.

"It's me. Drake. Parris."

Drake flung the loor open, blinking and incredulous. "What are you doing around here this time of night?"

"I've been somewhere, and—and it's too late for me to go home."

Drake shook the hair out of his eyes. "Been somewhere?" he asked stupidly.

"At Dr. Tower's."

"This late?" Drake was incredulous.

"He's in St. Louis. I went by for my books. Cassie and I started talking—" he broke off. "She's beautiful, Drake."

"Don't I know it?"

"I guessI'm in love with her."

"Maybe so, but you'd still better take off that wet coat. And if Dr. Tower finds out you've fallen for her, even pneumonia won't save you."

Parris shivered. "I think I've got a chill."

"Come on and get into bed."

Paris laughed a little. What a wonderul friend Drake McHugh was! He understood you so well.

He thought of Cassie. An image of her floated into his waning consciousnes and her presence in his mind flooded his nerves with a faint excitement. He sank deeper and deeper into a sleepy warmth; looked like a child as the flush of sleep mounted in his cheeks.

Spring in King's Row was never more than a brief prelude to summer. The leaves unfolded and there was a week or two of balmy warmth, then a sudden onslaught of blistering heat. The idlers who hung about stoves in the back quarters of stores came out and took their accustomed places on the courthouse lawn. Down at the southwest corner nearest to McKeown's saloon a shirt-sleeved group gathered shortly after the morning mail came in.

On the west porch of the courthouse was another group. County oficials, lawyers with nearby offices and hangers-on of the town's administration. This was the upper order. They were witness, jury and judge of any happenings in the town or county. Any event at all was reported, considered in the light of their memory's history, and passed on to its probable outcome. Ignorance and wisdom, tolerance and prejudice, detachment and malice, met here in amiable conflict.

"Say, I hear old man Tod Irving down at Little Fork passed on."

"Old man Irving dead?"

"Yep."

A new speaker interrupted. "I guess you ain't all heard the news about Mis' Sims."

"She was operated on by Dr. Gordon last week.'

"What's that?"

'Is that so? What for?"

"I don't know exactly. Something about her ear, I heard."

"Oh."

'Pretty serious, though.'

"How's that?"

"Well, I hear the operation went through all right, but they say half her face is paralyzed."

"What you reckon could have been the matter?"

"Ain't got no idea whatever. But my wife told me her face had all kind of swung around on one side. Mouth's half way over here. You know exactly like that man from St. Stephen, what's his name? Aw, you know who I mean: Alvin Keller—that's the name, Alvin Keller."

"Mis' Sims is pretty likely to stay that way?"

"Sure, Dr. Gordon saved her life though I guess."

"Does seem to me, though, this Gordon does a powerful lot of operatin'."

Dr. Tower handed a small German pamphlet to Parris. "This may interest you. It is new—and important.'

Dr. Tower watched Parris keenly. He leaned his head on his hand, and his thick black hair tumbled across his brow, puckered a little just now, as he scanned the close print.

"I saw your grandmother yesterday."

Parris looked up, somewhat startled. It was unlike Dr. Tower to speak of anything in the slightest degree personal.

"Yes, sir?"

'I thought she was not looking well.'

"She—she isn't quite well."

"I hope you won't misunderstand my question, but have you any idea what's wrong?"

Parris laid the bookdown "No, I haven't really. I believe—well, sir, I just hadn't thought it could be anything serious. She's rather—rather lively all the time."

"She doesn't look well."

The peculiar emphasis this time really frightened Parris. "Do you think there is something—"

Dr. Tower interrupted brusquely. "I don't think anything about it. I'm not your grandmother's physician."

Parris flushed darkly.

"Have you any relatives, Parris?"

"None at all. Only some very distant ones — that my grandmother doesn't like much."

"H'm. You'll be quite alone when —quite alone some day."

"Yes, sir."

"You were lucky to have this grandmother."

"You bet I was. Certainly."

"Very devoted to her, aren't you?"

Parris didn't answer. His lips were quivering.

"Did you ever hear of Dr. Ladd in St. Louis?"

"Yes, sir."

"Do you think you could in any way persuade Madame von Eln to go to St. Louis to consult him?"

The color faded slowly from Parris' face, his eyes darkened, and his words came huskily. "I don't know how I could do it. She'd want to know what made me think of it."

"Yes, yes. Doubtless. Is Skeffington her lawyer?"

"Yes, sir."

"Could you talk to him?"

"Maybe. Or—could you do it for me?"

"No." The reply was curt and cold.

Parris shrank sensitively from the cutting tone. "I guess I'm being kind of awkward this afternoon sir, but, gee, Dr. Tower, I—I've been scared all this winter. I don't know why. It was just—just instinctive."

"H'm, yes, I see. I think you're going to be a good doctor, Parris."

"Id like to ask you a question, sir, but I expect you wouldn't want to answer it."

"Well, fire away. What is it?"

"Isn't Dr. Gordon a good doctor?"

Dr. Tower looked steadily at Parris for a moment. "Not a very tactful question, young man nor a very ethical one for a young doctor-to-be to ask." He smiled, and Parris smiled, too, rather wanly. "But I must say that so far as I know Dr. Gordon knows his business."

"Oh, gee, I'm glad to hear you say that."

"You trust my judgment, do you?"

"Oh, absolutely, I know you know."

Dr. Tower colored a little, a very little. Parris stared. Dr. Tower was always so cool and detached, so remote and cold, that this slight show of emotion took on an aspect of exaggeration.

"I'm curious to know why you think so."

"Well, sir, there are some things you just know."

"Instinct?"

"Yes, sir. I guess so." Parris moved forward in his chair. He forgot the distant formality that usually characterized his talks with Dr. Tower. "You remember that little book of Friedlander's that you had me read last month. He said a lot about unconscious observations and how we sometimes add up a long sum of this kind of observations and come to conclusions that are quite right without knowing how we got them."

"Yes."

"Well," Parris smiled frankly, "it's like that."

Dr. Tower looked grave. "Well, keep your mind open. You're going to see and learn and learn a lot of new things in your life. We're on the brink—the very brink of important discoveries. You'll see. And —I guess, even at the risk of paying myself a compliment, I'd advise you to trust your instincts as you called them—your intuitions. Sometimes intuitions are a good corrective for the natural astigmatisms of human perceptions."

St. Andrew's Y.P.U.

At a Christian Culture meeting of St. Andrew's Young People's Union, the members enjoyed a very interesting discussion about personal development. We must help ourselves before we can help others; public and private testimonies about one's relationship to God may be of the greatest help to others, or they may not, depending upon the person and the occasion. God is revealed in nature and in those about us, nature's wonders are more appreciated when one has a knowledge of Jesus. Nature lovers are often better Christians. Some paradoxes of Christianity were suggested and enlarged upon and it was felt that "What I give I have," and that there is divinity in humility.

Pupils of School, Convent Combine to Boost Loan In Fine Patriotic Concert

The pupils of St. Peter's School and St. Mary's Convent combined on Tuesday evening to present a patriotic concert in the interests of the Victory Loan campaign. The pupils put on a fine shown and gave evidence of having been well-trained in their parts. A narrator, played by James Donnelly, spoke of the history of Canada and of the new citizens that are helping to make this dominion the great country it is. The origianl inhabitants of this continent, the Indians, were represented by Miss Maureen Hickey, dressed as an Indian maiden, who recited "Pauline Johnson's Grave." Then came the French settlers, represented by Miss Catherine Graham, who recited the William H. Drummond poem, "Leetle Bateese," Miss Graham delivered this difficult dialect poem with taste and skill. The English settlers who followed the French and wrested the country from them were represented by six boys, Jack Finn, Joseph Strano, Vincent Torper, Joseph Toal, Michael Connolly and James Thompson, dressed as sailors, who sang "The King is Still in London." The sturdy Scot settlers were represented by Miss Catherine Kieran, who danced the "Highland Fling"; and the Irish by three pretty colleens, Misses Loretta Curtin, Regina Killen, and Barbara O'Brien, who sang "Oft In the Stilly Night" by the great Irish poet, Tom Moore.

The New Canadians, in costumes characteristic of their countries, demonstrated the contributions which they have already made to our national life and culture. Russia was represented by Miss Mary Sullivan, who played as a piano solo, "The Volga Boatmen." The Scandinavian countries, who brought us our joy and interest in winter sports, especially skiing, were represented by Miss Margaret Plumpton, strikingly garbed in a most becoming red and white ski-suit, who recited, with strength and feeling, Wilson Macdonald's thrilling poem, "The Song of the Ski." The Hebrew race was represented by Miss Marion Downer, dressed as a Jewish Maiden, who played "Song of Spring" by the famous Jewish composer, Felix Mendelssohn.

The program closed with the singing of "Land of Hope and Glory."

Mr. J. R. Corkery, addressed the gathering on behalf of the Victory Loan committee urging, the people to support the Victory Loan and giving good sound reasons why it was to the benefit of Canadians to lend their money to government to fight for freedom.

Farmerettes Plan To Knit For Red Cross

The newly organized Farmerettes held their second meeting in the recreation room of the Y.W.C.A. on Tuesday. The turnout was not so good as the first meeting but the girls expect a better attendance in two weeks' time Miss June Wallis, president, was in the chair.

A move was adopted to invite an older member of the Farm Service Force to help the girls plan their activities and recruit new members. It is planned to obtain wool from the Red Cross to knit for the Armed Services during their meetings. It was definitely decided to serve refreshments at each meeting and each member will contribute a small sum for this purpose.

It is felt that many girls in Peterborough would be glad to join the Farmerettes and to serve their country by helping on farms during the summer months. Any girls who are interested are heartily invited to join the Farmerettes at their next meeting on Tuesday, March 10.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, February 26

Rather mediocre stellar operations point to a routine day, with affairs moving in customary grooves. The general trend of events may lie in the direction of the attainment of pleasure, or whatever caters to the ease and gratification of life, with little inciting ambitions in other directions. In this easy way there is danger of extravagance and overdoing, with careless or lavish hand, leading to future regret. Try to spur the ambitions into more practical or lucrative fields.

Those whose birthday it is may find the year beset with urges to the pursuit of pleasure, rather than into channels of creative, practical and lucrative returns. The lure to extravagance, over-indulgence and excesses may have reactions of regret and inability to make ends meet.

A child born on this day will be disposed to take life as it comes, with inclinations and instincts bent upon the pursuits of pleasure. Its substance may come easy and go easy unless it is given early lessons in thrift.

King's Own Class Of St. James' Meets

The King's Own Bible Class of St. James' United Sunday School were entertained to the number of thirty, on Monday night at the home of Mrs. Walter Wright, Morrow Street.

"Prayer" was the timely topic chosen by the devotional convener, now while the church, through its women has been engaged in prayer the world around. Almost the whole program was founded upon prayer. With Mrs. W. K. Sloane presiding, the devotional theme was presented in an inspiring talk by Mrs. W. Rose, while Mrs. G. Butcher sang the beautiful solo "Teach Me to pray. The appropriate chorus, "Prayer Changes Things,' and the prayer by Miss Mary Collins, class teacher, concluded this part of the program.

The chair was again taken over by the president, Mrs. G. Harris, when the business of the month was conducted. The minutes and the treasurer's report showed a good balance on hand, while the War work and Sunshine Department are making very commendable progress.

Plans were made for a pot-luck supper to be held in March as well as a concert to be given by the Salvation Army Band, with final arangements left in the hands of the executive. The King's Own Class is also considering a new type of war work in supplying comforts to the crew of one of our Canadian trawlers for the duration.

Mrs. Butcher, the convener, had charge of the splendid program which included two fine piano solos by Miss Elsie Chambers and a Valentine contest won by Mrs. W. Stanbury.

Mrs. Woodcock added much both to finances and to the amusement by measuring the waistline of each one present, the charge being one cent per inch.

Refreshments were served and a vote of thanks extended by Mrs. D. Matchett seconded by Mrs. Sedgwick to the hostess and all contributing to the success of the evening.

Newborn Borden Team Cops Tourney Laurels

TORONTO, Feb. 25 (CP) — A hockey squad from Camp Borden, Ont., that didn't even exist a few days ago today holds the Sports Service League Trophy, emblematic of the Ontario Military Hockey championship.

The Camp Borden team earned the trophy when they deluged Hamilton's Canadian Army Trades School under a 15-3 score at Maple Leaf Gardens here last night in the final game of the two-day tournament.

The sextet from the army camp, put together by Cpl. Jack McKay, entered the competition unheralded and unknown. It was only a week ago last Saturday that McKay was told to collect a team. His squad, thrown together without practice, proved the outstanding outfit among the eight teams competing.

The Camp Borden players knocked out Kingston Royal Military College 7-1 in a quarter-final game Monday and then whitewashed Petawawa Grenades 16-0 in a semi-final. Meanwhile the Hamilton outfit trounced Woodstock 6-2 and squeezed out a 5-4 win over Kingston Garrison in the other bracket.

Smart net-minding by Colvin and brilliant work by defenceman Finkbeiner played a prominent part in the Camp Borden victories.

In last night's scoring spree Finkbeiner, who played almost the entire 60 minutes of the game, tallied two goals. Peters got five and Harris three. Russell with two counters, and Fowler, Frank and Riddell were the other scorers for Camp Borden. Hamilton's trio came from the sticks of Larabie, Dalphond and Tommy Dunn.

As President Discussed War Strategy

President Roosevelt points to the Far East on a large wall map which he used during his talk on war strategy which was broadcast from the White House. The President warned that the United Nations would suffer more reverses before they were able to take the offensive, but promised that the offensive would be taken "soon" by the Allied forces of freedom.

Loss Of $65,000 Sees N.Y.U. Drop Football

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP). — New York University which has the largest student body in the United States, last night dropped football as an intercollegiate sport.

The university council, the school's governing body, reached the decision to abandon the sport after being informed that the institution's last two football teams had been maintained at a loss of $65,000.

The council's statement gave no indication of the change was to be permanent or only for the duration of the war. Its action immediately abrogated the contract of Head Coach Dr. Mal Stevens, which ran until 1946 at an estimated salary of $10,000 annually.

Carried On At Loss

Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, president of New York University, said in a statement after the meeting that:

"Varsity football at New York University has been carried on for the past two years at a substantial deficit and the university cannot maintain the sport any further under the uncertain conditions that prevail.

"We regret that this step must be taken, appreciating fully that football looms large in the minds of the alumni and the undergraduate student body."

The 32-man council gave Stevens and his four-man coaching staff a vote of confidence and praised the head coach for his efforts during the last eight years.

Stevens came to New York University in 1934 after the school had enjoyed national rankings from 1925 through 1931 under the tutelage of Chick Meehan.

Howard Cann, the present basketball coach, then took charge of the football squad under a de-emphasizing program and turned the reins over to Stevens in 1934.

Under Stevens the Violets played interestcional schedules successfully until 1940, when only two games out of nine were won. That record was repeated in 1941 with the N.Y.U. eleven going scoreless in five straight games midway in the season.

The school, with 35,063 students at the start of the present school year, had only 49 players on its 1941 gridiron roster. Many of the students, however, were night students or registered in downtown classes.

The council, acting upon recom-intersectional schedules success-student health and athletics, said that a determined effort would be made to carry on in all other branches of sport.

The New York University basketball team currently is one of the leaders in the metropolitan area, and Leslie MacMitchell, co-holder of the world indoor competitive mile record, is on the track team.

CURLING NEWS

By HERB MARTIN

Another 14 rinks fell by the wayside last evening, and their chances for major honors in the Neill Trophy are all gone West for another year.

There were two extra-end games played one on Ice No. 5 and the other on Ice No. 4. C. Westbrooke, subbing for A. Kay, won over J. Welsh, and E. Northey, Lakefield, had to go into overtime to beat L. Magnus.

The group winners, J. Richmond and J. Harkness, had to bow out of the picture. Ross Downey taking care of Mr. Richmond, and John McWilliams was two up on the secretary.

Ray Bacon, after being down about seven shots at the half way mark, made a snappy comeback to beat M. Cruthers, 11-7 ,and incidently that is the second time this season the same trick has been played on Mr. Cruthers and on the same ice; Charlie Westbrooke being responsible the other time.

When Ray Pratten's rink, last year's winners, came off the ice after defeating Dave Charlton, 14-3, they were heard singing: "We did it before and we can do it again." Cyril Crowe's fine baritone voice was heard to great advantage.

And if you don't think Mr. Downey was a happy man, you should have seen him smiling when he walked into No. 8 along about 11.30 o'clock.

Play continues this evening at 6.45 o'clock and 9.00 o'clock.

plained. For manual training at least four sets of tools would be required, and these could be purchased, he thought, at a cost of $150 (without benches). If the entire cost in both departments went to $1,000 it would be entirely paid for in three years. In reply to a question from Mr. Irwin he announced, "We have teachers qualified to teach both these courses on our staff at the present time." Since it was not essential for actual work on the new departments to begin until mid-summer, Dr. Richardson, who has been striving to have some action taken on the question for the past two years, consented to leave further discussion until the next meeting.

Secretary Wesley Stephens read a communication from the counties clerk ratifying the re-appointment to the board of Messrs. A. G. Thompson, A. J. Armour, E. H. McKeel and W. J. Smith. A letter from the Associated High School Boards of the Province of Ontario pointing out the advantages to be gained by membership therein was received and filed. Nor was any action taken in the suggestion from the Municipal World Publishing Company that the board would find copies of this valuable. Mr. Henson declared two hundred feet of lawn hose was required for the High School, and a motion was passed authorizing the purchase, and Chairman F. C. Bonnycastle reported the indemnity bond on the secretary had been obtained and would be filed with the town clerk. In compliance with Provincial Statute the cost of the bond ($10) was added to the secretary's salary along with an additional $25 in recognition of the greatly increased work he has been called upon to do. The increment boosted the secretary from $200 to $225 annually and members unanimously supported the motion made by Chairman of Finance H. A. MacArthur who realized how much Mr. Stephens' work had increased in the past 22 years that he had been secretary.

Screwy Ruling Upsets Hockey League

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25 (ENS) —In their sudden death game of their current Series "B" play-offs, Canadiens defeated Maple Leafs by a 2 to 0 score in the Pee Wee section and will now meet the Black Hawks for a two-game total goal series for the 1942 championship in the Public and Separate School League and possession of the Tip Top Tailor Trophy which goes to the winner. The first game of this series will be played tonight and the final will take place on Monday, according to the scheduled released by Mr, Harold Dunk yesterday.

Playoffs have also begun in the Bantam section, where Leafs defeated Americans 3 to 1 in a sudden death fixture and will now meet the Black Hawks in a two-game total goal series for the 1942 championship and possession of the Fred J. Smith Trophy. These bouts will be played on the same evenings as those in the Pee Wee section at Davidson's arena.

O.M.H.A. officials in Toronto tossed a bombshell into the local hockey picture with their announcement that the last two games in the Juvenile section were washed out, and the winner of the group would be declared by the standing as of February 20. This puts Stirling into the play-offs and leaves both Campbellford and Tweed out of the race. It means also that the two play-off games between Campbellford and Tweed have been relegated to the position of exhibition matches, but local supporters can draw some consolation from the fact the home town lads won the round from Tweed by a score of 6 to 3. News of the decision which made Stirling the group leaders did not reach Harold Dunk, local member of the O.M.H.A. executive until Tuesday morning, and to say that he was surprised is putting it mildly. He expressed no doubt, however, that the ruling would stick.

The final standing in the O.M.H.A. Juvenile Series is posted as follows:

	P.	W.	T.	L.	Pts.
Stirling	12	8	0	4	16
Tweed	12	6	1	5	13
Campbellford	12	6	0	6	12
Frankford	12	3	1	8	7

In the O.M.H.A. Bantam section, Deloro-Marmora Combines will meet Campbellford here for the first of a two-game total-goal series here on Friday evening, with the winner to advance into the play-offs, while Campbellford Midgets will play Warkworth the same evening in a sudden death fixture.

Mission Band Group May Hold Concert

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25 (ENS) —A discussion of ways and means to raise money for their allocation formed the principal subject of discussion at the regular meeting of Burn Brae Mission Band on Saturday afternoon. The president, Miss Jean Murray, pointed out that they were again pledged to a $40 objective and felt that a concert possibly with members taking part, would be one means of getting this amount. She was appointed to a committee along with Mrs. Donald McKay and Miss Thema Wallace to bring in a report on the question at the next meeting. The main item on the program was a talk on Formosa by Mrs. McKay who gave some interesting facts regarding life and conditions at this missionary outpost. Her remarks were ably supplemented by a story from the study book, "The Black Bearded Barbarian," related by Miss Murray and dealing with the first missionary to set foot on Formosa. This was the name natives, who had never before see na white man, gave to the missionary. Also assisting with the program were Dorothy Billen, Elaine Ingram and Enid Hay all of whom gave readings and Margaret Fry who took part in the devotional period.

Bears Defeat Lumber Jacks

BANCROFT Feb. 25 — (ENS). — The best game of hockey played at the local arena this year resulted in the defeat of the Barry's Bay Lumber Jacks by a score of 4-2.

The teams skated out on a good sheet of ice and play throughout the game was very fast and clean giving the crowd plenty to cheer about on both sides. Stinging still from a one-sided defeat of 11-2 just a week ago, the Bancroft Bears set the pace from the first bell and Coach Hillis had his team strengthened by the addition of a complete forward line from Coe Hill, and also by "Frickie" McCaw and "Buster" Haryett home on leave from the R.C.A.F.

Many of the familiar faces were missing on both teams due to enlistments in the Active Service, but the younger kids are giving a good account of themselves, and warrant a better turnout from the local fans than they are getting.

introduced as "one of the greatest goaltenders in all hockey history" and while George didn't compare with the performance of Connetll, stood up well.

Lionel Conacher also received a tremendous ovation when introduced and with Dinny Dinsmore, Leo Bourgeault, Pit Lepine and Sylvio Mantha, looked effective.

An added touch to the game was the appearance of two real veterans of hockey, Sprague Cleghorn and "Newsy" Lalonde, who took to the ice in full dress, but didn't play, and tho refereeing by Cooper Smeaton and Mickey Ion, officials of most of the former bitter tussles between the red team and Flying Frenchmen.

Bob Gracie set the scoring pace with two goals. His first gave the Marcons a lead they never lost and although Canadiens tried desperately to come back they were unable to beat Connell. Other Maroon scorers were Russ Blinko, Hooley Smith, and Tony Graboski. The Canadien markers went to Louis Trudel, Jack Portland and Howie Morenz, Jr, who scored on a penalty shot. The youngster's tally was a fitting ending to the game as he wove in neatly on Connell with the No. 7 sweater of his famous father standing out as he got the goal.

Making It 100 P.C.

OTTAWA, Feb. 25.—(CP). — At Preston East Dome Mines, one superintendent obtained 100 per cent. subscriptions to the Second Victory Loan from his crew with the single exception of one Northern Ontario miner with 10 children, the Victory Loan committee reported to-day.

The household expenses of this one miner were so heavy the purchase of a bond was a financial impossibility. However, he felt so badly about being unable to subscribe that his comrades chipped in and bought a $50 bond for him, bringing representation up to 100 per cent.

Whatever your washing method . . .

. . . you need Sunlight's "EXTRA SOAPINESS" for those extra dirty parts

• Though any soap—bar, powder or flake—will remove the general dirtiness from the clothes, your washing is never really complete unless you've used Sunlight Soap. Even with hard rubbing you cannot be sure of a thorough cleansing for those extra-soiled parts of clothes where the dirt clings tightly—collarbands and cuffs, and the under-arm portions of personal garments. Moreover, hard rubbing is injurious. But with Sunlight Soap it is never necessary. Sunlight has an "extra soapiness" which makes it exactly suited for applying straight on to the specially dirty parts at once. A very light touch of Sunlight leaves a thin film of soap right in contact with the dirt. And the moment you start washing this soapy film acts instantly—speedily loosening the dirt—soaking away every trace of it. That's the Sunlight method of washing—and it's an amazingly effective and safe way of getting clothes spotlessly clean to the last stitch.

Whatever washing and cleaning jobs you do you'll find Sunlight's "extra soapiness" will assist you amazingly. Sunlight is absolutely pure—safe for fine fabrics and delicate surfaces—safe for your hands, too!

You can't do without SUNLIGHT SOAP

CHILDREN FOLLOW EXAMPLE SET BY PARENTS AT HOME

Avoid Quarrels, Harsh Criticism and Guard Your Attitude Toward Others in the Family.

ACCORDING to a distinguished psychologist many marriages fail because of the habits and attitudes husbands and wives acquired in youth, and if parents wish their children to be happy though married they should begin training them for matrimony in childhood. Also, he might have added that if fathers and mothers want their children to keep out of the divorce courts they should hold before their eyes—from infancy up—the pattern of a success marriage. For children are copycats who nearly always treat their husbands and wives the way they have seen their mothers and fathers treat each other.

One of the truest and most cynical stories in the world is that of the woman who overheard her innocent little darlings at play in a bitter quarrel in which they called each other vile names and accused each other of every sort of crime and misdemeanor, and who, shocked, called out to them: "My dears! you mustn't talk to each other like that! You mustn't say such things to each other. You mustn't fight. You must love each other and be sweet and gentle with each other.'

"But, Mother, we weren't fighting," protested the children, "We were only playing husband and wife, and we were just talking the way you and Papa talk to each other."

This story might have happened in millions of homes. Countless men and women serve an apprenticeship in house-wrecking in their cradles when they see their parents make home a place where they give free rein to their tempers and cantankerousness and general cussedness, and where they feel that they do not have to use any of the decencies of self-restraint in dealing with a mere husband or wife.

Cruel Words in the Home

A multitude of husbands and wives stab each other daily with cruel words that are like a dagger thrust in the heart, with bitter criticisms that make wounds that never heal, with ridicule that burns like acid into vanity, because all their lives they have heard their mothers and fathers saying the fighting word to each other, and it never occurred to them that it was necessary to be tactful and suave, or considerate of the feelings, or even polite to the one to whom you were married. Husbands and wives had to take it whether they liked it or not.

We often hear it said that divorces run in families. And so they do, because the children of parents who never tried to make a real success of their marriages and who regarded the marriage vow lightly are apt to follow their example and throw up their hands and quit when their own marriages fail to come up to the expectation of the happiness they have done nothing to earn.

But it is also true that happy marriages run in families. Peaceful homes are practically hereditary, and good husbands and wives rear the children who have their own qualities. A man who's always seen his father treat his mother with tenderness and consideration treats his wife as if she were a Lady Love. A girl who has always seen her mother show her father admiration, affection and appreciation makes the true husband-spoiler.

Parents Have a Duty

Considering that marriage is the most important act in our lives, for on it depends not only our happiness but also our health and our success in life, it is strange that parents who desire their children's well-being above everything else, make no effort to prepare them for it. Oftener, indeed, their training is such as to unfit them totally for marriage.

The boy who has been indulged all his life; who has never been taught to consider anybody but himself or anything but his own pleasure, or to control his temper; who has treated his mother as if she were a servant and his father as if he were nothing but a cash register; who has no sense of responsibility or duty developed in him, cannot possibly make a decent husband.

The girl who has been pampered and spoiled until she is nothing but a bunch of selfishness; who is lazy and idle and shiftless and extravagant; who knows nothing of home-making and who thinks that the man she married should be the same adoring slave her mother has always been to her, makes a wife who is a curse to her husband.

No wonder there are so many divorces! I know of nothing so terrible as that the great majority of mothers are bringing their children up to make the sort of husbands and wives that they pray God on their knees to save their own sons and daughters from marrying.

DEAR MISS DIX—Is it proper for a girl's parents to give her a hope chest for a birthday present, or is it only right that a girl's fiance should give one to her?

DOUBTFUL.

ANSWER—Quite proper. In fact, all hope chests were originally given to girls as part of their dowries.

SIMPLE CARE FOR A BRAND NEW PUP

"I Know You'll Be Good To Me!"

Have you a case of puppy love? Is your brand-new dog little and wet-nosed with innocent, sleepy eyes?

Then he needs all the love you can give him if it takes the form of right care.

Puppies are as helpless as babies. They, too, get sick, often fatally, from wrong food or exposure. They, too, are naughty as a result of wrong training.

So now, in winter, see that your puppy has warm but well-ventilated quarters and warm (but not hot) food. Also give raw or cooked meat daily, as well as milk, from the time he's three weeks old.

In housebreaking, take him outside five minutes to an hour after he eats. But not in places where dogs with distemper have been!

Such simple care is about all a little dog needs to keep him happy. But at four months you'll want to start training him to obey commands.

Our 32-page booklet shows how to train a dog to be obedient and do clever tricks. Tells food dogs may eat; how to housebreak them, groom them. Gives symptoms and treatment of common dog ailments, including distemper; also how many ailments may be avoided.

For your copy of "HOW TO CHOOSE AND CARE FOR YOUR DOG" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet, which is available by mail only.

"The Authority on Authorities"

GET THE RIGHT PARTNER

IF YOU are going to try hipper-dipper stuff during the bidding, you had better provide yourself with a partner who has understanding, or you will take some terrific bumps. When you unleash a series of psychic bids before showing your real suit, for the purpose of luring a double from the opponents, the greatest risk is not what they will do to you, but what your partner will. Certain pyrotechnics may be attempted with one player opposite you which would be suicidal across from others.

South at this duplicate table was a player who likes to cut didoes, in straining for top scores, Godfrey B. Moore, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and his partner was Miss Mabel Erickson, now a New Yorker, who learned to be canny when competing against the tricky crew in and about Philadelphia when she lived in Atlantic City until recently.

After West's double, she decided it was impossible for her, or anyone in her seat, to figure out just what had caused the queer-sounding sequence of bids from her partner. Since West had doubled, the bidding would be certain to go around to her partner and allow him to make for the side the choice of moves. This she felt she could safely do, since she had told the approximate truth with her own bids, and he therefore was in position to know the whole story. Naturally, she strongly suspected a long spade suit, and as it turned out she was right.

The club K was led by West. This was won by the A. Three hearts furnished club discards, and thereafter it was impossible to lose anything but one diamond and two spades. Pretty lucky, at that, to find the club A and be able to get those immediate discards on hearts.

If West leads the diamond 8 against South's 4-Spades on this deal, dummy playing low, what principle of defense should govern East's action?

Seymour Ladies Finish Forty Quilts

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25 — (ENS). — A record of forty large quilts has been turned in by members of the Seymour West Women's Institute since January 15, it was revealed in a report by their secretary on Thursday afternoon when the branch held a Valentine social as the principal feature of their monthly meeting at Mrs. Robert McCulloch's. According to Mrs. E. Fairman 40 large quilts were turned in at the meeting and 33 of these were immediately allotted to the Red Cross, while four will be given the I.O.D.E. Bemersyde Chapter and three to the Salvation Army. Also brought in by members and earmarked for the Red Cross were two crib quilts and nine pairs of sox, 7 ladies' night gowns, 6 children's gowns, 6 pairs of bloomers, 3 pairs of sleepers, and 4 dresses. To make these items during the past month these energetic ladies used up nearly 200 yards of flannelette and 40 batts of cotton, half of which was supplied to them by the Red Cross, the remainder coming from Institute funds. The I.O.D.E. Polish Refugee Fund also benefited from the generosity of the Institute, which allotted for this 1 woman's jacket, 1 man's coat, 1 pair rubbers, 1 pair shoes 2 felt hats, 1 pair boy's ski pants and a bundle of children's wear, including caps, scarfs, seaters, dresses and underwear.

The president, Mrs. Arthur Rutherford, presided for the meeting, and extended a welcome to the visiting ladies from the Stanwood Sewing Circle who were guests of the afternoon. The program opened with community singing for which Mrs. Donald Rutherford was the accompanist, and following this were readings by Mrs. Thomas Dunham, Mrs. Carmen Redden, and Mrs. Howard Clark, a vocal solo by Mrs. Donald Rutherford, and a contest arranged by Mrs. Fred McCuloch and Mrs. Cecil McCulloch. Members responded to the roll call with a Valentine verse and at the close the committee, headed by Mrs. F. Rutherford, Mrs. James Clark, and Mrs. Douglas Rutherford served refreshments. They will hold their next meeting at Mrs. Thomas Dunham's.

2 Societies Hold Day Of Prayer

GORE'S LANDING, Feb. 25. — (ENS).—The members of the W.A. of St. George's-on-the-hill and the W.M.S. of the United church met together Friday afternoon in the World's Day of Prayer in the latter church.

The two ministers' wives took charge of the service. Mrs. Allan Johnson (St. George's) as leader and Mrs. Fisher (The Manse) as special speaker. Miss Emily Pratt sang a solo and prayers were given by Mrs Manley, Mrs. Ames and Mrs. Meggs.

In her address on "The greatest thing in the world," Mrs. Fisher said that as the sun rose on Friday morning the voice of prayer began and a constant chain of prayer continued throughout the day around the world from millions of women, uniting in prayer to God. The one subject we have in common with our enemies is the prayer for peace, but that was not the greatest thing in the world. The speaker then stressed that love is the greatest, by reading St. Paul's eulogy on love in the New Testament (Moffatt's translation)

Mrs. Fisher gave various comparisons of love. David Livingstone opened life in Africa on account of love; our soldiers are fighting for love of country and home, and love promoted the sacrifice of Christ. Love is defined as patience, kindness, generosity with humility, courtesy, unselfishness and good temper. Enlarging on each of these attributes, Mrs. Fisher said life is not made sweet by taking out the acids but by putting the sweet in It has been said that "talent develops in solitude but character develops in the stream of life" and love comes from the throne of God.

Gay Ice Carnival Is Well Attended

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 25—(ENS). — It was a happy throng that crowded the Lakefield arena on Friday evening for the masquerade carnival when old and young took part in the skating, and many and varied were the costumes.

Outstanding were those representing the Victory Loan campaign, and Miss M. White of the Royal Bank staff, dressed as a whiskered sandwich man, drew everyone's attention, with her posters advocating of buying and assisting the Loan. Then there was the "Karnival oKp" (J. McKerchar) who with his short handled broom, kept all intruders off the ice while judging was in progress. He was ably assisted by "Granny," (T. W. Chaplin) who even though ready to retire, night cap, braided hair, and candle, took time to assist the judges to keep the competitors of the various classes in order.

Ice was reserved for those in costume until after the judges, Mrs. C. D. Hewett, Mrs. W. A. Killoran and T. Morrison had completed their duties.

Prizes of War Stavings Stamps were given to the following:

Boy or girl, 10 years and under, comic costume, Catherine Ann Sabatino, Farmer John. Boy or girl 10 years and under, fancy costume, Joyce, Wannamaker, Little Bo-Peep. U.S. Uses Blimps For Coastal Patrol Work

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(CP).—The United States is using lighter-than-air blimps for in-shore patrol work along the coasts against submarines and for convoy work.

They evidently are proving successful because more are being built and it is expected a considerable number soon will be in service to supplement the work of airplanes and surface ships.

Along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, where they are relatively immune to attack by enemy aircraft to which they are extremely vulnerable, blimps possess advantages that no other craft have.

They can hover over an object, they can cruise at the speed of a convoy or they can speed up to 70 or 75 miles an hour; they can remain in the air infinitely longer than planes and they can anchor themselves to the water to tranship men and supplies from surface tenders.

The blimps now in use are 250 feet long and the gas bag has a volume content of more than 400,000 cubit feet of helium. They weigh in excess of 10 tons and carry a crew of 10 or 12. Powered by two airplane engines and with depth charges, and are in radio communication with shore bases and ships at sea.

The United States is the only big power to cling to the use of the airship and that may be due to the fact that Texas has the only known deposits of helium, a non-inflammable gas that can be ignited only under pressure. It may also be due to the fact that the comparatively isolated position of the North American continent renders patrolling airships reasonably safe from surprise raids by fast-flying aircraft, against which they are almost helpless.

The K-2 type of blimp, the one now in use, can refuel, take on provisions and transship crews while anchored to the surface of the water. This is done by means of a conical canvas bag which is lowered into the water. By this means, the blimp can remain at sea for days at a time.

Line-shaded portions of the map have been occupied by the Japanese up to now. And the Jap tentacles are reaching out to the island continent of Australia. Thinning British Line Still Holds Sittang Chinese Act In North

RANGOON, Burma, Feb. 26.—(CP).—Allied fighter planes shot down 21 Japanese raiders today in battles for control of the air over blazing Rangoon, fired to destroy all that might be of value to the Japanese, while a battle-thinned line of British and Indian defence forces still held doggedly along the west bank of the Sittang river.

Communiques on the progress of the fight for what remains of Burma said Japanese troops were believed to be moving north along the east bank of the river, 70 miles from Rangoon, and that there was no contact with the invaders at the southern anchor of the front.

It was announced, too, that the hard-hitting American volunteer group attached to the Chinese air force had carried the fight again to Japanese bases in Thailand.

The commander of the American unit was said to have announced that two enemy bombers were shot down and two fighters destroyed on the ground in an attack yesterday morning on one of the Thailand airfields.

This was in addition to the toll Allied fighters took in the skies over Rangoon.

Invasion Action?

LONDON, Feb. 26—(CP).—Under the heading "Invasion Coast Mystery," the Daily Herald reported today that "tension on both sides of the Straits of Dover and along the south and south-east coast of England is as great as at any period since the beginning of the war."

"Naval, military and air forces are in a state of hair-trigger preparedness," the paper said. "Germany is showing signs of activity.... These activities are being carefully watched by British garrisons. Many enemy planes were seen flying low over the Channel yesterday."

U.S. Subs Sink 4 Japs In 2 Days, Hit Warship

BATAVIA, N.E.I., Feb. 26 (AP)—United States submarines, carrying on an intensive Allied naval offensive touched off by the Japanese invasion of Bali, were credited officially today with torpedoing two enemy troopships, a naval auxiliary and a freighter and probably scoring a hit on a Japanese cruiser or destroyer with the last two days.

The submarines which attacked the warship was forced to submerge before it could observe the effect of its torpedo. The location of the action was not specified by the Netherlands East Indies high command, which reported yesterday that Allied bombing planes had sunk three transports in the waters off Macassar in southwestern Celebes.

At the same time, Indies defence forces in the outlying portions of the Archipelago still were fighting vital delaying actions designed to hold off as long as possible the expected offensive against this thickly-populated, United Nations stronghold of Java.

The Indies communique said that even on Amboina, the secondary naval base which the Japanese claimed to have occupied completely three days ago, "It is quite well possible that our troops still continue to fight."

Battles Rage Fiercely

In southern Celebes, the battle against the invaders also raged "with unabated fierceness," the communique reported. In western Borneo the Netherlands commander was forced to withdraw from Simpang in the face of a superior Japanese force driving down the coast from Pontianak but he reported he would continue to fight, despite a Japanese demand to surrender or be wiped out.

Simpang is about 100 miles below Pontianak and 425 airline miles northeast of Batavia.

Stimson Thinks Idea To Find A.A. Sites, Cause Blackouts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP).—War Secretary Stimson said to-day that unidentified airplanes, possibly as many as 15 which may have been operated by enemy agents, were over Los Angeles early yesterday and were fired on by United States Army anti-aircraft guns.

Stimson said the incident, described late yesterday by Secretary of the Navy Knox as a "false alarm" occurred between 3:12 and 4:15 a.m. Pacific war time.

Anti-aircraft guns of the 37th Coast Artillery Brigade fired 1,430 rounds of ammunition at the planes which Stimson told a press conference were officially reported as flying at speeds ranging from "very slow" to 200 miles an hour, and at heights of 9,000 to 18,000 feet.

The planes dropped no bombs, Stimson said, there were no casualties among American troops, none of the planes was shot down, and no American Army or Navy planes were in action.

Local Commercial Jobs.

Since no bombs were reported, Stimson said, it was impossible that the planes might have come from commercial sources operated by enemy agents to spread alarm, disclose the location of anti-aircraft gun emplacements and slow down war operations by causing blackouts.

The Secretary said his information was contained in a report from Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, and apparently was based on reports to Marshall from Army officials in California.

"My only comment,' Stimson said, "is that perhaps it is better to be too alert than not alert enough."

Stimson said he had no explanation of the statement that neither Army nor Navy planes were in action, and he did not explain what was meant by "commercial sources."

CLEARING THE AIR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state indicated today that a statement clarifying relations between the United States and Vichy governments might be issued tomorrow.

MOSCOW, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Russians declared today they had defeated reserves which the Germans were hurling into the flaming battle of the Staraya Russa area, where a Soviet ring of destruction closed tighter upon survivors of the smashed Nazi 16th Army.

One of the reserve units said to have been beaten when it attempted to break through to aid the trapped troops was identified as the 56th Regiment of the German 5th Division.

Dispatches from the front said Russian fliers and anti-aircraft guns are breaking up attempts by the Germans to bring supplies into the Staraya Russa area by transport plane.

The Russians said captured German orders disclosed that 96,000 troops had been caught in the Staraya Russa trap.

"They are disintegrating," a dispatch said. "Their situation is hopeless."

Soviet fliers dropped leaflets over the encircled divisions promising them good treatment if they surrendered.

On the southwestern front, too, the Russians reported decisive victories over German and Rumanian forces.

The Rumanian 1st Division was declared routed, with more than 2,250 killed and 200 surrendered.

The Rumanians formed the centre of a counter attack which was launched with German troops on the flanks and bringing up the rear, Russian dispatches said. The attack was reported stopped by terrific artillery fire.

Shelling At Close Range

On the Staraya Russa front Red artillerymen also were said to be pounding the trapped Nazis with heavy fire, sometimes at ranges of only a quarter of a mile.

The German 290th division was said to have lost heavily from shelling.

The Russians said the trapped 16th Army was one of the German forces which pressed into Russia last year when the Nazis had the offensive.

It suffered heavily through that offensive, the Russians said, and had to be reinforced repeatedly to fill the ranks of "tens of thousands" of men it lost.

Russian accounts said the trapped Germans were being broken up into small forces.

Peterborough Must Not Fail

The pride of Peterborough—city and county—must hold to high resolve. The people have a responsibility. It is to raise $2,750,000 as our quota of the Victory Loan. We are in competition with all the other communities throughout the Dominion and our showing must do us credit. It will, if the achievement up to noon today is maintained.

The total so far chalked up is $1,477,550, or slightly over fifty per cent. of the total we are asked to supply. The spirits of the campaign workers were beginning to drop a bit yesterday with disappointment but the subscription reported this forenoon from the Quaker Oats Company—a handsome subscription of $500,000—sent enthusiasm sky-rocketing once more. Half of the three-week period of the big national drive for $600,000,000—so urgently needed by the Government for the prosecution of the war—half of the time has gone but more than half of our desired contribution here has been realized.

As a result, there is a smile on the faces of the committee and all the canvassers. The patriotism of everybody—in office, factory, store, house and on the farm should keep that smile there, right through to the hour when the financial mercury in the Loan thermometer rises and hits the top, yes, and goes over the brim. That's what will make for cheers when the job is done!

Peterborough has always honored itself with keeping up the best standards and traditions of citizenship. It will honor itself again. In doing so it will be joining with earnest men, women and young folks from coast to coast in an unflagging determination to give the brave lads who are on the far-flung battle zones the guns, tanks and munitions they sorely require and for which they are calling.

These courageous men can't fight in defence of the lives and homes of people in this city and county and in other cities, towns and country places across Canada unless they have the materials to fight with. The zeal and earnestness of residents in this community should be, and will be, directed undoubtedly to helping to supply those materials.

There is some hard work ahead, however, if we are to be in the cheering line a week and a half hence. That work doesn't mean, does it? that a few shall get out and urge everybody else to invest in an interest-bearing bond,—backed by the entire resources of the Dominion. It means, rather, that each one of us must become a soldier, a sailor, an airman in fact—get out and take part in the tough job of standing up fearlessly, defiantly, to the ruthless enemy who would destroy our civilization. The sufferings of Greece, Poland Norway, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia — they tell us what defeat would mean. There is too much red blood in the veins of Canadians to let that disaster come.

The money necessary to make up our quota is in Peterborough; the solid patriotism is here; the community pride is here. Then let us all get out this afternoon, tonight, tomorrow—put everything else aside for the moment—let us roll up our portion of the Loan, shove the daily returns up, be in with the Victory a few days hence and be happy that we, everybody, had a share in the success!

MONTREAL, Feb. 26 — (AP).—A slim blonde attractive young woman giving the name of Margaret Jean Preston, was ordered today to pay costs when she appeared in Recorder's Court on a charge of disturbing the peace by causing a gathering on a public square while making a speech. The costs amounted to $3.50.

Loan Drive Hits 63 Million Its Biggest Day

OTTAWA, Feb. 26.—(CP).—Subscriptions to the Second Canadian Victory Loan totalled $63,475,800 during yesterday's operations, a new daily record in this campaign for $600,000,000, the loan headquarters announced to-day.

Yesterday's business boosted the cumulative total since the three-weeks campaign opened Feb. 16 to $425,344,250. Individual subscriptions numbered 67,096 yesterday, bringing the cumulative total to 435,946.

Wednesdays total was bolstered by a $7,500,00 subscription from the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company. General Motors Corporation subscribed $3,500,000, explaining that $1,000000 of that amount had been contributed by McKinnon Industries Ltd., of St. Catharines and Chrysler Corporation of Canada subscribed $1,000,000.

Factory, store and office employees continued to subscribe to the loan in volume yesterday, the loan headquarters statement said. Included in the figures announced today were esubscriptions of 22,431 workers for a total of $2,407,000 worth of bonds.

"Yesterday's total also was noteworthy for the inclusion of 44,261 individual subscriptions averaging about $307 each," the statement added.

Shoving It Up.

Overnight information received at headquarters contained further details on the Loan performance of employees of the John Inglis Company of Toronto. In the first week of the campaign they raised 240 per cent of their quota of $320,000. Big Cruiser Torpedoed Off Trondheim Towed Into Port

LONDON, Feb. 26 (CP)—The 26,000-ton German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and the 10,000-ton heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen apparently have been knocked out of the war for some time to come, according to a naval review presented in the House of Commons today by the First Lord of the Admiralty, A. V. Alexander.

Moreover, he said, the submarine Trident sent a torpedo aft into a cruiser of the Prinz Eugen class, probably into the Prinz herself. The Trident also may have hit an escorting destroyer, it was indicated in a simultaneous communique from the Admiralty.

The ocean-going Trident, 1,090 tons at the surface, has been dogging Germany's Norwegian sea route and it was there that she nailed the heavy cruiser. On Nov. 29, the Trident was credited with a successful attack on seven German transport and supply ships. Three were seen to sink and four were so damaged that their loss was considered probable.

Mr. Alexander's statement and the Admiralty communique disclosed the close watch by the navy kept on the whereabouts of the three warships with aerial reconnaissance.

Black Markets Swindling the Britons

(By D. E. BURRITT.)

LONDON, Feb. 26—(CP Cable).—Britain black market, which has brought demands from some quarters for application of the death penalty for convicted traders, today was shown to have produced a new daring form of swindle involving the sale of "substitute" foods.

All across the country authorities have been confronted by the sudden appearance of cans, packages and bottles, labels of which advertise the contents to be substitutes for eggs, onions, oranges, milk and numerous other things a housewife buys without much investigation. Most of these have proved to be fakes.

One onion "substitute" was found on analysis by the Ministry of Food to contain nothing but flour, while other brands of the same "substitute" contained flour and oatmeal; not even an odor of onion.

Egg substitutes were 90 per cent wheat flour with the addition of dye and gum. A "perfect substitute for lemons" contained only citric acid and starch. It was advertised as being equal of "16 squeezed lemons."

Hundreds of "manufacturers" have been prosecuted, fined and imprisoned, but the racket continues, even though all such manufacturers are supposed to have licences from the Food Ministry.

Not only in their cooking supplies but also in toilet goods have women been swindled. Test cases have shown "Mascara" to be common shoe polish, eyelash lotion to be vaseline and rouge to be dried and powdered red paint. Nail varnish has been found to be ordinary thin lacquer.

Manufacturers of many of these items have been arrested, the Food Ministry alone prosecuting 39,927 persons to date since the start of the war. Of these prosecutions almost 3,000 were made in a single month—December, 1941.

Day after day newspapers tell of other infractions by "saboteurs," yet the "black market" flourishes to such an extent that Sir William Jowitt, the Solicitor-General, demanded in a recent speech at Ashton-Under-Lyne that offenders be sent before a war court and be sentenced to death before a firing squad if found guilty.

Newspapers also have demanded either penal servitude or death to check practices which are interfering with the war effort, such practices as stealing from cargoes brought from overseas by sailors who risk their lives constantly to keep the country supplied.

Such things as these have occurred: 240 tons of molasses stolen from a Thames wharf went into the black market; 144 cartons of tomato puree, stolen from a bombed warehouse, were sold for more than three times the controlled price; 18,000 eggs and 50,000 chickens were sold above the maximum price.

"Black market" operators range in importance from little men who sell counterfeit clothing ration coupons for the equivalent of 25 cents apiece to the "big shots," one of whom is said to have made $500,000 illegally since the war began.

Kai-Shek Saves A Revolt?

Think Khyber Pass Visit Quieted Tribesmen

LONDON, Feb. 26 — (CP). — Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek's recent visit to the Khyber Pass and his address to warlike North-Western Frontier tribesmen may help to offset Axis intrigues aimed at stirring up revolt at India's back door, well-qualified observers said to-day.

Private advices reaching here indicate that since the outbreak of war Axis agents have been working among frontier tribes, supplying them with light war equipment, including field wireless stations and machine guns.

More ominous, however, have been reports of activities by Japanese agents who were said to be urging revolt among disgruntled politicians in Kabul, with promises that Afghanistan would receive portions of British Baluchistan and an outlet to the Arabian Sea.

Informed sources said the danger on India's North-west Frontier had grown greatly in proportion to Japanese successes in Malaya and in Burma, adding that some of the frontier tribes "always consider British preoccupation elsewhere as their opportunity."

Wave Of Sea Raiders Due

12,988 A.A.'s Put On Allied Merchantmen In '41

LONDON, Feb. 26 — (CP). — Britain has increased her naval personnel three or four-fold over peacetime strength, an official spokesman disclosed to-day, asserting that the expansion has been faster than in any other war.

Remarking that the Battle of the Atlantic has become a Battle of the Seven Seas, he said that at no time has Britain had less than 2,000 ships at risk on all oceans.

He reported that the United States was taking measures "to make the task of the U-boat more difficult" while Britain was providing shipboard fighter aircraft protection for convoys and last year had mounted 12,988 anti-aircraft guns on merchant ships.

Merchant and fishing vessels, he said, now have shot down 76 enemy planes, probably destroyed another 40 and damaged 89.

German U-boat construction undoubtedly has reached an unprecedented scale and U-boat flotillas are growing monthly, he added.

A new period of raider activity by "both German and Japanese" surface prowlers may be approaching, he warned both Britain and the United States, after almost a year without mercantile losses from German surface warships.

CANADIAN PRISONERS OF WAR TAKEN AT HONG KONG WAS 1,689

296 Canucks Casualties At Hong Kong

Report Via Argentina Lists 1,689 On Prisoner List

OTTAWA, Feb. 26—(CP).—News that 296 Canadian soldiers are dead or missing after the losing battle fought by Canadian and Empire troops against the Japanese at Hong Kong was given the House of Commons yesterday.

The information came from Defence Minister Ralston in a brief statement. He had no further information about the 1,985 Canadian officers and men who went to Hong Kong in mid-November.

Actually Col. Ralston's information, relayed to Canada from Japan by way of Argentina, said only that Canadian prisoners of war taken at Hong Kong numbered 1,689.

But from that figure Col. Ralston deduced that 296 "would be regarded as either dead or missing."

Said Col. Ralston:

"The message is extremely vague. It gives figures and that is all.

"The statement is that 'Japanese government officially indicate figures for prisoners of war, Hong Kong, Canadians, 1,689.'

"Honorable members will remember that the number who embarked was 1,985. So that that means, on the basis of those figures, I sincerely regret to say, at least without further information, that 296 would be regarded as either dead or missing."

First Official Word

The Defence Minister said this was the first official information from which any definite conclusion could be arrived at with respect to the number of Canadian casualties at Hong Kong.

Until yesterday there had been virtually no news of the fate of Canadians who fought at Hong Kong with other British and Empire troops until compelled to surrender.

positions. Some reports said the Chinese already were in action against the invaders.

This, if confirmed, might be the counter blow at the Japanese right flank which seemed one of the main hopes of the outnumbered British and Indian defenders of the Sittang Line, last natural barrier to Rangoon.

In Chungking a Chinese army spokesman said the Japanese were sending a continual flow of reinforcement into Northern Thailand where bases are being built for a concentrated land and air offensive against Chinese forces in the Shan States of Northeast Burma.

He predicted that the Japanese would use 1,500 parachutists, now near the front, in an attempt to get footholds on the Burma side of impassable mountains along the frontier.

Military commentators in London said everything possible had been done to put Rangoon in a state of defence. Civilians have been removed, they declared, but there has been "no evacuation of military personnel."

The approach of the war heightened India's preparations.

Five hundred buildings in Calcutta were taken over as air raid shelters. Earlier it was announced that some part of the Chittagong section, India port district nearest to Burma, would be evacuated for precautionary reasons.

The All-India radio said that the Government of India had decided not to move to Simla this summer, as usual, but would remain in New Delhi.

Mr. Spry served as secretary of the Ontario C.C.F., was a vice-president, chairman of the provincial executive and a member of the national council between 1934 and 1937.

He contested a by-election in Toronto Broadview as C.C.F. candidate in 1934 but was defeated. He was defeated in the same riding in the general election of 1935.

Mr. Spry is a graduate of the University of Manitoba and Oxford. His father, now dead, was a brigadier in the permanent army and Mr. Spry served in the last war as a private.

a message not to take the risk.

"The commander of the United Nations forces has shown himself worthy of the character of the men he commands," Stimson said. He added that the desperate defence of the Indies reflected "great credit on all elements."

Stimson stressed the difficulties of reinforcements, notably the vast trans-Pacific distances and the necessity to ship fighter planes to the scene of action.

Air power, he noted, involves establishment of anti-aircraft defences for bases, air raid warning services and runways and other facilities to keep war planes in the air. The Japanese, Stimson said, gained a great advantage of completing these preliminaries in Indo-China before the war started.

Japanese making rapid headway in pushing their advance bases closer to Java's western end. The fact that Netherlands naval forces today were reported to have bombed enemy storage yards near Telokbetoeng on Sumatra's southern tip, was the first official acknowledgment that in this area the enemy had reached the shore of Sunda Strait, which separates Sumatra from Java by only 15 miles at its narrowest point.

The communique also admitted enemy occupation of part of Benkoelen, the residency on Sumatra's southwest coast, and of the tin-producing island of Bangka, off the southeast Sumatra coast only 200 miles from Batavia.

From Bandung, Indies army headquarters, an Aneta correspondent reported that Japanese claims of extensive damage to an airport near there were "wildly exaggerated" and that the Tokyo assertion that 68 planes were destroyed in attacks on the airdrome last Friday and Saturday was "fantastic."

He said there was only "slight" damage in yesterday's attack by 16 enemy planes, including destruction of one allied bomber which could not take off in time and was set afire.

King States Need To Set Time Of Conscription

(By C. R. BLACKBURN.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 26 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King has told the House of Commons that conscription of men for service overseas will be decided upon only when the need arises, even as the conscription wealth will be decided upon if voluntary methods of financing the war fail.

But voluntary enlistments have not failed nor have the people failed to provide money for the war and he is confident they will not, Mr. King said in his speech yesterday afternoon.

Conscription of men for service overseas "has not become necessary and may never become necessary," he said. Nor had conscription of wealth become necessary but if the voluntary system of financing failed: "Well, I think probably there would be resort to conscription of wealth."

"I do not see any other alternative than just to come along and take the wealth that exists which cannot be raised voluntarily," he added.

Whatever policies were adopted would be adopted by an administration working as one, "and those that cannot accept the policy of the ma-

House since the sinking of the Battleship Prince of Wales and Battle Cruiser Repulse early in the Battle of Malaya and the getaway of the Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Prinz Eugen from Brest, German-occupied French naval base.

To-day's review was followed by a charge by Rear Admiral Tufton Beamish, Conservative member for Lewes, that crews of the torpedo planes which attacked the German squadron in the channel never had made an operational flight before and were told they were to attack a convoy, not strong naval units.

Earlier Mr. Alexander had disclosed that six swordfish planes of the fleet air arm were not the only torpedo planes which attacked the warships, but that the R.A.F. also sent torpedo bombers.

The 10,000-ton Prinz herself accompanied the twin battleships in their escape through the English Chanel from Brest.

Cameras Show Hit.

"Aerial reconnaissance subsequently showed a ship of the Eugen class in Trondheim in tow of tugs and damaged aft," he said. "It seems probable that the ship was the Prince Eugen, in which case all ships which escaped from Brest have been damaged."

One of the two battleships now lies in drydock at Kiel and the other at Wilhelmshaven. Their present whereabouts have been recorded by aerial reconnaissance, an official spokesman said.

The Prinze Eugen—or at least a cruiser of her class—was successfulyy attacked by the British submarine Trident off the Norwegian coast on February 23, an Admiralty communique said. A torpedo hit was scored.

"Aerial reconnaissance subsequently showed a ship of the Eugen class in Trondheim (Norwegian port) in tow of tugs and damaged aft," a spokesman said. "It seems probable that the ship was the Prinz Eugen, in which case all the ships which escaped from Brest have been damaged."

Think Destroyer Hit, Too

The Admiralty's communique on the Trident's attack on the cruiser, added that "it is possible that one of the destroyers escorting the enemy cruiser was also hit by torpedo."

Whether the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau were damaged in the aerial and surface attacks during their dash through the Channel or were caught later by British warships or submarines closer to their North Sea bases was not at once made clear.

Despite the blows to the two battleships and the cruiser, the spokesman warned today that the United States and Britain "may be near the beginning of a new period of (surface) raider activity, both German and Japanese," after nearly a year of no mercantile losses from such craft.

Losses out of convoys, the particular safeguard against submarine attacks, are just under one-half of one per cent of the cargo ships involved, he said. The trend of losses, however, has been seriously affected by the concentration of German U-boats off the American coast, he added.

Building To Beat Sinkings

But even if the increased rate of shipping losses which began Dec. 7 should continue, the spokesman concluded that it "should be more than offset" by the "vast program" of United States ship-building plus the British effort along that line.

He expressed belief also that the British and American navies eventually would surpass the strength which they could muster when the Japanese attack began Dec. 7.

In 1941, he said, the Axis lost nearly twice as much shipping in maintaining its North African front as Britain did in maintaining her Middle East armies.

At the same time, rounding up past reports of damage to heavy British ships, he said that the 33,950-ton Nelson, the 29,150-ton Resolution and the 31,100-ton Malaya, along with the 23,000-ton aircraft carriers Illustrious and Formidable had been damaged but are "standing up to it."

This damage goes back several months—the Illustrious, for example, was disclosed officially last August to be under repair in the United States for a pounding she sustained in the Mediterranean.

The Admiralty was said to have arranged full investigation of all losses of heavy ships since the war began "to make certain that there be no question of missing any lesson, large or small, which ought to have been learned and acted upon."

Bespeaking British naval power in the Mediterranean, he recalled that in the Battle of Crete, the Royal Navy caused death by drowning of 5,000 German soldiers and at the same time rescued 16,500 British Empire troops.

Since September, 1939, when the war started, British submarines have sunk or damaged 326 ships, including 64 warships, he went on. The Fleet Air Arm carried out 120 attacks on warships and convoys at sea, 200 attacks or ships in harbors, 260 raids on shore objectives and engaged in 600 air attacks.

Since the start of the war Britain's naval planes have also shot down or severely damaged 260 aircraft over the sea and have sunk or seriously damaged 45 enemy warships and 330,000 tons of shipping.

While in 1941 Britain's volume of imports exceeded advance estimates, the spokesman continued, the Axis with only a small coastal trade and Mediterranean convoys to protect, lost at least 2,500,000 tons of shipping captured, sunk or seriously damaged.

One Last River Barrier Holds Japs

Invaders Open New Front In North Burma Shan States

MANDALAY, Burma, Feb. 26—(APP).—British forces, fighting with their backs to the wall in a desperate effort to save Rangoon, have fired vital installations there to prevent them from falling into Japanese hands, advices from the Burmese capital said today.

Travellers arriving here from Rangoon said smoke was rolling over the city from blazes touched off by demolition squads and that a vital oil refinery had been left a charred ruin.

Although lines were said to be holding on the west bank of the Sittang River above the virtually depopulated capital, all that the defenders could offer, apparently, was a delaying action.

At the line of the Sittang the Japanese had reached the top of the Gulf of Martaban, less than 70 miles from Rangoon, and had crossed all but the last of the river barriers on the path of their advance.

British Losses Heavy

Some British and Indian battalions had lost heavily in the prolonged fighting against heavier numbers which have staggered Burma's defences back across the Salween and Bilin Rivers.

At the same time, the Japanese apparently were opening a second offensive from their Thailand bases at Chiengmai and Chiengrai aimed toward the upper reaches of the Sittang in the Shan states of Burma. On that front, however, the invaders face collision with thousands of Chinese who have moved in to defend northeast Burma.

Beyond Rangoon, 100 miles to the west, the secondary port of Bassein was reported unofficially to have been pounded heavily by Japanese bombers. Like Rangoon, it has a railroad running northward into the interior.

Official information has been scarce for war correspondents since they were ordered from Rangoon last Friday and they find that even some officers newly-assigned in central areas have only scant information.

Colborne Heads Loan In Northumberland

COBOURG, Feb. 26— (ENS). — Northumberland County Victory Loan is a little more than one-third its quota at the end of the eighth day of the campaign according to figures released last night from the campaign headquarters here. Out of the $1,125,000. the total subscribed for the eight days is $396,250, or a cumulative percentage of 35.38 per cent. The required percentage for that period is 44.44. Percentages for the districts are as follows:

Cobourg, 40.11, Hamilton Township 37.04, South Monaghan Township 17.80 Haldimand Township 21.92, Alnwick Township 43.25, Percy Township 47.11, Cramahe Township 29.20, Hastings 40.26, Colborne 47.50, Brighton Township 24.54, Brighton Village 43.59, Murray Township 19.83, Campbellford 37.48, Seymour Township 32.08.

Chairman Anxious.

Appeal to citizens of Northumberland County for a greater response to the Victory Loan campaign is voiced in a statement issued by W. S. Edwards of Cobourg county chairman, from campaign headquarters yesterday. It is pointed out that the county is considerably behind the figures for the same period of time last year. Mr. Edwards' statement is as follows:

"In my previous statement to the citizens of this county, I pointed out that our objective would require the utmost effort from every citizen in the county. The results for the first week of the loan for this county are very disappointing, in fact, to use frank language, our results are as low as any county in Ontario. The results so far show that the average subscription is substantially lower than last year, and the number of subscriptions is also considerably lower. The lower number of subscriptions is probably accounted for to a considerable extent by the condition of the roads, which has made it extremely difficult for canvassers to reach the farmers, or for the farmers to come into town to place their subscriptions through the banks.

$200,000 Behind.

"The situation is now serious. We are over $200,000 behind last year at the same time. How are we going to make this up? It can only be made up in two ways and I request that each individual in the county consider in which of these two ways he can help. First, if you have not already subscribed, arrange to enter your subscription either through the canvasser in your district or through your bank, at the earliest opportunity, and if you cannot subscribe as much as last year through cash, try and make an amount equivalent to last year by an additional purchase buying on a "saving by instalment" bases. Our first subscriber in this loan doubled his subscription of last year. If you are out of town, where it is difficult for a canvasser to reach you on account of the roads, telephone your bank and ask your banker to mail the forms to you, or try and come in first opportunity that your road is clear. Secondly, if you have already subscribed try and increase the amount by making out an additional subscription.

"It is your duty to do your utmost in this Loan. The canvassers, at great personal inconvenience, are making heroic efforts to cover the district, but it will be impossible with the condition of the roads to cover every person individually. Do your part and make arrangements to place your own subscription. If our Allies can fight in snow and blizzard, and our own boys brave the wind and the snow and dangers of the North Sea, the least we can do is to get our subscriptions in. If the Japs were landing on our west coast it might bring home the danger to us. Your support of the Victory Loan, which provides the equipment to keep the war far away, requires the same determination as our soldiers show, and the small personal inconvenience to get in touch with your individual canvasser or to come into town to place your subscription is surely not too much to ask," stated Mr. Edwards.

MILLBROOK

Home Helpers Dept. Stressed Before WMS

MILLBROOK, Feb. 26—(ENS). — The theme for devotions at the February meeting of the W.M.S. of Grace Presbyterian Church was "I Am the Way," the gathering being on Wednesday afternoon in the church parlor with the president, Mrs. A. R. Gibson, in the chair. The daily Peace prayer was repeated in unison, and Miss Agnes Johnston read Psalm 103, the prayer being offered by Mrs. Charles Thorndyke.

A feature of the gathering was the stress laid on the Home Helpers Department. Miss Johnston giving a talk on what it means: "Groups of women who meet to pray for women, and without it 8,000 women would not be in touch with the Church. Annually 300 women from this department become active W.M.S. members." Mrs. W. C. Thorndyke was appointed secretary for the local branch.

The study book, "World Missions" dealt especially with the Chinese and Japanese representatives to the Madras Conference, Mrs. Gibson taking the part of the former, and Mrs. J. R. Thompson supplying the part of the delegates from the Island Empire. During the business period, it was decided to hold the Easter meeting in March with a special program, and the thankoffering taken.

Hastings Boys Trim Roseneath

HASTINGS, Feb. 26 (ENS) — Playing their best brand of hockey this season, Hastings defeated Roseneath 4 to 0 on a fast sheet of ice here Monday night.

Both teams played a rugged brand of hockey and although bodychecks were frequent and hard, no fights enlivened the proceedings.

Jim Mouncey opened the scoring for the home crew, when he took a pass from Murray Fife early in the second period and beat Uren, the Roseneath goalie, with a hard shot. Clayton Radford, Hastings' forward, ended the scoring in the second period when he beat Uren late in the period.

Rogers and Wilson both netted markers for the home team in the final frame and although the Roseneath boys tried hard they could not beat Scriver in the Hastings' net.

Thompson, Boyle and Scriver starred for Hastings, while Art Covert and Sagar were the pick of the visitors. The line-ups were:

Mrs. E. E. Deyell Wins Fur Coat

Mrs. E. E. Deyell, 65 Kendall Avenue, Toronto, is the winner of the $350 made to measure Hudson seal coat, first prize in a charity draw conducted under the auspices of the Peterborough Lions Club. The draw was made by His Worship Mayor James Hamilton, between shows at the Capitol Theatre on Wednesday evening.

Second prize, a silver fox neckpiece, was won by Donald Flett, 600 Water street, Peterborough, and the winners may obtain their prizes by getting in touch with Vertle Reynolds, furrier, on George street south.

Stanley Darling, vice-president of the Lions Club, addressed the theatre audience briefly and explained that the Lions Club had adopted this plan of raising money to assist the British Child War Victims' Fund, which brings aid through the Waifs and Strays Society of Britain to children who have lost one or both parents, or who have been made homeless by the enemy bombing.

Mr. Darling was acting for J. E. Girven, president of the club, who was on the stage but was afflicted with a severe attack of laryngitis and unable to speak. J. A. Deyell, chairman of the ticket committee, was also on the stage, and the winning ticket had been sold by him, and he put his mother's name on the ticket, Mrs. Deyell, therefore did not know that she ever had a ticket on the coat.

Mr. Darling spoke in appreciation for the splendid assistance given the club by Mr. Cauley of the Capitol Theatre, and also by everyone who had participated in the draw.

Durham's Loan Behind Schedule With 35 Percent

PORT HOPE, Feb. 26.—(ENS)— 44.44% of the Durham Victory Loan time gone 35.54% only of its objective is reached. This makes the second Victory Loan campaign 11% behind the 1941 Loan with the same time given canvassers. In 1941 with equal number of days canvassed 56.92% of objective or $512,300 was in compared with $391,000 on February 24th.

It is still felt that the time of year is a disadvantage as the roads in the surrounding district are proving to slow up the canvasser in their contact of the people.

At 12 o'clock noon on Wednesday the committee roms reported as their total $391,000 to date, with the following figures for the individual district.

District	Objective	To date
Port Hope	$385,000	$178,950
Hope Township	75,000	29,600
Clarke Township and Newcastle	175,000	53,150

To eight ounces of bruised crumbs of bread add four ounces of chopped suet and seasoning chopped fine; two eggs, salt and pepper to season; mix all these ingredients into a firm, compact kind of paste, and use this stuffing to fill a hole or pocket which you will have cut with a knife in some part of the piece of veal, taking care to fasten it in with a skewer. A piece of veal weighing 3½ pounds would require about 1¼ hours to cook it thoroughly.

Pacific Coast Warning

What has happened out along the Los Angeles county coast when unidentified aircraft in two waves swept over that area, and also the submarine shelling of oil wells along the U.S. Pacific coast, tells us all that the war is coming closer and closer to us every day. The fact that three Japanese were arrested after having been seen flashing light signals during the blackout, warns, further, that the utmost precaution must be taken along the coasts of Canada. Both the east and the west shore lines may be subjected to enemy attacks at any time.

The Examiner has on two or three occasions urged that all Japanese in British Columbia should be speedily removed to interior points where they could do little or no damage in spy work and sabotage if they were disposed to try either. The Government has started by shifting a thousand, eastward, it is stated, but there must be three or four thousand still in the Pacific Province.

How is any one going to know, even diligent police, that there are not, among this big number, some who will be crafty traitors to the land in which they are livin gand making their bread and butter? These yellow men may be law-abiding citizens. Again they may not be. It is quite evident that they have been accomplices to devilry on the United States coast and who is to say those dwelling in Canada may not have in their midst the same cunning, secretive types as those who have been arrested by our allies across the border? Ottawa should lose no time in getting all of them away from Western points.

Better Post War Britain

It is of special interest to note that carefully worked out legislation and plans are taking shape in the Old Land to make post-war Britain a much improved, modern and socially advanced place in which to live than it was before hostilities began in '39. The Government is not waiting for the conflict to end, nor is it allowing cities and towns that have been badly smashed by bombs to grow up on any hit-and-miss policy.

According to what has been in process, Lord Reith, who is described as Minister of Works and Buildings, will control building on a nation-wide scale instead of letting things be done piecemeal. The efforts of various planning authorities throughout the country are to be coordinated, and the Minister's department, together with other experts on slum clearance, town planning and social problems, has been studying ways of making attractive, clean and pleasant dwelling conditions for people.

The immense complexity of the replanning job is recognized. A social and industrial condition, vastly different in many respects to what has for generations existed, is envisioned. Naturally the continued bombardments, the changed life due to the pressure of battling against an enemy and the need for rebuilding as soon is discreetly possible, in view of internal economics—these have put things in almost a state of chaos but the ambition of the authorities is to bring out of it all.

Previous to the start of the war there were slums on a large scale in most of the big cities. Centuries had settled their sloth upon the nation, so far as housing and other conditions were concerned. Now large sections of those poor, unwholesome areas and cheap tenement habitations have been smashed into rubble. This fact, terrible though it has been, enables a new approach to be made to the entire national existence. No doubt those who saw the three snug islands years ago will scarcely know many scenes when they visit the same places following the peace.

What Great Crises Reveal

A wise man said there is some good and some bad in all of us. We prefer not to acknowledge the bad, but it seems to crop up in the most unexpected places and the good to come forth from the worst possible soil.

For instance, a news article came through press channels the other day about "Sammy," as he is called. Of course that isn't his right name, but it will do. He had the reputation of being before the war the best burglar in London's East End and surely that is "some reputation" for that part of the great metropolis, with its population of between six and seven millions, has had top rung crime experts in operation for generations. Any way, Sammy, as he says himself, was "tops in 'is perfession." "My biggest haul" he is quoted as saying to a newspaperman, "netted me something like a thousand quid, and I have had diamond rings as big as the h'eyes in your 'ead. But it's all gone now. I believe in keeping money in circulation."

Well, what's the turn around of the story? This: Sammy is in the British navy, doing his bit to help "beat 'Itler." He shovels coal now in the bowels of a merchant ship because he feels he should "do something to pull my weight in this mess." The only thing he complains about is that his nimble fingers and smooth hands are getting pretty rough at his job.

If this were merely an isolated case it wouldn't be mentioned, but the fact is, and many instances came to light in the Great War of 1914-18 to prove it, that often the wastrel, the all-round "bad actor" and the fellow who had served a term in jail or prison—he commits deeds of bravery and heroism in war, or other crises, that surprise everybody. Circumstances being out an inherent quality of manhood which sometimes is entirely absent from those who obey all the laws of society and all social conventions.

Sammy is at least showing that he has some red blood in his veins and that he is more ready to strike a blow for his country than some of those whom the British Government is now denouncing as "black traders" who are getting rich out of the war in one way and another.

The Work Of Barbarism

It is a sad commentary on present-day civilization that a man with the rare gifts of Stefan Zweig, one of the greatest authors of this generation, should be driven from his native country, his books burned and his quiet life shattered merely because he was of a different religion from his rulers. And then what a tragedy that he should be found with his wife as mutual suicides in far-away Brazil, tired and weary from wandering to find a peaceful habitation. He called himself "a man without a country" and felt that existence was too heavy for himself and his mate so they closed their mortal existence locked in each other's arms, after taking poison.

This event merely brings to public attention once more what is so blatantly and crossly set forth in "Mein Kempf" (which has become the Nazi bible) that in the so-called "New Order" which Hitler and his gangsters are trying to force on the world, intellectuals are not wanted except they are permitted to live as propagators of the vicious Nazi creed.

Ever since Hitler became head of the German Reich he has been putting to death, imprisoning in internment camps or sending into exile men who had created an international reputation for their prfoessional achievements or their scholastic attainments. Thomas Mann, Einstein, Zweig are three whose names have travelled to many parts of the world because of their writings and their lecture work. Scores of other persons, also great in their field, have been driven out of Germany, their money and property confiscated and learning lost to that nation.

Zweig was an Austrian who was not wanted by the Nazi barbarians and when he saw his books burned in a public square, knew that the place of his birth and his native connections were no longer left to him, he went to England and finally to South America. He is dead but the creations of his pen will live. The outside world honors his memory for what he created for millions to read. The same millions and many others are daily heaping vengeance, hatred and contumely upon Hitler and all his kind.

What a contrast between Germany and the British Isles in this one respect alone. The islands have for centuries been a refuge for all classes, creeds and colors who have had to flee from their own lands. It is so today. Crowned heads former Premiers, writers, statesmen, freedom-loving men and women of lesser renown—all have found there a home and a tolerance denied them in their native countries. It cannot, must not, be that this cosmopolitan, Christian principle shall go down under the ruthlessness and brutality of the Huns and their allies!

One Up On The Robin

A beautifully printed booklet, with lovely blends of colors, came in the mail the other day. Perhaps you, too, have received one. It was a seed catalogue and of course it brought with it a pernicious germ. That germ is also infectious amongst a certain class of people, though others are immune. But those whom it infects are known to become restless. Great ambitions possess them and they want right away to begin digging in the soil. The symptoms go further than that with a few who want to get paper and pencil together and to begin drawing plans of last year's garden and how it will look when all designed anew. Even the paint brush and can are in danger of being rudely disturbed from their winter hibernation.

Yes, the catalogue came and, just as a trout rises to a fly at feeding time, so we literally leaped into the pages, looking at the ravishing glory of the roses, the more modest but nevertheless appealing charm of the snapdragon, the verbina, the zinnia and the sweet pea flowers.

Indeed, we picked out one sample of almost everything in that booklet — picked them all out and started to take the order blank in hand when that voice of wisdom, which a married man of extravagant tastes often hears, said in soft, feminine tones, "Yes, but you haven't room in our small patch for more than half of those things."

Well, that ended the dream! The world of fancy was pricked like a needle going into a balloon. Of course there wouldn't be room for so many kinds, not unless one did what a gentleman friend was known to do who took a spurt at gardening in the city. He bought a pound of Dutch sets (onions) and put the whole lot in a hole he dug in his back plot. He apparently thought they belonged to a family which liked to be very much together. But again, it was a woman—another wife—who spoiled the man's enthusiasm by laughing and telling him the ridiculousness of what he had done

Anyway, that seed catalogue is a welcome visitor. It gete here much earlier than the first robin and, while it has no lyric throat to tell about spring being "just around the corner" (where to its discredit it often stays much too long)—while the catalogue has no voice, it has that indefinable allure which is said to belong to lovely maidens.

In fact, to go a bit farther, it seems to be able to dig right down in one's pocket and bring cash out. One absolutely must have some of this and a few of that. True, one can't get along without some marigolds and sweet Williams and—but, what's the use? Snow is still on the housetops and the fields. The neighing North hasn't yet stopped sending cold blasts down from its icy nostrils and "Mother" wants the entire edge of the garden bordered with hollyhocks, so we'll have to thrash out our family affairs and agree upon a plan before we can get anywhere. At the same time, we send along a fervent "Thank you" to the person who got a start of the robin and sent us that printed flower display.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The army tank wrecked the bandstand in Victoria Park. Does that mean that even music is getting tanked these days?

February is getting groggy in the ring. Looks as if March will give it a knock-out blow before the weather referee can count ten.

British Columbia is showing wisdom in planting 10,000,000 young trees in the areas that have been logged. One of the valuable natural resources of that province was its forests. Unless a sapling is put in the place of a tree which is cut down, that wealth will be gone in a few years.

When it is realized that already this war has cost Canada as much as the last Great War cost up to the beginning of the big March offensive in 1918, a convincing reason appears for putting $50, $100, $500 or whatever one can, away at interest rates in a Government bond.

INEVITABLE

Here in the winter silences the fields prepare
The looms whose weaving makes the summer fair—
The green of meadows warm beneath the sun,
The harvests rising with the weaving done.

The bitter winds that whirl across the height
Reveal no music to the listening night,
But on the verge of some gray evening's hush
The spring shall hear the vespers of the thrush.

These winter days of ours of storm and stress
Hold in their shadows promises, no less,
Of dawns when bitter winds of hate shall cease
And meadows of the earth be sweet with peace!

Suggestion Made For Solving Post War Times

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

ONE of the things which differentiates this war from the last one is the amount of serious consideration which is being given to the matter of the peace by the Allies; they are determined that they will not be caught unprepared again. The most important move in this direction to date was the formulation of the Atlantic Charter in August, 1941, but there have been other, unofficial plans, some good and some bad. Mr. Wyndham Lewis, for instance, has his notion of Anglo-Saxony, which contains many good ideas. Anne Morrow has her notion of the Wave of the Future, which most of us refuse to consider a good idea in any respect. Clarence Streit has his Union Now idea, which would be good if it were not so fraught with practical difficulties. And there have been other schemes for the post-war peace advanced, of varying degrees of impracticality and hare-brainedness. But by far the most sensible, because most modest, suggestion that has been advanced so far is that of a young Canadian historian, Lionel Gelber, and is contained in his recently published book, "Peace By Power."

Mr. Gelber has impressive claims upon the attention of the Canadian people. He made a brilliant career at Toronto University, and later continued his education at Oxford; he was a member of Christ Church and worked in close association with Sir Alfred Zimmern, one of the shrewdest living students of international relations. He lived for five years in London, and was during that time in close contact with many sources of information concerning Britain's foreign policy. He saw the disastrous descent toward the maelstrom of war. He travelled widely upon the continent and seized his opportunities to become as familiar with the European scene as was possible. When he writes now, he writes of what he knows and not, as so many American commentators have done, through the fog of idealistic ignorance.

In "Peace By Power" Lionel Gelber advances no new notions. He merely suggests a modern application of old ones. He does not think that Anglo-American union is either practical or desirable, but he insists that Anglo-American agreement upon general policy is necessary, an opinion which no sensible person will be likely to gainsay. In Europe, he feels that the first thing to be done is to restore the old system of the Balance of Power—that traditional policy of Britain that no single state should achieve European hegemony and that the Low Countries should be held only by a power friendly to herself. It is the desertion of this policy, in his opinion, which has brought about the present sorry mess.

Gelber makes no apologies for his idea that Britain and the U.S. should have the chief say in running the world of the future. He is, above all things, practical, and he thinks that such control would be overwhelmingly beneficial in its results. Neither Britain nor the U.S. has been blameless in the past. They have done many arbitrary things, and a few of which they have cause to be ashamed. But upon the whole they have done well, not only by themselves, but by their neighbors, and it is significant that they have done so according to no fixed plan. They are absent-mindedly benevolent, a state of mind which indicates more truly a feeling of good-will toward men than a more carefully contrived scheme of goodness. Britain and the U.S. have respected the wishes of smaller nations and have shared their swag, when they had any, with those who were willing to be on good terms with them.

That is to express the matter in somewhat cynical terms, but Mr. Gelber is careful not to be righteous about the English-speaking world. They have evolved an excellent scheme of law, and they have kept to it. That is why he feels that they have earned the right to be bosses of the world. Russia must be reckoned with, but we are beginning to have high hopes of Russia as a member of the family of nations. The post-war world will have to be more mannerly in its dealings with Russia than the mid-war world, and by so doing it may find a better friend than it thinks for. Undoubtedly Russia, which has done so much of the fighting, will have a very big say in making the peace.

And what sort of peace shall it be? What is to be done with Germany, which has now so bad an historical record as an aggressor and bully? Mr. Gelber's idea is to parcel it up, to dissolve it into its constituent parts. After all, a unified Germany is less than a century old, and Bismarck's dream has proved too horrible a nightmare for the rest of the world to be allowed to continue. Such a breaking up, Mr. Gelber feels, would permit the economic life and the cultural life of Germany to continue without much change, but the national life of the Reich, centred at Berlin and dominated by a Prussian kultur would be destroyed. And such a division, carefully watched, might at last bring Germany to something resembling a democratic and reasonable form of government. At its most unsuccessful it would prevent the rise of another Hitler.

In so brief an account as this, it is impossible to reproduce the close and convincing reasoning with which Mr. Gelber backs up his argument. The great virtue of his plan is that it is a practical one, involving no sweeping changes in the face of Europe, and begetting no vast and unwieldy federations. It is a scheme which we would all do well to ponder in detail.

Reds Again in Top Gear

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Reports that the Russians have cracked the Staraya Russa pivot of German lines just south of Lake Ilmen, and have advanced in the Smolensk sector, 250 miles further south, suggest that the Stalin counter-offensive is rolling again in high gear.

A Nazi stand at Staraya Russa has been holding up for many days what has appeared to be the cutting edge of a vast Russian squeeze play aimed at lopping off the whole Nazi left flank. If Staraya Russa has fallen before the onslaught of Russian troops, who claim they have smashed a three-division German army in that area, the direct road to Pskov junction, key to German communications on the Baltic flank, is poen. A Nazi retreat from Leningrad will certainly be in order if the road cannot be promptly blocked.

WHOLE PICTURE CHANGED

It was through the Pskov-Porkov gateway that the Germans drove from Esthonia, outflanking the Lake Peipus frontier moat to the south, to lay siege to Leningrad. Half a score of railroads and highways converge at Pskov. Four main systems fan north, northeast and east from that point just south of the low extremity of the Peipus Lake chain that marks the Russian-Esthonian frontier.

Once through the Pskov gateway, the Nazis outflanked Russian forces to the north holding the narrow isthmus between the lakes and the Baltic shore line. A Red retreat into Leningrad was forced, and a swift Nazi drive north of Lake Ilmen to break rail and road communication between Leningrad and Moscow followed.

The first Russian effort to raise the Leningrad siege came last September. A drive westward along the Staraya Russa-Pskov Railroad south of Lake Ilmen gained headway. Last Sept. 16, however, Hitler announced it had been smashed. He said nine Russian divisions had been destroyed and more than 50,000 prisoners taken in the Staraya Russa raea.

That defeat gives the Russian victory now in the same sector special meaning to the Red Army. Any such Nazi disaster as Moscow reports there could quickly alter the whole nature of the battlefront north of Smolensk to the Baltic.

IMPORTANT JUNCTION

Staraya Russa itself is an important rail and road junction. A double system leads northwest around the lower shore of Lake Ilmen to Shimsk, where it intercepts the main communication line supporting German forces holding Novgorod. Another forty-mile stride to Shimsk would isolate Nazi forces along the Volkov River. It also would open a second route westward to cut direct Pskov-Leningrad communications. A converging attack on Pskov itself from the west and northwest would be possible, although that vital German junction still is more than 100 miles distant from the nearest known Russian spearhead.

Coupled with a Red drive to within fifty miles of Smolensk, the Staraya Russa operation takes on added significance. To meet both threats Hitler must rush heavy reinforcements by long and indirect routes.

The Russians have the advantage of interior communication lines. Their hopes of clearing the foe from all the north flank to the Esthonian border and also forcing a wide Nazi retreat in White Russia are not too extravagant if the attack can be kept moving.

Hitler's excuse for failing to attend a Nazi party gathering, at which he was scheduled to appear, was that he could not leave his field headquarters in Russia at this time. Having assumed personal command of his armies, he is being confronted not only by a still startling Russian military recovery from the shock of repeated defeats; but by adroitly planned and executed Red staff work.

Letters To The Editor

HINDERING WAR EFFORT

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I think a lot of us are 'steamed up' over the action of our Legislature in Toronto and when we feel that way, it is a good time to express our opinions in the columns of our local papers. It is only by open discussion of the injustices in our government that we can hope to stop them.

Of course we feel a great deal of sympathy with the difficulties of governing bodies at any time. However, some of the members of our provincial government have plenty of criticism to hand out to our Dominion leaders in these trying times and we think it is not constructive criticism either. At times it seems so petty and to have its root in jealousy and personal matters.

We have been amazed at the adjournment of our Ontario Legislature after such a short setting and more amazed at the paying of $1,000 per member for those few days' work. We were not impressed by the excuses offered. We place the blame exactly where it belongs, on the heads of the leaders. We even go so far as to agree with the suggestion that there be a shake-up in the leadership and advisers of the party here in Ontario.

There is the liquor question which they have refused to deal with, or to allow the people to settle. We have heard this question asked: "Have members of the Legislature money invested in the liquor business?" It is a serious question and one to which the people of Ontario have a right to know the correct answer. Not so serious is this one: "Are their brains too beer-befuddled to be at business?" meaning I suppose the business of governing our province. "We have a vision of a huge tug-of-war. On one side are all the youth of our country, with their high ideals and their wish to make the most of life. On the other side are older persons, with power and wealth added to greed and cunning. Both sides pull back and forth and while so many look on indifferently, it seems that the older persons who represent the liquor interests, are getting the best of it. They are pulling many of the young people into a huge black pit which yawns in the space between. Among these young people are soldiers, sailors and nurses!

This feeling of resentment against injustice is hindering our war effort. We are fighting greed, misuse of power, and all their attendant evils, abroad, and we do not expect to have to put up with them here at home. We have wondered at the seeming ease with which the people of Germany and Japan have allowed their leaders to enforce their will in those countries. Are we in this country, especially in the rural districts, allowing some of our leaders to continue with a system of rule that outrages our every sense of justice and fair play? We know just what is wrong and it is time we made some changes, if we expect to win this war.

"AN ONTARIO VOTER."

CO-OPERATION THE BEST WAY

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—In the Examiner's news columns today, Feb. 20, I was impressed with the summary of the facts of "unnecessary duplication of an essential service" brought out in reply to a recent questionnaire of your county's Agricultural War Council."

There will certainly be a series of compensations in the surface disaster restricting rubber and tire supplies, if it teaches us not only how to co-operate but, also, that there is nothing which competition can do which co-operation cannot do better?

The reference to the duplication of delivery services on the part of "various bread companies covering the same rural routes," has reminded this farm reader, of the following table, given under the authority of the United States Department of Agriculture, and covering the various costs and services in the urban loaf of an average American city. I see no reason to question the application of the figures either to Peterborough or Toronto:

(Distribution of the retail price of a 1-pound loaf):

Baker's margin	35.93
Retailer's margin	22.22
Materials ex. flour	13.88
Milling margin (flour)	5.31
Transportation	3.21
Freight charges	1.70
Elevator charges	1.38
Farmer's share	16.37
	100.00

Maybe if we could invoke the unifying and amazing power of co-operation all along this wheat route, as between the farm and the final urban bread consumer, we would be able to pay a more appropriate "share" to the grower I think it would pay this Dominion dividends? For too long we have called tune of "sweatshop prices to primary producers." I hope that a new deal for rural Canadians may, somehow, grow out of today's tragedy!

LET'S CO-OPERATE.

Millbrook School Holds At Home

MILLBROOK, Feb. 26—(ENS).—Taking the place of the annual commencement exercises, scheduled for early in December and unavoidably postponed owing to an outbreak of scarlet fever in the village and vicinity at that time the "At Home" held in the Town Hall on Friday evening under the auspices of the staff and pupils of the Millbrook Continuation School, and attended by over 200 guests, proved one of the most successful and enjoyable social events held locally for a long time.

The decorative scheme was peculiarly appropriate and the pupils received many compliments on their clever handiwork. Clusters of varicolored balloons, big silver moons and silver and gold stars, with red white and blue fluted streamers, suspended from the ceiling, and swayed gently with the rhythm of the music and the movement of the dancers on the floor below. On the walls were draped flags, stars fashioned from the same patriotic colors, and the letters "M.C.S." outlined in fluted runners of maching shades.

In the receiving line were the school principal, Miss Flora E. Morgan the other members of the staff Miss A. Berry and Mrs. O. Mellon, together with J. E. Allen, representiny the School Board, and Mrs. Allen.

Music was supplied by Galloway's Orchestra, and shortly after midnight a dainty supper was served. Mrs. B. L. Richards was cashier, and $86.00 was taken in at the door, the proceeds going toward the Red Cross work being constantly carried on by the Continuation School junior organization, "The Maple Leaf Club."

A German Plot

London, Feb. 26 (CP).

A REUTERS dispatch from Ankara reported today that papers bearing the stamp of the German embassy had been found in the clothing of an unidentified man killed in the Turkish capital when a bomb he was carrying exploded near German Ambassador Von Papen.

Von Papen and his wife, who were taking a mid-morning stroll on Boulevard Attaturk, were shaken by the bomb blast, but were not injured.

The official Turkish announcement of the incident said an unidentified man had been blown to pieces, and that he was believed to have been carrying the bomb.

Pupils Help Loan Through Concert

Students of Sacred Heart School boosted the Victory Loan Campaign by giving a patriotic entertainment on Tuesday evening in the Sacred Heart clubrooms. Mr. S. S. Shaughnessy, introduced Mr. Walter Howell, who spoke to the audience on the subject of the Victory Loan, urging the people to give it their whole-hearted support.

The program consisted of choruses by the Senior Grades, selections from a rhythms band composed of pupils of grades one and two, a musical play, entitled "Builders of Canada," and instrumental selections by the pupils of grades five and six.

The evening closed with the singing of the theme song of the Victory Loan Campaign, "You can Fight for Canada," and the National Anthem. J. J. Armstrong was pianist for the concert.

Easter Lily Bread

St. Thomas, Ont., Feb. 26 (CP)

THE Easter lily, symbol of sacrificial suffering and purity, will be absent from Canadian homes this year but will probably appear on Japanese tables in the form of "lily bread," St. Thomas florists said today. The reason is that the bulk of Easter lilies come from Japan, and all Canadian orders for bulbs have been cancelled.

The people of the Rising Sun, however make a variety of bread from the bulbs and much of the export crop will probably be kept for "home consumption."

CURLERS ARE NEARING SEMI-FINALS IN THE NEILL TROPHY PLAY

Barons Top Pack With 3 to 2

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26—(CP). — Cleveland Barons are on top of the Western Division in the American Hockey League to-day, and with eight games of the regular schedule remaining their two-point edge over Hershey Bears and Indianapolis Capitals, tied in second place, looks pretty good.

The Barons broke a three-way tie for the top spot last night when they handed the tail-end Philadelphia Rockets a 3-2 setback, while Hershey was losing to Springfield, 4-1, and Caps were idle.

Pittsburg blanketed Providence Reds under an 11-4 score and Buffalo setdown New Haven Eagles, 4-2.

Springfield just about sewed up the top berth in the Eastern Section table, and unless they undergo a complete form reversal, their six-and-half-game lead over New Haven should hold them up.

The Eagles are seven points ahead of Washington and Providence, tied in third place, while Rockets are in the cellar with only 22 points for 47 games.

Buffalo 3 Games Up.

With the exception of the top three clubs in the Western standing, the fourth and fifth places held by Buffalo and Pittsburg, respectively, will likely stand. Buffalo has a three-point edge over the Hornets, but it has played in three less games.

Cleveland had to come through with two third-period goals to defeat Philadelphia. After a scoreless first period, Ossie Asmundson sent Philadelphia in front and after Bill Mackenzie got the equalizer, Bus Wycherley again sent Rockets ahead.

Barons came back at six minutes of the final period with a goal by Stan Smith, then with less than three minutes left, Art Giroux scored the clincher.

After Nick Knott and McPherson scored in the second period, Springfield threw up a stout defence to hold Hershey to a single goal by Harry Frost, and then come through with two more tallies in the closing session for their 4-1 verdict. Joe Hunt counted the third Indian goal with Knott closing the scoring on his second tally.

The veteran Tony Hemmerling came through with the payoff goals which enabled Buffalo to score its first win at New Haven this season. His first of two markers broke a 2-2 tie late in the second period, then he added another for assurance midway through the closing period. Dede Klein and Cunningham got the other Bison goals, with Earl Robinson and Norm Burns counting for the Eagles.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The situation in regard to the group playoff has been cleared up as a result of the decision of the Peterborough Soldiers last night to stay in the race. The fourth game of the series will be played in Oshawa tomorrow night. If a fifth game is required by reason of a Whitby victory the O.H.A. has ordered it to be played here next Wednesday. The general feeling here is that the series should wind up in Oshawa tomorrow night. Peterborough fans figure that the Petes have enough speed, class and drive to be able to take the Palm Billiard outfit on the Oshawa cushion and thus write finis to the group race. With Guy Roach, star all season of the Kingston Combines added to the Peterborough roster for the big game at Oshawa there is confidence in the local camp that there will be no need of a fifth game, unless all the breaks go against the Petes, as they did last Friday night in Whitby when they outplayed the Oshawa-Whitby combines by a mile over the last half of the game and then were beaten by a fluke goal.

* * * * * *

There will be a lot of Peterborough fans on hand in Oshawa tomorrow night to see what most of them expect to be the final battle in the group series. Arrangements have been made for a special C.N.R. train leaving here early enough tomorrow evening to get the crowd to Oshawa in time for the initial faceoff and returning after the game. Hundreds of Peterborough fans will take the opportunity of seeing their favorites in action away from home and of rooting them on to the victory that will mean the group honors and the right to continue in the series for the O.H.A. senior B title. It will be the first hockey outing of the season and will undoubtedly be popularly received by a large number of Peterborough folk who want to see the group championship decided and will be delighted to learn that an excursion has been arranged for the occasion. There probably will be more Peterborough supporters than Whitby fans in evidence at the Oshawa Arena.

* * * * * *

Peterborough officers and executive are still at a loss to know why the O.H.A. allowed Whitby to get away with the stunt of postponing the game scheduled for Whitby Wednesday night, and above all why the officials of the governing body did not consult Peterborough before ruling that the battle should be deferred until Friday night. The Wednesday night date had been decided at the group meeting when the whole playoff setup was agreed upon and local officials find it hard to understand why the O.H.A. should play ball with the T.H.L. and Toronto Mercantile League to the extent of postponing an important O.H.A. playoff game merely to allow five or six players to play in the independent loops. That, of course, was the real reason why Whitby sought the postponement. We don't blame Whitby so much for trying but we are still trying to understand why under the circumstances the O.H.A. let them get away with it.

* * * * * *

It is still more difficult to understand why the courtesy was not even extended to the Peterborough club of letting them know that Whitby had asked for a postponement and of finding out the views of the local club on the subject. On the contrary, the O.H.A. officials adopted the inexplicable course of granting Whitby's request and then holding back the information from the Petes until they imagined, possibly that it would be too late for any local kicks in reference to the switch. If it is true that the Whitby officials knew Monday there would be no game Wednesday and that they were instructed by the O.H.A. not to say anything about the change when they were here Monday night the whole affair is still mysterious. Certainly the Whitby moguls failed to mention any alteration in the playoff picture and all their conversation while here Monday night was in reference to a game Wednesday. The Petes, in short, feel they they have been given the well-known run-around by the governing body. However the thing is ovr now and all that remains is to eliminate Whitby and get on with the business of going after the senior B honors.

Writes Andy Lytle in the Toronto Star: "It is posible, if the boys get around to it before the Japs come in, that a memorial hall will be set up for hockey, to which the game's worshippers may flock in the future as is now done for baseball at an out-of-the-way spot called Cooperstown in the U.S.A. But it won't be done as simply as a New York gentleman appears to think. He has written the league indicating that he is prepared, under a nudge given him by Premier Hepburn, no less, and for a fee, of course, to move in on the job in a big way, establish the hall at Kingston. All he wants is a nod from the N.H.L. to go ahead."

* * * * * *

"I don't suppose there is a director in the N.H.L. who wants to see such a hall set up anywhere but in his home city," continues Mister Lytle. "Well, if they can't agree, perhaps they'll settle for Kingston and, if so, the loudest cheers in the country will spring lustily from the fluent throat of William Throckmorton Walshe. It's a pretty fair sort of a half-way spot between Montreal and Toronto and, with Bill showing visitors around, they'd be sure to touch all the Kingston bases before they got away. Kingston is notable for more than the possession of the military college, Queen's and Bill Walshe. It is the home of Jim Sutherland who is by the way of being an amiable and informative encyclopedia of hockey. Jim insists that Kingston is the birthplace of the game and is prepared to argue fluently that if any other centre claims this distinction it will secure right and title only over the dead body of Jim, his documents and the Kingston civic strength."

* * * * * *

Plenty of basketball is on the card for the Ladies' League in the Y.W.C.A. gym Friday night when a triple-header will be staged with three hard battles lined up. At the outset fans and players are asked to note that an earlier start will be made tomorrow night and that the first game will be begun at 7.15 o'clock instead of at 7.30. That of course will bring the start of the other two games about fifteen minutes earlier. The first game on the menu tomorrow night looks like the feature for it brings together Generals and Quakers who are tied for the league leadership. Each of them has been beaten only once this season and both have been really rolling in recent starts so that there should be plenty of action when the two stack up against each other. The improving Normalites meet the St. John's girls in the second game, with the Saints needing a win to stay within playoff range and in the third engagement of the night, two more well-balanced teams, Y Gym and Westclox will tie into each other. It looks like a tossup.

The Toronto Marlboros disappeared from the senior A picture last night when Hamilton came from behind a two-goal deficit to defeat the Dukes 3 to 2 in overtime and thus eliminate the Toronto entry 4 games to 2. Marlboros scored a goal in the first period and another early in the second and it was not until the 17.38 mark that Hamilton finally broke into the scoring column with a marker by Robinson. Barlow tied it up with a goal half way through the final period and in the overtime Soldier Johnny Russell who is a member of the champion Camp Borden team beat Bastien with what proved to be the winning counter. At Niagara Falls the St. Catharines team polished off the Weaves 4 goals to 0 and their series is all tied up with three wins each. The Weavers started off the series as if there was nothing to it, but the Saints have now sewed the round up and look like winners.

Odd Training Camp Highlights

HAVANA, Feb. 26. — (AP).—"I think I'll win 30 games this year," said Pitcher Kirby Higbe, who arrived at the Brooklyn Dodgers' camp yesterday and ended his one-man revolt against training in Havana. "But I would have been good for 40 if I had been allowed to remain in Miami."

Dixie Walker also arrived yesterday, leaving the Dodgers with only three absentees. They are Pitchers Whit Wyatt and Jack Kraus, both holdouts, and Catcher Herman Franks, who was permitted to report late.

EL CENTRO, Calif.— Pittsburg Pirates, who play golf in their leisure hours, are bemoaning the fact they left their clubs at home

Manager Frankie Frisch, who for two years has opposed golfing by his players except on open dates, made the surprise announcement that his pitchers and catchers may shoot a few holes of golf either before or after baseball practice.

TAMPA, Fla.—Ival Goodman, who spent much of last season on the bench because of injuries and illness, is getting around like a breath of spring and if he can hit homers the way he did in 1939, one-third of Cincinnati's search for a slugging outfielder may be over.

MIAMI, Fla.—New York Giants aren't going to use their pitching veterans when they go to Havana this week-end to open the exhibition season against the Dodgers.

Manager Mel Ott has named Ace Adams, Johnny Whittig, Hugh East, Tom Sunkel, Dave Koslo, Salvatoe Maglie, John Hubbell and Jess Danna for the two-game series. Veterans Carl Hubbell, Hal Schumacher, Cliff Melton and Bill McGee won't make the trip.

AVALON, Calif.—Pitcher Bill Lee, probably the best conditioned and most determined athlete in the camp of the Chicago Cubs, also will be the No. 1 hurler to-day for the Bruins' first batting practice.

Listed on the trading block during the winter, the veteran reported to camp in remarkable shape.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—Cleveland's infielders and outfielders had just finished their first workout when Manager Lou Boudreau remarked: "I would like to single out Roy Weatherly for a word or two of comment. I never saw him looking better and his enthusiasm and general spirit before the workout and out there on the field was marvellous."

Roy was in Roger Peckinpaugh's doghouse several times last season.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Veteran Lon Warneke, reporting for his first workout at the St. Louis Cardinal training camp, cheated a chilling wind and worked up a good sweat

Pitcher Harry Gumber and Catcher Ken O'Dea are the only Card batterymen not yet at work

Trinity College School Outscores Grove 7 to 3

PORT HOPE, Feb. 26.—Trinity College School defeated the Grove from Lakefield, 7 to 3, in an exhibition game at Port Hope. The first period was very even, with McLean scoring for Trinity and Onorato for Lakefield. In the second period, however, T.C.S. went into the lead, 3 to 1, with goals by Cawley and Laing.

The last stanza was far more open than the preceding two, with six goals being scored in all. Trinity chalked up four on efforts by Cawley, Birks, Caldwell and Fleming, while Urquhart scored twice for the Grove.

T.C.S.—Goal, Sutherland; defense Lemesurier, Fleming, Spence; centre, Laing; wings, McLean, Goodall; subs, Campbell, Britton, Birks, Caldwell, Cawley, Waters, MacDonald.

Kimberly Dynamiters blasted England out of the world hockey championship at London with a 3-0 victory five years ago to-night. England's Canadian-trained players had dethroned Canada as Olympic champions in 1936, but they were no match for the smooth-working Dynamiters who later clinched the title with a 2-1 overtime victory over Switzerland.

Two Veterans Are Eliminated In Trophy Play

So successful has been the play for the Neill Trophy, this week, that by tomorrow night we will be down to the semi-finals in the main event, and all will have reached the sixteens in the Consolation, and some the eights.

The boys have responded nobly to the committee's appeal to be out on time, and very few delays have been experienced.

Probably the biggest upsets of the 'spiel, so far, if there are any such things in curling, was the defeat of T. McArthur by A. Gibbs, and also the defeat of R. F. Downey by C. Williamson. The spectators were not expecting these, but nevertheless, they do happen. However, there is one thing about the curling business that seems to be universal, and that is the aftermath.

We happened to go upstairs late last evening, and here was "R.F." and "Tom" sitting side by side on the Mourners' Row, consoling each other.

The games continue tonight at the usual hours, 6.45 o'clock and 9 o'clock.

It sure was a busy afternoon down at this old ice palace yesterday. All kinds of competitions going on, and all very interesting.

On Ice No. 2 Mrs. H. Dulmage and Miss H. Munro had a real hard fight in the final of the Waddell Trophy. At no time was there more than two points separating the two rinks, and it sure could have gone either way. It was well played all the way through and the ladies deserve great credit for their efforts.

On ice No. 5 Miss M. Patterson and Mrs. E. Purvis had to go into overtime before they could decide who's who in the vice-skips' bonspiel. The extra end was all in favor of Mrs. Purvis until Mrs. Patterson made a beautiful shot with the out-turn to float right past the thousand islands to land squarely on the tee—and it was all over.

And then on Ice No. 1 Mrs. D. Clark had no trouble warding off Mrs. DeGraw's challenge for the club pins. We understand that any ladies' rink may challenge the holder. Let's have more of these games.

Over on the other outside ice the hired help of The R. Neill Co. and that of The Agnew Surpass Co. had a little affair all their own. Some of the boys had never been inside a curling rink, let alone toss stones up and down the ice; and at that they turned in a smart effort.

They played 12 ends, and all seemed to enjoy it. Agnew Surpass finished four up.

MAJORS' 3-2 TRIUMPH HOISTS MARLBOROS OUT OF SEMI-FINALS

St. Kitts Blanks Falls 4-0 To Even Series

TORONTO, Feb. 26 (CP)—In the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A and Big Seven Junior A playoffs only one team stands ready today to meet a challenger in final cup play. That team is Hamilton Majors, who last night eliminated Toronto Marlboros in a best-of-seven Senior semi-final series by virtue of a 3-2 win. The final count was Hamilton four games, Marlboros two.

In the other half of the Senior semi-finals St. Catharines shut out Niagara Falls 4-0 to even up the seven game series at three games apiece.

Both winning sextets literally bearded the lions in their dens by gaining victories away from home.

In the Junior A playdowns Oshawa beat Brantford 8-2 to tie up their best-of-seven series at one game each, while Guelph knocked off Marlboros 7-2 to take the lead in the first of a best-of-three series.

The Hamilton win was all the more outstanding because they entered the play with two of their star players, Clarence Shillington and Smack Allen on the sidelines because of ill health. The former was down with a case of flu while the latter was still recovering from an injury suffered in his last game against the Torontonians.

Russell Does It.

Jimmy Russell scored the payoff goal for the Majors after 6:50 of overtime when he took a pass from Dillon Brady and beat Goalie Bastien from 15 feet out. Barlow and Robertson scored the other two goals for the winners, while Farrant and Henderson tallied for the Dukes.

At Niagara Falls the Saints got under way after a scoreless first period to score two goals in each of the remaining frames. Cooper scored the first goal. Adamson, Davey and Goble were the other Saints' scorers.

In the junior game at Oshawa the Generals had little trouble with the Brantford Lions. McNaught and Davies scored three goals each, while Smith accounted for the remaining two. Linn and Wiest were the Brantford scorers.

In the other junior game the winning Guelph sextette also was very little put out to gain their decision. Martin and Voll each got two goals, while Cressman, McDonald and Orlando chalked up one apiece. Mara and Liscombe were the scorers for Marlboros. The game was played at Galt.

The Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP). — The fight mob expects Cleveland to get the third Joe Louis-Bob Pastor fight next Summer (if Joe can get away from the army for it). The Pastor-Franklin scrap was final proof that fans will turn out in what used to be a poor fight town as long as promotors keep giving them good fights....John Dungan Rigney, the White Sox pitcher whose wife, Dorothy Comiskey, is the club treasurer, says he got orders from the club that no wives would be allow in training camp. Wonder what Kirby Higbe would do in that situation?....Cornelius Warnerdan, the cloud-scraping pole vaulter, thanks his pastime would be a lot easier if he could invent a collapsible pole that he could cart along on trains and planes.

Grove In The Groove

When Lefty Grove and his son, Robert Gardner, went to a high school in Lonaconing, Md., to register for selective service, Old Man Mose hesitated a moment when he came to "occupation". The teacher filling out the card suggested that he make it "retired baseball player." Lefty waved aside the suggestion. "Make it unemployed," he said.

Learning that nine members of the Oakland Pacific Coast League Ball Club are planning to quit work in the shipyards to report for Spring training next week, Art Cohn of The Oakland Tribune suggests the club should hire women players instead. That wouldn't take men away from vital defence projects, he maintains, and besides there has been a lot of talk about putting women in non-essential industries.

May Hold Alsab Out Of Flamingo Stakes

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26—(AP).—If Trainer August Swenke gives the word, Alsab will be munching oats in his stable Saturday when his principal rivals go to post at Hialeah Park for the $25,000 Flamingo Stakes—the richest horse race of the winter for three-year-olds.

Owner Al Sabath said yesterday that Swenke alone will say whether the 1941 juvenile champion is to get his first trial of the year under Derby conditions, without giving away precious pounds to the field.

"We'll have a conference today and decide," Sabath said. "It's possible we'll hold him out, although he is perfectly all right.

"We are not going to jeopardize his chances in the Kentucky Derby and other races by running him Saturday if Mr. Swenke advises against it."

If Alsab does go against some fourteen of the country's leading colts, Sabath believes he has a good chance to win back some of the favor he lost with poor performances in his first two starts as a three-year-old.

"Some of the other good horses down here," said Sabath, "have not done well in their first couple of races, then came back to win. Challedon did it yesterday, for instance."

Alsab is little heavier now than he was when he became the glamor thoroughbred last year by winning $110,600 as a two-year-old, but Sabath said he is not concerned.

"I dont think he is the type that will gain many pounds," the owner explained. "He's the streamlined, greyhound type.

"He wasn't meant to be stout or fat. I do believe he'll pick up some weight when we take him north."

Hawks Keeping Hockey Fans Busy Guessing

TORONTO, Feb. 26 — (CP). — The impossibility of calling a National Hockey League club good or bad and making the description stick has made observers slow to release opinions on the latest slump by Chicago Black Hawks.

Hawks have lost three straight, and in two of them looked quite droopy. One week ago last Tuesday Detroit smacked the Hawks 6-1 and last Saturday Canadiens administered a similarly-decisive licking, 5-3. Last Sunday New York Rangers broke their losing streak at the Hawks' expense, 3-2. And in a period when both Boston and Rangers were faltering, Hawks missed their chance to move into the higher brackets.

The Chicago club is regarded as somewhat of a Stanley Cup hope by those fans who spend each hockey season trying to choose a team to beat Boston, New York and Toronto.

Boston seems already beaten by player-losses, and Rangers have been in and out. So have Toronto. That would make everything excellent, except that so is Chicago.

Hawks are four points behind Boston, six behind Toronto and 10 back of Rangers. To-night they will be at home to Montreal Canadiens, who are struggling for sixth place as only a seventh-place club can struggle. In the other game tonight, Detroit will meet Rangers in New York.

The chances seem fairly sure that the end of the season will find the teams in the positions they hold now, with the possible exception of a switch between Americans and Canadiens in the frantic duelling for the sixth and final playoff spot. That would place Chicago meeting Boston in the quarter-finals, and with Boston in its current condition, perhaps Chicago will be satisfied with the condition now prevailing.

UnionOfLeagues For War Circuit Seen By Adams

DETROIT, Feb. 26. — Consolidation of the National and American Hockey Leagues is seen by Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings as the possible solution to professional hockey's survival through the war.

With stars like Schmidt, Bauer, and Dumart of Boston joining the colors and possible loss of many others through passage of a Canadian conscription law before next season, Adams isn't the only one who is considering the best means of carrying on organized hockey.

Drop One New York Club.

The Red Wing boss sees the possible wiping out of minor league teams which are carrying many younger players, but thinks there should be enough professionals left to fill out the N.H.L. and perhaps even add to its strength.

"There are about 105 players on the National Hockey League rosters, 130 or so on the American League, and another 150 or more in the other minor leagues," says Adams. "Many of these players have dependents and would not be taken by conscription—not at first, anyway. There should be more than 100 left to fill out the big league."

Adams believes the N.H.L. could operate eight teams, perhaps dropping one of the New York teams and rounding out the league by adding Cleveland and Buffalo. This would make a well-rounded circuit.

Despite conscription Detroit would undoubtedly be able to keep such present Red Wings as Syd Howe, Mud Bruneteau, and others with families. The Indianapolis club would be called on to contribute Ken Kilrea, Connie Brown, and Joe Fisher, who have children. From Omaha Detroit could draw such players at Johnny Holota, the young first-year centre who has become a sensation in the American Association with 25 goals. Holota is just 19 and probably would not be called to the Army early.

That hockey would continue to draw despite a drop in the calibre of play is the belief of Adams and most other sports followers.

"We could offer well-balanced teams with close competition and I am sure the fans would continue to respond," said Adams. "A decline in the class of hockey would be expected and not resented under the circumstances. I'm sure the fans would welcome—and need—hockey as a diversion in these times."

Campbell Rink Cleans Up Ontario Honors

TORONTO, Feb. 26 (CP)—Gordon Campbell, Hamilton Thistles' skip, today was ready for a second crack at the Macdonald's Brier Tankard, emblematic of the Dominion Curling championship.

Campbell's four from the Thistles club last night won the Ontario District Curling championship by defeating Ken Miles' Toronto High Park rink 14-9 in the final round. The victory gave Campbell's men the right to represent Ontario in the Dominion Title contest at Quebec next month.

In 1935 Campbell's rink won the Dominion Crown for Ontario and in three other years Campbell rinks, representing the province in the Macdonald's Brier competition, competition, competed unsuccessfully.

When Dominion play starts, Gordon Campbell will encounter his brother, Don, now skip of the team representing British Columbia in this year's tournament.

Thistles had to fight hard last night against the strong High Park rink. It needed stirring rallies on the 11th end and again on the 12th and final end to bring them out on top. The count was deadlocked 9-9 after the tenth end.

The Campbell quartet, however, earned a two-shot margin to take an 11-9 on the 11th end and they made sure of the title by keeping three shots closest to the button for a final 14-9 triumph.

Thistles entered the finals by upsetting a rival Hamilton rink, Dr. A. E. Walkey's Victorias, 11-9. Miles' men edged out a 12-10 decision over R. G. Travers' Kingston rink in the other semi-final bracket.

Eight rinks started play in the district final. Rinks from Toronto Club, Lindsay, Chatham and Orillia were eliminated in the quarter-finals.

RETURN THE FAVOR

LONDON—(CP).—Aided during last winter's raids by buses from the provinces, London has returned the favor. More than 100 buses have been sent to various districts to help carry war workers to and from munitions factories.

Frisch Larrups Beefy Pirates

EL CENTRO, Calif., Feb. 26 — (AP).—A new midnight curfew, imposed by Manager Frankie Frisch, put a damper today on any surviving tendencies among the Pittsburg Pirates to cut capers into the wee hours of the morning.

Recalling that two unidentified baseball players broke training rules last year and were fined, Frisch, a strict disciplinarian, served notice that nothing of that sort will be tolerated in 1942.

The manager criticized overweight players in the following vein:

"I'm surprised some of you fellows aren't in better condition. You should come to training camp ready to pitch in right from the start. From the looks of things, a few o you fellows didn't even take a long walk this winter.

"Things are tough these days and we should be thankful we're playing baseball."

Australians Fight Out To Save Other Countries

CANBERRA, Feb. 26 (CP Cable) —Herbert Evatt, Australian Minister of External Affairs, speaking in the House of Representatives today, declared that Australia's recognition of the immense strength of America did not mean Australia hoped to creep into safety behind her new ally. The Australian government, he said, would maintain a front line spirit and continue to make a front line fight.

"We are faced with the necessity of defending Australia on our own shores," Dr. Evatt declared. "In defending Australia, Australians are fighting as much for the Allies as when fighting abroad, because the holding of Australia is essential for the final offensive by which victory will be gained.

"Therefore, when the invader comes, he will be fought by a people who know they are not only defending their homes but standing on one of the most critical battlegrounds in mankind's history.

"We will be defending liberty in its most elemental form. We have done the Japanese no injury except by joining the Allies against their attempt to dominate the whole, illimitable Pacific. Ultimately their insensate plan must, and will, be checked.

For U.S. and Canada Too

"In fighting for Australia we will be fighting for New Zealand, for every Pacific island, and for America and for Canada. We also recognize the importance of holding Burma and India. We are aware of the great struggle of the Chinese people to maintain their integrity, just as we recognize and sympathize with the aspirations of the Indian people to become a self-governing British nation and, as such, partake in the defence of the Allied cause in the Pacific."

Dr. Evatt added it could not be argued that Germany should be defeated first and Japan later. Germany's defeat, he said would be indefinitely postponed if the Japanese successes were allowed to continue. The war could be won only by offensive action. Planning was not enough. Plans must be executed ruthlessly.

The minister added that Australia's own position had changed most rapidly in the last few months. Then, after referring to Australians sent abroad to the various fronts—"Thus unreservedly serving the Allies' cause and helping our own defence"—Dr. Evatt added: "Now the position requires new emphasis."

He said the causes of the Malaya and Singapore disasters should be invested lest they be repeated.

KINGS ROW

By HENRY BELLAMANN

MIXED EMOTIONS

CHAPTER XIV

Dr. Tower smiled again.

"What are your plans for—later, Parris? After Vienna"?

"I want to be a doctor out at the asylum."

"Here——in Kings Row?"

"Yes, sir."

"What put that idea into your head?"

"Tom Carr."

"Who is he?"

"A man who works on our place."

"Indeed. You seem to have a number of influences."

Parris flushed again. He felt his cheeks grow hotter as Dr. Tower's sarcastic tone took full effect. He spoke up with an almost defiant loyalty. "Tom Carr is a very unusual man."

"I have no doubt. Suppose you tell me about him."

Parris related the storyq of Lucy Carr and her death, and explained the way he had felt, even at the outset of his acquaintance with her, that there should be some way to seize her flitting mind and hold it still. Dr. Tower listened without a word of comment.

"And there's another thing, too—somebody else."

Parris told Dr. Tower of Benny Singer and of old Tom Carr's theories about curing him, or at least helping him. He finished, a a little disconcerted by Dr. Tower's silence. The doctor pushed the papers aside.

"I owe you some kind of an apology."

"What for?"

"Well, if you don't know, all right. I apologize just the same. You ought to be a fine doctor. There's just one thing I feel a little dubious about."

Parris waited.

"It's your idea of coming back here to Kings Row."

"Well. Tom Carr was the first one to suggest it, and then I kind of mentiond it to my grandmother, and she spoke right away to Colonel Skeffington, and he spoke to Dr. Nolan out at the asylum."

Dr. Tower laughed once more. "I dare say. I dare say. Well, you seem to have friends paving the way for you. It's just—"

"Just what, sir?"

"'Young eagles should nest far from home. Ever hear that?"

"No, sir."

"It's a good saying. There's a curious rivalry between the old and the young. It's everywhere, but it's keener, and it's more ruthless and more cruel in the home nest, so to speak."

"I—I guess I don't understand that very well."

He had seen Cassandra several times this year—"whenever she could slip away," as she said. He had never felt any unease of conscience about it. Those meetings with Cassandra were in a world apart. Once Dr. Tower had used the phrase, "We live in multiple worlds many of which are solitary and strange to all others," and he had found himself making immediate application of the figure to himself and Cassandra. As Drake would have said, and did, in fact, several times, it was their own business.

Just now he was less certain about that.

Cassandra! He could not precisely say to himself how he felt about her. He had always been quite clear about his feelings for other people. His likes and dislikes, his attractions and gravitations, fell into easily recognizable categories. He knew exactly how he felt about Renee—still. He knew how he felt about Drake, and almost anyone he knew well. But, Cassie. That was a different relationship. She made him uncomfortable sometimes, and sometimes she almost terrified him. She was so wild, so violent, so—so furious. He understood now what she had said that first night in this very study. She had been right. He was not in love with her—not exactly. He didn't know what to call it. It was a fascination of some kind that came back again and again with unflagging force.

Just now he was once more aware of the disastrous consequences that might follow if Dr. Tower so much as suspected anything. There was a quality of threat about the man that was not comfortable to contemplate.

Parris hurried toward home. He was nearly at the end of Federal street when Drake overtook him. Drake had gotten rid of old Molly, and the new chestnut horse was smart-looking and high-spirited.

"Hop in. I'll drive you home. I got something for you."

"Oh." Parris' exclamation was dull and disinterested.

"Is that the way you receive a note from your sweetheart?"

"Let's see the note."

Drake gave it to him. "In my box this morning."

Parris read the few lines hurriedly. "Oh, gee!" He sounded dismayed.

"What's the matter?"

"She wants to see me at your house tonight."

"Don't you want to?"

"I just can't see her tonight."

"What's the matter with the gal, anyhow?"

"She's just—wel, strange, Drake. Cassie—gee, I feel terrible talking about her like this. You know I wouldn't to anybody else. But she frightens me, sometime. She's so—intense."

"I know."

"She's pretty swell, Drake."

"Maybe a little crazy. Like her old man. Else why would he try to keep her locked up at home like he does?"

Parris thinned his lips. "He's not crazy, Drake. He's more intelligent than all of Aberdeen College put together."

"All the same, there's something pretty funny about that house. Ana old Cass—you just now said yourself...."

"All right, all right. But I can't see her to-night. And I haven't got any way to let her know."

'I'll just tell her you couldn't come."

"It's my grandmother I'm worried about, Drake."

"Well, you're not her doctor—not yet. Better come on back with me."

Parris thought about it. He wanted to go back.

"I tell you, Drake. Ill have supper at home. I—I got to talk to Anna about my grandmother. Then if I feel better I'll come on later."

"And if you don't?"

"Ill telephone you."

Anna listened carefully to Parris. She controlled her face and answered him calmly, remembering Madame's warning.

"To tell you the truth, Parris, Madame did see Dr. Ladd."

"Consultation?"

"Yes. Dr. Gordon thought she ought, too. There's no use denying she ain't been so well, but she's better. Don't you think she looks better?"

"No."

"Madame's not so young, Parris, and little things get wrong with you when you get older. But you should not worry now. You work hard and don't worry. I look after her the best I can."

"Where is Grand'mere now?"

"She's lying down. She said she wanted to nap. I guess you better not wake her up."

He felt mightily relieved. "All right, I guess I just got a little worried when Dr. Tower said he thought she didn't look so well."

"She's had a little cold, you know. That pulls a body down, too. Look, Parris. The cookies are done."

Parris grinned. "And a glass of milk."

"Good. I get it right away."

"I've got to telephone, too. I'll be right back."

Parris was invaded by the strangest discomfort he had ever known. He was unable to analyze it, but he knew it was more acute and arose from deeper sources than the normal unrest of spring. He roamed the place from end to end. As soon as he sat down to work he thought of some corner of a field, some stretch of windy slope, some tree, even, that he felt he must see at once.

Madame von Eln observed his restlessness. So did Anna.

"Anna, what is the matter with Parris? He seems unlike himself these days."

"Yes, Madame, I have been watching him. He no sooner comes in than he goes out again."

"Where is he now?"

"Up there at the beginning of the orchard. Hes standing there looking at a tree."

"A tree? Looking at a tree, did you say?"

"Yes, Madame."

"Anna, are you suggesting that my grandson is maybe a little peculiar in the head?"

Anna laughed. "No, Madame, no, no. But he looks at stones, too."

Madame resumed her seat, and Anna spread the brilliant peacock afghan over her feet. Madame put on her thick-lensed glasses and looked at Anna with amusement.

"Anna, I understand you less and less each minute. Of course he looks at things. How could he avoid looking at things? Come now, what are you talking about?"

Anna took a deep breath and wrapped her hands stubbornly in her checked gingham apron.

"It is just as I say, Madame. All the time he goes out. He comes in, then he goes out. Then he looks at things."

Madame began to laugh. Her thin shoulders shook. "Anna, you are a true Alsatian. Tell me in your own way. Go on."

"It is peculiar. He walks all over the place; he looks at the sky and at the ground and at the trees. He picks up a stone and stares at it as if it were strange, then drops it and picks up another. He feels of twigs and fingers the evergreens, and—and—looks at things."

"Heaven help us, maybe he's turning poet."

"No, Madame."

'Anna, maybe there is a girl."

"I don't think so."

"What is the matter with this young gentleman, then?"

"I think he is in love—"

"But you said—"

"Oh, not with a girl, Madame, but here—with this place."

"I have no idea what you are talking about."

"It is this. I think Parris feels something. I think he does not know what it is. I think he feels change. I think he is afraid something is to happen and he does not understand. Oh, Madame, you know I have watched him grow every day of his life. I feel, in here, sometimes just what he feels. I think he cannot help but see that you are not well—"

Madame was silent for several minutes. Anna kept her hands tightly twisted in her apron.

"You were saying, Anna, that he is in love with this place."

"Yes, of course. It is home, Madame, I remember it well, when I knew I was to leave my home forever, I could not see it enough. I looked at every bush, every little leaf. It is like that, Madame, with Parris."

"Perhaps you are right, Anna. I suppose there is nothing we can do."

(To be continued.)

He is a member of a family with a real all-out war effort. His father is an anti-aircraft gunner in London; he has five brothers in the army; one brother in the navy and a sister in one of Britain's women's organizations.

The following ladies were appointed to look after the packing of the box: Mrs. Charles Crawford, Mrs. Hennah Auger, Mrs. Hugh Brady and Mrs. James Black. Japs Increase Pressure On Sittang Line

LONDON, Feb. 26—(CP). — Japanese troops threw themselves against the British ie along the Sittang River in Burma without a let-up today despite increasingly heavy losses, military commentators here said.

The Sittang, the last natural obstacle of any size between the Japanese and Rangoon, is 400 yards wide at this season.

Some observers predicted if the Japanese crossed the river in force Rangoon would fall in less time than ingapore did.

The ittang River front is about 60 m s from Rangoon.

The commentator discounted reports the Japanese are employing 140,000 men in the attack on British lines.

He said the best estimate was two divisions attacking, with one in reserve, or a total of 45,000 men.

There was no confirmation here of a Japanese claim of Sunday that they had taken Pegu, a junction on the Rangoon-Lashio railroad that has fed supplies the Burma Road.

The commentator said, however, his information was limited to the situation of Monday night.

Where Japs Are Nearest Australia

A street scene in Koepang, on the Dutch side of Timor Island. Landing of the Japanese on Timor has put them within 400 miles of the Australian mainland and within easy bombing range of vital Port Darwin. The northeast half of Timor is owned by Portugal.

Mr. King went on farther than that in answering the earlier question of Conservative House Leader Hanson as to what policy the government would adopt if it is released by the forthcoming plebiscite from its pledges not to impose conscription.

No Definite Course

Opening debate on second reading of the bill authorizing a plebiscite he said future policies in that connection would be based on the government's judgment of what was needed for Canada's best interests "in the light of conditions that exist."

To give a definite statement of policy in advance of voting would be to change the plebiscite into a referendum in which the people would be asked to decide an important political and military question.

Mr. King spoke for more than an hour and was often applauded by his followers as he replied to arguments used by plebiscite opponents in the four weeks of debate on the address in reply to the throne speech.

He was followed by John Diefenbaker (Con. Lake Centre) who charged the Bill would give the administration power to "govern by plebiscite" because it would permit any number of plebiscites to be held in the future.

One Plebiscite Only.

Mr. Diefenbaker moved an amendment which would have the effect of restricting powers contained in the Bill to one plebiscite only.

He also urged that the plebiscite question itself be placed in the Bill and Mr. King stated at once that he had already advised Mr. Hanson of his willingness to do so.

(Mr. King told the House last month the question will be: "Are you in favor of releasing the Government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?")

Just before the House adjourned for the day at six o'clock the Prime Minister raised a point of order on the amendment. He suggested that Speaker Glen take under consideration the point that the amendment was not in order since it proposes to amend the Bill on second reading while not objecting to its principle.

Speaker Glen was to give his decision when the House resumed consideration of the Plebiscite Bill this afternoon.

The first hour of yesterday's short sitting was occupied with questions directed to the ministry and other formalities, and there were only the two speakers on the plebiscite measure.

King dwelt upon the "moral obligation" placed upon all parties in the House because of the pledges they gave to the people before the 1940 general election that they would not impose conscription for service overseas.

Solemn Pledges.

He submitted that "no more solemn undertaking could possibly have been given" than those pledges of party leader to the electorate.

But the barrier to unlimited action with respect to prosecution of the war had placed Canada in a wrong light with her friends and enemies as well, and he urged all-party support of the plebiscite so a full affirmative vote might be obtained.

To charges that the government was evading its responsibilities by the plebiscite Mr. King replied that it was seeking even more complete responsibility.

If the government yielded to Opposition arguments that the pledge could be dismissed by Parliament alone it would be adopting "irresponsible government."

The government had been accused of lack of courage.

"Courage," the Prime Minister said, "is when you face the people —not when you run away from them."

He said that even if the plebiscite vote were overwhelmingly in support of the administration he would "not for one moment claim that it was a vote of confidence in this particular government in the carrying on of the war." Rather he would look on it as "a vote by the people of this country to give any government the right to feel it has the power which a government should have under such conditions."

Mr. Diefenbaker said that the Prime Minister was saying "trust the people" and asked: "Does he trust the people when he fails to place before them the questions they will be required to answer? They are not told what is going to happen after this question is answered."

A Moral Obligation

Mr. King declared "the purpose of the plebiscite is to give the government—I put it in general terms—a perfectly free hand to deal with matters affecting the war in the manner in which in its judgment it believes to be most in the national interest. There is a distinction to be made between the legal powers which the government has and the moral power which it possesses. With respect to the legal power, there can be no question whatever that this parliament has full powers to do whatever it wishes or decides to do with respect to the management of matters pertaining to the war. But one limitation exists on that power and it is not a legal limitation but a moral obligation.

"There may be some who take the view that in matter of government in time of war, moral obligations count for nothing. May I say that in my opinion moral obligations, where they relate to a special measure, a concrete matter on which the government of the country itself has given a pledge, are as binding as any obligation of any kind could possibly be, and to say that the Parliament of Canada, which derives its power from the people, after it had given a solemn pledge to the people on a matter which is of deep concern to them, is released from this pledge the moment the people have returned it to office, is simply for parliament itself to create the precedent of being subversive of parliamentary institutions."

"No one can say how long this war is going to last. No one can say what particular turn it is going to take....A government cannot be too free to take the course that may be demanded in the national interest at a time like the present....

Not The Issue.

"Honorable members have been talking about conscription, about no conscription and the like. That is not the issue in this plebiscite.

"This is the issue: Is the Government of Canada, in time of war, to have freedom to take whatever action it thinks most advisable with respect to the furtherance of Canada's war effort?...

"But there is one point I wish to bring out in connection with the special need for the plebiscite at this time, and it is this. First of all, the Government is being put in an entirely wrong position before the people of this country and before the world just because we have not that full power. I ask honorable members to reflect upon that...

"It is being represented to the people of this country as it is being represented to the people of Britain, the people of the United States and the people of all the Allied nations, that this Government is not seeking to have an all-out war effort. Why? Because it is precluded, under a commitment which it has given and to which it is adhering, from having an all-out war effort. In other words the all-out war effort is being identified with that one single thing, namely, the commitment against having conscription for overseas service should that become necessary

"That is putting the Government in an entirely false position. Let us take the position as it is today. Would anyone say that we have not been working as hard as we possibly can toward a full out war effort? Will anyone say that at the present time, if we had that full power, we would be exercising conscription?

"No one will say that, because it is not necessary and has not become necessary, and may never become necessary.

"Nevertheless as long as that commitment is there, we are being represented to the people of our own and other countries as a government that is unwilling to go the lengths other countries are willing to go, even should necessity for it become manifest in every way.

"That is a false position and a very wrong one in which to put the government. It puts the parliament of Canada, as well, in a false position.

Hands Kept Tied

'Supposing the question of conscription were one which was all important at this time, and we wished to discuss it on the floor of the House; could we have a free discussion of conscription on its merits, with that commitment remaining where it is at the present time? The very minute the subject was brought up one honorable member after another, if it suited his convenience, would rise in the House and say, "I cannot discuss this question, because the government is committed not even to raise it." And so, so long as that commitment is there, there can be no discussion on the question of compulsory service for overseas. I say that that is putting parliament in a wrong position before the people of Canada.

"In reference to a referendum...

"This is being said now—and I believe my honorable friend (Mr. Hanson) asked this question only a day or two ago—'What are you going to do if the decision is such-and-such?' He wishes me to say that I am going to do so-and-so. If I were to give him an undertaking at this time, and that undertaking is before the people when the question is put before them, is that not a referendum? That is, I commit myself to one course or to the other, and the people then are being asked to decide whether the government should take it or not.

"In other words I throw on the people of this country the onus of making a political and military decision, when the only body by which such decision should be taken on a question of this kind is the government which is responsible for such decision, advised by its military officers, and asking its decisions on the floor of Parliament, and making itself responsible to Parliament for the decisions it makes."

Regrets Delay To Vote.

Something has been said about the cost, he added. "I assume that the plebiscite will cost something to take and I regret that it will be as long as it is before the vote itself can be taken. But we are spending a good many billions of dollars at the present time and those billions of dollars are coming from the people. When the House undertakes to put through estimates amounting to something like three billion dollars in a year, then I think the people of this country will be relieved to know that the government that is doing that wants to be perfectly sure of their confidence in everything that it does, and that it is prepared to trust them by going before them for increased powers in this situation when it feels that these increased powers are necessary in the public interest.

"What we shall do at any particular time will depend upon the course which we think at that time is necessary and advisable and most effective in Canada's war effort.

"But that decision is not going to be made in the light of any one factor. It is going to be made in the light of all conditions as they exist and as they are known to the government at the time that it has to assume responsibility for any policy or any change of policy which it may deem advisable.

"The government will make its policy known at the time when it is essential to have it made known —and not before, and not after.

Tightening Orders On Hog Slaughtering

For the purpose of making more bacon and pork products available for Britain by discouraging the marketing of hogs weighing less than 200 pounds at the farm and thereby increasing the average weight of all hogs marketed, the Bacon Board has issued a requirement that on and after March 2, 1942, no person slaughtering or having hogs slaughtered under Dominion inspection of the Health of Animals Division, shall slaughter hogs weighing less than 130 pounds dressed carcass weight.

On Dec. 4, 1941, the board issued a requirement prohibiting the slaughter of hogs with carcasses weighing less than 130 pounds by all persons engaged in the export of bacon to Britain. Exporting packers slaughter approximately 95 per cent. of the hogs killed under Dominion inspection and the recent requirement is designed to include the five per cent. of hogs slaughtered under inspection by those licensed to supply the domestic trade, when such hogs are slaughtered under inspection.

THE DUST IS FREE.

Downtown shoppers, especially women wearing Hudson seal coats, have been complaining recently because garbage collectors, dumping ashes into wagons in the business section during the afternoons, set loose clouds of dust that blankets the immediate surroundings. During the late Walter Stocker's regime Mr. Withers always had the wagons equipped with canvas covers that kept the dust down, and it was not a nuisance. It is believed this condition of using covers is set forth in the garbage collecting contract.

Quaker Oats Buys Half Million

Company And Employees Launch Double-Barrelled Attack

The Quaker Oats Company headlined local Victory Loan news today with a subscription of half a million dollars to boost the loan in this county over the half-way mark and well on the way to the total of $2,750,000. R. E. Cutting, vice-president, Canada, of the company, is shown signing the order on behalf of the company. The employees, numbering more than 500, came to bat today also, pushing the plant objective over the top and are still going strong. Fred Ash, chairman of the Shop Committee, is shown handing the employees' subscriptions to Lou Ingram, plant personnel manager, and looking on are the members of the shop committee. In the group, from LEFT to RIGHT, are: Frank Honour, F. G. Ash, Lillian Elliott, Jack Ferguson, Esther Thornton, L. H. Ingram and Thomas Craig.

Otonabee Sales Show Fine Increase

Victory Loan returns stepped into high gear to-day with new subscriptions pouring in from all parts of the county and although the total up to last night was only 35 per cent of the objective, not counting the half million dollars from the Quaker Oats Company this morning, nevertheless the entire picture had taken on a rosier hue, and it was apparent that many people were getting into the fight for freedom with their dollars.

Criticism was heard from many sources indicating that there were a great many middle-aged people in the city with substantial bank accounts, undisturbed for a long period, and these people were still nursing the unusual belief that this country is immune to attack. A few of them were purchasing bonds through the banks, but the great majority of this class were not digging in. On the other hand people with small bank accounts were depleting their accounts and converting the entire cash reserve into bonds, which after all give them double the rate of interest and are just as available as cash in the bank should an emergency arise.

Another interesting sidelight on the Victory Loan was brought into the open this morning when a business man reported seeing three members of the local Jewish group, all men, and three Chinese purchase bonds at the same bank in the city.

Returns from industries in the city are a little slow, but canvassing and compiling the returns in the industries themselves involves a tremendous amount of work, and it is expected many of them will start coming in on Friday. These totals should do much to boost the city total which, aside from special names, is set at $1,350,000. So far $456,000 of this amount has been subscribed.

Otonabee Township spurted ahead during the past few days, and now $29,300 of the $60,000 objective has been purchased. Lakefield continues to stay with the leaders, having obtainted 65 per cent or $39,200 of the $60,000 quota. North Burleigh, Chandos, and Anstruther tops the list with $7,880 of a $10,000 total.

Milder weather is making the job of getting around a little easier and unless there is a heavy snowfall the rural canvassers should be able to complete the work set out.

Following is the total to last night:

	Objective	Secured to Date	% of Objective Obtained
City of Peterboro	$1,350,000	456,050	30.2

Welsh Society Gives Aid To War Victims

Locally, there is a St. David's Welsh Society, who have been doing excellent work in various ways on behalf of the people of Britain who have suffered through enemy air raids over their native soil.

On at least three occasions they have come forward with donations to the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, and this for a group consisting of only a small membership, in addition to the other work they have been doing to help along the war effort speaks well for their loyalty to the home-land.

Today is recorded the second donation within a period of about two months for $10 through their treasurer, Mrs. A. Bartley, and the president, Mrs. G. Pakenham, intimated that further help would be forthcoming to help the people of Britain through this fund.

Another of the staunchest of supporters of this fund makes her 18th contribution for $10 to the fund, in the person known as "In As Much" whose personal interest in the objects of the fund is outstandingly evident from the large number of donations given.

One other personal donation is listed in today's list adding a further $2 to help things along for the fund.

Dog Show For Fund

Preliminary announcement is made of an effort to be sponsored by the dog fanciers of the city in the interests of the fund.

Already steps have been taken to form a strong committee of those interested and a meeting is to be held next Wednesday night at 7:30 in the W. J. Welch barber shop on Hunter street.

The proposed date of this dog show which will be open for all dog owners to compete in, including a section for youngsters and their pets, is April 8, in the market hall, if suitable arrangements can be made, and W. J. Welch, H. S. Routly, Doug. Grant, Dr. Worton, and Dr. King have already promised considerable support for this venture, which should prove quite popular from the very fact that it is something that has not taken place for quite some time.

Already there have been offers of prizes, and Dr. Worton has offered to examine all entries free of charge in order to assure all owners that their pets will be fully protected, and the secretary of the fund, or those mentioned in this article would be glad to hear from other interested parties with offers of help in any capacity or suggestions that would add to making the whole affair a real success.

New Officer Commanding Highlanders One Of Youngest In Canadian Corps

TORONTO, Feb. 26. — By his appointment to the command of the Stormant Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, which was accompanied by a promotion, 34-year-old Lieutenant-Colonel W. F. Rutherford of Toronto has become one of the youngest holders of this rank in the Canadian Corps.

He proceeded overseas as captain and company commander with the Toronto Scottish. After being in England for some time he was promoted to major, and returned to Canada with Brigadier Eric Haldenby when the latter was appointed to the command of a Highland brigade. As brigade-major, he returned to England last summer, and word of his promotion and appointment has just been received in Toronto.

He joined the Toronto Scottish in 1930, when 22, and was a most enthusiastic officer. At the outbreak of the present war he was attending the staff college, which was being held at Trinity College School, Port Hope. His military career is closely linked with that of Lieutenant-Colonel Don Tow. They joined the Scottish at the same time, both went overseas as captains and company commanders and they were both promoted to major at the same time. Recently the promotion of Lieutenant-Colonel Tow, upon his appointment to Canadian Headquarters, was announced.

Shortly before the outbreak of war Lieutenant-Colonel Rutherford was moved from this city to Ottawa by his company, one of the largest of the gasoline firms, but after the Scottish were called up the family returned to this city where Mrs. Rutherford and her two sons are now residing.

Big Show At Collegiate Tonight Attracts 2,000 People At Oshawa

Two audiences totalling more than 2,000 jammed the Regent theatre in Oshawa on Wednesday evening to see the patriotic musical revue, "Pull Together, Canada" and many were unable to obtain accommodation in the jam to obtain tickets.

W. C. McBride of the local Victory Loan Committee who went to Oshawa to see the production was most enthusiastic and he said those who miss the show are deserving of sympathy. "Whether a man intends to buy a bond, or not ever person with a spark of Canadian loyalty will thrill to this master effort," he remarked.

Commenting on the show itself he said: "From the opening chorus to the finale it is an amazing show. It is so different to the average entertainment that words cannot describe it. Catchy tunes, glorious singing and top-notch acting are blended together as a background for such an appeal for national unity that is irresistible.

"You can fight for Canada," the principal song of the show, should live as the number one song of the war, and it is only one of many that make this performance memorable.

"Pull Together Canada" is a show of no stars but one in which all the players should be featured individually. This is one of those "once in a lifetime affairs" that no one can afford to miss."

In his remarks Mr. McBride is merely echoing the sentiments of Canadians all across Ontario who are hailing the show as a master production and it is expected that the Collegiate Auditorium will be jammed when the doors open this evening. The show cannot be held over, and there will just be enough tickets sold to fill the auditorium, hence anyone wishing to see it, should get their tickets at Raine's Stores, the Examiner office, or at the Victory Loan office, and some tickets will be available at the door. The admission price is fifty cents.

A brief talk on Victory Bonds will be given between acts by Major B. M. Hallward, D.S.O., a veteran of the last war who has a distinguished record and in addition to service in France was on the staff of the military mission to the Russian army up to the time of the revolution in 1917.

In private life, Major Hallward is president and owner of the St. Raymond Paper Mills, Quebec. Previous to the construction of the mill he was one of the chief executives of the Montreal Star, and before that he did construction work in Newfoundland as an engineer.

Wine Drinkers Pay Fines Today

As an aftermath of the raid made by Constables Harold Mesley and Gordon S. Trennum on a Hunter street barn Wednesday morning four men faced liquor charges in police court this morning.

Two of them who pleaded guilty as second offenders to consuming liquor in a place other than a residence were fined $50 and $2.50 costs or a month in jail.

They asked for leniency but Magistrate Langley pointed out that they had forfeited any claim to consideration.

"It was only a day or two since you were here before" he said, "and you went right back at it."

Two other members of the party who also pleaded guilty were fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Father Fined Keeping Pupil At Home

After pleading guilty in police court this morning to a charge laid by School Attendance Officer Fred Revoy that he had failed to send his son Ronald to school, Peter Vandenberg, Sherbrooke street told the magistrate that the reason the boy had been kept from school was that he had been put into a special class where, according to the father, he was not learning anything.

Vandenberg said that for part of the time mentioned in the charge his son had been out on account of mumps but after he had recovered from that complaint he had been kept away because he had been moved out of his own class.

"I want him to get an education," Vandenberg informed the court.

"Why not trust the school authorities?" asked Crown Attorney McElderry. "Probably after he has been in that special class for a little while he will get along all right and get back to his own class."

Magistrate Langley told the accused that he would have to fine him $5, the minimum under the School Attendance Act or place him on a $100 bond to undertake to send his boy back to school within five days.

Vandenberg accepted the latter alternative, promising that he would see that his son attended some school.

Victory Loan Sales Pass Half-Way Mark

R. E. Cutting, vice-president of the Quaker Oats Company of Peterborough and Saskatoon, subscribed for half a million dollars in Victory Bonds on behalf of the Company, for the largest single subscription in the Second Victory Loan, since the drive started locally, and the transaction was completed to-day to boost the total sales in Peterborough County past the halfway mark. The objective for the entire district is set at $2,750,000 and this substantial purchase by this Company, is the third of the drive so far, as both the City Trust and the Canadian Raybestos Company have purchased $100,000 lots of bonds.

The big purchase by the Company is just half a double-barrelled drive to upset the Axis apple-cart as it was announced by Lou Ingram, personnel manager at the Quaker Oats Company, that 86 per cent. of the employees in the big mill here, which employs more than 500 men and women, had topped the objective set for the plant, and indications were that the workers were determined to push the objective up to 150 per cent. of the original figure.

In conversation with newspapermen this morning, Mr. Cutting said, "This purchase is by The Quaker Oats Company, and while we have a plant in Saskatoon, the purchase is registered in the Peterborough quota, because we must raise the $2,750,000 in this county. I am particuarly happy over the fact that the workers have decided to adopt this Victory Loan canvass in the plant as something that belongs to them, and they are doing a fine job. As far as I am concerned this Company and its workers are behind the campaign one hundred per cent. and if we can be of assistance just call on us."

In the Quaker plant, the 500 employees are being approached by a crew of 31 canvassers, none of them

Men Urgently Wanted War Work Classes

The classes in machine shop practice for work in war industry have been going along well until now, Bill Mellis of the Unemployment Insurance Commission reported today. Each week, a new class has begun, but an extreme scarcity of men has resulted in doubt as to whether there will be sufficient men to start a class on Monday.

"I am going to Port Hope and Cobourg to see if I can find some prospects there," said Mr. Mellis. It was pointed out that men from 19 ti 27 years old are not eligible for the class unless they are medically unfit or have been discharged from the army.

The rates of pay for those taking the course remains the same. Single men get $7 a week and married men $12 a week. However, if the single men are living at home, full pay is not allowed. Those interested may apply to Mr. Mellis at the Unemployment Insurance commisison office, Barrie Building, Peterborough.

foremen, and the results show fine team work and a burning desire on the part of every man and woman in the big concern to put their shoulders to the wheel of Victory. The shop committee consists of three men and two women, and Fred Ash was named by the workers as chairman of the Shop committee. The personnel is as follows: Miss Esther Thornton, Miss Lilian Elliott, Jack Ferguson, Frank Honour and Tom Craig.

One of the employees to-day pointed out that the Company is purchasing all the bonds subscribed for by the employees on the payroll deduction plan, and the employees pay for them over a ten months period. "The point I want to make is simply this, at the end of ten months I will have a one hundred dollar bond and the interest coupons which will be attached, in other words besides having the bond paid up, I will have three dollars in interest besides, or actually the bond only costs me $97.00. It strikes me as being a pretty decent gesture on the part of the management and I don't want my name used if you mention it."

Enquiry reveals that this is the case and people buying bonds on the payroll deduction plan are not being penalized the interest by the company which buys the bonds. While this is not something for the Quaker Oats alone, but a plan being followed in practically every factory, it is interesting to note that an employee was shrewd enough to notice it and was quick to show his appreciation.

Red Cross Holds Monthly Meet

HAVELOCK, Feb. 26 — (ENS).— Robena Rice received an interesting letter from L.A.C. A. Sarrazin, R.C.A.F., Toobay, England, acknowledging receipts of a turtle-neck sweater which she had knit and donated to the local Red Cross. There was an attendance of 21 at the branch meeting of the Red Cross Monday afternoon. Donations received were: a quilt top by Mrs. Wesley Johnson, Penny-a-week fund for February, $3.76; autograph quilt receipts, $23.05, and card party receipts, $12, as well as much knitted goods and articles for the sewing quota returned. The president, Mr. Lancaster, was present and stressed the greatest need for loyal support to this second Victory Loan.

Social Convener Mrs. Jones thanked those who helped at the card party, and asked for assistance and co-operation again on March 17 for a big euchre party and dance in the Town Hall. During the afternoon two quilts were quilted and bound, the cutting quota completed, and woollen goods stamped for shipment. At the close, freshments were served by Mrs. Tom Paige and Mrs. Jones.

Mission Band Meets.

There was a small attendance at the fortnightly meeting of the Mission Band in the United Church on Monday afternoon, when the president, Miss Stella Wilkinson, presided. Joan Page read the Scripture lesson. The minutes were read and approved. The assistant leader, Mrs. Herb Hoard, gave the topic, "William Penn and the Indians." A hymn was followed by a reading, "The Little Science Teacher," by Ruth Wilkinson.

Hero Tells Story

Exhausted Kenneth Maynard shown as he told of the torpedoing of the tanker 'China Arrow,' sunk in the Atlantic ocean, was described by survivors as hero of the action. He was wireless operator aboard the vessel and when the antennae was wrecked he rigged an emergency antennae and continued broadcasting an S.O.S. while his ship was being shelled. Finally with the vessel sinking under him he placed a book on the key to keep it open and slid down ropes to the last lifeboat. Thirty-seven persons were rescued.

Cut In Sabre Duel

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 26—(AP).—Raul Damonte Tarborda, 32 year old chairman of Argentina's "Dies Committee," was wounded twice in his right arm Tuesday in a sabre duel with Enrique Rottjer, retired army officer whom he had criticized.

Rottjer, 51, formerly was acting governor of Buenos Aires province, and Damonte Taborda had said in a campaign address that the colonel was a disgrace to the army uniform.

The colonel demanded satisfaction, and despite the laws of Argentina prohibiting dueling, the men met shortly after dawn Tuesday.

M.W.C.F. Brightens Lives Of Service-Women

Some time in March the Y.W.C.A. will have a "Churchill Night," at which representatives from the various clubs and organizations of the "Y" will present their contributions to the Mrs Winston Churchill Fund and tell how they raised the money.

What will the money be used for? Well, somewhere in England is one of the biggest military hospitals in the world. The Y.W.C.A. had a hut there in the last war to accommodate the hundreds of nurses and women ambulance drivers working at the hospital The Y.M.C.A. has a new large hut there now, which is crowded to capacity at all times; besides this it is unsuitable for the use of the nurses because their patients use it. Apart from this, the girls have no place of their own in which to entertain their men friends and visiting relations.

The Y.M.C.A. has an old, disused hut which they will allow the Y.W. to use, but it must be refurnished and fully equipped This will cost at least $1,750. There is necessity for huts of this kind all over Britain—a far greater necessity than the British Association can cope with alone. That is the reason the M.W.C.F. exists, so help the British Y.W.C.A. in its tremendous task of caring for the social welfare of British Service Women

Perhaps the money contributed in Peterborough will build one of those huts; perhaps it will buy a mobile club such as pay weekly visits to small out of the way camps. Wherever it goes; however it is spent; we can be sure of this much, that it will bring a patch of bright colour into the hard and lonely lives of those who stand between us and the horrors of war.

Choose Flowers Carefully To Fit Costume

Here are some hints about wearing flowers:

If you choose to wear flowers this spring, choose them to fit your perfume. If the fresh fragrance is not the same as the perfume odor, you waste whichever is the weaker. Nor should your perfume be strong enough or different enough to clash with the flower fragrance. You'll feel much more perfect, much more of-a-piece if your beauty aids blend.

You usually look better and feel better if you wear large or elaborate flowers with simple frocks. Consequently, choose simpler flowers for frillier frocks.

Don't be backward when your escort asks you what kind of flowers you prefer or what dress you are wearing. He deserves some help in selecting a suitable ornament for you.

Mission Band Meets At St. James'

With an attendance of twenty-four, the Mission Band of St. James' United Church held its February meeting in Wesley Hall, with the president, Elva Sollitt, in the chair.

All joined in the responsive call to worship, and the scripture lesson, based on the theme "Faith" was read by Audrey Sargent, who acted as pianist throughout.

A story, "Georgie's Faith," exemplifying a child's faith, by Freda McMahon, was followed with prayer by Evelyn Wallace.

After the reception of the offering the dedication was made by Eleanor McIlmoyle, the treasurer.

A fine musical program, arranged by Freda McMahon included guitar solos by Graydon Hadwin, and a vocal solo, "O Lord, My God," by Joey McMahon, accompanied by Mrs. Doig.

"Lanterns in the China Sky," the new study book, was introduced by the leader, Miss Wagar, who used pictures to illustrate her talk. A poster on transportation "Then and Now" in China, was discussed, and Beverley Littlefair placed in charge of its completion.

The memory verse for the month was learned by the children, who afterwards wrote it in a memory book to be kept during the year.

The business period included the reading of the minutes, the payment of fees and the roll call which was marked on the new attendance record with silver stars. World Friends, the Band publication, was distributed by Ray Harris and Harold Nicholson, and the meeting was closed with prayer by the leader. Two visitors were present, Mrs. W. Rose, president of the W.M.S., and Mrs. H. F. Doig, a former worker in the Band, both of whom brought greetings.

This Is Everybody's War

The Collegiate students are within $188 of the $1100 necessary to purchase a mobile kitchen. This, added to the steady sale of War Savings Stamps, is a wonderful record. The school play will complete the amount and it promises to be a grand piece of entertainment......Some housewives in the south end have been putting a good idea into practice. They gather all their Salvage together on one verandah and then call the Depot to have it collected. Thus the truck makes only one call and a great deal of time, energy and gas is saved. It is an idea that could be adopted in other localities with equal success......We continue to be told in the news of people who have been fined for hoarding sugar. How can people be so criminally stupid? Our ration of sugar is more than sufficient for our daily needs and if we have to eat cake without icing—well, it seems rather a small price to pay for the privilege of being openly "agin the government"......Speaking of Victory Bonds, the proposition was summed up rather neatly the other day by a gentleman who was papering our dining room. He said, "The way I look at it, for the first time we're offered a chance to save by buying on the instalment plan. After all the money that's been lost buying things that way, I should think it would be a nice change" ......The kids can't buy Victory Bonds but they do swell work boosting the loan with their patriotic concerts. The pupils of seven schools in Smith township are presenting one of these concerts in the Normal School Auditorium on Friday evening (silver collection)........The British Y.W.C.A. has a scheme for circulating of gramophone records carefully chosen by their music adviser, among the scattered, lonely huts and annexes in Britain. Requests range from Beethoven to Berlin and every taste is satisfied. Classics have the edge over more ephemeral works, showing, perhaps, that when your world trembles on the brink of the abyss, it is the lasting things that count. It is the M.W.C.F. which helps to provide these civilized comforts for Britain's Service Women......Keep fit for Victory! is the slogan adopted for the Y.W.C.A. gym pageant this year. It is a slogan which we would all do well to adopt. Our health is no longer your own business; it is the vital concern of the state. While democracy needs our strength we have no right to be weak.

Guides Complete Outfit For War Victim

The Girl Guides have completed a complete outfit for a six-year-old girl, to be submitted in competition for the Legion Shield. After the shield is awarded, all outfits submitted in the competition will be packed up and shipped to England, as part of the Guides' contribution to the war effort.

Points are given in the competition for taste, workmanship and cooperation, as many guides as possible taking part in the preparation of the outfit. Nearly all the guides in 1st Peterborough helped to make the one which was on display last night.

The outfit consisted of a pretty little cotton dress, of smart plaid trimmed with rick-rack braid, with panties to match; a navy blue pleated skirt, red sweater, parka and mitts; three pair of hand-knitted knee socks; a warm blue dressing gown and blue felt embroidered slippers to match; and four dainty hankerchiefs.

All the work was beautifully done and is a credit to the youngsters, who have worked hard to get it ready. It will make some little girl and her mother very happy.

Y.P.U. Hears of Bronte Sisters

The Culture Group with Miss Dorothy Smith as convener was in charge of the regular weekly meeting of George Street Y.P.U., on Monday evening. The meeting opened with a lively sing-song led by Loretta McDougall.

The worship service was conducted by Misses Ruth Parnall, Mary Duncan, Dorothy Smith and June Bradt.

At the conclusion of the Worship Service a very interesting story entitled "The Three Sisters" was given by Miss Smith. This story had to do with the life of the three Bronte sisters, who have become well known authors.

The president when conducting the business announced that at next week's meeting the feature would be a debate between Knox Y.P.U. and George Street Y.P.U. on the subject: "Resolved that women should receive equal pay as men for equal works," with George Street upholding the negative side.

Recreation and the singing of "Taps" closed the meeting.

Knox Y.P.U. Holds National Night

The congregation of Knox Church met with the Young People's Union last evening, when they held a "National Night." The worship service was conducted by Phyllis Kidd, assisted by Irene Graham, Marjorie Lewis and Bill Gardner. A fine vocal solo was contributed by Helen Ward.

A quiz program followed. Questions dealt with Young People's work through the local unions, presbytery, conference and the National Council. Four experts were on the stage, Miss Loretta McDougall, Margaret Edmundson, and Bob Kitchen, guests of the Union, and Ken Kidd of Knox, helped a great deal to enlighten the audience on the work of the different sections of the Young People's organization.

A record of a talk on the Victory Loan proved to be interesting and inspiring.

Loretta McDougall then led the group in games. On Sunday, after the evening service, there will be a fire-side at the home of Mrs. R. Laing on John street.

DOROTHY DIX

SHOULD BE NO MONOPOLY UNTIL AFTER ENGAGEMENT

Boys and Girls Should Enjoy Full Freedom To Associate With Other Friends.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — About two years ago I began going with a girl I had known all my life, but after about eight months of this we parted because she would not agree to my demand that she go with no other boy but me. After that we did not keep company for nearly a year, but now we have gone back together again and the same argument has come up and we are about to fall out over it once more. Do you think I have the right to ask this girl not to go with other boys, or not? EDDIE

ANSWER—No, I don't. No man has a right to ask a girl not to go with any other man but him until he is engaged to her and the wedding day is set, and a girl is silly if she accedes to any such outrageous demand. For a man to monopolize a girl's time and attention and keep all matrimonial prospects away from her, without having the slightest intention of marrying her himself, is about as high-handed a proceeding as one can imagine. Why girls have little enough common sense to fall for it is past all understanding. Yet they do. It is a common thing for the lordly male to say to a girl that she must be his exclusive property, just as much as if she were married to him. She mustn't look at any other boy. She must not accept any invitations to go places and do things except from him. She must sit at home and suck her thumbs when he doesn't feel like stepping out. Yet he doesn't obligate himself in any way to keep her entertained and amused. He doesn't even pretend to be in love with her and he never mentions such things as engagement rings and wedding bells.

Girl Is the Loser

This arrangement leaves the boy free to kiss and ride away whenever he wearies of the girl or sees some newer or more glamorous maiden, and it is a bargain so unjust to the girl that you can't see how any one could be dumb enough to enter into it. For the girl wastes her youth, which is the time when she is most attractive and has the best chances of making a good marriage, upon a man whose attentions may be without any intentions whatever. She gets branded as Tom's girl or Dick's girl and that takes her out of the running.

It makes her lose many good times that men with more money and more attractiveness than Tom or Dick possess would give her if she were still in circulation. And if Tom or Dick fade out of the picture she is left on the shelf with no men on the string, worse off than a widow or a divorcee because she has no insurance money or alimony to console her.

Boys think that they put something over on girls when they make them give up all other boys as the price of their attentions. In a way this is true. For one thing, it automatically eliminates all rivals and, for another thing, it certainly keeps a girl humble and in her place to know that it is either John, or nobody.

But the boy does not get off as scotfree as he thinks he does. He also is a victim of the "keeping company" custom, for if he drags one girl with him wherever he goes he misses the chance of getting acquainted with other girls and perhaps finding one more to his liking.

Sometimes Man Cannot Escape

Likewise, while theoretically it is easy for a man to rid himself of a woman for whom he has lost his taste, in reality it is one of the most difficult things in the world to do. It takes a man with a harder heart and more backbone than the average man possesses to tear clinging hands away from him and not be melted down by a woman's tears. And, too, when a couple have been going together for years and years, public opinion marries them, no matter how tired they may have grown of each other.

So I say to all girls and boys: Monopoly after marriage, but while you are just looking around keep yourself free from entanglements.

DEAR MISS DIX—My boy friend and I want to get married, but due to the fact that we are of different religions our parents will not consent to this marriage. We are 18 years old and deeply in love. He is physically unfit to get a job with any other firm except the one he is now working for. This is owned by his father and if he marries me he will lose his job. I am working to support my mother and three sisters, as my father died several years ago, and Mother says she cannot possibly get along if I leave her. I had planned to give her one-third of my salary after I married, but, of course, she practically gets it all now. What should we do? The way seems dark, but we feel we deserve some happiness in our lives. LOVERS.

ANSWER—I am afraid you will think that I am offering you cold comfort in your sorrowful dilemma when I bid you wait and tell you to let time solve your problem for you. For youth is impatient. It wants what it wants when it wants it, and we have to do a lot of living before we find out that if we just hold steadfast and do not try to hurry matters we either get our hearts' desire in the end, or come to see that the thing we once so yearned for would have been a curse if we had gotten it.

At 18 you are too young to marry, even if there were no reasons except your youth to prevent it. You are still children with unformed characters, with tastes that change with our growth and development, and you have no idea of what sort of husband and wife you will want when you are a mature man and woman. Enjoy your pretty, romantic, idealistic boy-and-girl romance, but don't marry until you grow up. Then, you must know that no marriage can be a success that is not adequately financed. At 18 your frail, delicate boy sweetheart could not make a living for you and the babies you would almost surely have. Wait until his health improves and he has a steady job by which he can support a family.

And parental objections may die out and your families will come to see that religion, which is the gospel of love, should not be used to separate two loving hearts.

SPRING SEASONING

By ALICE ALDEN

THE LITTLE dress and matching jacket of navy blue frosted with white emerges each spring as a major fashion promotion. Edith Head has done a suit of this type for blonde Veronica Lake. Dark navy wool is handled beautifully for the jumper top with high neckline and short sleeves edged with scalloped eyelet embroidered white faille. The short peplum jacket has a neat side rever of the same white embroidered faille. A beanie of dark navy wool with two feather wings, blue suede shoes and purse and white gloves complete the outfit.

Some Economical Recipes Which Aid Wartime Orders

By MARY MOORE

So many recipes from readers this week were "stars" that I am sure I can not do better than to hand the page over to you folks this week and give you what your neighbors have so kindly sent you.

The recipes by Mrs. Swan are carefully worded and a pleasure to read, as are the recipes from most readers. But readers, please do not let lack of time or education stop you from sending us an economical recipe. What we need is your idea. We can whip the method into shape easily.

Orange Honey Cake (No Sugar)

(Contributed by B. E. Swan)

Rind 2 oranges, ¼ cup water, 1 cup honey, 3 cups pastry flour, 4 tablespoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 egg well beaten, 1 cup milk, ½ cup nutmeats, ¼ cup shortening, ½ teaspoon soda dissolved in 1 tablespoon water.

Put skins through food chopper, using a coarse cutter. Add ⅛ teaspoon soda, cover with two cups of water and cook for 30 minutes. Drain and discard liquid. To the peel add the ¼ cup of water and the honey. Simmer until thick as marmalade.

Beat egg, add milk and add sifted dry ingredients slowly. Beat until smooth and add orange mixture which has been allowed to cool to lukewarm. Add the dissolved soda, melted shortening and floured nuts. Stir only enough to combine ingredients. Pour into well greased bread pans. Let stand in a warm place 20 minutes. Bake in a moderate oven of 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 to 1¼ hours.—B. E. Swan.

Chopped Fuey

If my eyes do not deceive me the name of this recipe is Chopped Fuey.)

One cup macaroni, 1 tin corned beef, 1 tin tomato soup, 1 onion, ½ teaspoon chili powder. Cook macaroni, fry the onion in the butter, add chopped beef and tomato soup. Heat and stir until smooth and add chili powder with salt, simmering for 15 minutes before combining in with cooked macaroni. Put in a moderate oven of 350 deg. Fahr. and bake for 15 minutes. I suggest that you try this when speed is essential and appetites are keen.—B. E. Swan.

Tasty Meat Casserole

One cup leftover gravy, 2 cups leftover meat in cubes, 1-3 cup tomato catsup, 3 medium sized onions, salt and pepper to taste. Fry onions to light brown, then add gravy, catsup, and meat. Turn into a casserole and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven of 350 deg. Fahr.

Canned corned beef is nice this way, but do not add salt. If veal is used the catsup may be omitted and thyme added to taste or use both. If pork is used omit catsup and use sage.

A baking powder biscuit dough, or pastry may be placed over this before baking. A nice variation would be a mashed potato crust.

Grand Slam Casserole

On pound breast of lamb, ⅛ cup sliced onion, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup diced carrots, 1 cup diced potatoes, 3 tablespoons minute tapioca, 1½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Unbaked baking powder biscuits. Cut the lamb in small pieces before browning with the onion in butter. Add the water, then place in casserole, cover then bake in a moderate oven of 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour or until meat is tender. Add the remaining vegetables and seasonings. Cover and continue baking for 45 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Sprinkle minute tapioca over top and mix thoroughly. Place the baking powder biscuits on top of the mixture. Increase oven heat to 450 deg. Fahr. and bake 12 to 15 minutes more or until biscuits are browned. This is a savory yet inexpensive dish.—B. E. Swan.

Thank you Mrs. Swan for these excellent contributions to our all-out war effort.

The next little offering is for a wartime cake with 'baked-on' icing and comes from Mrs. J. E. Bower.

Wartime Cake With Baked-on Icing (Contributed by Mrs. J. E. Bower).

Two-thirds cup sugar, ½ cup butter, 1 egg, 1 level teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1½ cups flour, 1 cup sweet milk, flavoring. Cream the butter and add the sugar gradually. Cream well and add the beaten egg. Sift flour, baking powder and salt 3 times. Add to butter and egg mixture alternately with milk and flavoring. Pour into a round cake tin which has been greased and floured. Sprinkle sugar (red sugar is nice) and shredded cocoanut (1 tablespoon sugar and ½ cup fine cocoanut is nice) over top. Bake in medium oven 20 to 25 minutes. Turn out on a paper, then invert on a large flat plate with cocoanut and sugar topping up. —B.L.B.

Thank you Mrs. Bower for this good suggestion of a baked-on topping. It is also nice if sugar is replaced by honey or maple syrup or corn syrup. I think the cocoanut blends especially well with honey.

My Plain Cake (Contributed by Mrs. M. F. Larson).

This cake uses no sugar

One cup corn syrup, 2 eggs, ¼ teaspoon soda, 2½ cups four, ½ cup shortening, 2-3 cup milk, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Method: Cream shortening until light and creamy. Add syrup and ¼ teaspoon soda. Beat vigorously. Add eggs one by one and vanilla. Mix and sift flour and baking powder and salt three times. Add flour mixture and milk alternately, and beat well. Pour mixture into 2 layer cake tins, and bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven of 350 deg. Fahr. Remove from oven, cool, spread jam between layers. (No icing required.)

Thank you Mrs. Larson for this. We made one something similar in our corn syrup experiments this week and put a whipped cream topping sweetened with corn syrup on it—using raspberry jam between layers, and we thought it very good.

Send us more of your corn syrup recipes won't you?

These short recipes come from Mrs. Scane whose "Bacon Substitue" won the place of honor a week ago.

Ginger Pudding (from Mrs. Scane).

One egg, 1-3 cup molasses, ½ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 1-3 cup honey, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup sour milk or buttermilk, ½ teaspoon ginger, flour to make thick batter, about 1 cup. Steam 2 hours. (Mrs. Scane is taking for granted that most of you are experienced cooks and will know how to combine these ingredients)

Fruit Pudding (Contributed by Mrs. Scane).

Three tablespoons butter, ¼ cup molasses, 1-3 cup honey, ½ cup milk, 1½ cups chopped raisins, 1 cup flour, ¾ cup cornmeal, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 eggs. Steam 2½ hours. (I think this would be easily made by sifting the dry ingredients together, creaming the butter and adding the honey and molasses and fruit and yolks, then folding in beaten whites last).

Chocolate Bread Pudding (Contributed by Mrs. Scane).

Soak 2 cups stale bread crumbs in 4 cups scalding milk 20 minutes. 2-3 cups honey, 2 squares chocolate melted, 2 eggs well beaten, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake 1 hour. Serve with stiffly beaten cream sweetened with a little honey.

Thanks Mrs. Scane for your trouble in writing these out for us—do let us have more of your honey creations as you discover them.

We would be delighted to keep this space filled with such good recipes. Readers!—those of you who have not sent in a recipe yet—Do Your Bit!

Its slim tailored lines fit in with any background . . . wear it to work or for shopping; dress it up with accessories as an afternoon frock! 600,000 Bottles

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 26—(CP).—Rev. Duncan McTavish, secretary of the London Temperance Federation, told a meeting of London General Ministerial Association yesterday that at Hong Kong there were 600,000 bottles of whisky but only 223 machine-guns.

"Liquor is trimming us," he said, urging ministers to give whole-hearted support to a new campaign against increased use of intoxicants in wartime.

THE STARS SAY . . . .
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, February 27.

The astral configurations for this day hold augury of great and surprising achievements, with all energies and faculties pitched to high goals. Exciting and sudden propositions or new projects may be spurred into action and demand high pressure grasp, in order to reach conspicuous success. Or some old static, crystallized state of affairs or investments may unexpectedly spring into life which must be fanned and sustained by very decisive tactics or well-organized strategies.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of much surprising and dramatic achievement, with the advent of a new opening of significance, or some stirring into life from a long stagnant state of affairs or investment, all demanding great enterprise and initiative drastically engineered and leading to enduring good fortune. There may be adventure and romance.

A child born on this day will be richly endowed with forces, faculties, initiative and skill which will life it to surprising levels of accomplishment and good fortune.

Staying On Strike

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 26 (CP)

STRIKING workers of the Windsor plant of Motor Products Corporation voted today to remain away from work after receiving a telegram from Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell terming their strike illegal and "otherwise hasty and ill-advised." The workers refused to return to their jobs after a lunch recess yesterday.

The telegram was read at meeting of the strikers, now estimated by officials of the United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.) to number more than 400.

All Around The World

LONDON, Feb. 26—(CP).—London morning newspapers gave President Roosevelt's speech prominent places in their columns today, emphasizing his declaration that the United States must fight all around the world and his promise that the Allied powers soon would be able to assume the offensive.

Lord Beaverbrook's Express said the President gave a "cold-blooded account of how he means to use the resources of America to beat the Axis in a long-term war."

Manners Help You in Gaining Popularity

Etiquette When Taking a Taxi

Some girls seem to BELONG in an atmosphere of sleek tax[illegible] gant restaurants and glittering ballrooms. Their manne[illegible] their faces!—are so beautiful.

Yet, these beautiful manners are simple. Any girl can learn them. Sometimes it's just a matter of letting the other person play his proper role.

Instead of "running ahead" of your man on a date—jumping in and out of taxis—you wait for him to help you. Instead of calling out your address to the driver, you wait for your date to give it.

Sometimes it's a question of saying the right, the gracious thing: "It's been grand to have you," in reply to "I enjoyed your party!"

Or whispering "Sorry!" when you squeeze past people in the movies—instead of saying the over-elaborate "Pardon ME."

Men, too, can learn to date the girls who rate highest! Our 32-page booklet has tips for both men and girls on what to say and do in date situations — dining and dancing, theatre and parties, telephoning, introductions, invitations. Discusses office manners, petting.

[illegible] Etiquette for Young Moderns" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

PLEASE DON'T RETURN IT

WHEN I LEAD a small card of some unbid suit against a suit contract, and you, my partner, win it with the ace, please, oh, please do not return that suit. That is, unless you think I have led a singleton and want to ruff. At all other times, please bear in mind that I do not make a practice of leading away from tenaces and guarded honors against a suit contract. So whatever things I possess of that nature are in the other suits, and I want you to lead them to me. It is just the reverse of No Trumps, in which I will cheerfully underlead honors in order to start a long suit.

Bad defenes gave the spade declarer his contract. To avoid leading from his tenaces, West opened the diamond 8 to the A and East returned the diamond 10. South won, dropped trumps, took his own other diamond honor, went to dummy with a trump, discarded a club on the diamond J, gave up a heart and a club, ruffed a heart and made game easily.

If East had properly returned his club 2 to the second trick, West would have had two immediate tricks in that suit, and the later heart trick sure to be taken would have been the setter.

Where the No Trump game was tried, West led his club 4. South won and led a diamond; which East got with the A. He properly returned a club and three tricks there held the declarer to exactly game. If he had returned anything else, an extra trick would have been scored, with five in spades, three in diamonds and one each in hearts and clubs. Of course, if West had led the top of his diamonds to the A and East had switched—but that is another story, as East could have read the diamond 8 as top of nothing and should have switched to a club, especially seeing four diamonds to J in dummy.

3 More Japs Sunk Near Macassar

BANDUNG, Java, Feb. 26—(AP)—Three large Japanese transports, part of a concentration possibly massing for the expected direct assault on Java, have been sunk by Allied bombing planes off Macassar, enemy-held port in Southwest Celebes within 400 miles of Java's eastern tip, the East Indies High Command reported today.

At the same time, Japanese planes concentrated their attacks on this fortified island's airdromes—the sixth day in succession that the Japanese have followed the familiar pattern of softening up Allied air defences before launching a full-scale invasion attempt.

(Tokyo asserted 68 Allied planes were shot down or destroyed on the ground yesterday in air raids on Western Java, and claimed direct hits on a light cruiser and two 3,000-ton ships in the harbor of Batavia, presumably Tandjong Priok.)

Motion Pictures Tell War Story

MILLBROOK, Feb. 26—(ENS).—Furthering the work of the Publicity Committee in connection with the local Victory Loan campaign, a public gathering was held in the Town Hall on Saturday at 8 p.m. when "The Fight for Liberty" pictures were thrown on the screen, depicting especially the second year of the war.

This was a Government film, and the moving pictures told what is being done in speeding up production of all kinds of armaments in Canada, the United States, and in England. The struggle on all fronts was shown also, as well as the war at sea; and the boys and girl present, as well as the grown-ups went home with a definite idea of why the huge sum asked for in the present campaign is an absolute need.

Percy Hamilton, chairman of the local Publicity Committee, presided, and the pupils from the Senior Room of the Public School, of which Mr. Hamilton is teacher, sang a number of selections at the opening of the program, Homer Ouellette accompanying at the piano. Rev. A. R. Gibson introduced the speaker of the evening, I. David Willis of Port Hope, chairman of the Public Relations Committee for Durham County in the present campaign.

Mr. Willis, who lived for some years in Siam (Thailand) and learned there what slavery which Germany would impose upon the world, really means, in his informal talk told of some personal experiences in the Far East. He emphasized the need of supplies for the armies of the United Nations, and referred to the fact that only one of everything needed in this war had been exhibited in the armament train which had visited Port Hope that day, "yet the contents were valued at $3,000,000."

"How shall we supply the tools for the Russian Army of 60 millions for instance, who are fighting for their lives and for our lives, unless we respond promptly and generously to the appeal to buy bonds in the present Victory Loan campaign?"

"How much is it worth not to be afraid while we live here in Canada and have everything that is worthwhile?" Subscribe as you can, and don't later on have a lament 'Would to God I had done more.' This loan is giving us chance to put weapons in the hands of the men who are giving their lives to defend us."

The objective for Durham is set at $1,100,000 and by Saturday noon, Mr. Willis said, 17 per cent of the total had been raised. In closing, the school children gave a folk dance "Captain Jenks."

Rev. Mr. Gibson and L. H. Winslow sponsored the hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Willis for his address.

This Well-Known Implement Salesman Praises Syntona

Tells of Big Improvement After Suffering For Years From Indigestion, Nervous Headaches and Constipation, Sleeps Better and Has More Energy.

Certainly Syntona must have something that stamps it as an outstanding medicine for disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, when so many well-known and reputable men and women give it their public endorsements for the remarkable benefits they get by taking it. One of these public endorsements comes from Mr. Sumner T. Church, Jarvis, Ontario, widely known farm implement man throughout this district. Mr. Church reports as follows:

"I had sought relief for years from indigestion, constipation, and nervous headaches. Food would sour in my stomach and I would belch up scalding, sour liquids. I was afraid to eat many foods because they made me feel so uncomfortable. At night, I would turn and toss so that when morning came I didn't feel rested or ready for the day's work.

"I had tried so many medicines without getting any real benefits that I was sceptical about Syntona, but after talking to the Syntona representative, I took home a bottle and began using it. Before the first week passed, I could tell it was helping me, so I continued with the medicine and now I can say there is a remarkable improvement in the way I feel. My food digests well now without those disagreeable after-effects. My nerves are more relaxed and I am free of headaches. I sleep better now and I arise mornings feeling rested, happy and ready for the long hours of work that my duties demand. I will be glad to have my friends and associates know how Syntona has helped me. I am convinced it is one really effective medicine."

Let this pure herbal compound help you as it has so many other local men and women. Syntona may be obtained in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Car Insurance Problems Told Campbellford Rotary

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 26 (ENS)—Some facts of interest on the compulsory automobile insurance question were discussed by Rotarian Earl Bell in an address before club members at their weekly luncheon held in Woodlawn Inn on Monday. The speaker recalled only one state in America (Massachusetts) which he characterized as a truly Yankee state had tried the idea and made it stick. In Ontario it is the automobile rather than the driver which is insured. Of the American experiment Mr. Bell was of the opinion it was a failure and as evidence of this pointed to the death-rate from automobile accidents which had climbed 101 per cent. in the past fifteen years. This he said raised the question as to whether or not the mere fact that everyone was insured had a contributing tendency to carelessness. He was of the opinion, however, that this was not the case and felt increased traffic together with changing conditions formed the major causes of the higher accident rate.

The procedure in getting insurance in Massachusetts is very simple. The driver appears for examination and so long as he is reasonably careful is given a slip which he subsequently presents to an insurance company which must then give him coverage. It is compulsory for the company to give the driver insurance regardless of what private information they may have about his driving ability. At this point the speaker pointed out that the insurance so written did not cover the driver while he was in another state. In 1929 when the accident rate in Ontario appeared to be rising unduly resulting in a large number of claims for damages the Government appointed a Royal Commission to examine the question of compulsory insurance for Ontario. They returned convinced that it wouldn't work here and one of their reasons for this conclusion was the immense area of the province.

Comparatively few state policemen could patrol the highways of Massachusetts, one of the smallest states in the Union, whereas it would take a tremendous number to effectively enforce the law in all parts of Ontario. It was for this reason the Ontario Government decided to adopt the finanical responsibility clause instead of straight compulsory insurance. Thus in this province when a driver is picked up on a careless driving count the police may lift the man's licence and thus restrain him from again driving a car until he can show satisfactory evidence of financial responsibility. The financial responsibility law went on the books here in September, 1930, and as proof of its efficiency 30 states in the Union gave introduced similar legislation. The far-reaching effects of this law in Ontario are seen from statistics covering the past eleven years when a total of 48,168 drivers' licenses were suspended with approximately 28,000 subsequently reinstated and the remainder still prohibited by law from driving their cars. An ex-member of the Campbellford Rotary Club, Dr. Arnold Bright of Whitby was called on by President Perce Denyes to introduce the speaker, and in so doing he took advantage of the opportunity to comment on the club's growth (from 20 to 43 members) in the past year.

HALL'S GLEN, Feb. 26 (ENS).—A very enjoyable time was spent Friday evening at Pleasant Plains School, where dance and draw was sponsored by Women's Institute and community war workers.

Despite the cold weather a good crowd was in attendance, music supplied by Wilbert Wright's orchestra. At midnight refreshments were served by the ladies. An important event of the evening was the presentation of two occasional chairs to Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Dunford from school section, prior to their departure from this community. Bill McLaughlin made a short impromptu speech expressing regret in losing good neighbors and four bright pupils from his school. Gordon Hamblin and George Crowe presented the chairs. Mr. and Mrs. Dunford thanked their friends and invited all to visit them in their new home.

Miss Isabell Wray of Peterborough made the draw with Garfield Crowe winning the rug. Arthur Little got the guilt, both gentlemen put the rug and quilt up for auction and donated proceeds to war work fund which netted $6.50 and $4.75 respectively. Total proceeds for the evening netted $74.15.

Do You Suffer From Headaches?

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time.

A headache need not be an illness in itself, but it may be a warning symptom that there is intestinal sluggishness within.

To help overcome the cause of headache it is necessary to eliminate the waste matter from the system. Burdock Blood Bitters helps to remove the cause of headaches by regulating the digestive and biliary organs, neutralizing acidity, regulating the constipated bowels and toning up the sluggish liver, and when this has been accomplished the headaches should disappear.

Canadians Leave Gneisenau Lair Ablaze

LONDON, Feb. 27 (CP Cable)—A Royal Canadian Air Force Wellington bomber squadron last night made a heavy attack on Kiel, where the German battleship Gneisenau is drydocked, and left a number of fires. One was so large it could be seen from 50 miles away.

The Canadians penetrated a heavy ring of anti-aircraft fire and dropped successive sticks of bombs to start what PO. W. H. Baldwin of Ottawa called "dandy fires." Other fliers reported great green and red explosions.

Baldwin, commissioned a few weeks ago, was navigator in the first Canadian machine to return to base and told of a hard trip over the sea with bad icing conditions.

"By climbing to 14,000 feet we ran clear of the bad weather and clear moonlight showed us the way right to our target," he said. "Everything was frozen over.

Blinding A.A. Flashes.

"There was a heavy ring of guns around Kiel and we had to weave our way in. We dropped our bombs all in one stick but it was quite difficult to see the results because there were so many flashes from the guns on the ground and the glare of so many searchlights. However, we did leave some dandy fire burning.'

Another machine had in its crew Po. Tim Jones of Stratford, Ont., navigator; Flt.-Sgt. Lloyd Higginson, Montreal, first pilot; Flt.-Sgt. W. B. Blizard, St. Lambert, Que., second pilot; Flt.-Sgt. E. T. McGill, Winnipeg, wireless operator and air gunner, and Flt.-Sgt. J. R. Morrison of Winnipeg, rear gunner.

Jones said that "when we dropped our bombs in the dock area there were great green and red explosions."

Morrison added: "We left behind a very big red glow"

The raid was the second on Kiel in as many nights. Three planes were lost.

Flt.-Sgt. W. B. Kayser of South Porcupine, Ont., and Sgt. A. J. Francis, of Saskatoon, members of the crew of another bomber, said they bombed from 16,000 feet and saw two huge flashes.

Nurse Bomber Home.

Two British Columbians, PO. R. P. Locke of Okanagan Valley and Sgt. J. W. Sanderson of Vernon, rode in a fourth machine. Locke, at the controls of the plane, had difficulty returning to the base after one of his engines out over the North Sea, but he nursed the aircraft along and, in the words of Sanderson, made a "wizard landing."

Last Supplies Burned At Rangoon

100 Uncrated Trucks Hardest Blow, Much Of Goods Saved

(By DANIEL DE LUCE.)

MANDALAY, Burma, Feb. 27—(AP).—Remnants of war material on the docks of Rangoon apparently were in flames today along with other supplies that probably would have fallen to the Japanese if they captured that imperilled gateway to the Burma Road.

That was the obvious implication of a report that Lt.-Col. Adrian St. John, head of the United States Military Mission in Rangoon, was on his way here by armored car, his work there done.

It was his job to transfer northward thousands of tons of material which had accumulated there during recent months and Allied observers agreed he had saved more than they had believed possible.

The biggest item of potential value to the enemy reported put to the torch was a group of about 100 trucks which could not be assembled in time.

Early this month I gave a pint of blood for a blood bank operated in a Rangoon hospital by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon S. Jury, volunteer transfusion technicians from Hamilton, Ont.

Suspicious of his broken English, they turned him over to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. He was the 76th prisoner of war to have escaped from custody in Canada, of whom 71 have been recaptured. Four died of gunshot wounds suffered

Action On Ideas To Best Hun McNaughton Call

TORONTO, Feb. 27—(CP).—Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Corps overseas, said in a press conference today that the Canadian army "needs not merely ideas, but something we can hit people over the head with," and suggested the formation of a "department of development to make sure our ideas are placed in mass production in the shortest possible time."

He spoke briefly to the press after inspection of Research Industries, Ltd, plant in suburban Leaside—after a two-hour walk through a huge plant covering ground that was rolling field when Gen. McNaughton led the First Canadian Division overseas in December, 1939.

He spoke freely in the press conference, stating that he intended to bring young officers into positions of importance as quickly as possible with Lieutenant-Colonels to average about 30 years of age, Brigadiers about 40, divisional commanders also about 40, and senior officers under 50. But he stressed mainly the need for development of a firm liaison between the Federal Government's experimental agencies and the actual production lines.

Things Better Than Hun

"I can't say that such an organization exists in Canada at present," he said. "The idea has been received in a manner I consider hopeful, though. The need now is not for something made by hand and in small quantities, but for something that is better than the enemy has, and in the huge quantities that only North American mass production methods can produce.

"We must drive forward. A Department of Development is needed. Ideas are being sent back to Canada and explored for possibilities by men of energy and resolve, but we need a central organization to appraise and accept or reject all these ideas. Three of five ideas will be no good, but if one out of every five is good that will be a great

Jap Armada Hit Hard Off Sumatra

Bomb Palembang Oil; Enemy Air Raids Slacken On Java

BANDUNG, N.E.I., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Allied bombing planes, already successful in smashing one Japanese invasion fleet off Java's eastern end, launched an attack today against a newly-mustered enemy armada off the coast of Sumatra west of this island fortress.

A squadron of United Nations planes, possibly including fortress-type bombers, raided a concentration of Japanese shipping in the waters near Bangka island, just off the Sumatra coast. They encountered strong anti-aircraft fire, but returned intact and on their homeward flight fought off an attack by 10 enemy fighter planes, one of which the Indies high command listed as probably destroyed.

This latest blow in an Allied counter-offensive which now appears to have shifted most of its weight to Java's west, where the Japanese have driven to the shore of narrow Sunda Strait, was carried out simultaneously with a third successive bombing raid on Palembang, enemy-held oil centre in South Sumatra. There the bombers touched off new fires to add to the previous devastation in this area.

(The threat to Java from the west was pointed up by a Tokyo claim that a naval base on Semangka Bay at the southern end of Sumatra has been occupied. The Indies yesterday acknowledged that Japanese forces held Telokbetoeng, 40 miles to the East.)

Japanese air activity slackened off considerably.

1,000 Canucks Out In Big Manhunt Double Shooting Suspect Nabbed

BOFGNOR REGIS, Sussex, England, Feb. 27—(CP Cable).—Private J. W. Moore, 20, of Chatham, Ont., sought for questioning in connection with the slaying of a police officer, was found today in Hertfordshire and taken into custody after a struggle with a police sergeant.

An entire battalion of Canadian troops armed with Tommy guns, Bren guns and rifles—and under orders to shoot at sight—had participated with hundreds of armed police in the search for Moore. It was one of southern England's greatest manhunts.

Moore was recognized in the town of Ridgehill by Police Sergeant Victor Potter who was on traffic duty with four constables. Moore approached them to inquire the way to St. Albans. Police said a murder charge will be laid against him.

The search was begun after a police officer had been killed and another seriously wounded at the small town of Aldwick, near this coastal resort.

The shooting occurred in an empty villa where F. J. Fuller, a part time constable, ha reported seeing a suspicious character. Police Sgt. William Avis, investigating, was shot as he opened the door to enter the house. He collapsed and died. Fuller was wounded in the forehead as he withdrew from the premises.

Trapped Nazis Refuse To Quit Reds Slaying All

MOSCOW, Feb. 27—(AP).—Dispatches from the Staraya Russa front declared today that the Russians were breaking down the stand of the trapped survivors of Germany's 16th Army, virtually dooming division after division of the encircled force of at least 96,000 men.

Besides the 290th, 30th and Elite Guard divisions earlier hemmed in rings within the encirclement, these dispatches said the Russian squeeze had endanged the 5th Division, the 18th Motorized Division and the 81st Division, reported brought to the Russian front from France.

Eleven blockhouses and 30 gun emplacements and dugouts have been destroyed and 2,500 Germans killed in three days of fighting, the Soviet Information Bureau said.

Russian reports said the trapped troops refused to surrender and were suffering heavily.

German units outside the trap were said to be counter-attacking at some points in an effort to save part of the encircled army.

Dispatches from the Southern front, too, reported heavy blows at German forces and declared that Russian reinforcements were arriving in strength in the Donets Basin area.

On the Kalinin front the Russians said they had encircled some German forces and defeated the 397th Infantry Regiment, an Engineer battalion, and an anti-tank artillery unit of the 123rd Division.

Next 3 Months To Tell, Tip Japs To Start With Heavy Bombing

MELBOURNE, Feb. 27 (AAP)—The greatest war planning conference ever held in Australia convened today with the Commonwealth War Council meeting in secret session with high advisers from the Allied nations to shape up a new offensive strategy based on the possibility of imminent Japanese attack on this continent.

Laid before the meeting were the plans on which Australian and Allied strategists have been working for days—plans for ultimate offensive strokes as well as the guarding of Australia's shores.

(Exchange Telegraph Agency quoted authoritative Melbourne quarters as saying the conference may mark the launching of an almost immediate Allied offensive.)

As the council met forces of the invaders were poised on out-lying Australian territory—the Islands of New Guinea and New Britain. Australian airmen, continuing their blows at the massing Japanese, raided the captured New Britain Port of Rabaul last night, dive bombing ships, buildings and airdromes.

The Melbourne Herald said the War Council's talks would continue over the week-end; but predicted a quick decision on defensive and offensive moves.

High Hope in Litvinoff 2nd Front Call

(By DEWITT MACKENZIE.)

LONDON, Feb. 27—(CP).—The call for a new Allied front in Europe this Spring, sounded by Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Ambassador to the United States, seems bound to create a profound impression in Washington and London.

There can be no doubt that Litvinoff, who urged this action in a speech before the Overseas Press Club in New York last night, was speaking for his chief, Joseph Stalin. No Ambassador would dare venture on such a subject without instructions from his government, and the address therefore becomes a matter of first class importance in Allied councils.

Observers generally gathered that Litvinoff had principally in mind a major offensive in Western Europe, to be co-ordinated with the Russian drive on the Eastern front. This would mean that the British army would invade the continent, assisted by the United States and other Allies.

That would place Hitler between two fires—a situation which any commander will avoid if humanly possibly. Litvinoff was optimistc enough to predict that this might mean an Allied victory by Summer—a forecast wrich would seem to fit in with the optimism which has been radiating from Moscow recently in connection with the great Russian successes.

The Soviet envoy repeated the generally accepted thesis that "to deal Hitler a knockout blow would mean to smash the Axis and greatly to simplify all the other problems confronting the United Nations so that their solution would take much less time and trouble." One assumed that he had reference to Japan in speaking of "other problems." In this connection he voiced the view that there would be no other front outside Europe where offensive actions would be initiated, at least for a long time to come. This naturally gives rise to the thought that he might have been warning that Russia doesn't intend to make war with Japan in the immediate future.

Some months ago when there was considerable public clamor in Allied countries for a British offensive against Hitler across the English Channel, the consensus among military experts was that this would be suicidal. The Nazis were far too powerful for such a dangerous military operation, and the British forces were too weak in some branches, particularly shipping for transport of troops. It was generally agree that, while there must be such an offensive, it must wait until Hitler had been weakened.

It may be that the terrific lacing the Germans have been taking at the hands of the amazing Muscovite has whittled the Nazis down to a size where a spring offensive across the Channel would be justified. Apparently the Russians believe this to be the case.

A landing in force on the continent from the channel, in the face of strong enemy opposition, would represent one of the outstanding military operations of all

3 Others Nabbed In Florida As Dangerous Aliens

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27—Baron Fritz von Opel, wealthy yachtsman and son of a German car manufacturer, was arrested early to-day and his winter residence here searched by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents. Von Opel and three other persons were arrested as "potentially dangerous aliens."

R. G. Danner, special agent in charge of the F.B.I.'s office at Miami, would not identify Von Opel by name, but said that two German and two Hungarian aliens were arrested in Palm Beach.

He said that guns and ammunition found in their possession violated provisions of a Presidential proclamation and placed them in the "Potentially-dangerous enemy alien" category.

Danner added that the four would be turned over to the immigration service for a hearing to determine whether they should be interned.

Identification of Von Opel as one of those arrested came from an unimpeachable law-enforcement source.

Von Opel, son of the manufacturer of the open car, owns a Massachusetts brewery. He came to the United States about two years ago.

Dutch Commander Sees Isles Ringed But Defences Good

BATAVIA, N.E.I., Feb. 27 (AP) —"Many thousands" of soldiers from Britain, Australia and the United States already are in Java to fight with Netherlands forces in defence of this imperilled island stronghold, Lt.-Gen. Hein Ter Poorten, commander in chief of the Netherlands East Indies Army, disclosed today.

He bade them "fight like wildcats and fight like hell" against the enemy ready to spring from stepping-stone islands in almost every direction against Java, the United Nations' last Pacific citadel before Australia, into whose defence the determined Indies are ready to pour all their strength without thought of the sacrifice.

The Americans join United States air and naval forces whose blows against the invaders, inflicting a daily mounting toll, have bolstered the Indies' confidence that the Japanese will find their defence too strong and the cost too great to score the blow still needed to cap their conquest of these islands.

(United States Army forces, as well as British and Australian troops, had been known to be on Java, but there had been no previous indication they were there in formidable numbers.)

Gen. Ter Poorten spoke in English in his broadcast welcome to the United Nations Allies. He gave them the same blunt message that Indies officials have been giving their people—that Java is in peril, that there is no room for blind optimism, but there is none for pessimism, either.

resisting arrest, and one, Sub-Lt. Baron Franz von Werra, an airman, got back to Germany and later was reported killed in action.

A widespread search had been instituted for Bruns after his escape late last night.

Bruns, aged 25, was in hospital for treatment as an epileptic. He was moved here three months ago from a Northern Ontario internment camp.

Leonard Bratby, 43-year-old guard, saw Bruns just after he had jumped from the window of his room. Bruns had pried back a bar and smashed a screen on the window to make his get-away. After a scuffle with Bratby, the prisoner fled.

Bratby said he hurried to the room occupied by Bruns and eight other patients, one of them a German, and found bedding arranged to resemble someone sleeping in Bruns' bed. The other Nazi was asleep.

Hospital officials told police the escaped airman wore hospital blues, with a grey sweater and blue tie. He was described as five feet nine inches tall and weighing 160 pounds.

Guards said Bruns had been a consistent trouble-maker since he came to the hospital and had boasted that sooner or later he would escape.

Two German aviators, Oberlieutenants Albert Henrick Waller and Ulrich Steinhilper, escaped from prison camp at Bowmanville, Ont., last week. They were picked up in Waterdown, N.Y., last Sunday night and returned to Bowmanville.

The fliers said they crossed the international border by walking across the frozen St. Lawrence River.

Taken by Bowmanvile Men.

The men who picked up Bruns were AC1 J. E. Hockley, AC2 H. E. House, both of Bowmanville, and AC2 R. G. Williams, Edmonton, all aero mechanics at the Alymer School.

When on their way to Aylmer along the Hamilton Road, which leads east to Ingersoll, they stopped a London policeman within the London city limits to ask road directions. The policeman told them to be on the lookout for the escaped prisoner.

A mile east of the city, House, driving the car, saw the man dressed in overalls walking on the opposite side of the road. He did not ask for a ride but they invited him into the car.

The airmen said he told them that he was a Czechoslovakian from Windsor and was on his way to Hamilton. The main highway to Hamilton is further north than the Hamilton Road.

Reaching the Aylmer School the airmen turned the man over to the guards at the gate. This apparently was the first intimation Bruns had that he was under suspicion.

He was questioned sharply and finally admitted he was the escaped prisoner. He was placed in the guard house for three hours and then taken back to London.

City Continues Bonus On Cost Of Living

Shuttling back to the salary question after about a year's quiet on that front, the Finance committee of the council adopted Thursday night a motion by Alderman Glover, seconded by Alderman Sullivan, to continue the cost of living bonus to civic employees for 1942.

To most of the employees this bonus amounts to $179.40 a year, except those on a lower salary level who get 14.3 per cent. of their earnings instead of the $3.45 a week. Alderman Gordon proposed making the bonus permanent, "attaching it to present salaries as an increase," but nothing was done in that direction. The finance committee will likely return to the subject tonight.

"If we had adopted the salary schedule we proposed years ago, we should have avoided all this annual discussion," Alderman Dutton remarked as the committee faced once more its familiar quandary of the "salary question." Alderman Bradburn enquired whether any of the employees had asked for increases, and was informed that only several persons had done so. One of them is Sanitary Inspector MacPherson, and others are from the matron and nurse at the Isolation Hospital.

Alderman Gordon said he was not objecting to the schedule idea which the Board of Education had established on a smooth and satisfactory basis. "The employees of the Board are more easily grouped or placed in categories than are ours. They have academic degrees and standing, certain fixed responsibilities in their schools, and it was comparatively easy for the board to arrange a salary schedule. But, that cannot be said of our departments, especially in the city hall."

Alderman Dutton said that Sanitary Inspector MacPherson had an offer from the Provincial Department of Health to take a northern post at a salary considerably higher than he received in Peterborough.

"If I were in his place I would take it," Alderman Dutton said. "He would rather stay here at an increase over what he is getting. If we had to engage a new man we would have to pay him more than Mr. MacPherson is getting. He is doing good work here."

Miss Wright of the Queen Mary Hospital has an opportunity of going to Hamilton, where prospects are broader than in Peterborough.

"We might have some difficulty getting a nurse to take her place," Alderman Dutton said. "Both these salary requests have to be dealt with immediately."

As the council has been paying the cost of living bonus since last July and no question has been raised about its continuance, city employees may wonder how it came about that the mere continuance found its way into a motion. After it was set forth of the members of the committee that most of the civic employees were getting $3.45 a week cost of living bonus, amounting to $179.40, some of the aldermen were inclined to the opinion that the staff was not "doing too badly."

As a point of information, Alderman Sullivan said municipalities did not come under the wage ceiling regulation, and was not required to pay a cost of living bonus to its employees, city hall staff, policemen, firemen, Board of Works employees and so on. Alderman Dutton said the committee should not make any increases in salary and also continue the bonus. Any increase should immediately take the place of bonus.

The Glover-Sullivan resolution was projected into that stage of the discussion proposing that the bonus be continued this year, taking the place of salary enlargement.

Alderman Swanston suggested that if the council began reconsideration of salaries that the entire basis of values should be surveyed. He especially mentioned the salaries in the assessment department, "the most valuable in the city's service, the basis of all our assessments and taxes," and said that the salaries in that work were entirely inadequate.

"I agree that they are the revenue producing department," Alderman Glover commented.

The committee decided to get the former proposed salary schedule, and brush it off once more, at the same time this evening dealing with the several salary demands that call for immediate attention.

Three hundred rounds of similar ammunition were found after yesterday's shooting.

The house in which the slaying took place had long been vacant. Avis had only started to walk into the hall when two slugs hit him, one in the head, the other in the heart. He died immediately.

From the darkened hallway a man in civilian clothes raced out and Fuller began to flee down the garden walk. The man caught up with him and fired a shot through the head of the bewildered policeman, who was unarmed.

An entire battalion, including the colonel and all officers, was called out to aid the police who, through an inspector, expressed their gratitude to the Canadian Army authorities.

The inspector said "the battalion has helped the police immensely and no one could be working harder to apprehend this man."

Big Black Bear Meets Couple On Loney Road

A big black bear who must have overlooked the fact that February 2 was Candlemas day and that he was quite close to the city, appeared about a mile from Peterborough last night and about 30 feet from Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rusaw, Highway 7. It seems the postman early in the day had left a wrong letter in a neighbor's mail and they were on their way to get it when they were suddenly confronted with bruin standing in the middle of the road a quarter of a mile off the highway on the 9th line of Otonabee.

Even the bravest of the brave would not dare to walk any closer at 9.30 p.m. and Mrs. Rusaw was not out to set any precedent. She and her husband watched the animal for a moment as it sat on its haunches looking about. "It must have stood four feet high," she told the Examiner to-day. "I started to walk back towards our farmhouse. The bear started walking toward my husband and he started walking back to the house." However, bruin soon turned around and walked away in the opposite direction.

Neighbors were 'phoned and one of them spotted bruin hiking across the fields. This morning bear tracks were evident right up to the Rusaw farm home and on several fields of the district. "It would be just as well for the people to know there is a bear in the district," said Mrs. Rusaw. "It might cause an awful fright among people if they weren't expecting it."

shows that continued resistance on Java cannot long be expected."

(There have been reports that one of the decisions before the War Council is whether to send major Australian forces to help hold Java or to hold all available troops for a fight on the home shores.)

"The fact is well known in Japan," the Herald said, "that Australia is destined to become a gigantic base for the Allied counter offensive unless Japan can forestall such action."

Many observers regard the next three months as Australia's hour of crisis after which, the Herald said, "powerful help assembling for us should turn the scale."

Big Bombing Stroke.

The Melbourne Herald quoted a highly qualified American observer back from Singapore as telling the Australian war cabinet that he thinks Japan's next move against Australia may not be invasion but a powerful bombing campaign, probably from a northern base or bases, with the object of rendering ineffective such war production centres as Newcastle, Sydney and Melbourne.

Maj.-Gen. David Blake, commander of the forces at Darwin, was quoted as saying that after Japanese raids on that northern Australian port the morale of the troops was 100 per cent., with the reaction of most soldiers: "Let's get at them!"

Gen. Blake said he was pleased with the work of the militia's anti-aircraft batteries during the attack. In a number of cases light field batteries shot it out with Japanese "zero" fighters and at least one was destroyed by these guns.

Australian planes raided Japanese-occupied Rabaul, New Britain, again last night, setting off fierce fires and explosions in attacks on wharves, shipping, military installations and airdromes.

30-Mill Rate Is Suggested To City Council

Emerging from all the detail of estimates of the money to be spent this year in the administration of the city, the finance committee of the council last night tentatively proposed a tax rate of 30 mills.

Reaction of the taxpayers to this prospective levy may be clarified by comparison with the 1941 rate of 32.7 mills, a decrease of 2 7/10 mills.

The recommending resolution was moved by Alderman Gordon and seconded by Alderman Glover.

Possibility of a 29.5-mill rate was mentioned by City Treasurer M. E. Shaver, but certain factors which it was thought might develop restrictively during the year were regarded as influencing the ultimate fixing of the rate at the 30-mill mark.

Alderman Cotton, chairman, said the provincial government's expected subsidy of a mill this year, continuing a compensatory repayment for income taxes, was not definitely assured, but on the other hand no intimations had come from Queen's Park of likelihood that the contribution would not again be forwarded this year. It was the committee's opinion that this assistance would be available for revenue.

"If it turned out that the council did not get the equivalent of a mill from the government, you could issue debentures for the new sewer in the northwest end of the city for $10,000, and wiggle through by drawing on an increased miscellaneous account," City Treasurer Shaver suggested.

This sewer was undertaken at the request of Wartime Housing Limited for the accommodation of the temporary houses that have been erected in the Jackson Park neighborhood. The total cost has been estimated at $20,000, and Wartime Housing has agreed to assume half the total, or $10,000. A 30-mill rate would provide sufficient money in a miscellaneous account to absorb a possible deficiency of the government's subsidy, and that expedient would be further supported by issuing debentures for the amount of $10,000 to pay for the city's part of the sewer cost.

The sentiment of the committee was the money would be forthcoming from the provincial government, and recourse would not have to be made to the debenture method of financing.

Alderman Gordon remarked that if money had to be borrowed by debentures, the council would be justified any way because the sewer would be of use and benefit to the city for many years, although the work might not have been begun in normal times for the next five years or more. If the government's equivalent to a mill is received, the cost of the sewer will be paid out of current revenue.

time. It would call for every warship, airship, and transport which could be mustered by Britain and the United States. It would precipitate a battle beside which the scenes of Dunkirk would be mild.

However, time has arrived when both America and Britain are emphasizing the need for Allied initiative. Wars cannot be won by defensive operations. It must remain for the supreme Allied command to decide whether the time will be ripe for an invasion of Western Europe in the Spring.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP). — Simultaneous United Nations attacks on two or more widely-separated fronts this Spring would destroy Hitler by Summer, in the opinion of Maxim Litvinoff, Russian Ambassador to the United States.

Only by this strategy, and by continuing to supply Russia with materials for the Eastern front, he told the Overseas Press Club last night, could the Allies "dispose of" Nazi armed forces. His address was broadcast.

In his first public address since taking his post in Washington, the Soviet diplomat called on Russia's allies not to miss this opportunity to beat Hitler to the punch with a widespread Spring-offensive.

"He (Hitler) is preparing for a Spring offensive," Litvinoff said, "and he thoroughly understands the importance of the Eastern campaign, which should settle not merely his own fate, but also that of the whole Axis.

"He knows that either he will win this campaign, and win all, or he will lose it and lose all. We should like our allies and friends to see this as clearly as Hitler does, and to act accordingly."

With the declaration he did not mean the Allies should concentrate on the Russian front to the detriment of other fronts, he said Russian nevertheless would like to see all the Allied forces put into action by Spring where they could be used best, and military materials sent to the places where most needed.

"We have wrested the initiative from the German command, which in modern warfare is of the utmost importance. It would be deplorable if were were to lose this initiative for lack of adequate and timely support."

Regarding the appointment of younger officers, he said "Those of us running things now are just a cover-crop."

"I mean by that, we are up there acting as sort of protection for the young men growing up underneath us. I look forward to the time when all officers will be much younger, and we must realize that we must bring the young men along.

"This is a tougher war than we have ever fought before. The strain, week after week, and month after month, is too much for older men to stand. We are always held ready to move within a few hours' notice. Generals must be trained like athletes, and kept in condition....

No Political Patronage.

"Another thing we watch closely in the Canadian Army is that there be no political patronage, or friendship patronage. I wage unceasing war against these two iniquities, and I might say the Prime Minister of Canada stands firmly behind me on both points, no matter who is hurt."

Gen. McNaughton, a scientist as well as a soldier, was an integral part of development in the optical industry he inspected to-day.

As he spoke of this early struggle in development of the industry, he had to raise his voice to be heard over the roar of machinery turning out in mass production the tank periscope lenses and radio parts he knew 20 years ago would be so essential for the next war—this war.

Dr. D. C. Jones, one of the key men in the Leaside plant, was one of the assistants in the first optical laboratory set up within the National Research Council, of which Lt.-Gen. McNaughton was president.

Gen. McNaughton impressed everyone during his tour of the plant. His easy and thoughtful manner—he turned back twice and apologized when he was unable to take the press representatives with him to certain parts of the plant—and intense practical interest in every detail of the industry left a trail of admiring conversation in its wake.

King Willing Troops Go To Alaska

Anti-Conscription Word Confined To Overseas Service

(By C. R. BLACKBURN.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 27 — (CP). — If the necessity arises to send Canadian troops to defend the Alaskan panhandle "or any place in the vicinity of the coast of Canada" they will be sent regardless of any commitment or any provisions of the National Mobilization Act, in order to protect Canada.

This declaration was made in the House of Commons last night by Prime Minister Mackenzie King who added that, in such an event he would act under the unlimited authority of the War Measures Act and later obtain a parliamentary amendmen to the National Resources Mobilization Act.

(The Mobilization Act empowers the Government to conscript Canadians for service in Canada but not outside the Dominion or its territorial waters.)

Mr. King's statement of policy was made as an interjection during a speech by Conservative House Leader Hanson, who was attacking the Bill to authorize a plebiscite by which the administration seeks release from pledges not to invoke conscription for service overseas.

The Bill was given second reading late last night and to-day went to a special committee of the Commons which is expected to amend it and send it back to the House early next week.

In th course of yesterday's debate on this Bill Mr. King gave assurance that it would be used only for the one plebiscite.

Earlier in the week he agreed to suggestions that the plebiscite question be incorporated in the measure. This question will be: "Are you in favor of releasing the Government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?"

Although there were divisions of the House on the plebiscite proposal during the four-week debate on the address in reply to the Throne Speech, the second reading motion passed without a division or any

Children's Aid Reports Many New Cases

PORT HOPE, Feb. 27.—(ENS).—The regular board of directors' meeting of the Children's Aid Society, Port Hope, was held on Wednesday in their new office at 12 John St., which now provides suitable accommodation for the ever increasing volume of social welfare work and is much more conveniently located. Mr. Fred Rosevear, president, presided. A sharp increase in the number of cases of children being born out of wedlock was noted by the superintendent in his report and additional cases of homes reported where both moral and physical neglect were dominant, largely due to the unnatural home conditions resulting from the necessary participation of parents in war work.

Problems of unmarried parenthood throughout province are causing real concern and the Welfare Council of Toronto and district has arranged a conference for March 9-10 in Toronto under leadership of Miss Maud Morlock of Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, Washington, D.C. Delegates to attend this conference were appointed.

At the close of the business session the directors were guests of the staff to afternoon tea.

Bombing The Lairs

London, Feb. 27 (AP)

R.A.F. bombers left "many extensive fires" last night in the German dockyards at Kiel, where one of Germany's 26,000-ton battleships—either the Scharnhorst or Gneisenau—is in drydock, the air ministry news service reported today.

"Many high explosive bombs exploded in vital areas of the great naval base," the ministry declared. Two planes were lost.

The news service said one fire observed by many of the bomber crews "burned red with volumes of black smoke, which showed that an oil depot probably was burning."

The report added that the fliers saw ice on the sea around Kiel, which lies on the Baltic end of the Kiel Canal, and noticed a "black zig-zag where ice-breakers had been at work."

Two Toronto Men Acquitted Port Hope Theft

COBOURG, Feb. 27 — (ENS). — Granted a new trial by Appeal Court, Norman Stalarski and Adam Murphy of Toronto appeared before Judge L. V. O'Connor in court here yesterday on charges of breaking and entering and receiving in connection with the robbery of Mitchell's tobacco store at Port Hope last summer. Judge O'Connor found that while the circumstances were certainly suspicious, the accused were entitled to the benefit of the doubt and he accordingly dismissed the charges.

Murphy goes free but Stalarski and Peter Staziuk of Toronto are to stand trial at Stratford for breaking and entering. Harry Deyman acted for the Crown; T. B. Horkins of Toronto acted for Stalarski; and W. Elmore, K.C., of Toronto, for Murphy.

Stalarski, Murphy and Staziuk, all of Toronto, were up before Judge J. J. McGibbon of Lindsay in the County Court here last Demember on joint charges of theft, breaking and entering and receiving. The charges arose out of the $600 tobacco store robbery at Port Hope in August. At that time, Judge McGibbon instructed the jury that it could ignore the theft charge and deal only with the breaking and entering and the receiving charges. In spite of the fact that an accused man cannot be found guilty of both theft and receiving the jury brought in a verdict of guilty on all three counts. Judge McGibbon reserved his decision overnight, pointing out that he believed that there would have to be a new trial. On the following day he sentenced the three on the grounds that he was accepting the jury's verdict as applying to the breaking and entering and receiving charges only. He accordingly sentenced Staziuk, who had pleaded guilty to the last two charges, to five years in the Penitentiary, Murphy to four years, and Stalarski to three years. Later all three appealed on the jury's verdict.

Although the new trial was granted in the case of Murphy and Stalarski, the Appeal Court deferred action in regard to Staziuk's appeal pending the outcome of the new trial granted to the other two.

Loot Identified.

W. Mitchell of Port Hope and his clerk identified in court a number of key cases and bill folds which bore the price tags of the store. Cigarette cases and lighters were examined and were declared to be similar to those stolen from the store last August. These articles were recovered in Toronto with the arrest, a few days after the robbery, of Staziuk, Stalarski, and Murphy.

Detectives Emo and Graham of Toronto Police Department told of arresting the three last August. They had spotted a car with a number listed by the Provincial Police as being wanted and on apprehending the driver, found him to be Staziuk. In the front seat with him was Stalarksi. Another, who was in the back seat, made a getaway before the police got the car. He forgot his coat, however, and he was later found to be Murphy, and was arrested. With the capture of the car, police found a considerable quantity of tobacco supplies which they checked with the Port Hope robbery.

Strong Suspicion.

In dismissing the charges against the two young men, Judge O'Connor warned them that if they ever came up before him again, it would be a different story. While he strongly suspected the two, he felt that in accordance with British justice they should be given the benefit of the doubt.

'Stalarski had a large quantity of money on him when he was arrested a great deal of money for a boy to have. He had a wallet and a used cigarette lighter on him when arrested and a fairly new cigarette case, but I can find nothing in the evidence to show that they came from Mitchell's store. Beyond the fact that he was sitting in the front seat of the car with somebody who had broken into Mitchell's store, there was nothing to link him with the robbery," stated Judge O'Connor.

"As for Murphy," stated Judge O'Connor, 'his actions invited suspicion. He ran when he saw the police coming. He may have been in trouble in Toronto, and as all police look alike to a man who is avoiding them, he decided to run for it. However, that does not say that he was involved in the Mitchell tobacco store robbery. When arrested he had a cigarette lighter, which does not link itself with the robbery, but he had two new cigarette cases, which was somewhat suspicious. He also had $135 in his pocket, and that lends itself to suspicious regard. However, I doubt if any court would convict merely on suspicion, and I must dismiss the case."

Bacon Doubled

Ottawa, Feb. 27. (CP.)

CANADIAN bacon exports in January were more than double the total for the same month last year as supplies were hastened to the United Kingdom to meet requirements under a contract for 600,000,000 pounds, the agriculture department said today.

The latest figure was 57,706,300 pounds against 24,772,200 for January, 1941.

A departmental statement showed that beef exports also were higher at 2,376,600 pounds against 355,300 in January, 1941.

Mutton and lamb exports rose from 16,500 pounds to 60,900 and canned meats from 57,481 to 178,815.

Holstein Cows Average $100 Seymour Sale

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 27 (ENS) Keen bidding marked the auction sale of farm stock, implements, etc., held Thursday at the Carl W. Sloggett farm in Seymour township, 2½ miles southwest of here. Prices for the various items offered by Auctioneers J. R. Battisby and Rae Williams showed little evidence of a waning interest in the farm since buyers came from the vicinity of both Peterborough and Belleville to take part in the brisk bidding, and between three and four thousand dollars changed hands. As was to be expected in the light of current market trends, cows and poultry proved highly attractive to buyers who bid prices in both categories to well over the average. The cattle offered were grade Holsteins, and the top price was $131.00, while twelve others averaged $10.00 each. Hens which were likewise attractive, went in case lots at $1.25 each, while oats brought 56 cents a bushel and other produce brought market prices. A good used (six years) binder was bid up to $195.00 before the auctioneer said "sold," and a further reflection of the wartime value of machinery was seen when a gasoline operated milling machine a little more than a year old brought $203.00. Horses were a disappointing feature of the livestock section, with three colts averaging $40.00, and a team at $121.00.

Victory Loan Show In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 27 (ENS) —An audience which nearly filled the high school auditorium here greeted the Ontario Victory Loan committee's show "Ritzin the Blitz" an enthusiastic reception. The witty repartee and catchy tunes which were contained in the 17 numbers of the program were given enthusiastic applause and in the opinion of nearly every person present, the performance lived up to its advance press notices. The cast comprised principally a group of men from No. 2 Detachment R.C.A.S.C., under Lieut. J. R. Donnell and they were assisted by several R.C.A.F. men. By arrangements with the local Victory Loan Committee, Mayor F. F. Long introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mayor Burnett of Cobough. Mayor Burnett urged the audience to give their support to the Victory Loan, and drew attention to the fact it was going to take a greater effort than required for the former loan to put this one over the top in Northumberland.

To Address Retailers

COBOURG, Feb. 27—(ENS). — Cobourg merchants will be given information on price control regulations as a result of arrangements made by the Cobourg Business Men's Association. The association has obtained George S. Hougham, general manager of the Canadian Retailers' Association, as a speaker for a meeting to be held on March 10 in Cobourg. Invitations have gone out to merchants of Port Hope rural sections and communities as far east as Colborne, to attend the meeting.

Mrs. Cecil Moore Addresses Port Hope W.A.

PORT HOPE, Feb. 27.—(ENS)— The monthly meeting of the United Church Women's Association met on Thursday afternoon instead of the usual time of 8 p.m. as a tryout and the results were most gratifying as Mrs. Hyne, the president, when taking the chair said being pleased was putting it mild, she was delighted to see so many present. It was decided to carry on the afternoon meetings in preference to the evening.

Over fifty ladies were present for this meeting which was held in the Sunday School with Group No. 2 in charge. The meeting opened with group leader, Mr. Jim Bennett, in charge and the singing of a hymn after which Mrs. J. L. Westaway read the 27th Psalm and made references during the reading of its appropriation to these times of sadness and distress and the comfort and promise there was in this Psalm for all of us. Mrs. Stewart Ellis lead in prayer.

Empire Products

Mrs. Cecil Moore was the guest speaker for the afternoon and gave a most interesting, well prepared and instructive address entitled "Around the Clock with the British Empire." She started her address by saying from the time you get out of your mahogany bed in the morning you start a trip around the Empire for the mahogany comes from British Honduras and then you don a linen dress for which the material came from Ireland, drink your coffee which travelled from Africa, your grapefruit juice from Bermuda, your cereal which is a product of Canada sugared from Jamaica and as you proceed to your baking she asked the ladies to think that the spices come from Ceylon and the cocoa from West Africa and proceeding through the day to afternoon tea which to us from Ceylon and India, when you dress for dinner you wear the rayons now produced in Canada and the great importance of our Canadian furs.

How important are our railroads airplane lanes, highways and shipping to bring all these necessities to our doors. These with many other intersting points were brought to the ladies attention. Mrs. Bennett moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Moore and hoped that she would again address the W.A. sometime. Mrs. O. Culver gave a piano solo, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," which was much enjoyed.

Condense Reports

Mrs. E. B. Hyne took the chair and the business of the afternoon proceeded with Mrs. J. R. Reynolds reading the minutes, and the treasurer's report for January was read by Mrs. Reeve. The collections for the nine different groups were as follows: Group No. 1, $2.10; No. 2, $14.10; No. 3, $5.88; No. 4, $2.25; No. 5, $5; No. 6, $2.80; No. 7, $7.05; No. 9, $3.50. Young People's supper by Group 2 added $6.75, making a total for January of $97.87.

A short debate followed as to whether it was necessary to have group reports read at each meeting and it was decided that if these reports could be condensed they were of interest.

It was anounced that Group No. 3 would have a talent table at the March meeting and that Group No. 7 was holding a pot luck supper at the church on Tuesday night.

At St. Patrick's spring tea was then discussed and plans were made for this to be a hostess tea to be held in the Sunday School room on March 19.

May Adopt Sailors

Mrs. Farrow and Mrs. Douglas, convener for the Victory Loan supper from the church reported that they had turned over about $5 to the Red Cross from this Association.

Adoption of a sailor by each of the groups of the W.A. was discussed. These sailors are part of the crew on the H.M.C.S. Minesweep Port Hope and it means the keeping of a ditty bag filled for the comfort of a sailor. A majority of the groups have adopted one.

It was announced that the Red Cross unit will have a tea and display of work at the Red Cross rooms on Tuesday, March 3.

Aches and pains are not inevitable in old age. When they do come, there is always a cause for them. Here is a little lesson on growing old, by a woman of 78:—

What Canada Is Fighting For

As the crowds came out of the Collegiate and Vocational School last night after the Revue program, several persons were heard humming and whistling "You Can Fight For Canada,"—one of the song numbers given during the evening.

* * *

That may seem to mean nothing more than the fact that it had a "catchy" air, but while that is true it also contained a theme—the intangible yet powerful something we call spirit and which was aroused by a variety of features put on by a cast of considerable size. The theme was that we can and should all pull together in a tremendous war effort. The spirit was that of a vigorous young nation, here in the northern part of America, which has drawn its genius from Anglo-Saxon and Anglo-Celtic races going centuries back. As a result of this performance being put on, as a stimulus to the Victory Loan campaign, several hundreds of people should be aroused to greater national pride and zeal.

A reflective citizen, listening to and watching all that transpired on the stage, could not keep his mind from drifting back into the past. He thought of the centuries that have come and gone in the Motherland, generation building upon generation; one struggle following another; one liberty gained after another. The gradual extension of territorial possessions until a great empire was created, an empire rich in human achievement, in statescraft, literature, art, science, medicine, law.

And out of all this has come Canada, an elder son of a vast, freedom-loving household, privileged to draw upon the history, tradition and lore of its ancient parent. It has drawn heavily but the most glorious of all it has acquired through that British relationship is the spirit of a noble, fearless, justice-defending race.

It was that spirit which made hardy, intrepid pioneers convert this country from a boundless forest into the nine busy, far-spread provinces that today are sending men, munitions, mechanized equipment and supplies overseas to the scenes of battle and carnage and destruction. It is that spirit which motivates the young man who goes out into space in his airplane, perhaps never to return; the soldier who charges in the face of guns and bayonets; the sailor who roams the oceans in pursuit of the enemy; the woman who by her patriotism and co-operation helps maintain the morale of the armed forces every where.

That is what will be the invincible factor in this terrific conflict against ruthless foes—the spirit of the Briton! That is what made "Pull Together Canada" so worth-while seeing and hearing. It caused the hundreds who were present to realize the wealth of their heritage and how resolute they should be in protecting that heritage. Every one who was present in the auditorium must have been deeply impressed. The event was a tonic and a splendid purpose would be served if it were possible to repeat the performance in every city and town in Canada.

Perhaps Soon, Not Rangoon

Now that Rangoon is coming into front page headlines nearly every day—is, in fact, being prepared for evacuation—the information which Major Leroy R. C. Stockman, writing in the Christian Science Monitor, gives about the city is extremely engaging. He has, he states, lived there for a number of years and knows that Burma, of which Rangoon is the capital, is not patriotically defended by its native population as are the Philippines. The Burmese have felt they have little to fight for, though they are in for a shock when the invading Japanese get mastery over them. There is no fire for self-government burning in their hearts and no economic or other advantage has impressed them enough to make them put up a stiff battle for it.

Furthermore, he observes, Rangoon is really not Burmese. Like Petang, Singapore and other eastern cities, it is filled with foreigners and is under foreign influence. So it has its share of different nationalities such as Chinese, Bengalese, Telegus, Oriyas, Chins, Shans, Hindus, Mohammedans, British and Americans. It has over 100,000 Telegu coolies and rickshaw wallahs.

"These coolies," remarks Major Stockman, "ply their rickshaws seven days a week, trying to eke out a pitiably low standard of existence — pulling a rickshaw all day and then sleeping on the sidewalks at night. They are recruited in southern India to work in Burma and, as the civil population evacuates, I can see a stream of rickshaws being pulled along the now famous road to Mandalay."

He points out that the big business of Rangoon—in teak, oil, silver, tungsten, tin and lead—is handled by Europeans, the Scottish predominating. Rangoon University is one of the most modern seats of learning in the whole East. The market of the city is a notable place where the Burmese women sell fruit, vegetables, silk, satin, cloth, trinkets or curios for the home—in fact almost anything from a needle to an anchor.

As the Japanese have changed the name of Singapore to Light of the South, it is likely if Rangoon falls it, too, will be given a new tag. So, it may be soon no more Rangoon!

Keep An Eye On Him

The spectacular in a human career is always exciting. Sir Stafford Cripps, late Ambassador to Russia, and who has been given an important post in the reshuffled Cabinet of Premier Churchill, is an example of "bounding over high and sometimes troublesome hurdles. "Adelphi," a distinguished British political figure, in an article appearing in the Financial Post of Toronto, produces this pungent paragraph about him:

"Rise of Cripps is one of the most astonishing things in political history. He has three attributes of success — talent, sincerity and luck. It is still to be demonstrated that he has the fourth attribute which is judgment."

Of these four, judgment is supreme in all walks of life—that is for a long, hard pull, such as Britain is going through now.

Planning a New Russia

Louis F. Keemble, writing on what is taking place in Russia, envisons a new civilization there—that is in some respects. Not only is that country preparing for a long war, he says, but it is going to work out a national scheme which will not make the Soviet so vulnerable in the future to an invasion such as the Germans were successful in making until the tide turned against them.

This is the conclusion which can be drawn, Keemble remarks, from the decree ordering the permanent settlement in East Russia of millions of workers who evacuated their homes and factories in the West before the then onsweeping Hun forces. This doesn't mean an abandonment of European Russia because events of the past few weeks make very evident that it is the Germans who are having to do the abandoning, not the Russians. Rather a stronger industrial and economic blaance is to be effected by this great shift of population—the greatest shift yet known to history.

"The Russian re-settlement is not to be compared," states the writer, to the mass shift in population callously carried out by Hitler in Europe, particularly among the Jews and Poles. In the latter case, millions were booted from their homes, farms and businesses, stripped of their possessions and money and herded into non-productive regions to starve and die.

"The exigencies of war have served to speed up a vast project which already was under way. Russia years ago saw the danger of invasion from the West and the threat to her unbalanced economic structure because of the top-heavy concentration of her industry West of the Urals. Under the second and third five-year plans, emphasis was laid on the development of Siberian coal, iron, copper and other resources, and the building of heavy metal, machine and textile plants.

"The natural resources of Asiatic Russia have scarcely been tapped. It is mainly a question of development. In time, production there should equal or surpass the pre-war output of the developed West.

"Even if the West were lost, Soviet leaders are determined there always will be a Russia. But they do not count on losing the West. They envision the factories, mines and power plants of the Ukraine, Donbase and elsewhere back in operation, making Russia twice as strong as before."

The outside world, which has been following so closely the remarkable counter strokes of the Russians, will watch this vast program with keen interest as time goes on. If it succeeds there will be an example of what a country will have accomplished which was torn and wracked with revolution two or three decades ago.

Australia "Goes Industrial"

The forces of circumstance are great in shaping the destinies of men and of nations. This truism has been expressed in ordinary parlance as "getting a break." An experienced British political writer, for instance, has revealed how "lucky" Sir Stafford Cripps, newly fledged Cabinet Minister in London, has been during his career. That is an example of the individual. From Australia comes the news that, as a result of the war, the antipodes Dominion has been given remarkable stimulus to extensive manufacturing. Again, some inventor, whose name is not for the moment available, has become rich as a consequence of having brought a certain improvement into being during peace times which has proven important in the world conflict.

These are merely isolated cases and it may be argued that the people immediately affected were entirely responsible for their own good fortune, but that, apparently, has not been the case in either instance. Events over which the individuals, or groups of individuals, concerned had no control shaped the course of things so that distinction, money or industrial expansion came in an entirely unexpected and unpredictable way.

It is at least an interesting abstract subject to ponder now and then. The old sayings: "He is a child of fortune" and "Beloved of the gods," are often exemplified. On the other hand, persons who do everything which consciously molds and fashions them for desired fame, or preferment in a material sense, are suddenly cast aside by "the whims of Fate" and there seems no explanation except that exterior forces were too strong for their individual powers to stand against. Australia may, by the same turn of the mysterious wheel, lose all it has gained and more. Its future will depend largely on the conduct of Japan and the ability of Britain and the United States to support it against the vast numbers of Nipponese, but for the time being the necessity of turning out all kinds of war supplies has given its industrial and economic life a strong impetus.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Factory, store and office employees all over Canada are right in the harness and pulling for victory in the big Loan drive. They are certainly showing good investment sense as well as patriotism.

Have you signed for a Victory Loan bond? Think of how Poland, Greece, Norway, Czecho-Slovakia and other countries have suffered under the grinding heels of the Germans then go at once and do your bit. Every bond helps that much against cruel oppression.

From the wharf in Rangoon—before, at least, the defenders started firing the place to rob the Japanese of any rich victory, could be seen the Strand Hotel where Rudyard Kipling is supposed to have written his famous poem, "On the Road to Mandalay." Now, unfortunately, it may be "On the Road from Mandalay."

Despite the heavy winter—and February has been stepping on the pedal of late, alright—several sections of Peterborough county have made a splendid showing for the Victory Loan. For example, up to Wednesday night the percentage of its quota raised by Lakefield was 65.3 per cent.; North Burleigh ran up to 78 per cent., and Otonabee and Smith were slightly over 48 per cent. Other places have done well, also, considering weather difficulties. They are doing a good job, these district communities!

VOICES OF 1918

The men who fell in Flanders Fields,
At Chateau Thierry, Ypres;
They call to us across the void:
"We can no longer sleep;
We thought the cause for which we fought
Was worth the price we paid;
And now we stir uneasily
Where we, long since, were laid.

"In our dark hallways we have heard
Grim sounds that sear the soul;
The goose-step stamps upon our graves,
The Nazi Panzers roll.
We've heard of Poland, Belgium, France,
We've heard dive bombers roar
O'er Dunkirk, England, Crete and Greece,
Pearl Harbor, Singapore.

"Now from our graves we cry to you:
The task's to do again.
God speed you in the work ahead
Lest all WE did prove vain.
We men who fell in Flanders Fields,
At Chateau Thierry, Ypres,—
We call to you across the void:
We can no longer sleep.

"The ruthless Hun, the barbarous Jap,
They know one law alone—
The primal law of tooth and claw
Bred in the age of stone,
So you must drive them back again
To jungles whence they came,
Or live as serfs beneath their heels
A life of living shame.

"We men who fell in Flanders Fields,
At Chateau Thierry, Ypres;
We watch and wait for you to win;
'Till then, we cannot sleep."

Plea for Farmers Is Made By Durham M.P.

Speaking in the House of Commons in the debate on address in reply to the Governor-General's speech to Parliament, W. F. Rickard, M.P. for Durham County, himself a farmer, discussed urgent problems of the industry of agriculture as a partner in the nation's war action.

"CONSCRIPTION has been made a political football, as if it were the only issue in connection with our war effort," Mr. Richkard said. "The Prime Minister made certain pledges and promises to the people, and he intends to keep them. Personally I made no promises for or against conscription, but I feel, as every hon. member must, no matter to what party he belongs, that having accepted the policy of his leader, we are practically all in the same boat, we cannot take a different course today.

"If the time ever comes that in my opinion we need conscription of men for overseas service, then I shall be for it. But I want conscription of everything else as well, man-power, woman-power, industry, labor, wealth and all natural resources, to win this war.

"For a few minutes I should like to discuss agriculture. The price ceiling which has been enforced has been placed on almost all the farmer has to buy, but it has not been enforced to so great an extent with respect to all he has to sell.

"No farmer can expect to compete with industry and its high wages, when no surplus of labor is offered. Men have left the farm at an alarming rate, and the farmer cannot pay the wages to entice them back. We cannot blame the men for this, because naturally a man or a woman will go where he or she can get the best return for his or her labor.

"With Great Britain calling for increased supplies of food, as the Prime Minister told us in his speech, the farm labor situation is serious, and is going to be more serious. If we are to produce the things Britain needs there will have to be some sort of selective service for the farmers. If this is not possible, then I would suggest that the farmer be given some kind of bonus. I do not like the word "bonus" and I do not like bonuses, because I do not agree with that principle. But the farmers must be given some sort of financial assistance so as to compete with wages paid in industry. This must be done at once so that the farmer can plan his production, because that cannot possibly be done at a moment's notice.

"I would suggest one other thing with respect to agriculture, and that is that the committee on agriculture be allowed to meet. We are told that there must be something specific or definite to be considered before the committee can be called together. Surely in these times there are enough problems confronting our farmers to warrant this committee functioning. I think there are enough hon. members interested in argiculture to work up some program that will be of assistance to the government in formulating a policy. I hope the chairman of the agriculture committee will bear these suggestions in mind.

"I should like to refer briefly to the four months' training as it affects farmers' sons. I should like to see some system worked out whereby these boys could be given total exemption as long as they stay on the farm. I believe they can do just as much for Canada's war effort by producing food as they can by serving in any other branch. Instead of setting up boards in districts like Kingston and Toronto, I think it would be much better if smaller boards were set up in the counties or townships. The members of these boards would have a better chance of becoming acquainted with the situation existing in their particular section of the country.

"I believe in selective service if it can be worked out, but it presents a great problem. It is no use putting a man who knows nothing about farming on a farm. I have had some experience in that connection, particularly with apple pickers. Men have been sent out from the cities who knew nothing about this work, and we would have been better off without them. There must be something done in this regard. I leave these few thoughts with the government in the hope that they will receive consideration."

THE GREAT DR. DAFOE

THE extent to which Dr. Dafoe has succeeded as physician to the five most famous little girls in the world is ready apparent with one look at them. The five Dionne sisters are fine, healthy and attractive little girls. They are physically and mentally splendid, and to Dr. Dafoe's great skill and personality must go a large measure of the credit.

Dr. Dafoe, in addition to the expert care which he has given the Quints, must also be thanked for his role in bringing thousands and thousands of tourists to this district. His skill in keeping the Quints alive at their birth and the fame which followed the achievement, his own individual charm, and the very appearance of the man, which could not have been more typical of the role of "the little doc," made him loved throughout the continent, and the resulting benefits to this district are well known.

Some form of great tribute, a tribute which would express the appreciation of this district for the grand job Dr. Dafoe has done, is now in order.—North Bay Nugget.

EXPERT DIAGNOSIS

• Sea Power to Decide

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27 (AP)—London is setting the stage for revamping its policy toward India under the gravest threat to British rule there since the first Imperial standard was raised on Indian soil more than three centuries ago.

Japanese invaders swarming in Burma are knocking at the gates of Rangoon, already ablaze as the British forces apply the scorched-earth policy. Burmese oil wells, like those in parts of the Netherlands Indies, have also been put to the torch.

The smoke of that new retreat of the Allies further clouds the war scene in the far Pacific-Indian Ocean theatre as an ominously rising toll of shipping losses in the Atlantic also is indicated by London. Yet there are elements in both theatres of action to relieve Allied gloom.

Whatever the duration of the debate on Indian policy in London, it seems certain the grim advance of Japanese forces in Burma must lead to more effective mustering of India's manpower against the Axis. Nor can it be overlooked that Japan is being increasingly committed to major operations on two far-separated fronts simultaneously.

Distance and the time required for ships to reach danger points still is the greatest factor forcing the Allies to continuing retreat strategy, Prime Minister Churchill has emphasized that repeatedly to explain recurrent reverses in Africa, in Malaya and now in Burma.

He has set four months as the round-trip period for transports and supply ships from Britain feeding the Middle East via the Cape of Good Hope route. It cannot be much shorter for American shipping carrying reinforcements or war supplies across the Pacific.

Distance is also enormously increasing Japan's difficulties, however. She is a minimum of 3,000 miles by sea from her chosen zones of action.

The base of her transportation triangle stretches from Rangoon, on the Indian Ocean, to the islands east of New Guinea in the Pacific, another good 3,000 sea miles. The task of supplying that vast front is an ever-increasing strain upon Japanese sea power.

Mr. Churchill may have had that in mind, as well as increasing American, Indies and British inroads on Japanese shipping, when he spoke to Parliament of "waning" Japanese sea power. In that prime factor of the war lies the ultimate answer of victory or defeat. It is the explanation of United Nation retreat strategy in the Pacific and in North Africa to await the hour when ship production from American ways permits offensive measures simultaneously on many fronts.

To what extent Japan's ships losses are tending to slow down her advance is yet to be revealed. However, there is increasing evidence that such losses, plus mounting American air participation in the battle for the Indies, have already forced a lull in the attack on MacArthur's lines in Luzon. The shipping to serve a mass attack there probably was more vitally needed elsewhere to replace losses.

MacArthur switched overnight from the purely defensive to probing local offensive thrusts on Bataan. His purpose obviously was to hamper Japanese withdrawal of troops or air forces from Luzon to supplement attacks on Java or Burma.

• Power of Public Opinion

WHAT a tremendous thing is British public opinion! Mr. Churchill has an overwhelming majority behind him in Parliament, leads the strongest party in the House of Commons and the country, has vast personal prestige. Yet Mr. Churchill, entrenched in all this power, and in a position at any time to call on his whips to bring him a vote of confidence, surrenders to a public demand that he reform his cabinet, says the Ottawa Journal. It is just one more proof of the impact of British public opinion upon British governments; testimony for the reality of British democracy.

Here in Canada, alas, public opinion counts far less. According to our theory, certainly according to our practice, public opinion is supposed to remain static, supposed at any rate not to change between general elections. Thus a government takes office and, no matter what happens afterwards, uses its majority to hold on to office; putting on its whips again and again to turn down proposals which represent changed opinion.

Hardly a doubt can exist that opinion in this country favors a National Government; not a National Government in the sense of a coalition of parties, but a National Government that would be more representative of Canada than a straight party government. Yet, despite that such a government has been proposed again and again, and notwithstanding the gravity of the war, Mr. King can safely ignore it. Unlike Mr. Churchill, he can entrench himself behind his party supporters and whips, knowing that nothing can happen to him, that Canadian public opinion is not sufficiently vigorous to make much difference.

Mr. King knows, too, that the Canadian Parliament is a far different thing from the British Parliament. Mr. Churchill's critics, the men who demanded a change in his Government, were not mainly his political opponents; some of the strongest of them were members of Mr. Churchill's own party. Over here, where the party whips have far more power, and where there is less of a tradition of independence in our House of Commons, such a thing couldn't happen. Certainly it is difficult to imagine a group of Liberals in the present Parliament of Canada demanding that Mr. King strengthen his Ministry; or that he form a more national Ministry.

What it all sums up to is that British public men and the ordinary British citizen have a better understanding of what representative government is about. British governments are not so concerned with election planks and pledges as they are concerned with what the mass of the people believe and demand at a given time. Mr. Churchill knows that he is the people's servant, not their master.

JAPAN'S WAR MACHINE

JAPAN'S war machine is about as completely equipped as any in the world, and its well fed, cleanly uniformed fighters are probably as efficient as the average in Europe.

Much of its material old-fashioned and of conservative design, but what it lacks in improvements is balanced by quantities. For the most part the Japanese have stuck to a few consistent models and this has eased the problems of supply

Today the Japanese army is almost a poll-parrot copy of Der Fuehrer's hordes.

The biggest chink in Japanese armor is war economy. With 70 million mouths to feed and several of those million to supply in the field, Japan relies even more than beleaguered Britain on outside sources, and should be more easily subject to strangulation by blockade.—Infantry Journal (U.S.).

NO TRUTH IN IT

There is no truth in the report that the hordes of publicity and public relations men at Ottawa and elsewhere are to be conscripted and formed into land armies to be sent out to help relieve the farm labor problem. Such a move would ease the financial situation at the capital, but instead of helping the farmer, it would aggravate his troubles. He has enough to contend with now. — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God.—Ps. xlii, 11.

And they came to Jericho: and as he went out of Jericho with his disciples and a great number of people, blind Bartimaeus, the son of Timaeus, sat by the highway side begging. And when he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to cry out, and say, Jesus, thou son of David, have mercy on me....

And Jesus stood still, and commanded him to be called. And they call the blind man, saying unto him, Be of good comfort, rise; he calleth thee. And he, casting away his garment, rose, and came to Jesus.

And Jesus answered and said unto him, What wilt thou that I should do unto thee? The blind man said unto him, Lord, that I might receive my sight. And Jesus said unto him, Go thy way; thy faith hath made thee whole. And immediately he received his sight, and followed Jesus in the way.—Mark x, 46, 47, 49-52.

A Bit of Nonsense

How He Knew

He dropped around at a girl's house, and as he ran up the steps he was confronted with her little brother.

"Hi, Billy."
"Hi," said the boy.
"Is your sister expecting me?"
"Yeah."
"How do you know?"
"She's gone out."

Give Me A Chance

I met a girl at a party last week, and I managed to get her into a dark corner.

"What about a kiss?" I said. "Come on, ducks, I'd like a big kiss."

"Oh, shut up!" she told me.

"Blimey, can't I have a kiss?"

"Yes—but you can't expect to get it while you're talking."

Still Ringing

A bloke I know said he'd like me to hear his girl sing, because I might be able to get her an audition with a theatrical producer.

Well, I heard her sing.

Afterwards he said. "Don't you think her voice has a bell-like quality?"

"Blimey, you're right!" I told him. "It's still ringing in my ears."

Lonely Seaman Sends Thanks For Ditty Bag

Peterborough women are doing their bit to gladden the hearts of merchant seamen and men of the fighting ships in all parts of the far-flung Empire frontiers, and occasionally a letter comes through from one of the gallant sailors, indicating their heartfelt thanks for the comforts and luxuries contained in the parcels they have received.

Last Fall before Christmas, the women of the Women's Auxiliary to the Peterborough Civic War Council, packed 25 ditty bags for the men manning the ships of Britain and sent them off. Most of the women put their names and addresses in the small parcels to see where the bags would eventually land. One of the bags contained the name and address of Mrs. George Benton, and this week she received a letter dated December 26, 1941, and the letter tells its own story. At the end of the letter the Norwegian sailor who wrote the note wished Mrs. Benton a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year in his native tongue, but as the words could not be followed, these two lines have been deleted from this write-up.

The letter read as follows:

North Atlantic Ocean,
December 26, 1941.

Dear Mrs. Benton.

I'm the one who got your Navy League bag, and I want to thank you for your gift. I got it as a Christmas Eve present, and it sure was fun opening it. I never thought so much good stuff could be put into one package. I've already tried the socks, and they are very warm, and I have almost finished the "hot chocolate." You see I'm working in the engine department, and have my duty-watch from 12 to 4 o'clock and then it is awful good with such a cup (or two) of chocolate, at four in the morning. We put out to sea from a port in England before Christmas, so I think the whole bag will become only a very nice memory, before we reach land again, if the rest of the stuff is as good as that which I have tried (and I don't doubt it is!!). Therefore, I want to thank you right now, regardless of the time you will have to wait for the letter. I also can tell you that as a seaman, I appreciate the goodwill behind the gift. It sure is good in these days to see that there still are people who are in the possession of the heart to give, just for the pleasure of giving, without getting anything back. A seaman does not see much of that kind around the world ports, I can assure you.

I am a Norwegian seaman, and right now have rounded off my third year in a row away from home. That is one more reason why I am so glad when I see that there still are persons ashore, thinking of the sailors. I only hope the war will stop before we no longer have the chance to meet those persons.

And I wish you will be as happy during the new year as I was when I opened your package; that you may have a Merry Christmas next year, and many, many ears after that. And here is the Norwegian term:

Joseph Thomassen Midttvedt,
3rd Engineer, Fernwood.

Brocklin, N.Y., U.S.A.

Ball Training Camp Notes, Jottings

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP). —Jimmy Foxx, who doesn't appear to be worrying about his first base job with the Boston Red Sox, starts his 18th season to-day.

"I have taken off 15 pounds this winter and now am down to 190," he said. "I never felt better but I guess it will be a good idea to get a week's start on the kids after my job and work myself into playing shape by easy strides."

EL CENTRO, Calif.—The Pittsburg Pirates believe they have the best all-around catching duo on the National League this season in Al Lopez and Babe Phelps.

The Bucs cured most of their back stopping ills by buying Lopez from Boston two years ago. They went that one better by acquiring Phelps and his big bat from Brooklyn this winter.

HAVANA—Brooklyn Dodgers now have seven players on the ailing list. Shortstop Alex Kampouris injured a finger in the first workout. Pitcher Newt Kimball twisted a leg a couple of days ago. Now Pitchers Bob Chapman, Emile Louchbaum and Les Webber have developed Charley Horses, Southpaw Larry French is in bed with a heavy cold and Don Padgett has a boil which hed to be lanced.

LAKELAND, Fla.— Charley Gehringer is listed by Detroit Tigers as a coach. but didn't count him wholly out of active competition.

The 38 year old "mechanical man" second baseman is looking particularly spry in workouts, and his restoration to the active list would be a mere formality if Jimmy Bloodworth or L. D. (Dutch) Meyer failed to come through at the keystone sack

ANAHEIM, Calif.— Connie Mack has imposed an 11.30 p.m. curfew on his Philadelphia Athletics.

"I don't like rules," said Mack, "but these are serious times and I want to impress on these boys the gravity of the situation. Besides there is no place to go in this town that should keep a man out after 11.30."

AVALON, Calif.—General Manager Jim Gallagher of Chicago Cubs predicts that the Cubs and Cincinnati Reds will fight it out for the 1942 National League pennant unless the armed services draw on the Cubs' key men. He says along with the Reds he respects Brooklyn Dodgers, both on the basis of pitching.

Curlers Mourn VeteranMember

With the passing of William Burrell yesterday afternoon the Curling Club has lost one of its youngest and most promising curlers. Although ill-health forced him to retire from the game early this season; yet he did play a few games, and was a valuable member of E. M. Wall's rink.

Of a cheerful disposition, Bill always had a glad hand and a smile for everyone. He will be greatly missed by the boys on number eight and by the boys on the curling ice.

The sympathy of the members of the club is extended to his wife and other members of the family.

CURLING NEWS

By HERB MARTIN

Not being satisfied with defeating T. McArthur's rink the night before last, A. Gibbs' quartette comes right back last night and without any difficulty, elminates E. Northey's strong Lakefield rink by the score of 14-5.

And make no mistake about it, these wins were not flukey ones. They were real, honest, hard hitting games and they were won on their merits. The rink is sure putting up a grand exhibition. Don't sell this outfit short.

The other four games in the main event were dandies. C. Giroux and N. Hamley fought it out every end with Mr. Giroux finishing one up. This was a peach of a game with some real curling thrown in for good measure.

While E. R. Shirley had to bow to E. Metcalfe he was certainly coming mighty fast towards the finish. Ths early lead that Mr. Metcalfe had is all that saved him.

The two executive members fought it out tooth and nail on Ice No. 1 with Charlie Westbrooke coming through with a margin of two shots.

Bruce Scott and W. Pratten furnished the boys with a nice exhibition right in front of No. 8, and it was anybody's game right up to the last end.

The consolation event is too complicated as yet to make any forecasts. Maybe after to-night's scores are handed in we might be able to do some wild guessing.

And if anyone thinks Jack Roberts did not get a kick out of beating L. Magnus & Co. we miss our guess. Jack usually plays second for R. Payne but somehow or other it was decided that he should try his hand at skipping, and he made one swell job of it. Maybe he will be skipping the Tankard next year. Who knows?

And just to wind up a really active week don't forget to be on hand to-morrow at 1.45 o'clock for the week-end bonspiel.

A Way Home

LONDON, Feb. 27. (CP)—Some of the 5,000 Americans who were cut off from the United States when they missed the last of the repatriation ships in the summer of 1940 soon may have another chance to get home. United States citizens in the British Isles have been advised by Consul Glenn Abbey that a limited number of non-priority accommodations are expected to be available "in the very near future" and will be filled on a basis of first come first served.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

It's off to Oshawa for the Peterborough Soldiers tonight and players and executive as well as the majority of the fans are confident that when the final whistle sounds the Petes will be group champions. The Ellis-Scates team finished its training for tonight's all important tussle with a lively practice last night and the whole squad is fit and well so there will be no alibis on that score if Whitby's Palm Billiards happen to spring a surprise and even up the series by a win. So far as is known the Petes will line up the same team that defeated the Whitby outfit 9 goals to 6 on Monday night. It was thought that Soldier Guy Roach, star of the Kingston Combines would be available for tonight's battle but so far the military authorities have not sent the former St. Michael's player back to the Military Training Centre here and there are reports that he is being transferred to Ottawa where he will finish the season with the Senators. At all events the Peterborough management is not counting upon the Combines' defence man for tonight's struggle at least. They will use Crowe and Jopling on one defence and Godfrey and Burton on the other with the Kingdon-Tompkins-Heal and the Reilly-Nichols-Blewett forward combinations and Harding in goal. Bennett will be the likely extra forward.

* * * * * *

The Petes will not lack vocal support at Oshawa tonight for several hundred fans will undoubtedly make the trip to the Motor City on the special C.N.R. train, leaving here at 6.30 o'clock and returning leaving Oshawa at 11.30. It is the first hockey outing of the year and the fans will go for it in a big way, thus assuring the Peterborough team of plenty of encouragement when they hook up with the Oshawa-Whitby outfit in the Oshawa Arena. Whitby will have their full lineup on for this game, with Ab Barnes, Bill Vipond and Doug Maundrell doing defence duty and the Covert-Dafoe-Cooper and Gamble-Durling-Heard lines in action with Art Brown and Louis Vipond in relief roles. It looks like a real argument between two fast, strong teams, on a big sheet of ice that will give both of them a chance to strut their stuff.

* * * * * *

The winner of the Whitby-Peterborough series will not be long in getting some more action for the local club has been informed by Secretary Hewitt that the group champions will be stacked up against the Collingwood Shipbuilders in the first round of the playdowns. In that event there will be a game early next week if the Petes come through with a win tonight and wind up the series. Otherwise the Collingwood round could not start before a week from tonight as it has already been decided that should a fifth game be necessary to decide the group honors it will be played here next Wednesday night. Collingwood have a star-packed array of talent and they will unquestionably prove tough opposition for the winners of this group. The northern town usually bobs up with a strong club and this year's edition is said to be more than ordinarily formidable.

Three Real Battles

With three games on the cards at the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium tonight there will be a plentiful feast of basketball for loop patrons. And the best feature about it is that there isn't a dud game in the three fixtures on the program. In fact one of them looks like the best battle of the season and the other two should not be far behind in excitement. The ace attraction is the game between the C.G.E. Generals and the Quakers, two powerful and fast-moving cage machines who can really turn it on and probably will tonight for first place in the League race depends upon the result. Each team has lost only one game during the long schedule, despite the fact that the competition in the loop has been stronger than ever. They both handle the ball smartly and have some ace shots on their lineup and a meeting between the two cannot fail to be interesting. They clash in the 7.15 o'clock game. St. John's and the Normalites will be opponents in the second game of the night and the third fixture will see Westclox and Y Gym hook up in what should be another red-hot tilt.

* * * * * *

The story of how Whitby Palm Billiards pulled a fast one had evidently not reached Ken Colling when the Belleville scribe penned the following in regard to the postponement of Wednesday's Whitby-Peterborough game: "Apparently Jim Ellis and Fred Scates are going soft. After the Whitby "Blue Shirts" had rattled six goals past Ray Harding, in the Petes nets Monday night, the Liftlock City management agreed to postpone tonight's game with the "Blue Shirts" until Friday, knowing full well the Whitby crowd would be minus Cooper, Barnes, Maundrell and possibly Covert, all of whom play senior Mercantile League hockey in Toronto each Wednesday and Saturday. However, what local puck mentors are wondering is "would the Petes' management have afforded a Belleville team the same courtesy under similar conditions?" Hap Hamel's "blue Shirts" are not to be trifled with and despite the fact the Whitby crowd agreed to play the fourth group final in Oshawa Friday, if the Petes would forego tonight's scheduled match in Whitby, the Petes can't afford to take Hurst and company too lightly, although the Ellis-Scates outfit are favorites today."
